Realty Tax Rates Climbing

Tax rates for 1968 reflected in this year's tax bills payable in June and September show an increase in most villages in DuPage County.

Roselle's tax rate is tentatively going up to 7.195 from the 1967 rate of 6.109, according to preliminary figures released Tuesday by DuPage County clerk Ray MacDonald.

The rates are based on each $100 assessed evaluation.

Bensenville shows an increase from 5.964 in 1967 to the new rate of 6.176.

Itasca's tax rate for 1968 is 6.531 opposed to the 1967 rate of 5.942. These figures include only Bloomingdale Township residents.

Addison Township residents of Itasca will pay a 7.195 rate from the previous year's tax rate of 5.841.

THE 1968 RATE for Wood Dale taxpayers is 6.152. The rate for 1967 was 5.721.

Bloomington's rate for 1968 is 6.242 as opposed to the 1967 figure of 5.866.

Addison taxes are different depending in which township the resident lives.

The Addison Township residents of Addison will receive a 1968 tax rate of 6.306. The 1967 rate was 5.734.

Bloomington Township residents living in Addison will pay the 1968 rate of 7.471. They paid a rate of 6.488 in 1967.

Glendale Heights has a 1968 rate of 6.817. The 1967 rate was 6.111.

Included in the village rates is .400 for Addison Township.

The villages in Bloomingdale Township reflect a .411 rate for township funds.

THE PRINCIPLE RATE totaled for residents living in one of the above villages is a compilation of rates for such taxing districts as fire protection, schools and forest preserves.

The average increase for the entire county is estimated at about 10 per cent.

Addison residents who live in Bloomingdale Township pay the highest average year's tax rate of 5.941.

Roselle and Itasca are among the few villages in the county which are paying higher than $7 taxes per $100 assessed evaluation.

The highest township rate belongs to Bloomingdale Township with a rate of 41 cents. This amounts to an increase of six cents over the 1967 rate.

The Addison Township rate is 40 cents.

Only Wayne Township with 36 cents comes close to either.

The lowest is York Township with a 19 cent rate.

SNOW BLANKETED DuPage County this week at a time when tulips and spring flowers were expected to be blooming. Scene at Itasca Country Club was more in tune with mid-January when golfers are unable to use the course. Given a few days of warm temperatures, foursomes may be seen again.

A Register Editorial

Vote Yes on Parks

Approval of tomorrow's Roselle Park District referendum will enable the development of a needed facet of life in the village.

Recreational opportunity in Roselle could be brought to every citizen regardless of age with the use of the $400,000 in park improvement money.

The park district would develop two park sites with the money according to a well-prepared master plan.

Turner Pond Park and Community Park would be improved to include such needed community items as a swimming pool complex, tennis courts, picnic areas, playgrounds, ice skating, baseball fields and fishing facilities.

COMMUNITY PARK, located east of Roselle Road, west of Prospect Street, north of Walnut Street and just north of Bryn Mawr Avenue, would be the site of the swimming pool complex which could be used year-round.

The pool complex would include two pools with three swimming areas. One area would be for diving, one for swimming and another for instruction of youngsters. The instruction pool would be fenced off from the general swimming area to allow children to play in safety.

Turner Pond Park, east of Roselle Road, north of Granville Avenue and south of Devon Avenue, would include a dredged pond stocked with game fish.

A fishing dock, play areas, ball diamonds and fields, walking paths and other recreational facilities would be constructed in Turner Park.

An all-weather pavilion with a fireplace would provide a sheltered picnic area in summer and a warming house for ice skaters in winter.

Community Park would also have ice skating and a year-round concession stand.

RECREATION IS AN important aspect of modern living. As more free time is made available with the use of machinery, the need for recreational facilities becomes greater.

Roselle needs recreational development. The only way to get it is to pay for park improvements.

The park district is asking for a one-shot referendum. Park officials have worked out the park development plans for a five-year period to give Roselle most of what it needs.

Further development would be handled with regular park district funds and not cost the taxpayer any more money.

Once it is completed, the entire village would become more attractive to home buyers and businessmen. Real estate values may benefit from this interest.

The maximum cost to the taxpayer, according to park officials, will come next year as reflected by the annual tax bill.

THE PARK DISTRICT'S assessed evaluation of $20 million would be the basis of this year's taxes collected in 1970.

The University of Illinois field service department of recreation and municipal park administration projects that this assessed evaluation will amount to $30 million by 1975.

The taxpayer's annual cost of retiring the referendum's bond issue will reduce proportionally as the assessed evaluation increases.

The cost to a homeowner with an assessed evaluation of $10,000 will be $16.05 in 1970. The cost to the same taxpayer is estimated at $10.70 in 1975.

The referendum merits approval. The citizenry of Roselle can only gain by passing tomorrow's park district request.

A 21-year-old Fenton High School graduate last week became the sixth soldier from Bensenville to be killed in the Vietnam War.

The parents of Spec. 4 Alan F. Marschall, 21, of 216 S. York Road, were notified this week that their son had been killed Friday while at a helicopter landing base near Saigon.

Alan frequently went on helicopter missions, his father, Leonard, related. Stationed with the First Air Cavalry Division, Marschall was responsible for clearing landing zones in addition to volunteering for air missions.

A 1966 graduate of Fenton High, Marschall had been in Vietnam since May. He would have been returned to the States in two months.

Nicknamed the "Swamp Rat" by his fellow soldiers, Marschall "adopted" an 8-year-old Vietnamese orphan whom he fed and taught English, according to his father.

Alan and his friends would take care of the children who sought scraps of food from garbage cans, explained Mr. Marschall.

"He'd wind up giving them his C-rations," said the father, a pressman with the Chicago Tribune. "He got the biggest kick when he played with kids."

Marschall was engaged to Nyla Mosser from River Grove, whom he met while working as a brakeman for the Milwaukee Road Railway. He had planned to go to college and become an architectural draftsman.

In his last letter home, he said, "I can't wait till I get home so I can get things straightened out."

He asked that his mother, Bernice, send a package with cookies, film, KoolAid, paper, envelopes, two pens, and a pair of socks.

Marschall is survived by his parents, two sisters, Debbie, 16, and Donna, 13, and a grandmother, Mrs. Alma Harms, 165 S. Mason St., Bensenville.

He will be buried from Geils Funeral Home when his body arrives. Services will be held at Peace United Church of Christ with interment at Mount Emblem Cemetery, Elmhurst.

Awarded Star

Richard E. Bellgardt, II, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bellgardt, 624 N. Walnut, Itasca, was recently awarded the Bronze Star for heroism while in Vietnam.

Bellgardt is a machine gunner with the 82nd Airborne Division. He has been in Vietnam since May 23.

His action in combat in January won him the star. In the fighting, his assistant ammunition bearer and a lieutenant were killed.

He graduated from Lake Park High School in 1966 and attended the University of Illinois and Northern Illinois University before being inducted into the Army in December, 1967.

Search For 3 Ends

A massive search for a former Bensenville man and two other men reported lost in the Gulf of Mexico has been suspended. Their boat was found last week.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Florida reported the search covered 4,200 square miles, but no trace was found of the men.

William Conover, 60, former owner of Millie's Restaurant, 12 E. Green Street, Bensenville, went out fishing with two other men from Clearwater, Fla., March 1. The search started when they didn't return home in bad weather.

The boat was found March 20 after the search by 13 aircraft and one surface vessel.

CONOVER AND his wife, Verla, who both lived behind the restaurant, moved to Florida in December, 1967.

Planes flew as far out as 150 miles from shore looking for the 19-foot outboard motor boat which carried the three men.

The men were reportedly fishing for grouper in water about 80 feet deep.

The Coast Guard said the search would continue if any encouraging signs were discovered.

"Bill and I had found peace and happiness here we hadn't known for many years," Mrs. William Conover said. "It doesn't seem fair somehow."

Burglary Testimony Ends

The defense rested late Thursday in the case of the People vs. William Langford, a former DuPage County deputy charged with burglary of electrical equipment from the Wood Dale Junior High School site.

At press time, the jury was to have been instructed by the judge following closing arguments by the prosecution and defense.

Langford and Sheriff's Chief Deputy Wayne Shimp were two of the key witnesses who testified Thursday in a day-long presentation by defense counsel Al Marco. The case is being prosecuted by attorneys Patrick Mazza and Michael Fitzsimmons.

Langford was suspended from the DuPage Sheriff's Office in January of 1967, after he was accused of the Jan. 10, 1967, burglary of an electrical equipment trailer belonging to Karl Niedermeyer of Bensenville. Niedermeyer is owner of the W. D. Electric Installation Co. in Wood Dale, and was electrical contractor for the junior high school, then under construction north of Wood Dale.

Shimp, who had been the state's key witness, was recalled to the stand Thursday to testify for the defense.

THE TRIAL IS taking place before Associate Judge Leroy Rechenmacher in DuPage County Circuit Court.

Marco announced to Rechenmacher Wednesday that he would be calling Shimp as a defense witness. His purpose, he indicated, was that the prosecution, in direct examination of Shimp, did not permit Marco to explore other issues which he considered a vital part of the defense.

Some of these issues were revealed in that portion of cross-examination which he was permitted to conduct. One of his questions to Shimp was how many times between Jan. 10 and Jan. 20 did Niedermeyer visit the sheriff's office with regard to the alleged burglary.

Shimp said it was "many" times, but was not permitted by the prosecution to add details of why Niedermeyer had paid the visits or what the outcome was.

MARCO ALSO indicated he wanted to explore why Langford was not arrested until February of 1968, although the alleged burglary took place between Jan. 10 and Jan. 12, 1967, and Langford was advised on Jan. 20 or 21, 1967, that he would be suspended from the sheriff's police force.

Much time was taken Wednesday examining and cross-examining Niedermeyer, who spent two hours on the witness stand Tuesday. His testimony Wednesday was confined to a discussion of the inventory of electrical materials allegedly taken, the total value of all and the specific cost of each item.

At the conclusion of Niedermeyer's testimony, Rechenmacher admitted the inventory list as evidence, over Marco's objection that "there has been no showing that these are accurate prices."

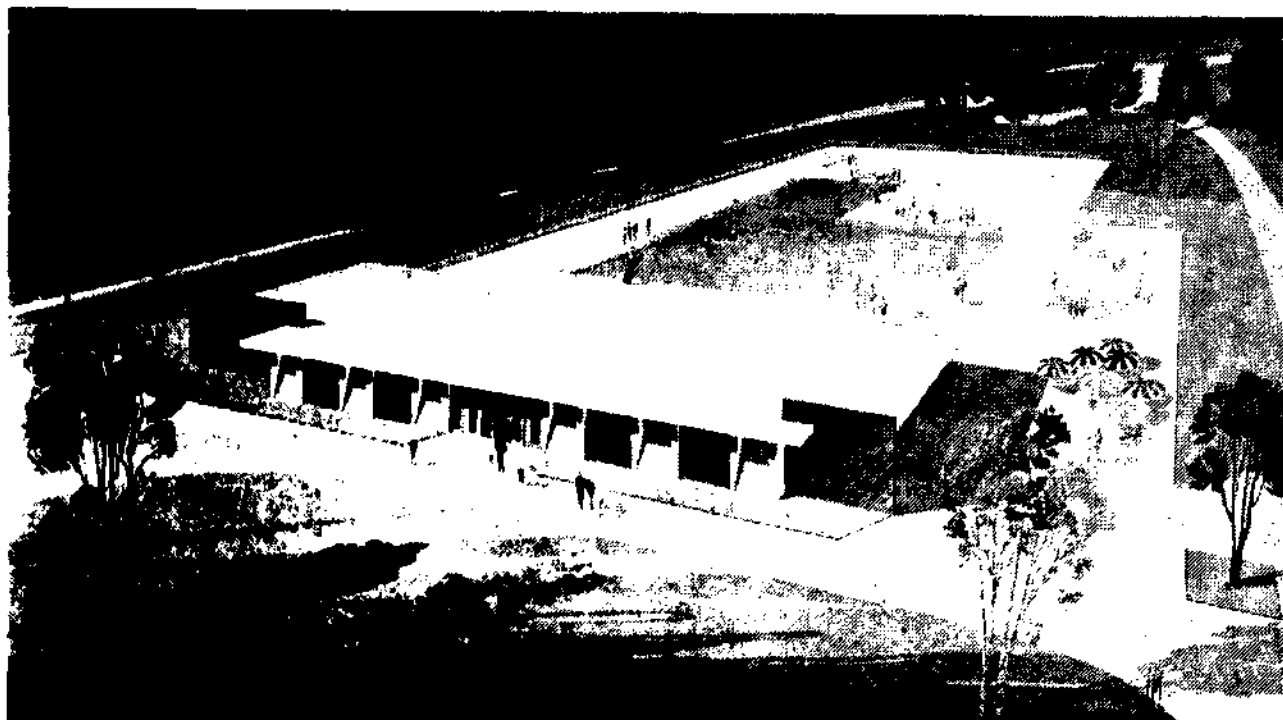

Preceding Niedermeyer to the stand was William Liebhaber of Wood Dale, an electrician who on Jan. 10, 1967, was completing his first year as electrician's apprentice for W. D. Electric Co. Liebhaber periodically added electrical materials to the inventory of the trailer as they were delivered to him, and helped compile the inventory after the alleged burglary.

AFTER THE STATE rested its case at about 4 p.m. Wednesday, Robert Wilson of the sheriff's bureau of identification was called to the stand for the defense.

He testified that he had investigated the burglary scene, but could make no identification of latent fingerprints he found there.

Edward Butler of the Illinois crime lab then testified that paint samples sent him by Wilson did not match paint on a pair of channel-lock pliers allegedly found in Langford's possession.

Rechenmacher admitted Butler's crime lab report as evidence, over the objection of Fitzsimmons.

Village Beat It Costs Money

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Eighteen days from today, April 15, Bensenville residents will be asked to elect a village president, three trustees and a clerk. They'll be voting, that is, if they aren't weary from voting in the township elections April 1, park district elections April 1, and school board elections April 12.

Fred Steging and John Varble have less than three weeks to do all the campaigning they feel will be necessary to get themselves and their parties elected.

Some call it a "campaign" of sorts. A dictionary definition of a campaign is a series of related military (in this case political) operations for a special purpose.

Watching how each candidate goes about it can be interesting.

ON THE ONE hand there is Fred Steging, 55 years old and in business for himself. He's been village president for almost four years. It's something he does not want to give up.

Varble, on the other hand, is 51 years old. Also in business for himself, he is one of the founders of the park district.

Varble says he is running an "old fashioned" campaign. That's one where you get to meet everyone, ring doorbells and make friends. Campaigns sure haven't changed much.

Varble has got the village broken down into zones which will be tackled by groups of workers whose function will be to get out the vote. He also has a headquarters in Brentwood and has hired help.

A mailing of campaign literature is planned a few days before the election in addition to lots of person-to-person contact.

"FRANKLY, I think their minds are made up — unless there are some unforeseen calamities. Don't you?" he asked.

Steging, who is in a more secure position because he is the incumbent and must therefore be considered the man to beat, is going about his campaign a little slower.

He can campaign easily enough by getting things done in the village. He doesn't have to open up a headquarters. He's got one of the best ones there is at Irving Park and Church Roads, the village hall.

The effective day-to-day operation of the village can be a very instrumental campaign mechanism.

Steging, too, will have to go through the traditional campaign bit about reminding the voters what his administration has done. There will be house-to-house visits, posters, mailings and phone calls.

He said he may open a headquarters at the last moment. He may also hire people to help out.

What will a small-town campaign cost and where will the money come from? Neither candidate knows the exact cost. It's bound to be in the four-figure category.

Friends, businessmen and all will be asked to contribute. I can be a sticky thing, that accepting of large contributions. Some of those "friends" will be looking for favors.

I'd like to know how much they will give and who they are, just for the record, of course.

Park Board Backs Liquor Sale Bill

Bensenville Park District is waiting for passage of state legislation which would allow the sale of alcoholic beverages on park district-owned golf courses.

Introduction of the legislation is expected next week by co-sponsors Rep. William S. Redmond, D-Bensenville, and Rep. Gene Hoffman, R-Elmhurst.

White Pines Golf Course on Church Road Bensenville is owned by the park district.

"WHEN TOURNAMENTS and private banquets come to the club, they want liquor available," said Wilbur Burde, Bensenville park commissioner.

"Having it there is a means of attracting such festivities and keeping the golf course busy, which is a main purpose."

The legislation provides serving liquor "where food also is served, not just allowing an open bar," said Robert Nichols, Bensenville park commissioner.

"Everyone would be generally opposed to just an open bar because that is not the primary purpose of the club," he said.

"People who come there should have the option to purchase or not purchase what is usually available in similar privately owned country clubs."

"Why shouldn't we have it when others like Starved Rock State Park and McCormick Place in Chicago were allowed the privileges," said John Varble, park commissioner and candidate for village president.

"OTHERS HAVE BEEN serving liquor for at least 15 years. It is a necessity for the competitive market of golf courses in the area."

The public demands such conveniences when playing golf or having a private party using club facilities, Varble said.

The bill would allow municipal-owned and park district-owned golf courses to serve liquor on the premises.

"We, the Bensenville Park District, have a special interest in seeing this bill passed, but other districts and cities are in favor of the action as well," Varble said.

Traffic Light Wanted

Harold Rivkin, Bloomingdale police chief, informed the Village Board Wednesday that he plans to make a traffic study of the intersection of Circle Avenue and Lake Street.

Rivkin said this would be done to obtain a federal grant for a pedestrian traffic light at the intersection.

The crossing has been the subject of concern for parents whose children must cross Lake Street on their way to DuJardin and Central schools.

Rivkin said a crossing guard, Mrs. Pat Knize of 137 Rosedale Road, has been hired to patrol the corner one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon.

In other business, the Village Board directed its attorney to correct a loophole in the village's liquor ordinance. The present ordinance has no provision for preventing the sale of packaged liquors by minors.

STANLEY HAVERKAMPF, village president, said the sale of liquor by minors is being practiced in local areas.

The board tabled an amendment to an ordinance which would have increased tap-on fees for the village's water system. The amendment would increase fees from $200 to $400 for single-family residences and from $100 to $200 for multiple-family dwellings. A $100 fee for water meters would remain the same.

Trustee Richard Johnson objected to the increase on the grounds that it was being done for Hoffman-Rosner Corp. and Campanelli Brothers, two large developers, and that it would hurt other parties.

Trustee J. Stewart May said the fees needed to be increased to maintain the existing system. Haverkamp said cost of the present sewer treatment plant has nearly doubled.

The board approved an agreement with Hoffman-Rosner Corp., developers of a 477-acre tract south of the village, under which the firm will underwrite preliminary design work for an 800,000-gallon treatment plant if the project fails to go through.

Ralph F. Gross & Son Pavia Inc. is designing the plant.

Parochial Aid Alive

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, has introduced a bill that will keep alive the non-public school aid question if the aid bills don't make it this term.

Among the co-sponsors of the bill is Gene Hoffman, R-Elmhurst.

Schlickman's bill calls for establishment of a commission to study the question of state aid to private and parochial elementary and secondary schools.

Schlickman conceded that it might look as though his bill was intended to "bail the legislature out" on the touchy non-public state aid question but said he would not push for passage of the study bill unless other bills calling for state aid grants are defeated.

"THIS WILL provide the legislature with an alternate," Schlickman said, "one that will give the legislature time to determine the state's financial ability, its wherewithal."

He added that the commission could also provide the legislature with an in-depth study that might "resolve the constitutional questions" regarding state aid to private schools.

The constitutional question is a key one, Schlickman said. Both supporters and opponents of state aid to non-public schools are claiming they stand on constitutional grounds.

The bill calls for funding the study with a $50,000 appropriation.

Schlickman says the bill has identical wording to the one two years ago that established a commission to study state aid to non-public colleges and universities.

That commission just recommended state aid grants be made available to all the state's private colleges as a means of improving them "qualitatively."

Swanson Is Cited

A certificate of appreciation was presented resident engineer Roy Swanson of Edwin Hancock Engineering Co. during last week's meeting of the Wood Dale village council.

Swanson was cited for his work and service to the village by Mayor Ralph Hansen, who read the commendation signed by himself and other members of the council.

Swanson is leaving the services of Hancock Engineering to take a position with A. R. Johnson Paving Co. of Arlington Heights.

Hold Hearing on Town, Road Budgets

The Bloomingdale Township town and road budgets were presented Tuesday night to about 15 persons.

The first hearing is a preliminary to next Tuesday's town meeting at which township electors will be asked to approve the two budgets.

The total proposed town fund of $109,520 includes salary raises for several township officials.

The Democratic Party in Bloomingdale Township was represented Tuesday by Edward Rossi, candidate for supervisor, and Robert Burt, candidate for town clerk.

The Democrats suggested that the proposed supervisor's salary hike from $1,800 to $3,800 be cut by $900.

They also recommended that the clerk's raise be cut $600 from the proposed $900 hike up to $3,000.

THE PROPOSALS will be taken into consideration by the town board of auditors.

Township officials, who are all Republicans, beat the Democrats to the punch by lowering the proposed $20,000 figure to completion of the real estate index numbering system to $16,000.

Rossi said he would have proposed the cut but a lower figure was presented Tuesday.

Last year's budget included $25,000 for the system but only $9,000 was spent.

Officials felt they could finish the job with $16,000 as reappropriated this year.

FEW QUESTIONS or objections were brought out Tuesday but a more heated discussion may come next week at the town meeting since township vote casting will have been finished.

The proposed road budget of $170,000 received no comment from the public.

Use $3,545 for Equipment

At another busy session last Thursday, the Wood Dale Village Council approved unanimously use of the controversial $3,545 held in the village treasury for park and recreation purposes.

The money has been donated by developer Peter Forrest several years ago for installation of park equipment in the village.

The favorable endorsement in use of the money was, however, restricted to purchase of recreational equipment only within the corporate limits of Wood Dale.

In effect, the council agreed with its own decision.

At the last council meeting, the council left this matter to further interpretation by Village Atty. Samuel A. LaSue.

William McDowell, park district president, told the council that Donald J. Krieger, park district attorney, has rendered an opinion stating the village, "if it so desires," can legally transfer this money to the park district by proper procedural action.

Commissioners for the district had requested the funds be transferred to assist in employment of a recreational director.

Patrick J. Reedy of Villa Park, physical educational instructor at Wood Dale's junior high school, was hired as summer recreational director two weeks ago.

An arts and crafts specialist may be hired later.

Sign-Up Time For Day Camp

Trained counselors will guide campers through a full range of camp life, including fishing, hiking, crafts, sports and swimming at the YMCA sponsored day camp.

Registration is open now at the Elmhurst YMCA, Dennis Hotle, camp registrar, said.

Camp Yomechas, a joint venture of the Far West District YMCAs, features chartered bus pick-ups at schools throughout the Elmhurst "Y" service area, including Addison, Bensenville, Elmhurst, Itasca, Wood Dale and Villa Park. The camp is located at Fullersburg Forest Preserve with daily swim lessons scheduled at George Williams College pool.

"BOYS AND GIRLS who have completed kindergarten are eligible to register, as well as the older youngsters," Hotle said. Campers must bring a sack lunch, swim suit, cap and towel to each session.

Craft supplies, milk, insurance, swim instruction and transportation are all included in the fee. Non-YMCA members will be charged $38 and "Y" members $33 for the 10 days of supervised camp activity.

Five camp periods have been scheduled. The two-week periods are June 16 to June 27, June 30 to July 11, July 14 to July 25, July 28 to Aug. 8 and Aug. 11 to Aug. 22.

Youth Found Innocent

Larry Burley, 19, of 238 E. Maple St., Roselle, was found innocent by Magistrate Gordon Moffet in DuPage County Circuit Court of charges of possession of liquor by a minor.

John S. Matthews, 18, of Chicago, arrested at the same time, is awaiting court disposition.

The two were arrested Feb. 7 at the scene of an alleged "gang battle." Roselle police broke up a crowd of more than 100 youths armed with ball-bats and bottles near the intersection of Central Avenue and Hill Street.

Police moved in with night sticks as soon as the crowd began to form, acting on an anonymous "tip" received that afternoon. Police arrested 48 youths immediately for unlawful assembly, and the prospective "battle" never took place.

'Events' Scouts Selected

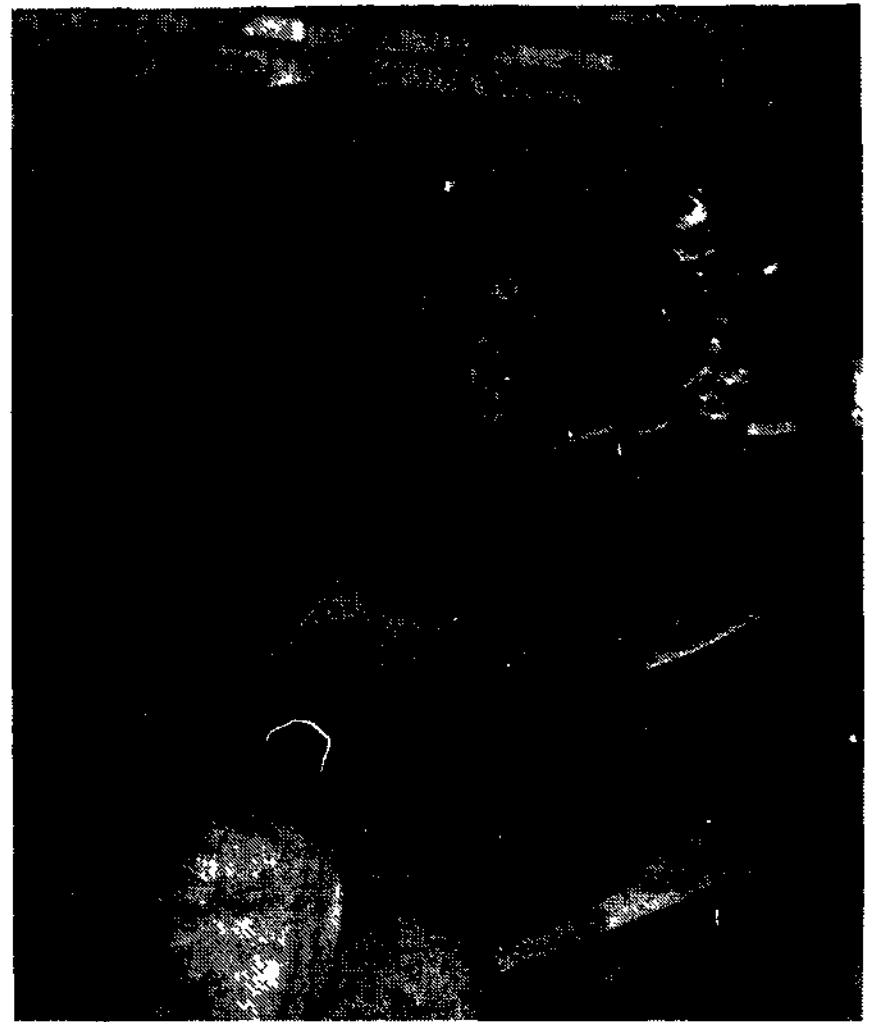

The Girl Scouts of DuPage County Council have released names of four selectees and two alternates for national and international events scheduled this summer.

The following girls were chosen from qualified applicants:

Barbara Jan Edwards of Wheaton will participate in the "Canadian In Travel Project," in which 48 Cadette Girl Scouts from the United States camp will sight-see with Canadian Girl Guides, July 8-29. The three-week experience includes home hospitality with the girl guides and their families.

Erica L. Shekelle of Downers Grove, selected for Adventures in Marine Biology, will live at Camp White's Landing on Catalina Island, 20 miles off the shore of Southern California, with 144 other scouts. With the guidance of experts, they will study and explore the field of marine biology. These girls will also enjoy home hospitality for three days before and four days after the event.

PAMELA AHLQUIST of Downers Grove will join 64 other participants in the Canadian Boundary Water Canoe Trip. This experience includes 12 days of wilderness camping in the Boundary Water canoe area of Minnesota and Canada. The girls will follow the waterways of the voyageurs who traveled the trails for countless centuries and become acquainted with this wilderness area.

SPEC. 4 ALAN MARSCHALL, who was killed last week in Vietnam, had this photo of himself sent home to show friends at Christmas (Story on Page 1)

Susan Swords of Elmhurst will explore the culture and heritage of the first settlement in California on its 200th anniversary in La Asamble de San Diego from July 24 to Aug. 4. With 250 young people, she will explore the question of how the youth of today can keep faith with their heritage and still follow their horizons of tomorrow.

Rebecca Crouse of Westmont has been chosen second alternate for the international event, Juliette Low Session — Our Cabana, to take place in Cuernavaca, Morelos, Mexico, from July 6 to Aug. 15.

The Senior Girl Scouts and senior-age girls from other countries will build friendships and understanding through living, planning, talking and working together.

MARCIA OLSEN of Downers Grove was selected third alternate for Wilderness Encampment to be held in July in the Monongahela National Forest of West Virginia. The purpose of this event is to offer older Girl Scouts the opportunity to utilize their advanced camping skills in developing their own program from the natural environment and living in a patrol situation without direct adult supervision.

Parents Are Alerted To Poison Dangers

Poison Control Week was a major topic of discussion at the recently held DuPage Pharmaceutical Association's monthly meeting.

The association recommends that parents eliminate all unnecessary poisonous substances from the home and keep those that are needed well out of the reach of children.

The association also suggests that each family have at least a one ounce bottle of ipecac, a general antidote, in its home at all times.

Zion Church Sets 3 Palm Sunday Services

Branigar Sells 75% To Union Camp Corp.

Union Camp Corp., New York, announced yesterday it has purchased for an undisclosed amount, 75 per cent of the stock in the Branigar Organization, Inc., a Medina-based land development company.

Under the terms of the agreement, the present management will continue to operate the company.

BRANIGAR, with approximately $8 million in annual sales, is the owner and operator of Indian Lakes Country Club in Bloomingdale. It also operates the White Pines Golf Course in Bensenville, owned by the Bensenville Park District.

Union Camp is one of the major producers of forest products. Its annual sales last year totaled more than $383 million.

THE COURT SCENE Tuesday in Roselle found about 40 youths appearing to answer charges of illegal assembly and possession of liquor. A total of 21 were fined $20 plus $5 court costs for illegal assembly, 16 were dismissed and three fined $25 for possession of liquor. Roselle police made the mass arrest in early February to prevent an alleged gang fight.

Foster Aims For The Sky With Space Needle

by PETER WEISS

The Barrington Space Needle has risen again. If not in reality at least in the plans of businessman Merrill J. Foster, who has not abandoned his idea of a 120-story behemoth.

Foster said his enterprise, Marine Industries, is inviting "inquiries and advice relative to the operation of the project." With the motto "country living for city people," Foster plans a "sanctuary of select clients," who will inhabit this 1,600-foot building.

Foster stated that the building would be financed through securities offered to the public. "We have an attorney working on it now," he said.

Surrounding the skyscraper will be smaller buildings housing a super service station, restaurant, garage, offices, stores and other accommodations. "If the big one can't be built, we will still have permanent facilities for the smaller buildings," Foster said.

Foster said his company's board of directors expects to proceed with the Space Needle upon the completion of an expected favorable feasibility study. However, if the building can't be built, "we want to know about it now," he said.

THE SPACE NEEDLE has a "something for everyone" theory. "For the hungry, a five story restaurant; for the needy, 17 floors of merchandise; for the employee, an office outstanding in lighting and efficiency; for the resident, the multiple garage and ultra comfort."

Nearly three years of planning have already gone into the design of the building. The concept was born and developed by the members of this corporation, said Foster. He describes the project as "a need for cooperation in the harnessing of resources of nature for the benefit of mankind."

Foster is not the least bit modest about the Space Needle, describing it in a brochure as "a gem of magnificence," and a building that is "adorned and decked to reflect the brilliance of the year 2000," that will "serve as a standard for men, women, children, and organizations who gain power through association with the world's tallest building."

No wonder he inquires if the world is ready for this. However, "the indications are that Barrington is," Foster revealed. With a little luck, Hi-City is sure to go up, he enthuses.

It was learned two years ago that bedrock was sufficient to support the huge structure. The eight-point, star-shaped frame will equalize tension from all sides. Large welded steel tube shafts will run from bedrock to the top of the structure, for use as elevators, ventilation and disposal shafts.

FOR STRESS PURPOSES, the building's width would be increased from 190 feet to 240 feet to obtain a proper base-to-height ratio. The TV antenna, extending to the maximum height of the building, will include a spiral stairway leading up to a small observation booth at the very top of the Space Needle.

Foster's building compares with the proposed Planet Project, contemplated by Schaumburg. This $150 million idea was approved by the village board last September. Plans call for a 113-story office building, 2,900 apartment units in high-rise buildings, a 65-story motor inn, and other office and commercial space.

The Barrington project would stand by itself, while the Schaumburg giant will be part of a complex.

Board OKs Ordinance

The Roselle Village Board has passed an ordinance restricting the dumping of wastes in other than authorized areas.

The ordinance, modeled after one in south suburban Alsip, will permit the village to control dumping throughout the community, said Trustee Anthony Bonavolenta.

It requires written permission from the owner and a permit from the building inspector for dumping on private property.

THE ORDINANCE also makes it unlawful for pollution of the village's water sources and provides for a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500 for each offense.

In other action, the board approved an ordinance which would allow the appointment of up to 24 auxiliary (part time) policemen.

BROWNIE HILL DAY CAMP

Brownie Hill School has a free Summer Day Camp program for children six thru ten. Swimming, field sports, trips and crafts keep the children busy from as early as 7:30 till 5:30 — helpful hours for working mothers. Enrollment limited to 30. Children three thru five may enroll in a corresponding summer nursery school program. K1 3-6406

Scratching NMAD Is Out

Disconnection of Palatine from the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) is not considered the solution to the village's mosquito problems.

That's the conclusion of a special village committee appointed to investigate the reason behind swarms of the pesky insects plaguing the village last summer.

In its 18-page report, the group said it would not be advisable to disconnect or dissolve the district.

"A great deal more interest and support would be necessary to accomplish this action properly," it was explained.

BUT BASED on the conclusion that taxes have been paid toward a "mosquito abatement program that has become ineffective and is operated as a temporary control program," the committee said a legal tax protest would be in order.

The committee further recommends that fogging (a temporary control measure) of the adult mosquito be done only upon request of village officials.

which appointments are made to the board.

—A request from the village and township government to NMAD for minutes of monthly meetings.

—Appointment by the village of an "observer" to attend meetings of NMAD and request the League of Women Voters also to appoint an "observer."

—The village and township government should request exact information as to the agency responsible for mosquito abatement operations of creeks, streams, rivers, natural lakes and reservoirs.

—The report made by the Palatine committee be made available to all municipalities in NMAD.

A BASIC conclusion of the committee is that there is no control over actions of the mosquito district.

"Until there is some legislation to correct the method by which trustees are selected to serve on this board, we have a form of taxation without representation," the committee reported.

Palatine's village board decided to schedule a committee-of-the-whole session in order to thoroughly review the lengthy report and discuss future official action.

Trustee Wendell Jones said, "The committee is to be commended for such a thorough analysis of the problem."

Other members of the mosquito committee include Richard Dawson, Palatine director of environmental health; Mrs. Martha Loss, Dist. 15 director of health services; and Earl Dailey, a research chemist for Charles Bruning Co. Township Supervisor Howard Olsen also participated in the group's study.

Seller Bills Move On

Value Is $283,400

Dollar valuations placed on new construction in Wood Dale for February was $283,400, it was reported this week by John Rheintgen, building superintendent.

Legislation that would permit municipalities to control door-to-door solicitors was reported out of the municipalities committee of the Illinois House of Representatives yesterday with the recommendation that it be passed.

Two bills, HB 107 and 108, were introduced in the current session of the legislature by Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, granting local government the power to license and regulate direct sellers, a power heretofore denied municipalities by the state government.

THE SCHLICKMAN bills would permit direct sellers to either "register with the Department of Registration and Education or be subject to any municipal licensing or regulation."

The department is authorized to revoke or suspend solicitor permits based on certain guidelines, the same guidelines set down for municipalities.

Supporting the legislation in testimony before the municipalities committee were Steve Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, Robert Van Deusen and Wayne Anderson, managers of Glenview and Evanston, Harold Ross of Field Enterprises and Ernest Wittke, plant manager for the Avon Co.

In other action yesterday, Gov. Richard Ogilvie delivered a nine-point special message on local government, each point of which will be provided with enabling legislation.

The fifth point of the message, of particular interest to the suburban Northwest, would enable municipalities to annex immediately contiguous territory without having to go through special elections.

CURRENT LAW requires that towns abide by the decision of property owners in the territory, with a 51 per cent favorable vote being required for annexation of areas larger than 60 acres.

A bill introduced yesterday by Schlickman would permit the courts to decide if a piece of property should be included within the corporate boundaries of a municipality.

Petitions for involuntary annexation would have to ensure that regional plans are satisfied and that full municipal services, including water, sewer, fire and police protection, are available for the area to be annexed.

The bill was referred for hearing to the house municipalities committee.

Joseph B. Giambalbo, 26, formerly of 219 Welter Drive, Wood Dale, was arrested Tuesday by Wood Dale police for failure to appear in DuPage County Circuit Court last September on charges of public indecency.

Complaints had been signed against Giambalbo last August by two Wood Dale women. When he failed to appear in court a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Giambalbo was picked up by Wood Dale police in Joliet, where he had been working as a gas station attendant.

Police there were holding him on a similar complaint.

Fornica Arrested

John Fornica, 53, 23W765 Maple, Roselle, was arrested earlier this week and turned over to Wheeling police, who had a warrant for his arrest.

The warrant was served Monday night because of Fornica's failure to appear in Cook County Circuit Court March 7 to answer narcotic charges, police said.

He was arrested by Roselle police earlier and turned over to Wheeling police on charges of purchasing narcotic cough medicine under another name, police said.

Low-Cost Housing Is A 'Hot Potato'

by MARY DRESSER
(Third in a Series)

The labor shortage caused by the absence of low-cost housing in this area is a political hot potato and local politicians are well aware of it.

The three 13th district representatives to the Illinois House tip-toe apprehensively across the question as if it were a pit of quicksand.

Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, suggests study be made of the problem.

David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, says he would not support low-cost housing but would back a public transportation system at "the drop of a hat."

Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, says he can't have too much sympathy for managers "whose employment force is characterized by low-income when they come out here."

MRS. CHAPMAN says she has supported low-cost housing in the past for people already in this area, especially the Spanish-speaking Americans.

However, Mrs. Chapman won't go for trailer parks to house semi-skilled employees and their families.

"Trailers are lovely for retired couples," says Mrs. Chapman. "But I want to see decent low-cost housing. I want it to serve the needs of the people and not just employer's bodies."

Mrs. Chapman wants a study of the requirements necessary for a "balanced community" supplying housing to serve various income levels.

"This would require an entire re-thinking by boards and commissions," says

Mrs. Chapman. "They will have to ask, 'Have we been excluding the people we need?'"

Service jobs are readily available in this area, Mrs. Chapman notes, pointing to the need for household help.

"THIS IS TOO important an issue to make political hay," Mrs. Chapman insists.

Regner thinks the chances of obtaining low-cost housing are "relatively nil" in this area.

In order to build low-cost housing profitably on valuable suburban land, the buildings would have to be high-rise far in excess of current building codes.

"These would become ghettos in themselves," says Regner. "Public housing would change our complete concept of living here. We would have a revolt on our hands in this area."

Perhaps manufacturers coming into this area are to be faulted, says Regner for neglecting proper planning and examination of the help available before moving into the area.

THE SOLUTION to the problem, Regner says, is to develop a high-speed transportation system linking the low-income areas of Chicago with the suburbs.

Schlickman says the establishment of low-income housing has the disadvantage of setting these people apart from the rest of the community.

David Regner

Besides, says Schlickman, "All who come out here are for the preservation and maintenance of values, which is, in most cases, their house. They want to protect this. They are deliberately upgrading building and zoning requirements. They are paying higher taxes to support the services they demand."

The employers come out here knowing about the labor shortage, insists Schlickman.

"They must be expecting their presence will bring about a change," he says.

Schlickman is pinning his hopes on the Chicago Transit Authority bringing bus service closer to this area.

"I DON'T THINK you'll find a community leader here who would go for lower cost housing," he says.

Suburban rejection of low-cost housing is similar to the early days of union development, he notes.

"First they fight to get a union so they can get better pay and working conditions. Then they draw up tough union regulations that exclude other workers."

Race has not been mentioned in this series because, basically, the problem is one of supplying manpower to the industries needing it. Industry is remarkably free from prejudice when there is a tight labor market.

For instance, the Martin Metals employment force is 25 per cent black.

HOWEVER, SOME conclusions can be drawn from a 1966 study made by the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing.

The study finds that only 27 per cent of the nation's white population lives in central cities compared with 55 per cent of the total black population. It also documents figures to show the number of jobs have declined in major cities.

"Commutation is not a practical solution for reducing the disparity between job location and the housing location of minorities: It is prohibitively expensive; excessively time consuming; and the ghetto poor are in no position to maintain the automobiles necessary for most commuters," says the report.

"Employment opportunities increasingly are locating in outlying sections and suburban communities where Negroes are denied access to living accommodations," the report continues.

Joseph H. Cadieux, vice president of Martin Metals in Wheeling, is aware of this.

"I AM NOT AN expert in these areas and do not know whether the answer lies in low-cost housing, improved transportation, or other possible approaches," he says.

"I do know, however, that to the south of us lies the city of Chicago, whose welfare rolls are glutted with people who need the sort of employment that we can provide."

This Is The Year to Expect The Unexpected

by HEC

Bloomington Township is the hottest political spot in DuPage County and the heat will get hotter as the current township election campaigns go into high gear as Republicans and Democrats, each with full tickets in the field, fight it out down to the wire next Tuesday.

Why is this so? Bloomington Township from the earliest politics has always been a dependable GOP stalwart in critical times. It is rare indeed, if ever, that Republicans leave their accustomed ways and in Thoreau's words "march to the music of a different drummer." Ask Elmer Hoffman, county GOP chairman.

But according to Ed Rossi, 41, the Democratic threat for supervisor and member of the county board challenging incumbent Pat Savalano, this is the year "to expect the unexpected." This is the year of the locust for the Bloomington GOP, he claims.

AS A BASIS for his optimism, Rossi, a superintendent for an electrical construction firm whose residence is in countryside in the southern part of the township, says that rapid increase in population in DuPage County is calling for expansion clear across the board. Demands are for a restructuring of local government, he says, in the interests of economy and better public service so the property owner won't suffocate from taxation which is an increasing danger now.

Some 313 taxing bodies should be eliminated. He claims that the township and county government are chiefly responsible for the tax increase because of much unnecessary spending. He says the Bloomington Township levy took a $50,000 jump the past fiscal year and county taxes will double the next fiscal year unless someone "blows the whistle."

Expense account spending and the system of keeping records, Rossi claims, on the county board are abominable. Only a seasoned investigative process can determine what each member of the board is actually receiving in per diems ($25 per day) and mileage.

NEARLY EVERYBODY claims mileage expense whether they are entitled to it or not. County, state, and out of state expense are difficult to audit, he claims. If you don't believe it try it.

There is an effort being made on the county board now, according to Rossi, to increase per diems 60 per cent and mileage expense 33 per cent. He predicts it will happen this year unless strong voices on that body have the courage to speak out in public interest and insist on being heard.

A major part of this Democratic candidate's program for township and county, highlights these issues:

— Approve a countywide one-plant sewage referendum.

— Eliminate township road districts in favor of a county unit road district. They're inefficient, a political gimmick and out of date in an urban area. They're a costly tax burden and they are doomed, Rossi predicts.

HE FAVORS the elimination of 313 unnecessary, money spending bodies like mosquito abatement and township civil defense and apply the savings to purchase of voting machines. Rossi is asking for election reform in DuPage County as he says DuPage GOP is demanding it in Cook County.

— Elimination of 3 per cent tax collection charge and thus stop robbing the smaller local taxing bodies and the schools to finance county government.

— Eliminate loss spending on the part of 31 county board members and set up an error-proof audit system to reveal what they are receiving, what they are charging to "expense" and for what purposes. Make these accounts open to the taxpayers at all times.

— Reduce the TB board director's salary and launch a full scale investigation of this whole county program.

— Make two-party government effective in DuPage County by sending the first Democratic member to represent this township on the county board. In a one-party county from time immemorial this is important, the challenger says, because it will provide an ear to learn what's going on at Wheaton firsthand.

THERE ARE too many patronage workers in the county wearing GOP armbands, Rossi insists, and more interested in pay from tax dollars than they are in service to taxpayers. He will foster an "Ogilvie dismissal" program in DuPage County. The county has over 800 employees.

In appraising this Bloomington Township election bid, it ought to be said that this is the first two-party campaign of any merit in this century. The opposing Democrats, who boast some topflight Republican support, are mailing campaign literature to every voter (about 15,000).

The Democratic candidate brochure cites the issues, shows photos, gives background of seven candidates — a full slate — ages 25 to 46.

They say that two GOP committeemen are refusing to obey their leader and heretics in the Republican fold are a source of campaign information. Will the GOP high command crack the whip and establish iron control?

THIS IS hard to do, says Rossi, because this is a local affair. This is an era of expansion and change, and scores of a new type of voter in Bloomington Township.

WY Sets 3 Films

A film festival for people who are interested in other people will be available at 1:30 p.m. March 31 in the Elgin Young Women's Christian Association.

The three films, presented without charge by the YW family education department, are: "The Time of Their Lives," a candid portrayal of children in kindergarten; "A Desk for Billie," the story of a migrant child who finds opportunity in an American school, and "Developing Giftedness in the Educationally Disadvantaged," a picture of the problems encountered in home, school and neighborhood and some possible solutions.

The starting times of the films are 1:30, 2:10 and 3:20. Parents may come in at the beginning of any film and leave when it is finished.

Coffee will be served.

Scouts At Camp

Bensenville Girl Scouts have been active lately.

Girl Scout Troop 334 and Brownie Troop 13 went to see "The Crying Princess and the Golden Goose" last week at Pheasant Run Theatre.

Junior Troop 519, with leader Mrs. Edward Carlson, went camping at Greendale, the Girl Scout camp in Lisle, this month. They shared a cabin with a troop from Lombard.

Father Burnett from St. Charles Borromeo Church celebrated Sunday mass at the camp.

ON MARCH 17, Cadette Troop 604, with leaders Mrs. Anthony Giampolo and Mrs. John Isley, and the sixth graders from Junior Troop 206 toured the United Air Lines Stewardess School.

The girls viewed the enclosed swimming pool, dormitories, hair styling, cosmetic and posture rooms, and plane mock-ups.

The Scouts also learned the requirements for a stewardess.

March 18 Troop 206, with Mrs. Richard Diegnau as leader, attended Sears Lyric Lane Chorus Class at Oakbrook.

Spotlights Future Needs

"We should have at least three representatives on the DuPage County Board of Supervisors," Pat Savalano, incumbent supervisor of Bloomington Township, said recently.

"We are the fastest growing township in the county and now rank fourth in population," he said.

The township now is represented on the county board by Savalano and Assistant Supervisor Donald Jack Wall of Bloomington.

Savalano predicts the township will get three representatives following the 1970 census. Each township gets at least one supervisor and a number of assistant supervisors depending upon population.

"FUTURE NEEDS ARE what we must concentrate on," he said.

He heads the Republican slate for election April 1.

Savalano said Bloomington Township is getting short-changed in representation in county matters.

The fantastic growth of the township merits a third representative, he said.

"We should form citizen committees and get Springfield and Washington to hold referendums just like local governments have to do," he said.

"IF IT IS GOOD public policy for the schools to ask taxpayers for more money in taxes," he said, "why shouldn't state and federal governments have to do the same?"

He questioned whether the federal 10 per cent surtax would have passed a general referendum vote in the nation.

"If the referendum philosophy is a valid one, let's have it at all levels of government," he said.

"I support the idea of strong grass roots government and advocate tax rebates from the federal government as the only realistic solution to rising property taxes."

Plan Driving Course

Plans are in the final stages for this year's summer driving instruction program, which will be offered at York, Willowbrook, and Addison Trail high schools from the middle of June to the middle of August. The courses are part of the Dist. 88 driver education program.

An enrollment of over 1,500 students is expected under the supervision of 25 drivers education teachers.

In-class driver education is required by state law and a passing grade is mandatory for graduation. Under state law, no person under 18 years of age can get a driver's license until he has successfully completed both phases of a driver education program.

The program is offered in the Dist. 88 high schools at the sophomore level during two of the six-week marking periods of the school year.

A SUMMER program of in-class training is available for those who failed the course, for transfer students and for private and parochial school youngsters.

The classroom phase is coordinated with actual behind-the-wheel practice during the summer sessions and will run from June 16 through July 11.

Those who enroll must live within Dist. 88 or attend school within Dist. 88 and be over 15 and under 21-years-old.

A drivers' permit, required for the course, is available through the Illinois Motor Vehicle Bureau in Eastgate Shopping Center. There is no fee.

The state reimburses the district $8 for each student taking in-class training and $32 per student for the practice driving program.

Those participating will be assigned a four-week practice driving schedule, running from June 13 through July 12 or from July 14 through Aug. 9.

IN THE behind-the-wheel sessions students will learn basic driving maneuvers, how to handle a car in traffic and how to deal with emergencies. Requirements for passing the drivers' test for an Illinois license will also be covered.

Young people interested in enrolling in the Dist. 88 summer program may contact James Ladd at Willowbrook, Lee Wachenheim at York, or Donald Layne at Addison Trail.

Hope for Transportation Combine

A goal that would mesh highways, mass transit systems and O'Hare Field into one coordinated area transportation system has been put before the Northwest Municipal Conference.

A three-part policy proposed for conference adoption was presented last week by Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president and the conference's one-man task force on highways.

Pahl called for study of such new transit innovations as rail-bus and dial-a-bus. He further asked conference and Schaumburg Pres. Robert Atcher to involve the conference communities in planning of O'Hare Field.

The need for additions to existing travel systems is shown by three area communities applying for federal transportation grants, Pahl said in a written report. He referred to Palatine, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines.

"BECAUSE WE ARE a part of a greater transportation system, it occurs to me we should be thinking of the transportation needs of all our communities and all the citizens who are residents," Pahl said.

Pahl's recommended goal is to coordinate transportation networks throughout the entire conference area — which combines streets, highways, mass transit terminals and parking facilities — with land development. It provides for the movement of people and goods to, from, within, and through the area with a maximum of ease and comfort.

His suggested planning for O'Hare Field would include aircraft noise, air pollution, rapid transit, hours of operation, additional entrances and exits and other forms of transportation to and from the field.

A report released recently by the Chicago Department of Development and Planning asks that the city join with the suburbs in the planning of the area surrounding O'Hare Field.

THE CITY'S proposal was made in conjunction with a report on expansion and improvement at the airport, including improved transportation to and from terminals. A proposal to extend the Chicago Transit Authority's rapid transit to the airport was coupled with a warning that roadways near the airport will be inadequate in the future.

ship know their own minds and won't be badgered.

Rossi is sure he's going to win. He thinks 9,000 votes will at best be the top Bloomington election figure. Every precinct will be manned on Tuesday by a committeeman or a Democratic worker.

Pinewood Derby Awards Presented

Cub Scout Pack 412, Roselle, held its Pinewood Derby recently with Village Pres. Robert Frantz presenting the awards.

Jeff Freise won the "fastest car of the pack" award, with Ricky Tracy placing second and Marc Carder and Allan Moritz tying for fourth.

Mark Leighton built the best looking car, and Mike Buro received the "Webelo fastest car" award.

ALLAN MORITZ, Brian Grabowski and Jeff Freise received wolf badges. Silver arrows were given to Marc Carder and Paul Svendsen; Paul earned a gold arrow as well.

Engineer badges went to Mike Boro, John Boerner, Perry Bassett, Ken Holm and Perry Janke, while Mike, John and Perry Janke also earned "artist" designations. In addition, John Boerner was denoted "traveler" and Mart Hall, "bob cat."

Study Group Head Sought By Dist. 100

"What the board is looking for is a capable leader, someone who is willing to devote the time, interest and energy needed to get this thing going."

This is the description given by Supt. Martin Zuckerman of the person the Fenton Dist. 100 board is looking for to head a citizens' committee. This committee will study the district's future space needs, enrollments, finances, and programs.

Dr. Zuckerman said the group will work independently of the board. The size of the group, he said, probably will be between 16 and 20 persons, and the chairman "will be given free access in the formation and guidance of the committee."

Zuckerman asked the board to consider the problem and return to the April meeting with suggestions of persons who would be willing to serve as chairman of the group.

Notice: Stumping Not Easy

by MARTY MOSER

Wood is so much harder than it used to be. Today's utility poles must be "super wood."

"It's hard to find posts these days, because all the utilities are going underground."

If this sounds like a lumberman's convention, local township clerks will be all too glad to set the record straight.

Actually, the comments gleaned from interviews are a hint on how to ask a stumper question of candidates for office of township clerk.

"HOW GOOD are you at stumping?"

To a good township clerk, stumping naturally has two meanings. It can mean driving nails, pushing thumbtacks or stapling staples into stumps.

Or it can mean walking around looking for stumps in which to drive nails, push thumbtacks or staple staples.

For those who think a clerk's job is pretty in-door stuff, two lady clerks can tell of hammers and hiking boots in the desk drawers and ditches and dirt in the field.

As part of a township clerk's regular duties, it falls their way to hang election notices, according to statute, "in a public place."

The law is specific: At least three notices per precinct, one at the poll. It was obviously written before people got esthetically inclined about their utilities.

BESIDES POLES being made of concrete and treated nail-resistant wood these days, one township clerk noted these handy-dandy sign holders are outmoded and are being replaced by underground utility tubes.

"There were 14 precincts when I first took office," said Wheeling Township Clerk Mrs. George Hauff, who has 20 years' experience hanging signs. "That was duck soup compared to the 79 precincts I have now."

The clerks usually have someone to do the posting, although Mrs. Hauff and Palatine Township Clerk Mrs. Margaret Chapman admit to hanging some signs themselves.

"I put some out and had some volunteers," Mrs. Chapman said. She posted five election notices in each of 38 precincts this election.

Schaumburg Township Clerk Mrs. Kathleen Wojcik said she gave her signs to precinct captains this year.

"I DID SEE one on a pole," she recalled when they were hung. "My choice of public places is in the post office, the library and bank."

The local clerks publish legal election notices in newspapers but supplement these with posters in places where they are unavoidably noticeable.

Criticism is sometimes leveled at the posted election notices by persons who feel the signs look unattractive or are illegal.

The signs are legitimate and there is evidence people really do notice and read them, clerks assert.

"SOME VILLAGES are not too excited about having them posted but this is a legal non-partisan election notice," said George Busse, Elk Grove Township clerk. "Let's say we hang them up."

It is illegal to hang campaign posters. Law does not permit displaying any advertising on utility poles except for elections. So towns with local ordinances, like Mount Prospect, bear with election notices and prosecute any other trespassing.

Some clerks say they make a point to remove the signs after election. Others leave them to the natural elements, such as wind and children. Mrs. Hauff's husband can be relied upon to take down an outdated but durable notice. If Hauff is out driving, he will stop and remove the sign, his wife said.

Mrs. Wojcik said a person commented to her about seeing an election notice at a school and would have forgotten the election without the reminder.

"IT MADE ME feel better," Mrs. Wojcik said.

Mrs. Chapman mentioned she was out hanging signs one day and a number of people stopped and asked questions.

"Of course, I'm never in one place more than a few minutes," Mrs. Chapman said.

Notices are hung in poster form at the direction of the Cook County Clerk. Events that can be heralded by public signs are national elections, town meetings, budget hearings, or the current township elections.

"We are required by law to post these," Busse says to any critics. "We've got to notify the citizenry."

I-90 Pact Awarded

An estimated $4.2 million contract for construction of Interstate 90, from Golf to Higgins Roads, is to be awarded April 11.

Another contract for the interstate, from Higgins Road to Devon Avenue, is to be let May 23.

The contracts will begin a two-year construction project of I-90 through the North-west suburbs.

The contracts of the Illinois Division of Highways will complete Dist. 10's portion of I-90 included in the 1968 state highway budget.

A TOTAL $11,133,000 is allotted Dist. 10 for I-90 construction, including bridges, interchange reconstruction, grading and paving, lighting and signs.

Dist. 1, covering the DuPage County portion of I-90, had expected but will not have a contract awarded April 11. Noel F. Thomas, assistant to Dist. 1 Engineer Sig-mund Ziejewski, said Dist. 1 may have a segment of the interstate awarded in May.

According to the 1968 budget of the state Division of Highways, a total $27,758,000 has been allotted for DuPage County's share of I-90, from Devon Avenue to York Road.

Work to be done between Golf and Higgins roads will consist of three lanes of highway each direction, plus a series of contributor roadways and frontage roads.

Diamond interchanges will be at Golf and Higgins Roads, according to Henry Yamanaka, Dist. 10 design engineer. Three bridges are to be constructed in this contract portion, over Higgins and Golf Roads and one over Woodfield Drive, a Schaumburg road not yet constructed.

Devon Avenue will go over the interstate and have no access, Yamanaka said. A Bluesterfield Road bridge, in Elk Grove

Name Schlickman To Subcommittee

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, last week was appointed chairman of the subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations.

The subcommittee will consider forthcoming appropriation requests of the governor, lieutenant governor, state treasurer, auditor of public accounts, judiciary, general assembly and various permanent and interim legislative commissions.

Members of Schlickman's subcommittee include State Rep. Charles Campbell, R-Danville, and State Rep. Sam Vandalbene, D-Edwardsville.

Schlickman's subcommittee is one of seven established by State Rep. Richard A. Walsh, R-Oak Park, chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations.

IN 1967, SCHLICKMAN served as chairman of a subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee which considered the appropriation requests of the departments of mental health, children and family services and public health.

"While I am disappointed in not continuing to associate with the appropriation requirements of mental health and children and family services, I enthusiastically welcome the opportunity to work with the governor, leaders of the legislative and judiciary branches, and state constitutional officers in considering their appropriation requests for the next fiscal year, said Schlickman of his appointment.

The Way We See It

Remap Plan Bad One

Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington has introduced a bill to reapportion Cook County congressional districts for the 1970 election.

Although we agree that suburbanites are being denied their rightful voice in Congress under the present makeup of districts, we view Arrington's proposal as ill-advised.

Although the legislature will have to reapportion the entire state after the 1970 census, Arrington is pushing for a change now because he believes it would allow the election of two more Republican congressmen in 1970.

According to 1968 election statistics, Chicago and its suburbs are nearly equal in voting strength — 1.8 million voters in the city, 1.1 million in suburbs. The city has nine representatives in Congress, the suburbs only three.

This obvious inequity will not, however, be rectified by Arrington's plan to gerrymander the election of additional GOP congressmen.

The Arrington plan would be especially injurious to Northwest suburbs.

It would retain Palatine and Wheeling townships in the 13th District, extending east to the North Shore, and spin off Schaumburg and Elk Grove Townships to the 11th District, now made up chiefly of wards on the northwest side of Chicago.

The revised 11th District would be a hodgepodge extending from Chicago's 39th, 41st, 45th, and part of 38th wards, Norwood Park Township, and Maine Township to Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships.

Arrington's aim is to ensure the defeat of Democrat Roman C. Pucinski, 11th District incumbent, by juggling for a suburban Republican majority.

We do not find such a shift acceptable to the legitimate interests of Northwest suburbs. Nor do we support any remap proposal which divides these four Northwest townships into separate districts.

Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg, and Elk Grove all share common needs and common interests with inter-related problems and potential. Proper representation of these townships will not be achieved by equating the demands of the 39th ward with the growth problems of Hoffman Estates, nor by lumping the concerns of Elk Grove Village homeowners with those of residents around Milwaukee and Lawrence avenues.

Northwest suburbs deserve their own congressional district with representation knowledgeable about our special problems, committed to finding solutions, and identified with our interests and aspirations.

Arrington defends his proposed gerrymander by citing the "political realities" in Chicago, presumably referring to the failure of Republicans to make substantial inroads against the Democratic dominance of the city.

The solution to the GOP dilemma is not to be found in Arrington's proposed remap. The basic problem is notoriously poor organization and inept effort by Republicans in Chicago. For too long, the GOP has used Mayor Daley's machine as a convenient substitute for meaningful, constructive programs backed by strong, qualified candidates who know and understand the city, its people and their problems.

Arrington and his fellow Republicans will better serve the people — and their party — if they direct their energies to extending genuine, responsible Republican leadership to the city, rather than attempting to win more GOP congressional seats with a "stacked deck" redistricting.

Reapportionment should wait for the 1970 census figures when the legislature can develop a sensible, more accurate mapping which would provide fairer representation for both city and suburb.

If this is to be achieved, it will require suburbanites to demand an end to the irresponsible partisanship, bitterness, and divisiveness which traditionally has characterized remap efforts in the legislature.

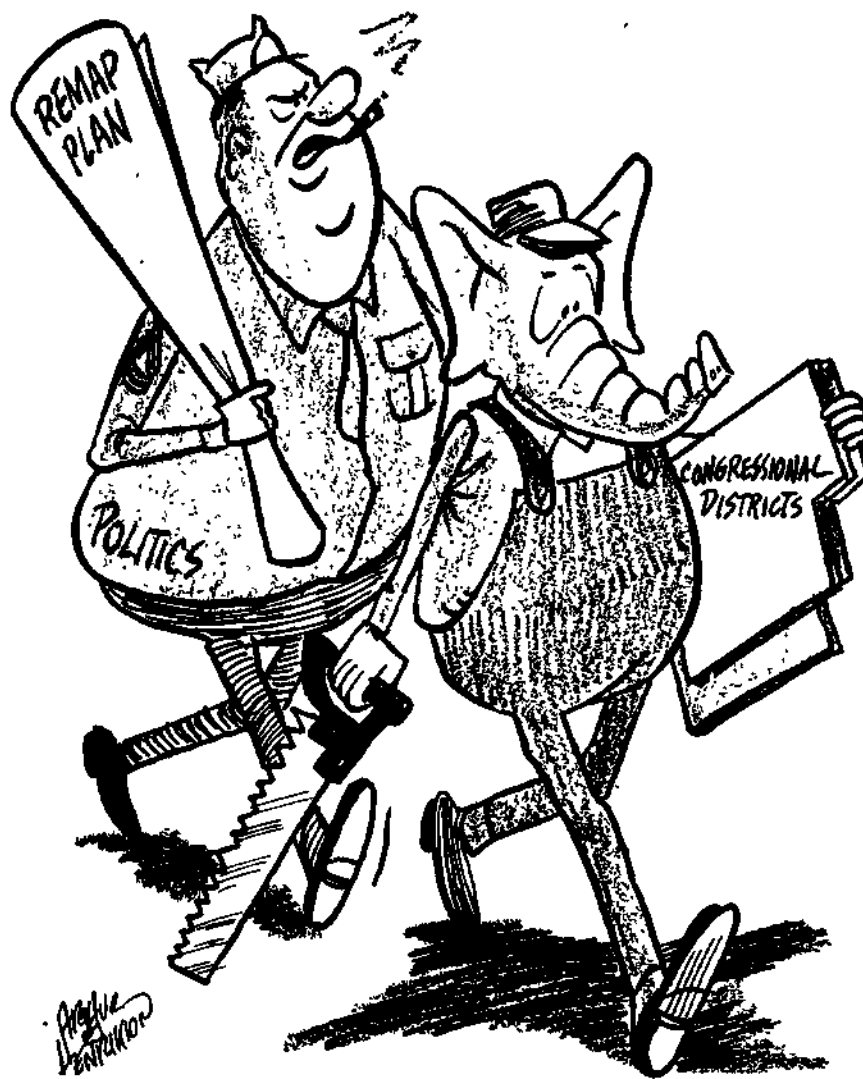

And it will compel our local legislators to speak — in opposition to their party leaders, if need be — against Arrington's unacceptable plan and for a sensible solution after 1970.

ive program, if that program doesn't endanger those members coming up for re-election next year. This program will be revealed next week.

Yet it has to be doubted that a 100 per cent GOP vote in both houses can be managed. Some of the legislation will be controversial on economic, fiscal and social grounds, rather than on GOP partisan demands. This being the case, at least a few Democratic votes will be needed to pass with a simple majority of either house.

Much Ado About... Says 'Thank You'

by CLIFFORD G. ROWE
Asst. Managing Editor

Never have so many talked so much about so little.

That was my reaction to last weekend's television coverage of the Illinois high school basketball tournament.

There sat four guys, backgrounder by an array of television monitors and a chart on which the progress of the teams at the tourney could be followed.

At their fingertips were the facts and figures sportscasters and sports fans thrive on — heights and weights, shooting percentages, wins and losses.

DOWN ON THE FLOOR it seemed that one lackluster game followed another. Playing methodical, patterned basketball, the teams unveiled the type of game coaches talk about for years and the average spectator gets bored with after a few minutes.

Up in "Tournament Central" the statistics and charts and TV replays were woven into pre-game programs of suspense and anticipated thrills.

None of the games I saw measured up to its advance billing.

Post-game comment was confined to trying to show that the game had, indeed, been all they had said it would be.

IT WAS MAGNIFICENTLY detailed coverage. But by its very weight, it seemed to remove the tournament from the realm of fun and games — which it is — and into the category of great significance and drama — which it isn't.

In contrast (a poor contrast, I admit) was the appearance, also over the weekend, of comedian Mort Sahl.

In a typical five-minute monologue he took on such subjects as the Presidency, J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI, war and peace.

He summed it up himself with, "Are there any groups we haven't offended?"

I LAUGHED. It was fun, and intended to be no more than that.

So "flesh" is added to the fluff, until it collapses of its own weight, and the weighty problems of our day are sent soaring on the meaningless quips of a comedian.

Illinois, and this new Ogilvie legislation will reflect it. Skyrocketing health and welfare needs; universal demands for more state aid for schools, which can hardly be resisted; and the deplorable condition of public highways throughout Illinois call for immediate attention, immediate taxing and immediate spending.

The state treasury is empty, and rising prices are riding hard to set the stage in Illinois for probably the greatest encounter since the Depression years to find tax money to pay for expanding services.

The Lighter Side

Well, Who DID Daley Mean?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A minor mystery has developed over Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's choice for last year's Democratic presidential nomination.

In a put-down of Hubert H. Humphrey, Daley said someone else would have made a stronger candidate — someone with the "name of a former president."

It was widely assumed that Daley was referring to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. But then along came Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., with a rebuttal for that theory.

Ribicoff said Daley did not support Kennedy at any time before, during or after the Democratic convention at Chicago.

Whom, then, did Daley have in mind? I posed this question to a group of political pundits the other day and it led to some rather interesting speculation.

"I doubt that Daley was talking about John Eisenhower," one pundit said. "The last time I checked, Ike's son was a Republican like his daddy."

"That's right," another pundit said. "And I think we can rule out Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, for the same reason."

"I doubt he was referring to Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. either," the third pundit said. "Young Frank has more or less retired from politics."

"And so has Sherman Adams," the first pundit said.

"Wait a minute," the second pundit said. "We are only assuming that Daley meant the last name of a former president. May be he meant the first name. In that case, Abe Ribicoff himself could have been it."

"A good point," the first pundit said. "Or it could have been someone like Truman Capote, the famous author."

"Truman Capote is a bit too intellectual for Daley," the third pundit said. "A better guess would be Roosevelt Grier, the football player who was Bobby Kennedy's bodyguard."

"That won't hold water," the second pundit said. "Roosevelt Grier was too closely identified with the student groups that were tormenting Daley at the convention."

"I agree," the first pundit said, "and the same thing goes for the Jefferson Airplane. Daley would never have supported a rock music group for the nomination."

"Well, then, how about Cary Grant?" the third pundit said. "He's a big favorite with Daley's generation."

"It's possible," the first pundit said. "But I think we have been overlooking the most logical bet — a man who shares Daley's hard line attitude toward demonstrators. I'm convinced the man Daley had in mind was J. Edgar Hoover."

The Fence Post

'Get Involved In Hunger Hike'

I was amazed and proud to learn about the "Hike for the Hungry" (organized and so well-supported by the area teens) where kids volunteer to walk up to 17 miles at so much a mile with the money going in equal shares to Biafra, Ecuador and the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

I was, however, especially sorry to learn that while most of the schools in the area (parochial and public) have given great cooperation to this project, Prospect High would not even allow a registration table.

It seems to me that when our suburban teens show such an awareness and concern of world problems, parents, schools and churches should give them all possible support. We go to great lengths to support their little league football and baseball games, their scouting activity, their proms, their park programs, and even arrange lighting for their football fields.

Then the kids themselves come up with a well organized and completely unselfish plan to help — not kids without football lights or proms or scouting or even hungry people — but people who are literally starving to death (6 million have already died in Biafra) and the school says to them in effect "We can't get involved."

I only hope that most Americans do want their children to care, and I would therefore urge every parent whose child is in the project or every person or business called upon for a pledge, to support our teenagers to the greatest degree possible and show the kids this community, at least, can become involved.

Setting the Record Straight

I am writing to correct a statement attributed to the Rev. Jesse Jackson when he spoke at Harper Junior College. The story to which I refer appeared in the March 7 edition of your paper. Your reporter wrote, "Dr. Christian Barnard, he (the Rev. Mr. Jackson) charged, became famous by using heart surgery techniques pioneered by black physicians in the Union of South Africa's Provident Hospital."

What the Rev. Mr. Jackson was attempting to do was point out that black men had performed outstanding work in surgery and medicine without receiving the acclaim of the Barnards, DeBakeys, and Cushings. To illustrate his thesis, he related the work of Dr. Daniel Hale Williams who performed the first successful operation on the human heart in Chicago's — not South Africa's — Provident Hospital in 1893.

There are a few black physicians in the Union of South Africa, but I doubt that any are engaged in heart research. It is well known that Dr. Barnard received his training in heart surgery in this country.

P.S. — I am enclosing one of a series of ads used by the Old Taylor Distillery Co. and appearing mainly in black publications. It refers specifically to Dr. Williams.

Favors Matinees

Shame on you, Mr. Harry C. Miller, for wanting to deprive the children of their Saturday and Sunday movie matinees. These two afternoons have been, and I hope always will be reserved for children, with wholesome film fare for youngsters.

It's difficult to imagine you or any of your fellow movie-goers of this area that are on such a tight schedule that the seven nights a week the theatres are open are insufficient for you.

The Political Beat

Ogilvie Faces Springfield Reality

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

The chief business at the statehouse in Springfield is still politics.

Although state government is facing some of the most critical times in this century because of new social needs in this transition era costing billions of dollars, Republicans and Democrats are maintaining a relaxed approach with a little partisan by-play.

Having raised their own salaries by 25 per cent — rather bluntly as the first order of business at the opening of this legislative session — the representatives of the people in a partisan configuration are racing to solve the people's problems.

This is to say that while they are agreed that it will be necessary to vote some pretty high tax spending to provide for expanding state needs and get an unfavorable fiscal situation under control, neither party now wants to take all the credit for the accomplishment.

Charles Hufnagel

The reason is 1970.

GOV. RICHARD B. OGILVIE, whose campaign set him down as a candidate bent on reforming state government and bringing his GOP party image in tune with the times, has come face to face with the grim realities of his task, though in office a little longer than two months.

What is his problem?

He has substantial GOP majorities in House and Senate, 37 in the Senate and 89 in the House. But on emergency bills which require a two-thirds vote for passage (39 votes) he has been unable to pick up a mere two Democratic votes in the Senate.

When the word goes out, the Democrats close ranks and stand firm on the party line, despite their alleged lack of party unity.

ONE INTERESTING TEST case of this kind resulted from a Democratic-Republican ruckus in DuPage County. A bill to provide emergency legislation for a $145 million countywide public works referendum went down to defeat in the Senate a few weeks ago because the GOP couldn't get a single Democratic vote to pass it, and they needed only two.

It was a test of strength between Rep. Wm. Redmond, D-Bensenville, who organized the Senate minority resistance, and Sen. W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, majority leader, who was forced to accept the inevitable. It was an eye-opener for over-confident Republicans and a sobering experience for the Governor.

Now it is noted that the Senate GOP caucused this week and decided not to press for passage of a bill which would lift the legal limit of bank loan rates in Illinois from 7 to 9 per cent.

Of course there were other factors involved, but Senate Republicans did not want to risk alienating their constituents with a hard fight to put it across with the 1970 state elections just around the corner. The Democrats proved they pack a punch.

POLITICS IN SUCH situations bring senators into campaigns for nearby elections smelling like a rose. In raising interest rates, you may be losing more votes than you gain. At any rate, there's nothing like playing it cozy.

On the other hand, this does show that the senate majority leader can muster enough votes to pass Ogilvie's new legisla-

'Keep Crystal Ship Afloat'

I am a parent of one of your Crystal Ship devotees. I wish to express my opinion and gratitude to the fine church for providing this building and program — even though it may be short-lived.

We were transferred to Mount Prospect two years ago and were immediately struck by a complete void for young people and their welfare. We came from a town which had two amusement parks, numerous teen clubs (some of dubious reputation but some quite good) and various other outlets for young people to just gather in large groups and be themselves without adults watching with their wary and suspicious eye.

Naturally, when we discovered so few places here and such great distances to travel to get there, it came as a bitter disappointment in our choice of suburb. We have tried to keep our daughter involved, as I am sure every parent does, in school, hobbies, etc.

BUT THE FACT remains they need their own place to go. Just to be together, to talk together, and not be told how to have their own fun by an adult of a different world. This is why your village dances at the Mount Prospect Club just never made it, and your school dances aren't as popular as they should be by all students.

So now we are engaged in a great city war — testing whether that coffeehouse or any teen club can long endure. Perhaps the first mistake was the use of the word "coffeehouse" for the Crystal Ship. For over the bridge tables, bowling alleys and beauty shops of Mount Prospect the rumors of unseen evils grow by word of mouth and sometimes grow to ridiculous proportions by well-meaning, but not well-informed mothers — for to become informed might take time and heaven knows there just isn't enough time.

SO LET'S just condemn all teen gathering spots and settle down and let the young people go back to walking around Randhurst, up and down the streets, into the train station, down to the park or perhaps send them off to some movie where they can really get down to the nitty-gritty of finding out what life is all about (at least by Hollywood's current low-standard, anything-for-a-buck fifth).

Granted at any public place you may get a bad apple in the bunch. This you can get at any gathering of both kids and adults. Perhaps a few good, dependable college students hired for the sole purpose of mingling and keeping their eyes open for any sort of suspicious things would make both the young people who want the "Ship" to stay open, and some of the parents who aren't too sure, happy. After all, the goals of both groups should be the same — not pulling against each other.

Just as the "Cellar" serves a purpose in our area, so does the "Crystal Ship" serve a purpose — mental stimulation.

I WOULD HOPE the next time one of our leaders goes to look the place over, he would do so before attending his cocktail party rather than after. Perhaps his mind might be more open.

Whether or not this "Ship" passes in the night — I would like to express my gratitude to all who have tried. A job well done.

Says Apartments Valuable

It is a very curious thing how Fred Downey's superior, Republican Committeeman Donald Totten, is so satisfied with the way things are going in the rest of Schaumburg Township. The village of Schaumburg has zoned 17,000 apartments — this is 6,000 more than Hoffman Estates has zoned. Methinks the Grand Old Plot-ter of Schaumburg Township and Fred Downey doth protest too much.

It also is amazing that Virginia Hayter, now resigned school board president, said publicly in the Hoffman Estates Village Hall that $20,000 assessed valuation (taxable property) is the minimum that can support a public school child for quality education. This same lady knows very well that this $20,000 minimum taxable property has been worked out through apartment zoning in Hoffman Estates.

In fact, the Grand Canyon Apartments at full occupancy have only 14 school children with total assessed valuation of $600,000. If you run that through your thinking machine, you'll find it comes out to $40,000 taxable property behind each public school child. This is a tidy sum in anybody's book.

THEN WHY ARE the HIP and GOP running around town like frogs on a hot rock and croaking up such a fuss?

The answer is easy. Apartment zoning and assessed valuation, etc., etc., is a complicated business that keeps experts continuously a student. So, make a big emotional issue out of it as a basis to take control of the Hoffman Estates Village Board. The opposition has to have something to use as an emotional issue, and of course Schaumburg Township and village are very happy with the same emotional issue.

Emotional issue, my foot. All anyone in his right mind has to do is drive around the area on a Sunday afternoon and see what other towns are doing.

The truth is that apartments in the planned unit development style or otherwise are the best thing that has happened to Hoffman Estates.

THE MOST YOU can get out of a single family home is $15,000 in taxable property. If you have one child, this still doesn't meet the $20,000 minimum set by Virginia Hayter and the Dist. 54 Board. Now, the real problem is that two, three, four or more children drops the taxable property per child way down to poverty level as far as the schools are concerned. Single-family homes kill the school district! How do you raise it?

Apartment will raise it as per the Grand Canyon Apartments example. Now, in addition, the village and the park district gain from the planned unit development. Their streets are private and the village is not required to service them, but the village collects the Motor Fuel Tax on a per head count for each "apartment" resident. The recreational facilities are privately owned but the park district collects a tax for it.

Apartment bad for Hoffman Estates!! Hogwash!!! Campaign b'ge water!!!!

'It's Easy to Find Answers'

As a former alderman of Rolling Meadows Ward 1, I am very confused by William Miseska's statements where he would like to form a little Hoover's committee to find out why policemen have left the Rolling Meadows Police Department.

If Mr. Miseska had shown any interest while in office, he could have found out very easily why police officers left the department. Seeing that he did not take any interest then, I will tell him how easy it is to find out the answers.

As an alderman, he had the prerogative of first going to the chief of police, and if he was not satisfied with that answer, he could always go to the chairman of the police committee, and if he still was not satisfied with that answer, he could go to our fire and police commission and get the answer, and if he was still not satisfied, he could have gone to the officer involved and got the answer from him.

I never, in the years I was an alderman, had any difficulty in finding out any of these answers or any other answers that I was seeking, while I held public office. Especially when Mr. Miseska was interim mayor of the city, he had full powers to investigate any department he so wished. Why didn't he do it then?

IT IS NATURALLY understandable that the reasons are not made public if an officer is leaving the police department because this is kept completely confidential, just as I am sure the newspaper does not publicize why men leave private industries, no more than does Bill Miseska publicize why anyone would leave his employment.

But as an alderman he has the perfect right, seeing he represents the people in his ward, and also the citizens of Rolling Meadows, if he thought that anything was wrong in the handling of the police department and if anything was wrong in why these officers would quit the Rolling Meadows police force, he should have done something about it while in office and not use it now while he is running for office.

I wonder where his interests really lie. Is it for the good of the people in Rolling Meadows or strictly in himself? I personally believe that Mr. Miseska is using those three little words, I, myself, and me.

The Hearing Impaired Child

What Is the Parents' Role?

by RACHEL HEUMAN

(This is the fourth and final part in a four-part series.)

Parents of hearing impaired children are understandably frustrated by their limitations in helping their children. However, John Neumann, president of Deaf Children Unlimited (DCU), a parents group, suggests that there is much more that parents can do than many realize.

"Keeping abreast of what's new in the field is important," says Neumann, "and reading is only one way of doing it."

A few of the more highly organized groups that offer informative programs include the following:

The Chicago Hearing Society offers a six to eight-week course for parents that meets in the evenings.

The Illinois State School for the Deaf has week-long classes for parents who can attend for that concentrated a time period.

THE JOHN TRACY Clinic near Los Angeles is a day school that offers a correspondence course for parents as well as for children. The school is named after the hearing impaired son of the late actor, Spencer Tracy.

The Northwestern University School of Speech, Department of Deaf Education and Audiology, offers courses for the layman as well as an extensive program for professional trainees.

Joining parents' groups such as Deaf Children Unlimited offers parents the opportunity to become involved and wield a greater influence on decisions such as state legislation that will later affect their children. Another advantage is the psychological value of comparing notes in group therapy fashion.

DCU, IN ADDITION to offering representation at groups speaking in behalf of the hearing impaired, has a program of scholarships to encourage teachers of the deaf to come to the area.

Naturally parents are concerned also about what can be done to encourage their children at home. Mrs. Siegmund Frankenthor, a DCU member, stressed the importance of accepting the child and his impairment without over-reacting or pampering him.

She admitted that this was her weakness at first, but that her husband was helpful in guiding her to firmer, more realistic handling of the normal childhood problems that deaf children have in common with hearing children.

"YOU CAN MAKE an abnormal child out of a normal child with a handicap by failing to recognize him first as a child and then as a child with an impairment," concluded Mrs. Frankenthor.

Though reluctant to speak as authorities, Mrs. Frankenthor and several other parents did make suggestions from their own experiences:

Encourage the children to speak by expecting them so that they are aware that communication is effected through that means; take time to listen to them. Even babies can link the sound and the lip movements.

Understand that vision is vitally important to the hearing impaired child and get down to his level to establish eye contact.

COMMUNICATE IDEAS (rather than isolated words) through use of gestures accompanied by the spoken word.

Use simple sentences and short words in conjunction with gestures. Speak slowly.

Emphasize a regularly used vocabulary through natural repetition within a meaningful context. Avoid drilling, which is unnatural.

Talk into your baby's ear, especially preceding the use of a hearing aid. For children with fragmentary hearing, this is the method that least distorts the human voice.

On the advice of the child's teacher supplement classroom activities at home with learning games.

On the other hand, don't over-articulate or shout. These exaggerated signals are not part of the ordinary communication system of the everyday world.

PARENTS OF ALL hearing impaired children would do well to obtain early critical evaluation of their child's condition, and then refer to other sources of educational and social programs.

Among those metropolitan services mentioned by persons interviewed for this article were Michael Reese Hearing Clinic, Northwestern University Hearing Clinic and Institute for Language Disorders, Children's Memorial Hospital, St. Joseph Hospital, St. Luke's Hospital, Illinois Eye and Ear Infirmary, Billings Hospital and the Winnetka Institute of Speech and Hearing. All are in Chicago except the Winnetka Institute; the Northwestern Clinics also have an Evanston location.

A VALUABLE and inclusive reference is a directory printed and published by the Chicago Hearing Society entitled "A Directory of Services Available to the Hearing Handicapped in the Chicago Area."

Chapters are headed: otological and hearing clinics; social service agencies, schools — public and private; parent education; centers for teacher training; religious training; and recreational facilities. The booklet has been referred to as "a bible" and is probably as good a place as any to begin answering questions dealing with problems of the hearing impaired child.

MRS. SIEGMUND FRANKENTHOR gets down to son John's eye level when she speaks to him. Reinforcing what he learns at school, she is giving him both "touch and see" clues as she speaks.

Center Needs Sewing Items

A plea for donations of yard goods and sewing accessories has been put out again by the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows.

Mrs. Paul Peale of Arlington Heights, chairman of the First Methodist Church group that runs sewing classes at the center every Wednesday, says fabrics for spring clothes are particularly needed.

The fabric will be used by area women learning to make clothing for their families.

The Opportunity Center is a self-help agency partially funded by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

IT SERVES AREA low-income families, many of them Spanish-speaking migrants who have settled in the suburban Northwest.

Mrs. Peale says the yard goods should be brought to the Center, located in the Coachlight Shops, Rolling Meadows.

The Center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Persons wishing more information should call the center, 255-3456.

Her Night on the Sump Pump Watch

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

HOMEFRONT, U.S.A. (UPI)—The rains of April are almost upon us and I've already had my first case of sump pump fidgets—a wakeful state associated with wet weather and furnace-watching.

The latter is something like bird-watching in that you have to keep your eyes peeled. The sump-pump syndrome accompanying the activity isn't described in any medical dictionary.

To know the discomfort, you must live in a very unusual house — say like Trembling Timbers, name of our mortgaged cottage.

Normally, our house, certified by the Federal Housing Administration FHA to be a dwelling fit for humans, is situated on dry land. When it rains, as it did in the other day, it could be certified fit for fish.

UNDERGROUND STREAMS from all directions converge on our crawlspace, an unpaved mini cellar big enough for only midgits to stand tall without bashing their skulls.

When the gushing gets good the dwelling may be described as on the water.

The normal thing would be to enjoy the sudden stream and grab a fishpole or swimsuit. But not if a $750 furnace is in a concrete pit in the crawlspace.

It's up to the sump pump to turn itself on and off gallantly as the water pours in, pumping it out through a pipeline and saving the furnace.

During great storms, as the other night, one must keep a sump pump watch lest owners of the furnace be faced with a $750 replacement bill.

DUTY ENTAILS sitting up most of the night, watching the pump. The happiest sound of all is to hear it going continuously—which means it's pushing all that water out as fast as it surfaces from those hidden streams.

In the latter case, the first floor vibrates and your feet get a free relaxing massage.

In case sump pump blows a bolt or nut, we have exactly one-half hour to get the plumber out of bed to set up an auxiliary system or—oops, there goes furnace!

When this first started happening nine years ago, I took it lightly I sang, to "Glow Worm," — "Pump little sump pump: Pump, pump, pump, pump."

The other night I had lots of time to meditate. In the morning, having saved the furnace with the sump pump's assistance, I told my mate ours is going to be the first divorce case in which sump pump watch figured.

I told him through half-opened eyes Next time he comes off sump pump watch, maybe he'll feel the same way.

Spring Workout For Brown Thumbs

by ANN CHELLMAN

Stray mittens make good mulch, but now is the time to remove this type of protective covering from your bulb beds. Any windbreaks, such as large sheets of newspaper and torn kites, may be left in place until gusty April winds blow them away.

Inspect your clematis for signs of infestation by woolen scarves or rusty Tootsie Toys. Press into place any small perennials that have been heaved by dogs burying bones or boys wearing football cleats. Prune summer-blooming vines and remove climbing toddlers from all trellises before beginning to paint them . . . the trellises, that is.

Check stored gladioli and dahlia bulbs to make sure they are neither drying nor rotting. Don't be pessimistic . . . at least check them before ordering replacements. After inspection, remember to order early so the shipment will arrive in time for spring planting. Dispose of all dead geraniums and don't be foolish enough to think you can keep them alive through the winter next year.

CHOOSE A sunny day to clean the window wells. Remove small plastic dinosaurs, roller skates and orange peels. Discover the joy of finding a left rubber that you were sure was gone forever. Add sodden, partly-rotted tree leaves. Walnetto wrappers and doll clothes to the compost heap.

Digitaria humifusa. (Look THAT up in your Funk and Wagnall's) must be dealt with vigorously. An excellent pre-emergent crab grass killer is the steady application of small wrestling boys, carefully confined to the most troublesome areas.

The hazards of this practice are twofold. Unsightly dried grass clippings and mud will litter your carpeting, and even more unsightly bare spots may appear in the yard. Use the Yellow Pages. Find a reputable carpet cleaner first, and later on in the season, when you are sure the lawn is beyond repair, consider putting in a pool or patio.

ENJOY A FORETASTE of spring now. Order all sweet Violets, Johnny-jump-ups, early Daphnes and other annual garden pests to kindly keep their bikes off the canna beds. If they stubbornly persist, spray them liberally with a diluted solution of mild epithets.

When the racks of flower seed packets sprout at the supermarket, it will be a gentle reminder that spring is finally here. Propagate some scabiosa! You'll be a better person for it. If you wish a less rewarding, but more effective means of obtaining the plants you most want, ignore the seeds and buy flats instead. But remember, your falsia japonica is extremely sensitive to even light trampling. Take proper precautions. Barbed wire may be helpful.

Perhaps the most important purchase a brown thumb gardener can make will be a rather large assortment of fancy gardening gloves. Choose them carefully as they will probably be the most colorful items blooming in your garden.

Seeing Europe, Family Style

Grindelwald, We Love You

by MARY ELLEN POURCHOT

(Second in a Series)

From the balcony of our Swiss chalet, we gazed up at a rim of white-peaked Alps and agreed that here was our Shangri-la. Months later, our family all agreed that Grindelwald, Switzerland, was one of the perfect vacation spots.

It's an easy trip by car or train from Interlaken to this resort lying at 3450 feet elevation. Mountain peaks of over 13,000 feet hang over the village like sleeping cardboard giants. Here is the famous Eiger, whose treacherous North Face has only recently been scaled by daring climbers. Here is the Jungfrau, on whose slopes at over 11,000 feet is perched the highest railway station in the Alps.

Energetic children won't waste time admiring the scenery. They will pull on hiking boots and hit the trails. The tourist bureau encourages you with maps and a seven-day plan for daily excursions. You'll start with easier hikes and work up the whole-day climb to Faulhorn and its incomparable panorama.

EVERY CURVE of the well-marked trail offers superb views. The hillsides are dotted with picture-book chalets, each with its window box bright with geraniums and begonias. The Brown Swiss cows wearing incredibly huge bells make the meadows sound like Sunday morning every day. High up near snowline the steep thin paths might carry a motor-scooter cower to his barn.

Trails lead to glaciers or waterfalls or out-of-this-world summits, where you're likely to find a little old lady selling cold drinks and coffee at the top.

For those allergic to hiking, Grindelwald offers a heated swimming pool, cinema, shops and restaurants, a folklore museum. You can drink coffee on a heated terrace with a view, or stop at a "backerei" to choose the pastry you wish served with your tea.

GLACIER GORGE with its dripping dark passages cut into rock walls, is thrilling to children. Even more spectacular is a ride on the longest chair-lift in Europe, which carries hikers closer to Faulhorn and skiers to their slopes.

In addition to its numerous hotels, Grindelwald accommodates tourists in scores of "ferienwohnungen" and "verzeichnisse" which designate chalet and apartment rentals. The tourist bureau will supply a catalogue listing from one to eight bed chalets.

THESE HOLIDAY houses may be heavily booked in popular seasons. One can make advance reservations sight-unseen and be confident of Swiss provisions and cleanliness. Our furnished upper flat had two spacious bedrooms, a living room, bath, and modern kitchen, in addition to the balcony. We paid a little over ten dollars a day, which included utilities and tax. This was in late September, however, and may have been a reduced rate.

No one could be disappointed in Grindelwald. Unlike many tourist places, it exceeds one's expectations. The jagged mountain tops have etched their magic upon the four of us. We must go back . . . someday.

A 2-VOLUME COOKBOOK with recipes from all over the world will be sold Friday and Saturday at the Jewel-Osco in Roselle. George Badgley, resident supervisor for Jewel peruses an advanced copy from Mrs. Paul Devda and Mrs. Merwyn Moore of Beta Sigma Phi.

RACHEL HUEMAN, Paddock arts editor, admires the blue ribbon winner entered by the Garden Club of Mount Prospect, at the Champagne Preview of the World Flower Show last Friday night.

The track record was seven winners out of seven entries for area garden clubs competing in arrangement categories at the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show, which runs through Sunday.

All affiliate groups of the Garden Club of Illinois followed the "Rhapsody in Bloom" motif of music and flowers.

Odds-on favorite, according to show es, at interpreting the language of music woven grass, and decorated with teak table-den Club of Mount Prospect, designed by club president, Mrs. Jerome A. Thelander.

Named "Counterpoint," Mrs. Thelander's winner dignified twin bugles with the inclusion of cymbidium orchids and yellow twig dogwood arranged in the horns.

A WOODEN SLAT table, covered with woven grass, and decorated with teak tableware and exotic flowers — torch ginger, bird of paradise, ti leaves, anthurium and leather fern — took second honors in the table arrangement class for the Garden Club of Addison. Committee chairman of the club's entry was Mrs. Archie Neil, assisted by Mrs. Harold Kruse and Mrs. Walter Sassmannshausen.

Other winners in the artistic arrangements classes included the Garden Club of Inverness. A red ribbon was their award in the percussion section. Mrs. Walter Maloney supervised the exhibit. Third place winners in their respective categories were the Garden Club of Bensenville, Mrs. Henry Dorn, chairman, and the Wood Dale Garden Club, Mrs. L. H. Graeser, chairman.

The Addison Garden Club, which had entered the specimen arrangement class as well as the table competition received honorable mentions for both.

The flower show is being held at the Chicago Amphitheatre.

WOOD DALE Garden Club's entry sprang to life with magnolia leaves, wood roses, cycus palm, and sumac.

The Potting Shed

by MARY B. GOOD

It's a fickle spring that brings us sweetmeats one day and slush the next. Gardening pros know enough to distrust glad weather tidings in March and April. Barring hail, snow, and deep freeze, there's almost always storm warnings ahead. Wait to plant those half-hardy annuals until the bearded iris are almost at blooming stage. Trees and shrubs, however, can be slipped in anytime after the ground thaws — like now.

Don't fret over the spring snow. Every bit of it deposited on your garden is worth hard cash to you. Falling snow brings down with it nitrogen from the air and deposits it on your soil. Since this is the element most used by plants for growth, you're lucky it snows.

RABBITS SHEARING down the tulip pips? Dilute two tablespoons of nicotine sulphate in one gallon of water and spray every 10 days to two weeks, plus after a rain. Bye-bye bunny. (And forget the old wives' tales about moth balls, aluminum foil and mason jars.)

Are you a newcomer to the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show? You'll get much more out of a trip there, and you won't be quite so overpowered by the scope of the colorful, floral blur if you concentrate on your main area of interest — be it home landscaping ideas, plantmanship how-to's, Cecil B. DeMille spectaculars or appreciation of particular plants.

AMATEUR HORTICULTURALISTS score greenie points if they catch the subtle uses of astilbe, dusty miller, primroses, ivy, black-eyed Susans, coleus, flowering crabs, espaliered apple trees. You can learn how to cure and prepare herbs for the kitchen at the University of Illinois exhibit. Wild-flower enthusiasts at the Forest Preserve District's "Song of the Earth" display may want to study the trillium, bloodroot, Dutchman's breeches, jack-in-the-pulpit, and hepatica. And please, don't pick the skunk cabbage! (The show runs through Sunday.)

Sunday also heralds the shopping season for gladiolus buffs. The Illinois Glad Society will stage its annual bulb auction downstairs in Randhurst at 1 p.m. For the scoop on the latest, most popular show stock plus purchases for a pittance, Town Hall beckons.

Paper Capers Gardeners who want to hang onto a little nostalgia can paper their walls with Ferry Seed Co. antique posters reproduced from 1891 engravings. The 13 by 24-inch posters cost 50 cents together with five seed packet tops to Ferry Morse. Address given on request to Reader's Service 394-2300.

While many people will be spraying their yards for bugs this season, Rachel Carson-type gardeners are adamant against chemicals. Especially for them, egg cases of preying mantis and lady bugs are being sold locally as a project of the Garden Club of Illinois Scholarship Fund. These aphid-eating insects are gaining a good public relations image as the balance-of-nature answer to eliminating the rose pest problem.

EGG SHELL ART

by MARILYN HALLMAN

Turn Easter egg shells into a pretty picture! After removing the colored shells, soak them in hot water. When the water cools, remove the thin skin inside the pieces of shell and let them dry. Break them into small pieces.

Sketch your design on a piece of construction paper cut to fit the foam tray from a package of meat. Use large areas of color rather than small details. Spread white glue on one part of your sketch. Press on pieces of shell. Tweezers may help you get the pieces in just the right place. Complete one small area at a time. When your picture is done, glue in into the meat tray.

To hang your picture, tie yarn or ribbon through two holes poked in the top edge of your "frame."

Couple Married on Holiday

Since Sgt. Bradley Schroeder is serving in the nation's armed forces, it seems fitting that he and Ginger Rateike were married on a national holiday, George Washington's Birthday. Sgt. Bradley, who has just returned from Vietnam, where he served with the 199th Light Infantry Brigade, is now stationed at Fort Polk, La., and he and his bride, are now residing in nearby Leesville.

Both are graduates of Arlington High School. Ginger is the daughter of the George Rateikes, 1117 N. Pine Court, Arlington Heights, and Bradley is the son of the Robert F. Schroeders, 303 Pine St., Arlington Heights.

Their Feb. 22 wedding took place in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, with Rev. Robert O. Bartz officiating. White carnations and gladioli decorated the altar for the 5 o'clock, double ring service which was followed by a reception in the Arlington Heights VFW Post 861.

FOR HER MARRIAGE, Ginger chose a floor-length empire sheath gown of white organza over taffeta, fashioned with long sleeves. The bodice and the bottom of the skirt were of Alencon lace with crystals and seed pearls and the gown featured a long train that formed a bustle for the reception.

Mr. Rateike gave his daughter in marriage.

Donna Rateike of Arlington Heights served her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Jean Noll and Susan Reckwerdt, also of Arlington Heights. Their floor-length gowns were of red velvet, fashioned with long sleeves and peau de soie trains. Red satin hair bows, opal pendants and red roses on white fur muffs completed their ensembles.

The bride's 5-year-old sister, Trudi Ann, served as flower girl. She was also in red velvet and carried a white muff with red roses.

Sgt. and Mrs. Bradley Schroeder

MRS. RATEIKE chose a floor-length pink brocade gown to receive the 250 guests and Mrs. Schroeder chose a floor-length light blue crepe. Both mothers had white orchid corsages.

Rick Scheibe of Topeka, Kan., served as the groom's best man. Mike Peterson of Palatine and John Lightner of Niles were ushers.

The new Mrs. Schroeder attended Wisconsin State University and Harper College and until her marriage, was employed by Fred Finer Foods.

The couple honeymooned in New Orleans.

THE PADDOCK BILLBOARD

Ingmar Bergman 'Builds Bridges'

by KAA ENEBERG
STOCKHOLM (UPI) —The argument between famous director and young actor is not private. Beyond the footlights is an audience.

"Should I have blood on my hands?" asks Tommy Berggren.
"No, that's for the audience to imagine," replies Ingmar Bergman.
"But I feel sure they want to see blood!"

Bergman, 50, swivels around on his small chair to face a clutch of housewives, students, old age pensioners and others in the theater's best seats.

"Do you really want to see blood? Then put up your hands," Bergman demands.
No hands are raised.

"If people don't want to see blood, there won't be any," Bergman says with finality. Then he moves on to the next phase of a 30-year-old dream.

BERGMAN, the internationally acclaimed director of 29 avant garde Swedish films that usually trudge through the mind as well as over the body, wants to make intellectual theater less exclusive for the common man.

In rehearsing "Woyzeck" at the Royal Dramatic Theater before anyone who wants to come in and watch, Bergman hopes to "build bridges" between actors and the public.

The audience sees a play develop from casting to opening night performance. Bergman and his actors in turn sound out the spectators to learn what they like—and scorn.

Bergman's idea of "open theater" has captured the Swedish fancy. Between 300 and 400 persons line up daily for free admission to rehearsals. Bergman at first set a limit of 60 spectators but opened the doors to all after seeing the long queues.

"THE RESPONSE has been overwhelming," Bergman happily admits.

Benefit Concert

The sixth annual "Night at the Symphony" to benefit the Augustana Nursery of Chicago will be held at Orchestra Hall April 12 at 8:30 p.m.

The "Pop" concert will feature the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, guest conductor Henry Mazer and violin soloist Young Uck Kim.

Mrs. LeRoy Eilken, 827-3751, is in charge of tickets. Price information may be obtained by calling her.

Proceeds from this concert will benefit a new program at the Nursery that will include a residential study and treatment center for young children with developmental disorders, plus services for their parents.

Bergman said he was nervous the first day of rehearsals, "but after about 15 minutes I managed to forget the audience and could work with the ensemble as usual."

Bergman paused a moment and smiled. "I felt this new idea in theater was a success when I was approached by an elderly gentleman after the first day. He told me he had been to the theater frequently, but this day was for him the greatest of all."

The staging of "Woyzeck" has been a goal for Bergman since he entered theater work 30 years ago as leader of a small student drama group.

He admits to being fascinated by the tragic play about a common soldier, Woyzeck, fighting the injustices of life.

SUPPRESSED by his superiors, Woyzeck is forced to undergo medical experiments. The lover who begets him a child is seduced by a military band leader and Woyzeck eventually kills her.

The play evoked much controversy when first performed in 1913, 86 years after the death of German author Georg Buchner.

Bergman's production will have about 100 members of the audience seated or stage, the rest in the better seats. The upper balconies will be closed. There will be no formal dress rehearsal or opening night, traditional theater events Bergman unbendingly opposes.

Long an advocate of free theater, Bergman has persuaded the state-run theater to drop ticket prices to about one dollar for all seats, the cost of a movie ticket in Sweden.

Around the Corner

Elmhurst College student Cathleen Metkas, of Bensenville, is part of the company of "A Man Dies" to be presented Tuesday, April 1 at 10 a.m. in Hamerschiedt Chapel. The performance is a dramatization of the passion and crucifixion of Christ, with slides of modern day conditions and events being flashed behind the performers to transform the Biblical ideology into terms of today.

Barbara Gegan and Irene Partridge, both of Arlington Heights will participate in the April 11 and 12 open house of the Morton Grove Art Guild at the home of Mrs. P. Hoskins, 7224 Suffield Court, Morton Grove. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Hoskins at YO 5-7225.

County Corner players will present "The Haunting of Hill House" April 25, 26, and May 2, 3.

WALTER BYCINA, Tom McManus and Jeanette Tomiello will appear in Music on Stage's production of "High Button Shoes" April 11, 12, 13, 18 and 19 at Hersey High School.

Sunday, March 30

—Elk Grove Festival Chorus presents "Seven Last Words of Christ," Grove Jr. High auditorium, Ridge and Elk Grove Blvd., Elk Grove Village, 437-0990 or 439-2530 for tickets.

Continuing Events

Opening Show Benefit

The Mongoloid Development Council is sponsoring a benefit performance of Zsa Zsa Gabor in "Blithe Spirit" at Mill Run Playhouse on opening night, Tuesday, April 8.

The Council is an Illinois group of 600 parents of mongoloid children. They hope to join forces with similar groups across the country so that in unity they can find the strength to build permanent homes for their children and to encourage the research that may some day answer the riddles of mongolism.

Robert Mead of Schaumburg, president of the group, is in charge of the benefit. Tickets for the opening night benefit are available at the Mill Run Playhouse in the Golf Mill shopping center in Niles. All sales will benefit the work of the Mongoloid Development Council in helping mongoloid children.

Framing Explained

A demonstration in framing will be the feature for the April meeting of the Mount Prospect Art League. The demonstration will be given by artist Peggy Kuehnle, a graduate of the University of Arizona. The 8 p.m. meeting on Tuesday, April 1, will be held at the Mount Prospect Country Club on Shabonee Trail.

Art League members exhibiting for the month of April are Virginia Smith, Northwest Medical Center; Beverly Galandak, Mount Prospect Oral Surgeons; Denis and Janine Daniels, Mount Prospect Library; Carol Krzyzak, Arlington Realty; Betty Bieg, Welborn Shoes; Crystl Hansen, Mount Prospect Bank; Birdell Wendt, Mae Belle De Moch's Beauty Salon; Fran Boeck, Mount Prospect Hardware; and Mary Bydron, Louie's Barber Shop.

Picture Grouping

Achieving a unified effect is the key ingredient in an attractive picture grouping, according to the Picture and Frame Institute. The Institute suggests building your arrangement around its most important picture, which may be placed in the middle, on the top, or on the bottom of the grouping.

Keep a fairly narrow space between pictures to give a feeling of one mass rather than several separate pictures. The bottom line of the grouping should be even, if possible, and the entire grouping should be balanced so that the eye flows smoothly from one picture to another.

THE MEASURE of the man is taken by Mr. Gottlieb (Bill Richmond) of Harold (Bob Farber) in Masque and Staff's "Harold" playing the last three times this weekend at the Green Tree Inn, Bensenville. Dinner-play reservations can be made at 437-8707 between 4 and 9 p.m.

'Model T' in MOS Show

Music on Stage players are anticipating the use of an authentic "Model T" in their production of "High Button Shoes" to play April 11, 12, 13, 18 and 19 at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights.

The production will offer familiar music and a chorus led by musical director Gordon Palmer. Beth Vandenboom is in charge of choreography. Director Tom Ventress is using many children of M.O.S. members in various chorus scenes. It will be the first time on stage for most of the kiddies.

HENRY VANDENBOOM of Wheeling will play the lead of Floy, the fast-talking con man who sells everything from a "Model T" to swampy pieces of land to the townfolk. The role of Floy was originally played on Broadway by Phil Silvers. Mama and Papa Longstreet, who are "taken in" along with all the others will be portrayed by Dorothy Lea of Palatine and Roy Quid of Arlington Heights.

The costumes, being handled by Pat Sacco of Mundelein will be highly colorful as the plot of the show has its setting in the early 1900's.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling 296-3787, 259-3120 or CL 5-8018.

Zsa Zsa Is Lead

Mill Run is in the swing again. Opening Tuesday, April 8 and running through April 29 will be "Blithe Spirit," starring Zsa Zsa Gabor.

"The Sound of Music," starring Dorothy Collins will echo through the theater-in-the-round from April 29 through May 11, followed by "The Student Prince," May 13 through June 1 and "The King and I," June 3 through June 22.

Directing the musical season will be Robert Bruce Holley, formerly the producer and director of the Starlight Musicals in Indianapolis.

Kurth Comments

by PHIL KURTH

DON RAKESTRAW, diamond coach at Wheaton North, was expounding on the value of baseball and sports the other day. It's an oft repeated story, but one that never really gets old.

"I went to Austin High School," says Rakestraw, "and my goal in life was to be a major league baseball player. I went as far as I could in baseball, spent a couple of years in the minor leagues, and then suffered a back injury that ended my hopes of a big league career."

I was 20 years old and I hadn't even started college. But I did have a goal in mind, and I accomplished the goal I set out for — going as far as I could in baseball. And it did give me something to fall back on, pursuing my education while keeping an active interest in baseball.

"And this is something you have to take into consideration. Many athletes are a dime a dozen — you have one thing, something to fall back on if you don't make it."

"This is why I look at baseball as not only an opportunity to learn certain fundamental skills to carry on in playing ball, but attitudes and character to carry on in life itself."

"I FEEL THAT IF a team can take defeat like they take victory, they've learned something."

"And a big thing in baseball is that size is not necessarily a factor — it's sheer determination more so than in football or basketball."

"There are two stories I always go by: 'First, I look at the life of Stan Musial. They told him when he was 18 to forget it, that he'd never make it. That shows what determination can do.'"

"You set a goal in your mind, then you give it all you have to reach that goal until you determine yourself that you can't make it."

"Inside our team's batting helmets I've printed three words — 'DO IT NOW.' I'm going from the positive approach, that I have confidence in them, that if they give as much as they possibly can, they'll succeed."

Something to think about, not just for athletes but for every one of us.

IF EAST AURORA is the fourth best team in the state, where does Lake Park rank?

It kinda makes one wonder if the much-maligned Tri-County Conference is really as weak and as laughable as the "experts" claim.

The Tomcats sure weren't laughing in St. Charles a few months back. They may have smirked a bit when they discovered that Lake Park was their opening round opponent in the holiday tournament, but that cockiness disappeared fast.

The Lancers, completely unimintimidated and unawed by the touted Tomcats, played as though they were facing other mere earthlings from the Tri-County. Aurora, known for their quickness and their run-and-gun game, attempted to dazzle and wear down the Lancers with their perpetual motion style of play.

Lake Park hustled and fought and ran right with them. At the end of the first quarter it was 26-23 Lake Park. At the half it was 46-43 Lake Park. Heading into the final stanza it was 65-63 Lake Park.

Suddenly the Tomcats abandoned their running, reckless style of play. They grabbed a 71-69 lead and then held on for three full minutes until the Lancers finally committed a foul.

Four points in the final 15 seconds gave Aurora a respectable 84-77 victory margin, but the Tomcats knew full well that it wouldn't have taken much to swing the pendulum the other way.

So if anyone doubts the calibre of play in the Tri-County, give the fourth best team in the state a call. They'll vouch for it.

NEVER MIND THE flaky start. Spring is here! And with it come baseball, tennis, golf, and track, and a renewal of the Milwaukee Bell fight between Fenton and Lake Park.

Each school has 72 Bell points entering the final phase of competition. They will face each other April 29 for a track meet at Fenton and a golf meet at Lake Park. They will tangle in tennis May 1 at Fenton, and then comes the dramatic wrap-up — a diamond doubleheader at Lake Park May 3.

If possession of the Bell hinges on the outcome of those two ball games, look for a full house at Roselle and the biggest double treat of baseball served up in these parts for years.

PAT STAPLETON, all-star defenseman of the Chicago Black Hawks, will be in Bensenville Tuesday for the Bensenville Park District's annual hockey awards night.

Hockey films will be shown, trophies awarded, and refreshments served. Parents are invited. It all gets underway at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the White Pines Golf Course clubhouse.

Bloomingtondale the Best

The Bloomingtondale Bucs beat Wood Dale 50-29 to clinch first place in basketball in the Northwest DuPage Valley Conference. The following week Bloomingtondale won its thirteenth straight conference game to finish the season three games ahead of second place Jay Stream.

The Bucs lost their opening game to Medinah 33-25, but then followed up beating Roselle 32-25, Glen-Side 36-22, Churchillville 45-33, Jay Stream 34-32, Wood Dale 31-25, and Itasca 41-25. In the second round Bloomingtondale got revenge by beating Medinah 36-26 and beating for the second time Roselle 37-29, Glen-Side 56-26, Churchillville 42-22, Jay Stream 43-22, Wood Dale 50-29, and Itasca 36-34.

Rich Horneck led the Bucs in scoring with 238 points. Jim Robertson scored 89 points and Dave McLaughlin 86. Leading rebounders were McLaughlin, Horneck, and Steve Niro. The fifth starter was Laddie Nuedera, a guard, who operated away from the basket. Horneck shot 65 per cent from the free-throw line and Robertson hit 61 per cent from the charity stripe.

Other members of the team were John Boone, Mark Anderson, Robin Abrams, George Coutre, Bob Nerack, and Gary Scheibelein. The team was coached by Erwin Germand.

The Bloomingtondale "B" team coached by Ken Tucker finished with a 5-9 record. Robert Jenkins led them in scoring and Jim Fieditz led in rebounding.

all-star team consisting of Krentz of Addison, Kolar of LaGrange, Biezendorf of Hinsdale, and Heinrich and Hoerich of Forest Park. Of these all-stars, five-foot two-inch Wally Krentz was the leading tournament scorer, both in field goals and free throws, with a total of 42 points.

Addison's Cougars had 11 wins and 13 losses in league play, and a total of 14 wins and 5 losses for the season. Krentz led his team with a total of 259 points this season, setting a new free throw record for St. Paul with 59.

Don Krage, who scored 138 points for the season, set an assist record with 91. Brian Bunge and Bert Baurle led in rebounding, with 238 and 229 respectively. Bruce Frey snagged 128 rebounds and tossed in 83 points, while Dale Hoppensteadt copped 50 rebounds and added 108 points to his team's roster.

What's Happened to Finals?

Something Missing at Tourney

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

IT HAS TO BE THE Assembly Hall. Something has happened to the state basketball tournament, and it must be where the games are played.

As stupendous as a snake swallowing an elephant, the Assembly Hall on the University of Illinois campus is an architectural triumph.

As a place to play the state high school basketball finals, the $8.35 million structure ranks alongside the Grand Canyon.

It's a huge theatre and although more people are able to witness the finals each year, the tournament has been removed from the world of sports and placed in the realm of the theatre.

Every seat in the monstrous mushroom is a good one, although those seated high in Section C, the area above ground level, might be ready for rebuttal. Some of those parked up near the roof agreed they could see, but confessed they had some trouble knowing what they were watching.

Yet, it must be remembered that many of those in the Hall wouldn't have been there if capacity wasn't about 9,000 more than Huff gymnasium, site of the finals for so many years.

It's a pleasure to have a seat — a comfortable seat, armchair comfortable. There are no posts to obstruct the vision and the seats are situated in such a way to give each occupant the impression he is located on line with mid-court.

Seating is in the round and with a pitch so exact that all those sitting in front of you bother you not at all. There is none of the urge to stand up for a better look during exciting moments, although it is difficult to become excited in these surroundings.

And that's where the difference lies between the state tournaments in the Assembly Hall and those that were played in ancient, dirty Huff gymnasium.

This was brought to mind when we expressed our boredom over the 1969 state finals upon arrival from Champaign Monday.

Not everyone who saw the tourney on television felt the same way. They thought it was exciting, or at least more exciting than we did.

That's what prompted our examination on just what makes a tourney exciting. Certainly, Proviso East wasn't an exciting club, but maybe they came off a little better on television. Frankly, they were boring in that spacious gym.

The spirit, the enthusiasm, the atmosphere of state tournament basketball are missing at Champaign. You sit in the Assembly Hall and you feel remote from the action down on the court.

Huff is a gymnasium, the Assembly Hall is a theatre. It looks like a great place to watch the Ice Capades or Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic. But you find it very difficult to become involved with basketball.

Student cheering sections dominated Huff gym. They are lost in the hugeness of the Assembly Hall. What other fate could there be for a group of 1,000 or less in a building with 15,000 others? Student cheering is simply a noise. It scarcely commands notice.

That was particularly obvious Saturday afternoon when Champaign Central and Proviso East battled through an exciting semi-final game. It may not have appeared that way on television because the announcers were close to the cheering sections, but in the vast Assembly Hall it was hardly noticeable that this was a tight game.

We can still remember those state finals at Huff gym where spectators were crammed in uncomfortable bleachers, where the noise was deafening and where if you stood up and cheered you risked losing your seat. But you didn't care. You were swept away with the enthusiasm generated by the action on the floor and the excited teenagers.

It was hot and stuffy but few complained. You could see the expressions on the faces of the kids on the floor; you didn't need binoculars like you do now if you're stuck in certain sections.

Despite all the problems surrounding the games in Huff gym, it remains as indisputable that the people there were more intimately involved in the drama than they are now. They were happy. Their enthusiasm showed.

People at the Assembly Hall are content they are comfortable, but they are missing the old spirit, the spirit that lies gathering dust a mile or so away at Huff gym.

That is what's wrong with the state basketball finals now in Illinois. It's the price of progress and the state tourney has lost something because of it.

Lancer Track Debut Not Bad

If you can't be the best, at least it's some comfort to know you're not the worst.

Lake Park opened their track season Tuesday with a triangular meet (indoors, of course) at Downers Grove, and while they were nowhere near as good as the hosts (who finished first with 69½ points), they were much better than Plainfield (the Lancers had 31½ points, Plainfield 19).

Downers Grove posted 10 individual winners while the visitors led only one top spot apiece.

Lone runner for the Lancers was Jim Mallory who completed the 800 in 2:14.2. Teammate Tom Schlegel finished second to give Lake Park a strong one-two punch in the 800, an event that coach Ralph Krupke figures should be one of the Lancers' strong points.

"I think our middle distances should be our best. We should be strong in the 440, the 800, and the pole vault."

In addition to Mallory, senior Kevin Neis (who finished second in the 440 at Downers Grove) figures to win a few races for the Lancers.

Another veteran, Rich Larson, is an outstanding pole vaulter. "I feel certain he can make 13 feet," says Krupke.

Other returning seniors include Rich Brunton, Dave Osman, Bill Baldwin, Mike Markewycz, and Norm Schaeffer.

Brunton took a second in the shot put, Osman a third in low hurdles and a third in long jump, Baldwin fourth in high hurdles, Markewycz third in the 440, Schaeffer second in the 50-yard dash.

Looking over the squad, Krupke says, "Brunton should be pretty tough in the shot, and Osman is a real good all-round man. We'll use Baldwin mainly in the hurdles and Markewycz probably in the quarter and the relays. Schaeffer could be good in the dash."

"Right now we need a lot of work in regards to conditioning. We're a little behind some of these schools like Downers Grove South that have these indoor meets."

And how does the conference track race shape up?

"I hope to be in the upper three. We're going to have to fight and scratch like heck to get there. Ridgewood, Crown, and possibly Wheaton North should be the best in the league."

A year ago the Lancers finished fourth in the conference. It all depends on how much the veterans live up to their potential, of course, but Krupke is confident his squad can move up a notch or two.

Despite The Snow

Practice Must Go On...

by PHIL KIRTH

The swirling snow and the howling wind took the breath out of Spring.

But it didn't take the heart out of Spring-time and the athletes went on about their training, mindless of the storm's fury. Instead of challenging the weather, they moved indoors.

The scene was the same at Fenton or at Lake Park. Late afternoon found the tennis team, the golf team, the baseball team, busy at work, preparing for the season just ahead. Drills, exercises, exhortations, and reprimands — it was all the same here as it was for athletes in other parts of the country who might be working out doors...

With the necessary exceptions and improvisations, of course.

Netmen playing tennis with a wall, golfers lobbing shots into a net, baseball players sliding into a wrestling mat, taking their practice cuts in an enclosed mesh against a pitching machine.

But the sweat was there, the arms were limbering up, the muscles were loosening.

Hold Mini-Course For Safe Boating

The Skokie Valley Power Squadron, a unit of the United States Power Squadrons, the world's largest civilian, non-profit educational organization devoted to its express purpose of teaching safe operation of watercraft, recently conducted three periods on boating safety and term familiarization at East Maine Junior High School.

The Mini-course is a new concept in the maximum use of available study hall time for seventh graders. The mini-courses are designed as enrichment programs governed by the needs, interests and abilities of the students involved and are voluntarily attended.

Mrs. Audrey Grelling, (Glenview) school coordinator, East Maine Junior High School invited Skokie Valley Power Squadron's participation in the series through the squadron's Executive Officer William Williams and Past Commander Frank Wood, both of Arlington Heights. Williams and Wood presented the near-hour-long class covering boat nomenclature, rules of the road, and general safety topics through the use of charts, diagrams, slides and tapes in addition to discussion techniques. Approximately 250 students attended the three lectures voluntarily.

Skokie Valley Power Squadron conducts free piloting and small boat handling courses to the public in September and January annually.

and the minds were sharpening up for the task ahead. Snowstorms in late March may anger motorists and infuriate sun-bathers, but for high school athletes it's all part of the game.

THE WEATHER OUTSIDE may be frightful but the show goes on inside as the spring sports athletes sharpen up skills in anticipation of another campaign.

New 'Mr. Goalie'

Jeffrey Coghill, a student at Fenton High School, is a member of the Cicero Flyers which is recently won the Illinois hockey championship, and qualified for the National tournament held in Sault St. Marie, Mich.

A goaltender for the Flyers, Jeff will have to meet the likes of teams from Boston, Detroit, Oklahoma and Kentucky in the Nationals.

The Flyers, coached by Bob Andreas, won in final state competition against Wilmette, Beacon, Oak Park, and Northbrook (age group is 16-18).

Jeff is a junior at Fenton and has been a member of various hockey groups and teams for the past few years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coghill of Thorndale Road, Bensenville.

Addison Cage Action

The St. Paul Cougars of Addison, coached by teacher Roger Dull, soundly defeated the LaGrange Eagles in the season's final game on March 12 to tie for second place with Forest Park in the Lutheran School League. The Zion Falcons of Hinsdale scored off with top billing in the conference, forcing the Eagles to settle for third place.

Just ten days earlier, the Addison Cougars took second place in the Lutheran grade school tournament held at Walther High School in Melrose Park, defeating Grace of River Forest and St. John of LaGrange, but losing to St. John of Forest Park. Final tournament standings among the larger Lutheran schools placed Forest Park first, Addison second, LaGrange third, and Hinsdale fourth.

ROGER BENSON has earned his second varsity swimming letter, as well as being elected co-captain for the 1969-70 season. Benson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Benson, 500 Bloomingtondale Rd., Itasca, has set two school records during his two year career at Culver. Benson's records for the Eagles are 1:40.3 in the 160 yard individual medley and 23.5 in the 50 yard freestyle.

On The Pro Tour

Les Zikes, Jr., manager of Beverly Lines in Arlington Heights, knocked down 3306 pins in 18 games and failed to cash in his latest stop on the Professional Bowlers Association tour.

Zikes was competing in the $45,000 Portsmouth Open at Portsmouth, Va. Bowl.

The $45,000 New Orleans Lions Open is this week's tournament stop. The winner will receive $6,000 and it's the last chance for a new winner to gain eligibility for the Tournament of Champions field.

Tommy Tuttle of King, N. C. won the Portsmouth Open with a 202-193 victory over Don McCune of Munster, Ind.

McCune drew splits in the fourth, fifth and eighth frames, while Tuttle doubled in the fifth and sixth and then struck out for the victory.

THE BIG PRIZE! Chances for this 1969 Mercury Cougar are presently being sold by Forest View students to raise money for lighting the football field. By buying tickets, area residents will be both backing a worthy cause and also making available for themselves the enjoyment of Friday night football. Standing next to the sporty hardtop are Ferdie, the Falcon mascot, and cheerleaders Terry Cahill, Karen Young, Linda Gallis, Jill Wybest and Robin Nells, who is holding a demonstration light.

'Y' Boys Splash to Big Win

"When the going gets tough, the tough get going."

The Northwest Suburban YMCA boys swimming team must have recalled this famous quotation as they just nosed out Harvey to win the Blue League Swim Championship, their second overall high point trophy, last Sunday at Thornridge High School in Dolton.

The locals registered 299 points with the runnersup taking 296. The other teams that participated were West Suburban (184) and Elmhurst (85).

Boosters Honor Knights

Sixty-eight varsity athletes and nine varsity managers, plus hundreds of lower level athletes, were honored Tuesday night at the annual Prospect Winter Sports Banquet, sponsored by the Prospect Booster Club. Guest speaker at the banquet was University of Illinois assistant Athletic Director Ray Elliot.

Varsity swimming coach Jerry Lovejoy topped all sports in awarding letters to 21 swimmers and two managers. Receiving varsity letters were: John Atkins, Herb Betts, Kurt Braun, Jim Conway, Rees Evans, Jim Flynn, Jeff Hartwig, Scott Hase, Steve Heilig, Ken Holmes, Craig Hutchinson, Dave Kogut, Dick Mottweiler, Frank Poczatek, Greg Reimer, Robin Render, Drew Smith, Dave Stitt, Tom Vikander, Jim Young and managers Dick Hansen and Mike Ross.

Steve Schmidt, Dave Somers, Bruce Timko, Dan Willis and managers Dan Beck and Mike Dolan.

Varsity gymnastics coach Rich Chew awarded letters to 17 gymnasts and three managers: Terry Beckwith, Mark Bensen, Dick Bever, Ken Boesch, Jay Butler, Don Cerva, Jim DeGraff, Kurt Hendershot, Pete Klein, Dave Mattson, Mike Ossowski, Jon Pohlman, Steve Samp, Bon Todd, John Valentino, Greg White, Ron Wold, and managers Dave Hansen, Tony Heath, and George Spanske.

The varsity gymnastics squad ended the year with an overall record of 11-3, and a conference mark of 7-2, good for second place in the Mid-Suburban. The swimming team posted its best mark ever with eight wins and seven losses. The basketball squad posted an overall record of 5-16 and a conference mark of 4-10. And the wrestlers finished the season with a 10-1 record, 9-1 in conference.

Unforgettable Night

by CHUCK WILLOU

It ended just as it began five months ago — with a night that neither will be nor can be easily forgotten.

It started five months ago — November 1, 1968, to be exact — with the Arlington-Prospect football game, a gridiron tilt that was touted as an earthshaker. But, as it turned out, the Cards were on their way to a perfect 9-0 season, and they were the only ones who did any earth-shaking that night, as they pinned a 34-0 loss on Prospect. An unforgettable night.

And it ended Wednesday night in the Arlington gymnasium with the Prospect gridders and coaching staff turning the tables on their Card counterparts, giving them a night that neither will be nor can be easily forgotten.

THE KNIGHT "Vindicators" — a basketball squad made up of members from that same football team — edged out a narrow 21-20 victory over their Arlington counterparts, while the Prospect coaching staff was fashioning a 47-18 shelling of Arlington's coaches, in a cage tilt sponsored by the Arlington "After The Prom" committee.

The "Vindicators," coached by Prospect hardcourt star Scott Crawford, and the "Birdmen" under the astute guidance of all-state griddier Paul Tollefson, fought it out for 16 minutes in the first half of the game. Then the coaches took over, Arlington varsity cage coach George Zigman at the Card helm and Prospect cage mentor Don Arseneau guiding his talented coaches.

And by the time the game — both halves — was finished, it was pretty well agreed that another unforgettable night had gone down in the record books.

For who could ever forget Arlington's Dan Selleck, an all-conference end, going in for his first layup in the pre-game warmups. Selleck drove in, deftly handling the ball, smoothly releasing it towards the rim—but at about 90 miles an hour? It came down to earth about 25 feet away from the basket.

OR WHO could forget Prospect's Jim Novack, after the "Vindicators" had overcome an initial "Birdmen" lead and worked up a very tenuous 21-20 margin with 35 seconds to go? Novack tried a hook from about eight feet, leaped gracefully into the air — perfect form — except that somewhere along the way he lost the ball. It looked good anyway.

Or who could forget Prospect coach Mike Nissen, towering at least five inches above everybody else on the court, whipping in basket after basket? And teammate George Bork rifling in shots from 30 feet away? They ended up with 11 and 15 points, respectively.

And who could possibly forget Arlington cross country and track coach Bruce Sammoore, with Prospect fast-breaking down the court past him, reaching out in desperation and tackling the dribbler?

And what fan could ever forget the fun he had?

Gore Heads Lions' Golf Returnees

With five men returning off last year's Chicagoland Prep League championship team and a good crop of underclassmen moving in to fill the gaps, Father Patrick Durkin has high hopes for his St. Viator varsity golfers this year.

"We won our own league last year, and having this many good boys back we expect to do it again," Durkin says. The Lions, he feels, have a good shot at recording their best season ever.

The reason for such optimism centers principally around one boy, Andy Gore. "Andy was the medalist in the state district meet last year as a junior," Durkin says, "and I would say he stands a good chance at being one of the area's really outstanding golfers. He's always consistent, shooting about two or three over par."

But Gore is only one of the five returning lettermen, and only one of the four whose scores will count in any meet. Rating right behind Gore as a top-flight prep golfer is senior Ken Mantini, who also earned Father Durkin's praise as a "consistently good golfer."

The other three lettermen — all seniors — who Father Durkin believes will carry the team are Jim Dawson, Don Weber and Ed Vallely. All three, Father Durkin says, alternated on last year's varsity and played well enough to earn a St. Viator letter.

A sixth senior, Terry Brennan, is out for the team for the first time this year, but is expected to do well.

The Lion linksters will also have a good crop of underclassmen swelling their ranks. Juniors Joe Dougherty, Mario Vitelli and Terry Cullen will all see varsity action this year, coming off last year's sophomore team. And then there is sophomore Mike MacDonald who is currently on the soph squad, but Father Durkin expects him to improve enough to play varsity by the time the season ends.

All ten of these boys will be getting their first test of the 1969 — hopefully, weather permitting — Tuesday, April 1, at the Thunderbird Country Club in Barrington against Barrington High, the first meet of the year for both squads.

And if things go the way Father Durkin and his Lion golfers expect them to this year, the Bronchos had better watch out.

Transfer Bolsters Fremd Tennis Squad

To a tennis coach, there is nothing like having a No. 1 player from last year coming back this year — even if he isn't your own.

Fremd's tennis team, coached by Dick Gavigan, will have a No. 1 player from the 1968 season in Randy Siegler who transferred from Maine East.

"The way it looks so far," Gavigan said,

"Siegler might be our No. 1 player."

To go with Siegler, Gavigan has four returning lettermen in Mark Dryfus, team captain and No. 2 player last year, George Manthly, Tom Langer and Bob Stanfield. Also on the varsity team this year will be Fremd's No. 1 freshman player of a year ago, Chuck Weber.

"We have hopes of having a better team this year," Gavigan remarked. "If the boys come through we should have a pretty good team."

Rounding out Fremd's tennis roster will be Gary Davis, Jack Rolfe, Dan Chin and Terry Langer. Gavigan lost only two players from last year's contingent.

The Fremd coach has not yet determined who will be his top three singles players and who will make up his two doubles teams. "We're having eliminations now to determine who will be starting," he said.

Cards Rule Prospect, Fremd

Netting six of 13 firsts and five seconds, Arlington's powerful track squad swept easily past Mid-Suburban foes Fremd and Prospect Tuesday night on the Knight indoor oval, collecting 59 points to Prospect's 41 and Fremd's 37.

Leading the Cards to the win was Dave Steele, who picked up his teammates 10 points with a double win in the two hurdle events. Steele led the field in the 60-yard high hurdles in 8.0 seconds, then came back in the 60-yard lows with a 7.5 timing to garner the laurels again.

The other Arlington firsts came on Paul Tollefson's 54-1/2 shot put effort, Sam Wit's 19-6 long jump, Gary Fageron's 12-6 pole vault and the Arlington mile relay's 3:43.3 effort.

In the battle between Prospect and Fremd for second, the Knights captured five firsts and the Vikings only two, but Fremd countered with six seconds and three thirds while the Knights could manage only two seconds and four thirds.

But the five Knight firsts were enough to allow Coach Walt Storm's charges to take second behind Arlington. Leading Prospect was Jeff Meissner with a 6-0 high jump, while teammate Joe Baker was adding a first in the 50-yard dash in 5.8, Dick Paulson was breaking the tape in the 880-yard run in 2:06.2 for first, Scott Szala was posting a 55.0 timing in the 44-yard dash for first, and the 880-relay team was winning in a 1:43.3 clocking.

The Vikings' two firsts came on Dan Pittenger's mile run clocking of 4:30.8 and Craig Stitt's two mile effort of 9:54.4, a fine effort for this early in the season.

In the frosh-soph meet, the three squads shuffled positions but kept the same scores, as the Vikings finished up with 59, Arlington with 41 and Prospect with 37.

Next meet for the three squads is tonight at the Wildcat Relays at Wheeling

"I think Arlington should be real strong this year," Gavigan said, "and Forest View had a good sophomore team and good juniors last year and should be a contender. Wheeling should also be a contender."

Gavigan considers the Chicago suburban area to be the strongest tennis area in the state. "With Arlington, New Trier, Proviso, the Maine schools, LaGrange and Evanston," he said, "I guess you have to say that this area is the strongest in the state in tennis."

Gavigan is not quite sure how well his team will turn out as yet. "After our opener with Glenbrook North," he said, "we should have a good indication."

Now if only a few more No. 1 players would transfer...

Honor Hersey Athletes

Nearly 250 athletes, managers, trainers and cheerleaders were recognized for their contributions to Hersey's winter sports program at a banquet held at the school Tuesday evening.

Presentation ceremonies followed dinner and several speeches including one by special guest Marine Capt. Bill Zadel. Zadel is a former area prep athletic and lactic standout who went on to gain grid recognition at the U.S. Military Academy.

Like his young Hersey audience, Zadel helped open a new high school at Prospect when Dist. 214 underwent one of its first divisions. Prospect also began as a three-year school.

Numeral, certificates and letters were handed out for participation in basketball, wrestling and gymnastics at various levels. Among those receiving varsity awards were:

Cheerleaders: Diane Ball, Sue Bastable, Karen Bierdeman, Diane Gaitis and Lyn Newren, letters; Kristy Ludford, numeral; Trainers: Jack Moeller, letter

At Beverly Lanes

Bud Mills Jr. was high scorer this week in the Parkway men's league with 574, including a 226 middle game. Teammate Bob Paddock was close behind with 543. Their Lampert team was able to wrench five points from league-leading Heilmann. The zig-zag battle for first place in second half of competition between Heilmann and Eilering finds Eilering on top again, with a one-point lead, having taken five from Wist.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

THE 2500TH HOME sold by Campanelli Bros. in their Weathersfield subdivision in Schaumburg is the Standish model. It sells for $27,000.

Weathersfield Boom — 2,500th Home

Campanelli Bros. has sold its 2,500th home in the firm's Weathersfield development in Schaumburg. The sale puts the builder past the half-way point in his ultimate goal of 4,000 homes for the subdivision, now into its 10th unit.

Estimating the average family size at five, Alfred Campanelli, president of the building firm, estimated the community's population at approximately 12,000.

One of the reasons for Weathersfield's appeal and success, Campanelli explained, is that "our customers don't just buy a home. A complete modern community goes with each purchase."

Weathersfield has its own churches (The Catholic archdiocese has completed a new church and school in Weathersfield), shopping industry and municipal government. Yet taxes are comparatively low, the result of a favorable financial condition that has kept the local village tax to a minimum.

Residents also enjoy the facilities of a year-round social and recreational center. Weathersfield's eleven acre Community Center provides an Olympic pool, a cabana clubhouse for members and their guests, tennis and outdoor basketball courts and a recreational hall suitable for parties, banquets, meetings and dances. "It's easy to understand," Campanelli concludes, "why new families are moving to Weathersfield at the average rate of forty per month."

Weathersfield buyers have nine models and sixteen exterior styles to choose from, in a selection of split-levels, ranches and mid-entries ranging in price from $23,400 to $35,000. All of the homes have at least three bedrooms and all are on fully improved lots with a 70-foot frontage, landscaped with trees and shrubs. Both front and back lawns are seeded.

Additional features that go with every Weathersfield home are a concrete drive, gas heat, kitchen tile backsplashes, complete copper plumbing, underground wiring, eye-level oven, counter-top range and stainless steel sink.

One example of the many Campanelli models available is the "Standish," a colonial styled three-bedroom split-level home with two car garage. It features an exterior of rough hewn cedar, brick siding, a private entrance foyer, combined with a houseful of inside attractions, including GE kitchen with eating area, direct entry utility room, two bathrooms, and a spacious family room.

The new model features a large 22' x 13' living room which opens directly to a 12' x 10' dining room and adjacent kitchen, measuring 11' x 10'. A 23' x 15' finished family room on the lower level adjoins a utility room workshop and ceramic tile bathroom and leads back through a stairway into the living room. All three bedrooms and the master bathroom are on the upper level.

Windsor Meadows Stresses Interior

POPULAR MODEL home now drawing visitors to Sleepy Hollow, just west of Dundee on Higgins Road (Rt. 72), is the "Windsor Meadows". Photo indicates the open, well-planned interior — looking across family room, kitchen and dining room. The model group may be toured daily until dusk.

Home-seekers touring the model group on display in Sleepy Hollow, just west of Dundee on Higgins Road (Rte. 72), continue to discover new and interesting details of home design — especially in interior features.

A good example of this appealing treatment of interiors, is the "Windsor Meadows." This eye-catching one-story ranch home, styled in a French Provincial concept, was recently selected for a special article and citation in American Home Magazine. It is one of the several award-winning homes designed by Don Scholz, head of the nationally-known Scholz Homes, Inc.

Plans and features for the "Windsor Meadows" can be altered and modified to meet the particular preferences of purchasers. Among the attractive options are three or four bedrooms, basement, wood-burning fireplace in living or family rooms. Fixtures, panelling and other finish features may also be modified.

The designer's approach to interior details is exemplified in the semi-open planning on the family living side of the home. Here are found "conversation piece" features such as the paneling and beamed ceiling of the family room, and its informal fireplace. The adjacent kitchen can be seen beyond an unusual dividing arrangement of finely-crafted turned posts.

The sunny informal eating area is opposite the U-shaped kitchen. And the formal dining room is at a corner of the house, receiving plenty of natural light via heavy sliding glass doors.

The spacious living room measures nearly 19' in length and 14' in width and may be built with the second fireplace. It is quickly reached by the entering visitor, being located straight back through the centered foyer and front entryway.

The sleeping area makes up the third area of this model. This is reached via a corridor extending past the family bath. Modern lighting, colorful tiling and matching fixtures are found in both the family bath and in the private bath in the master bedroom. Built-in vanities with wide mirrors and medicine cabinets are also featured, and the private bath in the master bedroom is just off a dressing room.

Another plan feature in the "Windsor Meadows," is a sewing and laundry room set between the family room and garage. Here, a handy work counter gets plenty of natural light from the window above it — while, at one side, a large closet provides space for ironing, cleaning and household needs. The powder room is at one end of this area, just outside the family room.

The "Windsor Meadows" and other models in the Sleepy Hollow group are open daily, including Saturday and Sunday, until dusk.

New K Mart Will Open Near Addison

K mart, the discount department store operation owned by the S. S. Kresge Co. of Detroit, will open a 122,885 square foot retail and food store on part of 94 acres west of Addison, under development as a major Chicago area shopping center, it was announced by Gale L. Marcus, Vice President of Commercial Properties, Inc.

Charles L. Schrager Co., a Chicago real estate development firm, has purchased 11 of the 94 acres on the southeast corner of Route 53 and Lake Street from Commercial Properties and will build the store facilities which it will lease to K mart. Construction of the store and parking space for over 850 cars is scheduled for completion in September, 1969 and the store will open in November, 1969.

"This is the first K mart to be built the Addison area," said Robert J. Young, Vice President of Kresge's Midwestern Region. He said that 16 K marts are currently in operation in Illinois, with two more scheduled to open in the fall of 1969.

"We have made exhaustive economic and population surveys of the entire Chicago metropolitan area and are firmly convinced that it is just beginning to realize its potential as a dynamic, growing retailing market," said Young.

The Addison store will include 22,000 square feet set aside for a grocery supermarket and 3,880 square feet for an enclosed garden shop.

Construction of the K mart facilities by Charles L. Schrager Co. is the first phase in development of the property as a major Chicago suburban area shopping center, in said Marcus. L. J. Sheridan & Co. is the exclusive agent for the other 83 acres of the property.

The second phase of development will be construction of two other major department stores, two tire, battery and accessory units of the stores and a mall with parking for 4,100 cars. The two stores, accessory units and mall will cover 728,000 square feet, and are estimated to be completed in the fall of 1971.

The third phase, construction of a third department store to be completed by the fall of 1973, will bring the space total to 1.1 million square feet and parking total to 6,000 cars. A motel with 250 units and restaurants also are projected for the center.

Marcus estimated the value of the land at $5 million and the total value of the shopping center, including land, at $25 million. These figures do not include the value of the K mart building and property.

He estimated population for 1975 in the total trade area which the center will serve at 376,800, and for 1985 at 651,867.

The average median income for communities in the trade area is $9,856 and the average value of homes $19,901, both close to the averages for all Chicago suburbs combined. Total assessed valuation for the trade area is $1,125,555,449, said Marcus, emphasizing the substantial investment already made in the trade area and the projected growth for coming decades.

Complementing construction of the shopping center and continuing land development in the area is a complex of 441 apartments that will be built on land just to the south of the new shopping center by Golden Gate Development Co. Construction of the four- and five-room semi-luxury apartments will begin this spring.

Home Sales Prices Rose 7.1 Per Cent

The median sales price for existing single family homes rose 7.1 per cent between January 1968 and January, 1969, the National Association of Real Estate Boards reported today.

Figures came from the monthly study based on the reports of sales from 120 selected boards of Realtors across the nation to the NAREB Department of Research.

"It's too early in the year to detect the magnitude of the trend" according to Mrs. Catherine E. Martin, director of the department of research. "We'll have to wait until the final figures for the first quarter are in before we begin to look for trends."

The median price for January, 1969, was $21,000 up $1,390 from $19,610 in January, 1968. The study indicated also that the increase for the past several years has been at an accelerating rate. The 1967 figure represented an increase of 3.1 per cent over 1966, and 1968 showed a jump of 4.6 per cent over 1967.

Sales of three-bedroom homes in January, 1969, dominated the report, accounting for 55 per cent of all transactions. Purchase of houses with two bedrooms or less accounted for 20.6 per cent, while those with four or more bedrooms accounted for 24.4 per cent of the total.

By price class, 21.4 per cent of existing single family homes sold during January, 1969, had tags under $15,000 down from 27.6 per cent a year earlier. Homes in the $15,000 to $24,999 category accounted for 42.2 per cent of the total sales, down from 43.4 per cent a year earlier. Those in the $25,000 and up category accounted for 34.4 per cent of the total, a jump from the year earlier percentage of 29.

The number of sales in January, 1969, was 16.4 per cent higher than a year earlier and 22.3 per cent higher than in December.

The highest median sales price by region was reported from boards in the West, $23,320, followed by the Northeast region with a median price of $22,770, the Southern region with a median of $19,730, and the North Central region with a low median price of $18,550.

The Southern region of the country reported the greatest increase in volume of sales for January, 1969, over January, 1968, 34.7 per cent.

Says Tax Change Could Cause Boost in Rents

Substantial increase of rents for many apartments and the drying up of funds to build and rehabilitate desperately-needed low and moderate-income housing would result from a proposal to change tax laws, the House Ways and Means Committee was warned.

Wallace F. Woodbury, Salt Lake City, a vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, testified that a cut-back in accelerated methods of building depreciation for tax purposes would substantially reduce sources of risk capital in the construction industry.

Repeal of the methods, he continued, would require a substantial increase in rent in conventionally financed apartments. This in turn, would hit hardest at the lowest rental levels of the nonsubsidized market and force these families into federally-assisted subsidized projects.

Woodbury, who is also chairman of the Realtors' Subcommittee on Federal Taxation, continued by noting that the effect of an accelerated depreciation cutback or repeal "would prove even more devastating" for the Federal Housing Administration's rental programs for lower-income families.

These programs, while requiring less cash equity than conventional rental projects, could not function successfully with the increases in rents and regulatory maximum rates of return (presently 6 per cent) which would be necessitated by repeal of accelerated methods of depreciation.

Woodbury warned, "The National Housing Partnership, created by the 1968 Housing Act, to harness risk capital for the construction and rehabilitation of low and moderate income family housing, would have to suspend its operations before it is able to embark on its first project."

The termination of accelerated methods of depreciation would result in a sharp cut-back in the construction of residential and commercial structures, Woodbury advised the committee, and concluded,

"Such a result, particularly with respect to residential construction, at a time when the real estate industry's performance is only 60 per cent of the national housing goals approved by the Congress in the 1968 Housing Act, underscores the serious effect of any such change in the law."

Housing Boom Continues In Metropolitan Area

Permits for housing construction in the six county Chicago metropolitan area continued to rise for the 23rd consecutive month according to February statistics recently released by the Bell Savings Survey of New Building.

"According to our survey," said Bide M. Ransom, president of Bell, "permits were issued for a total of 4,519 apartment units and single family homes, over 1,000 more than the 3,495 units reported in January and an increase of 55% over the 2,918 figure of February, 1968."

The number of apartment units for which permits were issued in January and February of this year showed the most dramatic increase, numbering 5,931 more than doubling the 2,904 total of the first two months in 1968.

The number of permits issued for single which permits were issued in February reached a total of 3,186," Ransom noted, "a 91% increase over the 1,670 figure reported in February 1968."

Ransom added that apartments continue to account for more than half the total number of housing units in the six county area. The reported number of apartment units totaled 1,386 in the city of Chicago, 1,227 in suburban towns and 573 in unincorporated areas.

The number of permits issued for single family homes increased slightly from the February, 1968 total of 1,238 to 1,333 this year. The combined two-month total, however, was slightly lower. January and February, 1969, accounted for only 2,084 this year compared to 2,102 reported for the same period in 1968.

The value of all housing construction permits in the six county area reached $63,195,342 in February, an increase of $20,686,784 over last year's figure.

Great-Grandparents Move In

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS Friday, March 28, 1969 Section 5 —9

Great-grandparents have become the first residents at Twelve Oaks Apartments in Arlington Heights. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Riggio of 1107 Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, have 11 grandchildren, and their first great-grandchild, and they're doing this celebrating in their new apartment.

When asked why they moved into Twelve Oaks, after residing in a home for 16 years, Mrs. Riggio replied, "Homes are wonderful places to raise children, but the upkeep for two is just too much. Twelve Oaks offered us an apartment that was roomy enough to remind us of home along with all the luxury conveniences that we so much enjoy."

Some of the conveniences the Riggios consider attractive are wall to wall carpeting in the living room, dining area and bedroom. . . kitchen with resilient tiled floors, modern gas range, double door 14 cubic foot G.E. refrigerator-freezer, stainless steel double bowl sink with disposal unit, formica counters and custom designed oak wood cabinets, bathroom with ceramic tile, mirrored wall areas and cultured marble vanity.

Being grandparents, they are particularly delighted with the swimming pools, private spring lake, sun decks, recreation building, outdoor fireplaces, barbecue areas and tennis courts situated on the 42 acres of landscaped grounds at Twelve Oaks.

"The biggest decision we had to make," continued Mrs. Riggio, "was whether or not to wait for what Marge Taylor, residential manager, called the 'adult' building. At Twelve Oaks you have a choice. There are 'pet' buildings, 'adult' buildings, and buildings preferably for families with children. We finally decided to take the first available apartment in the first building and that's how we became the first tenants. Of course, families have been moving in daily now and we're becoming quite a sociable community."

The Twelve Oaks management presented Mr. and Mrs. Riggio with champagne, roses, and a new broom for good luck.

According to Marge Taylor, the key to happy tenants is to treat them all like they are "first families" which is why she feels Twelve Oaks is being occupied so quickly.

Twelve Oaks, encompassing twelve elevator buildings with 39 units in each, offers one and two-bedroom apartments for $190 and $250 respectively.

Model apartments are on display at Central and Wilke Road in Arlington Heights from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily and Sunday.

GREAT-GRANDPARENTS Mr. & Mrs. Joseph Riggio, first residents of Twelve Oaks Apartments in Arlington Heights, as they enjoy their special reception and housewarming gifts presented to them by the Twelve Oaks management.

Realty Tax Rates Climbing

Tax rates for 1968 reflected in this year's tax bills payable in June and September show an increase in most villages in DuPage County.

Roselle's tax rate is tentatively going up to 7.195 from the 1967 rate of 6.109, according to preliminary figures released Tuesday by DuPage County clerk Ray MacDonald.

The rates are based on each $100 assessed evaluation.

Bensenville shows an increase from 5.964 in 1967 to the new rate of 6.176.

Itasca's tax rate for 1968 is 6.531 opposed to the 1967 rate of 5.942. These figures include only Bloomingdale Township residents.

Addison Township residents of Itasca will pay a 7.195 rate from the previous year's tax rate of 5.841.

THE 1968 RATE for Wood Dale taxpayers is 6.52. The rate for 1967 was 5.721.

Bloomington's rate for 1968 is 6.242 as opposed to the 1967 figure of 5.666.

Addison taxes are different depending in which township the resident lives.

The Addison Township residents of Addison will receive a 1968 tax rate of 6.305. The 1967 rate was 5.734.

Bloomington Township residents living

in Addison will pay the 1968 rate of 7.471. They paid a rate of 6.489 in 1967.

Glendale Heights has a 1968 rate of 6.817. The 1967 rate was 6.111.

Included in the village rates is .400 for Addison Township.

The villages in Bloomingdale Township reflect a .411 rate for township funds.

THE PRINCIPLE RATE totaled for residents living in one of the above villages is a compilation of rates for such taxing districts as fire protection, schools and forest preserves.

The average increase for the entire county is estimated at about 10 per cent.

Addison residents who live in Bloomingdale Township pay the highest average year's tax rate of 5.841.

Roselle and Itasca are among the few villages in the county which are paying higher than $7 taxes per $100 assessed evaluation.

The highest township rate belongs to Bloomingdale Township with a rate of 41 cents. This amounts to an increase of six cents over the 1967 rate.

The Addison Township rate is 40 cents.

Only Wayne Township with 36 cents comes close to either.

The lowest is York Township with a 19 cent rate.

SNOW BLANKETED DuPage County this week at a time when tulips and spring flowers were expected to be blooming. Scene at Itasca Country Club was more

Vote Yes on Parks

Approval of tomorrow's Roselle Park District referendum will enable the development of a needed facet of life in the village.

Recreational opportunity in Roselle could be brought to every citizen regardless of age with the use of the $400,000 in park improvement money.

The park district would develop two park sites with the money according to a well-prepared master plan.

Turner Pond Park and Community Park would be improved to include such needed community items as a swimming pool complex, tennis courts, picnic areas, playgrounds, ice skating, baseball fields and fishing facilities.

COMMUNITY PARK, located east of Roselle Road, west of Prospect Street, north of Walnut Street and just north of Bryn Mawr Avenue, would be the site of the swimming pool complex which could be used year-round.

The pool complex would include two pools with three swimming areas. One area would be for diving, one for swimming and another for instruction of youngsters. The instruction pool would be fenced off from the general swimming area to allow children to play in safety.

Turner Pond Park, east of Roselle Road north of Granville Avenue and south of Devon Avenue, would include a divided pond stocked with game fish.

A fishing dock, play areas, ball diamonds and fields, walking paths and other recreational facilities would be constructed in Turner Park.

An all-weather pavilion with a fireplace would provide a sheltered picnic area in summer and a warming house for ice skaters in winter.

Community Park would also have ice skating and a year-round concession stand.

RECREATION IS AN important aspect of modern living. As more free time is made available with the use of machinery, the need for recreational facilities becomes greater.

Roselle needs recreational development. The only way to get it is to pay for park improvements.

The park district is asking for a one-shot referendum. Park officials have worked out the park development plans for a five-year period to give Roselle most of what it needs.

Further development would be handled with regular park district funds and not cost the taxpayer any more money.

Once it is completed, the entire village would become more attractive to home buyers and businessmen. Real estate values may benefit from this interest.

The maximum cost to the taxpayer, according to park officials, will come next year as reflected by the annual tax bill.

THE PARK DISTRICT'S assessed evaluation of $20 million would be the basis of this year's taxes collected in 1970.

The University of Illinois field service department of recreation and municipal park administration projects that this assessed evaluation will amount to $30 million by 1975.

The taxpayer's annual cost of retiring the referendum's bond issue will reduce proportionally as the assessed evaluation increases.

The cost to a homeowner with an assessed evaluation of $10,000 will be $16.05 in 1970. The cost to the same taxpayer is estimated at $10.70 in 1975.

The referendum merits approval. The citizenry of Roselle can only gain by passing tomorrow's park district request.

A 21-year-old Fenton High School graduate last week became the sixth soldier from Bensenville to be killed in the Vietnam War.

The parents of Spec. 4 Alan F. Marschall, 21, of 216 S. York Road, were notified this week that their son had been killed Friday while at a helicopter landing base near Saigon.

Alan frequently went on helicopter missions, his father, Leonard, related. Stationed with the First Air Cavalry Division, Marschall was responsible for clearing landing zones in addition to volunteering for air missions.

A 1966 graduate of Fenton High, Marschall had been in Vietnam since May. He would have been returned to the States in two months.

Nicknamed the "Swamp Rat" by his fellow soldiers, Marschall "adopted" an 8-year-old Vietnamese orphan whom he fed and taught English, according to his father.

Alan and his friends would take care of the children who sought scraps of food from garbage cans, explained Mr. Marschall.

"He'd wind up giving them his C-rations," said the father, a pressman with the Chicago Tribune. "He got the biggest kick when he played with kids."

Marschall was engaged to Nyla Mosser from River Grove, whom he met while working as a brakeman for the Milwaukee Road Railway. He had planned to go to college and become an architectural draftsman.

In his last letter home, he said, "I can't wait till I get home so I can get things straightened out."

He asked that his mother, Bernice, send a package with cookies, film, KoolAid, paper, envelopes, two pens, and a pair of socks.

Search For 3 Ends

A massive search for a former Bensenville man and two other men reported lost in the Gulf of Mexico has been suspended. Their boat was found last week.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Florida reported the search covered 4,200 square miles, but no trace was found of the men.

William Conover, 60, former owner of Millie's Restaurant, 12 E. Green Street, Bensenville, went out fishing with two other men from Clearwater, Fla., March 1.

The search started when they didn't return home in bad weather.

The boat was found March 20 after the search by 13 aircraft and one surface vessel.

CONOVER AND his wife, Verla, who both lived behind the restaurant, moved to Florida in December, 1967.

Planes flew as far out as 150 miles from shore looking for the 19-foot outboard motor boat which carried the three men.

The men were reportedly fishing for grouper in water about 80 feet deep. The Coast Guard said the search would continue if any encouraging signs were discovered.

"Bill and I had found peace and happiness here we hadn't known for many years," Mrs. William Conover said. "It doesn't seem fair somehow."

Burglary Testimony Ends

The defense rested late Thursday in the case of the People vs. William Langford, a former DuPage County deputy charged with burglary of electrical equipment from the Wood Dale Junior High School site.

At press time, the jury was to have been instructed by the judge following closing arguments by the prosecution and defense.

Langford and Sheriff's Chief Deputy Wayne Shimp were two of the key witnesses who testified Thursday in a day-long presentation by defense counsel Al Marco. The case is being prosecuted by attorneys Patrick Mazza and Michael Fitzsimmons.

Langford was suspended from the DuPage Sheriff's Office in January of 1967, after he was accused of the Jan. 10, 1967, burglary of an electrical equipment trailer belonging to Karl Niedermeyer of Bensenville. Niedermeyer is owner of the W. D. Electric Installation Co. in Wood Dale, and was electrical contractor for the junior high school, then under construction north of Wood Dale.

Shimp, who had been the state's key witness, was recalled to the stand Thursday to testify for the defense.

THE TRIAL is taking place before Associate Judge Leroy Rechenmacher in DuPage County Circuit Court.

Marco announced to Rechenmacher Wednesday that he would be calling Shimp as a defense witness. His purpose, he indicated, was that the prosecution, in direct examination of Shimp, did not permit Marco to explore other issues which he considered a vital part of the defense.

Some of these issues were revealed in that portion of cross-examination which he was permitted to conduct. One of his questions to Shimp was how many times between Jan. 10 and Jan. 20 did Niedermeyer visit the sheriff's office with regard to the alleged burglary.

Shimp said it was "many" times, but was not permitted by the prosecution to add details of why Niedermeyer had paid the visits or what the outcome was.

MARCO ALSO indicated he wanted to explore why Langford was not arrested until February of 1968, although the alleged burglary took place between Jan. 10 and Jan. 12, 1967, and Langford was advised on Jan. 20 or 21, 1967, that he would be suspended from the sheriff's police force.

Much time was taken Wednesday examining and cross-examining Niedermeyer, who spent two hours on the witness stand Tuesday. His testimony Wednesday was confined to a discussion of the inventory of electrical materials allegedly taken, the Marschall is survived by his parents, two sisters, Debbie, 16, and Donna, 13, and a grandmother, Mrs. Alma Harms, 165 S. Mason St., Bensenville.

He will be buried from Geils Funeral Home when his body arrives. Services will be held at Peace United Church of Christ with interment at Mount Emblem Cemetery, Elmhurst.

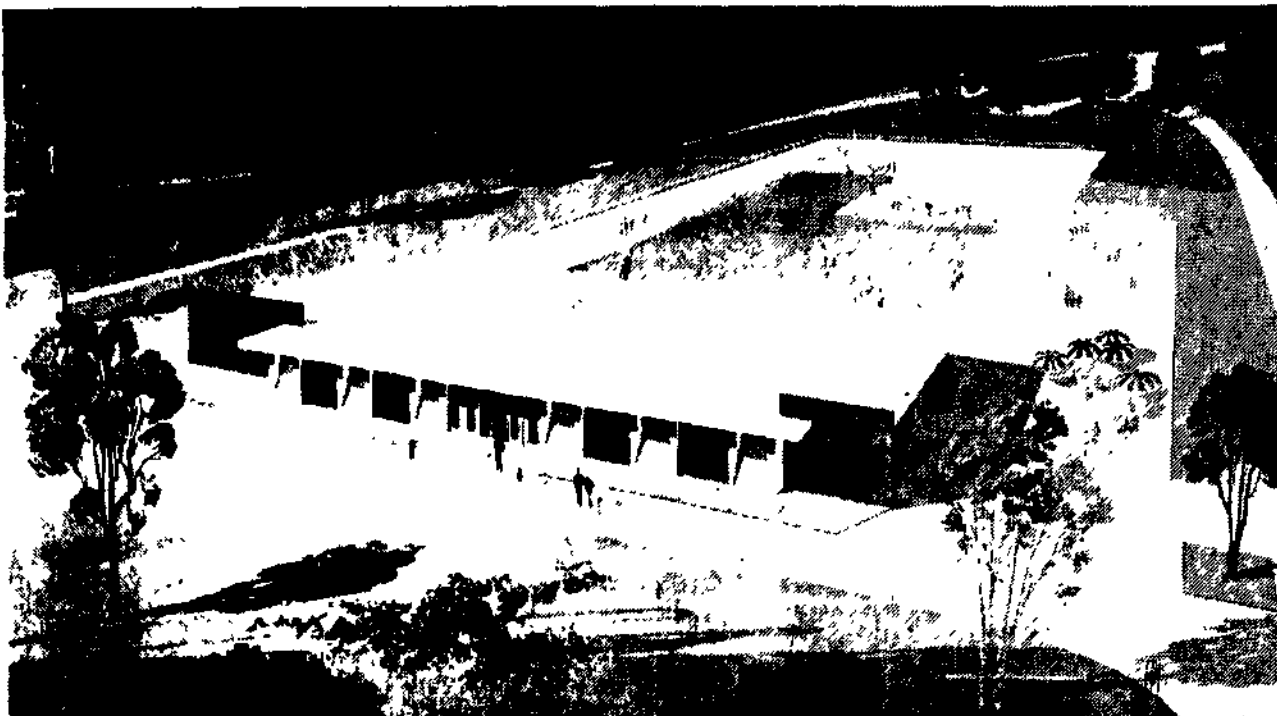

Awarded Star

Richard E. Bellgardt, II, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bellgardt, 624 N. Walnut, Itasca, was recently awarded the Bronze Star for heroism while in Vietnam.

Bellgardt is a machine gunner with the 82nd Airborne Division. He has been in Vietnam since May 23.

His action in combat in January won him the star. In the fighting, his assistant ammunition bearer and a lieutenant were killed.

He graduated from Lake Park High School in 1966 and attended the University of Illinois and Northern Illinois University before being inducted into the Army in December, 1967.

Village Beat

It Costs Money

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Eighteen days from today, April 15, Bensenville residents will be asked to elect a village president, three trustees and a clerk. They'll be voting, that is, if they aren't weary from voting in the township elections April 1, park district elections April 1, and school board elections April 12.

Fred Steding and John Varble have less than three weeks to do all the campaigning they feel will be necessary to get themselves and their parties elected.

Some call it a "campaign" of sorts. A dictionary definition of a campaign is a series of related military (in this case political) operations for a special purpose.

Watching how each candidate goes about it can be interesting.

ON THE ONE hand there is Fred Steding, 55 years old and in business for himself. He's been village president for almost four years. It's something he does not want to give up.

Varble, on the other hand, is 51 years old. Also in business for himself, he is one of the founders of the park district.

Varble says he is running an "old fashioned" campaign. That's one where you get to meet everyone, ring doorbells and make friends. Campaigns sure haven't changed much.

Varble has got the village broken down into zones which will be tackled by groups of workers whose function will be to get out the vote. He also has a headquarters in Brentwood and has hired help.

A mailing of campaign literature is planned a few days before the election in addition to lots of person-to-person contact.

"FRANKLY, I think their minds are made up — unless there are some unforeseen calamities. Don't you?" he asked.

Steding, who is in a more secure position because he is the incumbent and must therefore be considered the man to beat, is going about his campaign a little slower.

He can campaign easily enough by getting things done in the village. He doesn't have to open up a headquarters. He's got one of the best ones there is at Irving Park and Church Roads, the village hall.

The effective day-to-day operation of the village can be a very instrumental campaign mechanism.

Steding, too, will have to go through the traditional campaign bit about reminding the voters what his administration has done. There will be house-to-house visits, posters, mailings and phone calls.

He said he may open a headquarters at the last moment. He may also hire people to help out.

What will a small-town campaign cost and where will the money come from? Neither candidate knows the exact cost. It's bound to be in the four-figure category.

Friends, businessmen and all will be asked to contribute. I can be a sticky thing, that accepting of large contributions. Some of those "friends" will be looking for favors.

I'd like to know how much they will give and who they are, just for the record, of course.

Approval of tomorrow's Roselle Park District referendum will enable the development of a needed facet of life in the village.

Recreational opportunity in Roselle could be brought to every citizen regardless of age with the use of the $400,000 in park improvement money.

The park district would develop two park sites with the money according to a well-prepared master plan.

Turner Pond Park and Community Park would be improved to include such needed community items as a swimming pool complex, tennis courts, picnic areas, playgrounds, ice skating, baseball fields and fishing facilities.

COMMUNITY PARK, located east of Roselle Road, west of Prospect Street, north of Walnut Street and just north of Blyn Mawr Avenue, would be the site of the swimming pool complex which could be used year-round.

The pool complex would include two pools with three swimming areas. One area would be for diving, one for swimming and another for instruction of youngsters. The instruction pool would be fenced off from the general swimming area to allow children to play in safety.

Turner Pond Park, east of Roselle Road, north of Granville Avenue and south of Devon Avenue, would include a divided pond stocked with game fish.

A fishing dock, play areas, ball diamonds and fields, walking paths and other recreational facilities would be constructed in Turner Park.

An all-weather pavilion with a fireplace would provide a sheltered picnic area in summer and a warming house for ice skaters in winter.

Community Park would also have ice skating and a year-round concession stand.

RECREATION IS AN important aspect of modern living. As more free time is made available with the use of machinery, the need for recreational facilities becomes greater.

Roselle needs recreational development. The only way to get it is to pay for park improvements.

The park district is asking for a one-shot referendum. Park officials have worked out the park development plans for a five-year period to give Roselle most of what it needs.

Further development would be handled with regular park district funds and not cost the taxpayer any more money.

Once it is completed, the entire village would become more attractive to home buyers and businessmen. Real estate values may benefit from this interest.

The maximum cost to the taxpayer, according to park officials, will come next year as reflected by the annual tax bill.

THE PARK DISTRICT'S assessed valuation of $20 million would be the basis of this year's taxes collected in 1970.

The University of Illinois field service department of recreation and municipal park administration projects that this assessed valuation will amount to $30 million by 1975.

The taxpayer's annual cost of retiring the referendum's bond issue will reduce proportionally as the assessed valuation increases.

The cost to a homeowner with an assessed valuation of $10,000 will be $16.05 in 1970. The cost to the same taxpayer is estimated at $10.70 in 1975.

The referendum merits approval. The citizenry of Roselle can only gain by passing tomorrow's park district request.

A 21-year-old Fenton High School graduate last week became the sixth soldier from Bensenville to be killed in the Vietnam War.

The parents of Spec. 4 Alan F. Marshall, 21, of 216 S. York Road, were notified this week that their son had been killed Friday while at a helicopter landing base near Saigon.

Alan frequently went on helicopter missions, his father, Leonard, related. Stationed with the First Air Cavalry Division, Marshall was responsible for clearing landing zones in addition to volunteering for air missions.

A 1966 graduate of Fenton High, Marshall had been in Vietnam since May. He would have been returned to the States in two months.

Nicknamed the "Swamp Rat" by his fellow soldiers, Marshall "adopted" an 8-year-old Vietnamese orphan whom he fed and taught English, according to his father.

Alan and his friends would take care of the children who sought scraps of food from garbage cans, explained Mr. Marshall.

"He'd wind up giving them his C-rations," said the father, a pressman with the Chicago Tribune. "He got the biggest kick when he played with kids."

Marshall was engaged to Nyla Mosser from River Grove, whom he met while working as a brakeman for the Milwaukee Road Railway. He had planned to go to college and become an architectural draftsman.

In his last letter home, he said, "I can't wait till I get home so I can get things straightened out."

He asked that his mother, Bernice, send a package with cookies, film, KoolAid, paper, envelopes, two pens, and a pair of socks.

Marshall is survived by his parents, two sisters, Debbie, 16, and Donna, 13, and a grandmother, Mrs. Alma Harms, 165 S. Mason St., Bensenville.

He will be buried from Geils Funeral Home when his body arrives. Services will be held at Peace United Church of Christ with interment at Mount Emblem Cemetery, Elmhurst.

Awarded Star

Richard E. Bellgardt, II, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bellgardt, 624 N. Walnut, Itasca, was recently awarded the Bronze Star for heroism while in Vietnam.

Bellgardt is a machine gunner with the 82nd Airborne Division. He has been in Vietnam since May 23.

His action in combat in January won him the star. In the fighting, his assistant ammunition bearer and a lieutenant were killed.

He graduated from Lake Park High School in 1966 and attended the University of Illinois and Northern Illinois University before being inducted into the Army in December, 1967.

Search For 3 Ends

A massive search for a former Bensenville man and two other men reported lost in the Gulf of Mexico has been suspended. Their boat was found last week.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Florida reported the search covered 4,200 square miles, but no trace was found of the men.

William Conover, 60, former owner of Millie's Restaurant, 12 E. Green Street, Bensenville, went out fishing with two other men from Clearwater, Fla., March 1. The search started when they didn't return home in bad weather.

The boat was found March 20 after the search by 13 aircraft and one surface vessel.

CONOVER AND his wife, Verla, who both lived behind the restaurant, moved to Florida in December, 1967.

Planes flew as far out as 150 miles from shore looking for the 19-foot outboard motor boat which carried the three men.

The men were reportedly fishing for grouper in water about 80 feet deep.

The Coast Guard said the search would continue if any encouraging signs were discovered.

"Bill and I had found peace and happiness here we hadn't known for many years," Mrs. William Conover said. "It doesn't seem fair somehow."

Burglary Testimony Ends

The defense rested late Thursday in the case of the People vs. William Langford, a former DuPage County deputy charged with burglary of electrical equipment from the Wood Dale Junior High School site.

At press time, the jury was to have been instructed by the judge following closing arguments by the prosecution and defense.

Langford and Sheriff's Chief Deputy Wayne Shimp were two of the key witnesses who testified Thursday in a day-long presentation by defense counsel Al Marco. The case is being prosecuted by attorneys Patrick Mazza and Michael Fitzsimmons.

Langford was suspended from the DuPage Sheriff's Office in January of 1967, after he was accused of the Jan. 10, 1967, burglary of an electrical equipment trailer belonging to Karl Niedermeyer of Bensenville. Niedermeyer is owner of the W. D. Electric Installation Co. in Wood Dale, and was electrical contractor for the junior high school, then under construction north of Wood Dale.

Shimp, who had been the state's key witness, was recalled to the stand Thursday to testify for the defense.

THE TRIAL IS taking place before Associate Judge Leroy Rechenmacher in DuPage County Circuit Court.

Marco announced to Rechenmacher Wednesday that he would be calling Shimp as a defense witness. His purpose, he indicated, was that the prosecution, in direct examination of Shimp, did not permit Marco to explore other issues which he considered a vital part of the defense.

Some of these issues were revealed in that portion of cross-examination which he was permitted to conduct. One of his questions to Shimp was how many times between Jan. 10 and Jan. 20 did Niedermeyer visit the sheriff's office with regard to the alleged burglary.

Shimp said it was "many" times, but was not permitted by the prosecution to add details of why Niedermeyer had paid the visits or what the outcome was.

MARCO ALSO indicated he wanted to explore why Langford was not arrested until February of 1968, although the alleged burglary took place between Jan. 10 and Jan. 12, 1967, and Langford was advised on Jan. 20 or 21, 1967, that he would be suspended from the sheriff's police force.

Much time was taken Wednesday examining and cross-examining Niedermeyer, who spent two hours on the witness stand Tuesday. His testimony Wednesday was confined to a discussion of the inventory of electrical materials allegedly taken, the total value of all and the specific cost of each item.

At the conclusion of Niedermeyer's testimony, Rechenmacher admitted the inventory list as evidence, over Marco's objection that "there has been no showing that these are accurate prices."

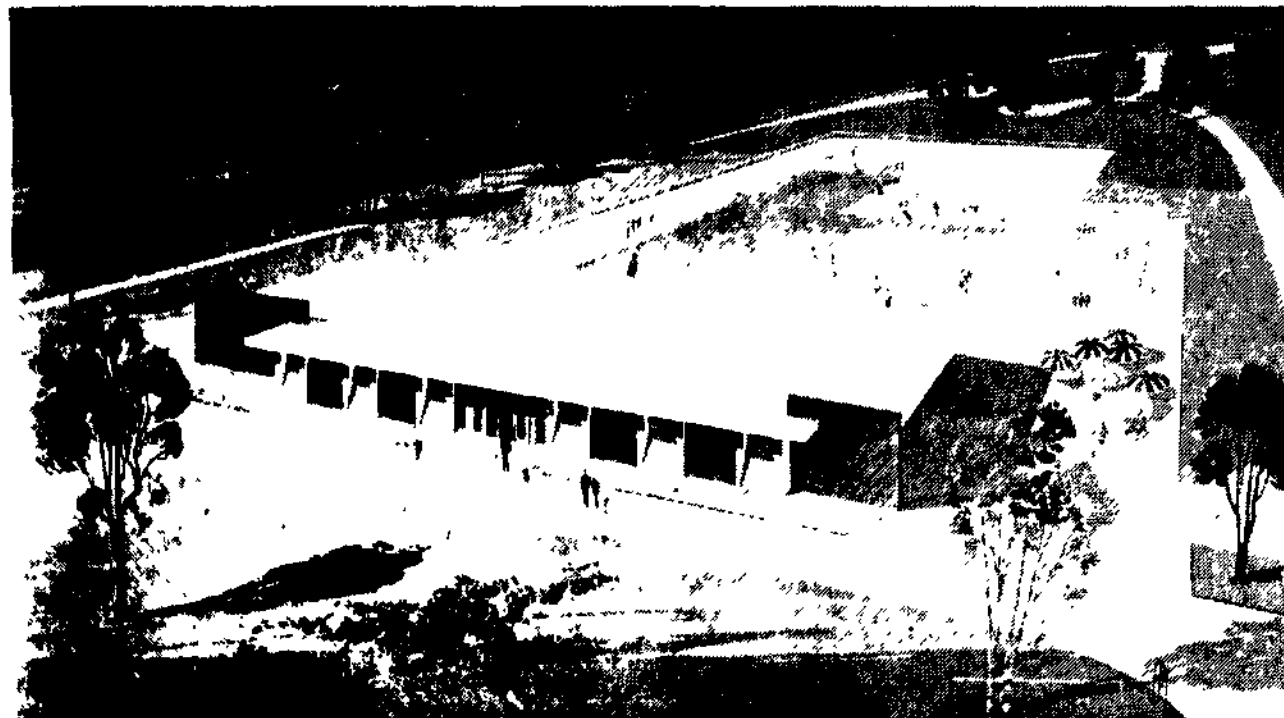

Preceding Niedermeyer to the stand was William Liebhaber of Wood Dale, an electrician who on Jan. 10, 1967, was completing his first year as electrician's apprentice for W. D. Electric Co. Liebhaber periodically added electrical materials to the inventory of the trailer as they were delivered to him, and helped compile the inventory after the alleged burglary.

AFTER THE STATE rested its case at about 4 p.m. Wednesday, Robert Wilson of the sheriff's bureau of identification was called to the stand for the defense.

He testified that he had investigated the burglary scene, but could make no identification of latent fingerprints he found there.

Edward Butler of the Illinois crime lab then testified that paint samples sent him by Wilson did not match paint on a pair of channel-lock pliers allegedly found in Langford's possession.

Rechenmacher admitted Butler's crime lab report as evidence, over the objection of Fitzsimmons.

COMMUNITY PARK POOL would be part of the massive Roselle Park District improvements financed with a $400,000 bond issue referendum up for voter approval tomorrow.

row, Turner Pond Park and Community Park are slated for recreational facilities for tots to senior citizens.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY members preparing for Sunday's pancake breakfast from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at St. Alexis Catholic Church in Bensenville are, from left, Henry Lucas, Norm Sweeney, and Ed Steiner. Admission is $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12.

Village Beat It Costs Money

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Eighteen days from today, April 15, Bensenville residents will be asked to elect a village president, three trustees and a clerk. They'll be voting, that is, if they aren't weary from voting in the township elections April 1, park district elections April 1, and school board elections April 12.

Fred Steging and John Varble have less than three weeks to do all the campaigning they feel will be necessary to get themselves and their parties elected.

Some call it a "campaign" of sorts. A dictionary definition of a campaign is a series of related military (in this case political) operations for a special purpose.

Watching how each candidate goes about it can be interesting.

ON THE ONE hand there is Fred Steging, 55 years old and in business for himself. He's been village president for almost four years. It's something he does not want to give up.

Varble, on the other hand, is 51 years old. Also in business for himself, he is one of the founders of the park district.

Varble says he is running an "old fashioned" campaign. That's one where you get to meet everyone, ring doorbells and make friends. Campaigns sure haven't changed much.

Varble has got the village broken down into zones which will be tackled by groups of workers whose function will be to get out the vote. He also has a headquarters in Brentwood and has hired help.

A mailing of campaign literature is planned a few days before the election in addition to lots of person-to-person contact.

"FRANKLY, I think their minds are made up — unless there are some unforeseen calamities. Don't you?" he asked.

Steging, who is in a more secure position because he is the incumbent and must therefore be considered the man to beat, is going about his campaign a little slower.

He can campaign easily enough by getting things done in the village. He doesn't have to open up a headquarters. He's got one of the best ones there is at Irving Park and Church Roads, the village hall.

The effective day-to-day operation of the village can be a very instrumental campaign mechanism.

Steging, too, will have to go through the traditional campaign but about reminding the voters what his administration has done. There will be house-to-house visits, posters, mailings and phone calls.

He said he may open a headquarters at the last moment. He may also hire people to help out.

What will a small-town campaign cost and where will the money come from? Neither candidate knows the exact cost. It's bound to be in the four-figure category.

Friends, businessmen and all will be asked to contribute. I can be a sticky thing, that accepting of large contributions. Some of those "friends" will be looking for favors.

I'd like to know how much they will give and who they are, just for the record, of course.

Realty Tax Rates Climbing

Tax rates for 1968 reflected in this year's tax bills payable in June and September show an increase in most villages in DuPage County.

Roselle's tax rate is tentatively going up to 7.195 from the 1967 rate of 6.109, according to preliminary figures released Tuesday by DuPage County clerk Ray MacDonald.

The rates are based on each $100 assessed evaluation.

Bensenville shows an increase from 5.964 in 1967 to the new rate of 6.176.

Itasca's tax rate for 1968 is 6.531 opposed to the 1967 rate of 5.942. These figures include only Bloomingdale Township residents.

Addison Township residents of Itasca will pay a 7.195 rate from the previous year's tax rate of 5.841.

THE 1968 RATE for Wood Dale taxpayers is 6.152. The rate for 1967 was 5.721.

Bloomingdale's rate for 1968 is 6.242 as opposed to the 1967 figure of 5.686.

Addison taxes are different depending in which township the resident lives.

The Addison Township residents of Addison will receive a 1968 tax rate of 6.305. The 1967 rate was 5.734.

Bloomingdale Township residents living

in Addison will pay the 1968 rate of 7.471. They paid a rate of 6.489 in 1967.

Glendale Heights has a 1968 rate of 6.817. The 1967 rate was 6.111.

Included in the village rates is .400 for Addison Township.

The villages in Bloomingdale Township reflect a .411 rate for township funds.

THE PRINCIPLE RATE totaled for residents living in one of the above villages is a compilation of rates for such taxing districts as fire protection, schools and forest preserves.

The average increase for the entire county is estimated at about 10 per cent.

Addison residents who live in Bloomingdale Township pay the highest average year's tax rate of 5.841.

Roselle and Itasca are among the few villages in the county which are paying higher than $7 taxes per $100 assessed evaluation.

The highest township rate belongs to Bloomingdale Township with a rate of 41 cents. This amounts to an increase of six cents over the 1967 rate.

The Addison Township rate is 40 cents.

Only Wayne Township with 36 cents comes close to either.

The lowest is York Township with a 19 cent rate.

SNOW BLANKETED DuPage County this week at a time when tulips and spring flowers were expected to be blooming. Scene at Itasca Country Club was more in tune with mid-January when golfers are unable to use the course. Given a few days of warm temperatures, foursomes may be seen again.

Host AFS Student

by JOM JACHIMIEC

Bensenville is one of 2,800 communities in the United States to be receiving "foreign aid" by having a foreign exchange student attending the local high school.

Fenton High School and its students are hosts to a foreign exchange student from Latin America. She is Graciela Oliva, an 18-year-old dark-eyed young lady from Argentina.

Graciela is one of more than 3,000 students from 60 foreign countries to participate this year in the American Field Service (AFS) program established to improve relations between nations.

During her one-year stay in the U. S., Graciela is living with the Frank Guido family of 223 S. May St. She and her "American sister," Judith Guido, 17, are completing their senior years at Fenton High.

GRACIELA IS not the first foreign exchange student to live in Bensenville through the AFS program. Sue Thiraporn of Thailand spent the 1966-67 school year living with the James DiOrto family.

Three years of high school English in Argentina have helped Graciela in her adjustment from a Spanish speaking country to an English speaking one.

However, she credits attending school here and watching television shows as having a lot to do with improving her English.

"English is very hard," said Graciela. "There are so many rules and exceptions."

Her knowledge of English is actually quite good.

Graciela is from Bell Ville, a city of about 35,000 located north and west of Buenos Aires. It is in the province of Cordoba.

Her father, Mario, works in a bank. She has two brothers, one who is studying to be a lawyer, and another who is training to be a military officer. A sister remains at home with her mother.

GRACIELA would like to become a teacher of philosophy in college. Before going on to further studies, though, she must attend school in Argentina until she graduates in December.

High school in Argentina takes five years, Graciela said. Students attend classes there for nine months, from March to December, with a break from December to February for summer vacation.

Asked about some of the other differences that exist between the two countries, she said in Argentina persons 18-years-old are permitted to vote.

Young people there also like to dance, she said, just as they do here. Only in Argentina there are night clubs for teens. Young people also are allowed to drink liquor.

WINE IS consumed in Argentina at lunch and dinner, Graciela said, while noting that she had to make an adjustment to drinking milk in the states.

Graciela's American sister, Judy, said she did not think persons from a foreign country could have things so similar to the U. S.

"It seems Americans are brainwashed that we are the best," she said. "I didn't think they could be so similar."

Burglary Testimony Ends

The defense rested late Thursday in the case of the People vs. William Langford, a former DuPage County deputy charged with burglary of electrical equipment from the Wood Dale Junior High School site.

At press time, the jury was to have been instructed by the judge following closing arguments by the prosecution and defense.

Langford and Sheriff's Chief Deputy Wayne Shimp were two of the key witnesses who testified Thursday in a day-long presentation by defense counsel Al Marco. The case is being prosecuted by attorneys Patrick Mazza and Michael Fitzsimmons.

Langford was suspended from the DuPage Sheriff's Office in January of 1967, after he was accused of the Jan. 10, 1967, burglary of an electrical equipment trailer belonging to Karl Niedermeyer of Bensenville. Niedermeyer is owner of the W. D. Electric Installation Co. in Wood Dale, and was electrical contractor for the junior high school, then under construction north of Wood Dale.

Shimp, who had been the state's key witness, was recalled to the stand Thursday to testify for the defense.

THE TRIAL IS taking place before Associate Judge Leroy Rechenmacher in DuPage County Circuit Court.

Marco announced to Rechenmacher Wednesday that he would be calling Shimp as a defense witness. His purpose, he indicated, was that the prosecution, in direct examination of Shimp, did not permit Marco to explore other issues which he considered a vital part of the defense.

Some of these issues were revealed in that portion of cross-examination which he was permitted to conduct. One of his questions to Shimp was how many times between Jan. 10 and Jan. 20 did Niedermeyer visit the sheriff's office with regard to the alleged burglary.

Shimp said it was "many" times, but was not permitted by the prosecution to add details of why Niedermeyer had paid the visits or what the outcome was.

MARCO ALSO indicated he wanted to explore why Langford was not arrested until February of 1968, although the alleged burglary took place between Jan. 10 and Jan. 12, 1967, and Langford was advised on Jan. 20 or 21, 1967, that he would be suspended from the sheriff's police force.

Much time was taken Wednesday examining and cross-examining Niedermeyer, who spent two hours on the witness stand Tuesday. His testimony Wednesday was confined to a discussion of the inventory of electrical materials allegedly taken, the total value of all and the specific cost of each item.

At the conclusion of Niedermeyer's testimony, Rechenmacher admitted the inventory list as evidence, over Marco's objection that "there has been no showing that these are accurate prices."

Preceding Niedermeyer to the stand was William Liebhaber of Wood Dale, an electrician who on Jan. 10, 1967, was completing his first year as electrician's apprentice for W. D. Electric Co. Liebhaber periodically added electrical materials to the inventory of the trailer as they were delivered to him, and helped compile the inventory after the alleged burglary.

AFTER THE STATE rested its case at about 4 p.m. Wednesday, Robert Wilson of the sheriff's bureau of identification was called to the stand for the defense.

He testified that he had investigated the burglary scene, but could make no identification of latent fingerprints he found there.

Edward Butler of the Illinois crime lab then testified that paint samples sent him by Wilson did not match paint on a pair of channel-lock pliers allegedly found in Langford's possession.

Rechenmacher admitted Butler's crime lab report as evidence, over the objection of Fitzsimmons.

Village Beat It Costs Money

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Eighteen days from today, April 15, Bensenville residents will be asked to elect a village president, three trustees and a clerk. They'll be voting, that is, if they aren't weary from voting in the township elections April 1, park district elections April 1, and school board elections April 12.

Fred Steding and John Varble have less than three weeks to do all the campaigning they feel will be necessary to get themselves and their parties elected.

Some call it a "campaign" of sorts. A dictionary definition of a campaign is a series of related military (in this case political) operations for a special purpose.

Watching how each candidate goes about it can be interesting.

ON THE ONE hand there is Fred Steding, 55 years old and in business for himself. He's been village president for almost four years. It's something he does not want to give up.

Varble, on the other hand, is 51 years old. Also in business for himself, he is one of the founders of the park district.

Varble says he is running an "old-fashioned" campaign. That's one where you get to meet everyone, ring doorbells and make friends. Campaigns sure haven't changed much.

Varble has got the village broken down into zones which will be tackled by groups of workers whose function will be to get out the vote. He also has a headquarters in Brentwood and has hired help.

A mailing of campaign literature is planned a few days before the election in addition to lots of person-to-person contact.

"FRANKLY, I think their minds are made up — unless there are some unforeseen calamities. Don't you?" he asked.

Steding, who is in a more secure position because he is the incumbent and must therefore be considered the man to beat, is going about his campaign a little slower.

He can campaign easily enough by getting things done in the village. He doesn't have to open up a headquarters. He's got one of the best ones there is at Irving Park and Church Roads, the village hall.

The effective day-to-day operation of the village can be a very instrumental campaign mechanism.

Steding, too, will have to go through the traditional campaign bit about reminding the voters what his administration has done. There will be house-to-house visits, posters, mailings and phone calls.

He said he may open a headquarters at the last moment. He may also hire people to help out.

What will a small-town campaign cost and where will the money come from? Neither candidate knows the exact cost. It's bound to be in the four-figure category.

Friends, businessmen and all will be asked to contribute. I can be a sticky thing, that accepting of large contributions. Some of those "friends" will be looking for favors.

I'd like to know how much they will give and who they are, just for the record, of course.

Realty Tax Rates Climbing

Tax rates for 1968 reflected in this year's tax bills payable in June and September show an increase in most villages in DuPage County.

Roselle's tax rate is tentatively going up to 7.195 from the 1967 rate of 6.109, according to preliminary figures released Tuesday by DuPage County clerk Ray MacDonald.

The rates are based on each $100 assessed evaluation.

Bensenville shows an increase from 5.964 in 1967 to the new rate of 6.176.

Itasca's tax rate for 1968 is 6.531 opposed to the 1967 rate of 5.942. These figures include only Bloomingdale Township residents.

Addison Township residents of Itasca will pay a 7.195 rate from the previous year's tax rate of 5.841.

THE 1968 RATE for Wood Dale taxpayers is 6.152. The rate for 1967 was 5.721.

Bloomingdale's rate for 1968 is 6.242 as opposed to the 1967 figure of 5.686.

Addison taxes are different depending on which township the resident lives.

The Addison Township residents of Addison will receive a 1968 tax rate of 6.305. The 1967 rate was 5.734.

Bloomingdale Township residents living

in Addison will pay the 1968 rate of 7.471. They paid a rate of 6.489 in 1967.

Glendale Heights has a 1968 rate of 6.817. The 1967 rate was 6.111.

Included in the village rates is .400 for Addison Township.

The villages in Bloomingdale Township reflect a .411 rate for township funds.

THE PRINCIPLE RATE totaled for residents living in one of the above villages is a compilation of rates for such taxing districts as fire protection, schools and forest preserves.

The average increase for the entire county is estimated at about 10 per cent.

Addison residents who live in Bloomingdale Township pay the highest average year's tax rate of 5.841.

Roselle and Itasca are among the few villages in the county which are paying higher than $7 taxes per $100 assessed evaluation.

The highest township rate belongs to Bloomingdale Township with a rate of 41 cents. This amounts to an increase of six cents over the 1967 rate.

The Addison Township rate is 40 cents.

Only Wayne Township with 36 cents comes close to either.

The lowest is York Township with a 19 cent rate.

SNOW BLANKETED DuPage County this week at a time when tulips and spring flowers were expected to be blooming. Scene at Itasca Country Club was more in tune with mid-January when golfers are unable to use the course. Given a few days of warm temperatures, foursomes may be seen again.

Host AFS Student

by JOM JACHIMIEC

Bensenville is one of 2,800 communities in the United States to be receiving "foreign aid" by having a foreign exchange student attending the local high school.

Fenton High School and its students are hosts to a foreign exchange student from Latin America. She is Graciela Oliva, an 18-year-old dark-eyed young lady from Argentina.

Graciela is one of more than 3,000 students from 60 foreign countries to participate this year in the American Field Service (AFS) program established to improve relations between nations.

During her one-year stay in the U. S., Graciela is living with the Frank Guido family of 225 S. May St. She and her "American sister," Judith Guido, 17, are completing their senior years at Fenton High.

GRACIELA IS not the first foreign exchange student to live in Bensenville through the AFS program. Sue Thiraporn of Thailand spent the 1966-67 school year living with the James DiOrio family.

Three years of high school English in Argentina have helped Graciela in her adjustment from a Spanish speaking country to an English speaking one.

However, she credits attending school here and watching television shows as having a lot to do with improving her English.

"English is very hard," said Graciela. "There are so many rules and exceptions."

Her knowledge of English is actually quite good.

Graciela is from Bell Ville, a city of about 35,000 located north and west of Buenos Aires. It is in the province of Cordoba.

Her father, Mario, works in a bank. She has two brothers, one who is studying to be a lawyer, and another who is training to be a military officer. A sister remains at home with her mother.

GRACIELA would like to become a teacher of philosophy in college. Before going on to further studies, though, she must attend school in Argentina until she graduates in December.

High school in Argentina takes five years, Graciela said. Students attend classes there for nine months, from March to December, with a break from December to February for summer vacation.

Asked about some of the other differences that exist between the two countries, she said in Argentina persons 18-years-old are permitted to vote.

Young people there also like to dance, she said, just as they do here. Only in Argentina there are night clubs for teens. Young people also are allowed to drink liquor.

WINE IS consumed in Argentina at lunch and dinner, Graciela said, while noting that she had to make an adjustment to drinking milk in the states.

Graciela's American sister, Judy, said she did not think persons from a foreign country could have things so similar to the U. S.

"It seems Americans are brainwashed that we are the best," she said. "I didn't think they could be so similar."

Sixth Bensenville Soldier Dies in Viet

A 21-year-old Fenton High School graduate last week became the sixth soldier from Bensenville to be killed in the Vietnam War.

The parents of Spec. 4 Alan F. Marshall, 21, of 216 S. York Road, were notified this week that their son had been killed Friday while at a helicopter landing base near Saigon.

Alan frequently went on helicopter missions, his father, Leonard, related. Stationed with the First Air Cavalry Division, Marshall was responsible for clearing landing zones in addition to volunteering for air missions.

A 1966 graduate of Fenton High, Marshall had been in Vietnam since May. He would have been returned to the States in two months.

Nicknamed the "Swamp Rat" by his fellow soldiers, Marshall "adopted" an 8-year-old Vietnamese orphan whom he fed and taught English, according to his father.

Alan and his friends would take care of the children who sought scraps of food from garbage cans, explained Mr. Marshall.

"He'd wind up giving them his C-rations," said the father, a pressman with the Chicago Tribune. "He got the biggest kick when he played with kids."

Marshall was engaged to Nyla Mosser from River Grove, whom he met while working as a brakeman for the Milwaukee Road Railway. He had planned to go to college and become an architectural draftsman.

In his last letter home, he said, "I can't wait till I get home so I can get things straightened out."

He asked that his mother, Bernice, send a package with cookies, film, KoolAid, paper, envelopes, two pens, and a pair of socks.

Marshall is survived by his parents, two sisters, Debbie, 16, and Donna, 13, and a grandmother, Mrs. Alma Harms, 165 S. Mason St., Bensenville.

He will be buried from Geils Funeral Home when his body arrives. Services will be held at Peace United Church of Christ with interment at Mount Emblem Cemetery, Elmhurst.

Search For 3 Ends

A massive search for a former Bensenville man and two other men reported lost in the Gulf of Mexico has been suspended. Their boat was found last week.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Florida reported the search covered 4,200 square miles, but no trace was found of the men.

William Conover, 60, former owner of Millie's Restaurant, 12 E. Green Street, Bensenville, went out fishing with two other men from Clearwater, Fla., March 1.

The search started when they didn't return home in bad weather.

The boat was found March 20 after the search by 13 aircraft and one surface vessel.

CONOVER AND his wife, Verla, who both lived behind the restaurant, moved to Florida in December, 1967.

Planes flew as far out as 150 miles from shore looking for the 19-foot outboard motor boat which carried the three men.

The men were reportedly fishing for grouper in water about 80 feet deep.

The Coast Guard said the search would continue if any encouraging signs were discovered.

"Bill and I had found peace and happiness here we hadn't known for many years," Mrs. William Conover said. "It doesn't seem fair somehow."

Burglary Testimony Ends

The defense rested late Thursday in the case of the People vs. William Langford, a former DuPage County deputy charged with burglary of electrical equipment from the Wood Dale Junior High School site.

At press time, the jury was to have been instructed by the judge following closing arguments by the prosecution and defense.

Langford and Sheriff's Chief Deputy Wayne Shimp were two of the key witnesses who testified Thursday in a day-long presentation by defense counsel Al Marco. The case is being prosecuted by attorneys Patrick Mazza and Michael Fitzsimmons.

Langford was suspended from the DuPage Sheriff's Office in January of 1967, after he was accused of the Jan. 10, 1967, burglary of an electrical equipment trailer belonging to Karl Niedermeyer of Bensenville. Niedermeyer is owner of the W. D. Electric Installation Co. in Wood Dale, and was electrical contractor for the junior high school, then under construction north of Wood Dale.

Shimp, who had been the state's key witness, was recalled to the stand Thursday to testify for the defense.

THE TRIAL IS taking place before Associate Judge Leroy Rechenmacher in DuPage County Circuit Court.

Marco announced to Rechenmacher Wednesday that he would be calling Shimp as a defense witness. His purpose, he indicated, was that the prosecution, in direct examination of Shimp, did not permit Marco to explore other issues which he considered a vital part of the defense.

Some of these issues were revealed in that portion of cross-examination which he was permitted to conduct. One of his questions to Shimp was how many times between Jan. 10 and Jan. 20 did Niedermeyer visit the sheriff's office with regard to the alleged burglary.

Shimp said it was "many" times, but was not permitted by the prosecution to add details of why Niedermeyer had paid the visits or what the outcome was.

MARCO ALSO indicated he wanted to explore why Langford was not arrested until February of 1968, although the alleged burglary took place between Jan. 10 and Jan. 12, 1967, and Langford was advised on Jan. 20 or 21, 1967, that he would be suspended from the sheriff's police force.

Much time was taken Wednesday examining and cross-examining Niedermeyer, who spent two hours on the witness stand Tuesday. His testimony Wednesday was confined to a discussion of the inventory of electrical materials allegedly taken, the total value of all and the specific cost of each item.

At the conclusion of Niedermeyer's testimony, Rechenmacher admitted the inventory list as evidence, over Marco's objection that "there has been no showing that these are accurate prices."

Preceding Niedermeyer the stand was William Liebhaber of Wood Dale, an electrician who on Jan. 10, 1967, was completing his first year as electrician's apprentice for W. D. Electric Co. Liebhaber periodically added electrical materials to the inventory of the trailer as they were delivered to him, and helped compile the inventory after the alleged burglary.

AFTER THE STATE rested its case at about 4 p.m. Wednesday, Robert Wilson of the sheriff's bureau of identification was called to the stand for the defense.

He testified that he had investigated the burglary scene, but could make no identification of latent fingerprints he found there.

Edward Butler of the Illinois crime lab then testified that paint samples sent him by Wilson did not match paint on a pair of channel-lock pliers allegedly found in Langford's possession.

Rechenmacher admitted Butler's crime lab report as evidence, over the objection of Fitzsimmons.

GRACIELA OLIVA, right, and Judith Guido both attend Fenton High School. Graciela, however, is a foreign exchange student from Argentina and Judith is her "American sister" with whom she lives in Bensenville.

Awarded Star

Richard E. Bellgardt, II, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bellgardt, 624 N. Walnut, Itasca, was recently awarded the Bronze Star for heroism while in Vietnam.

Bellgardt is a machine gunner with the 82nd Airborne Division. He has been in Vietnam since May 23.

His action in combat in January won him the star. In the fighting, his assistant ammunition bearer and a lieutenant were killed.

He graduated from Lake Park High School in 1966 and attended the University of Illinois and Northern Illinois University before being inducted into the Army in December, 1967.

Teen Center Action Ahead

Expect Vote April 24

On the basis of a schedule announced Wednesday night, the Elk Grove Park District probably will take formal action on a proposed teen center at its April 24 meeting.

The park board decided to hold a community forum April 17 at Grant Wood School, following a "dry run" presentation to the park board April 8.

Date selection was made difficult because of current campaigning for municipal, park and board of education offices, all of which will be resolved by April 15.

Park Board Pres. Edward Hauser said presentation of teen center plans will be made by the Elk Grove Teen Council and the center's Adult Advisory Board. He also requested that Elk Grove Police Department Juvenile Officers John Landers or Jay Akely be present to answer questions.

THE SCHEDULING of a date followed discussion on the status of soil boring tests for the proposed site, as well as precise location of the proposed building in Lions Park, near Elk Grove High School.

According to Park Director Jack Claes, representatives of the U.S. Soil and Conservation Service said they felt the teen center could be built in Lions Park, although they noted that it should be elevated several feet due to the Salt Creek flood plain in the area.

It was recommended that the exact location be selected and several soil borings be made in the area to determine construction needs.

After some discussion while huddled around a map of Lions Park, the board decided it would be best to have the project architect determine the placement of the center, and the marking of soil test spots by using stakes.

Claes felt the borings would cost no more than $200, but commissioner David Von Schaumburg said it might be best to get several more tests for suggested future additions to the building.

LATER IN THE meeting, Claes said he knew before the last board session that the Soil Conservation Service wouldn't do the borings and that the park district would have to hire a firm for the job; however, Claes was out of town and apparently other district officials didn't know about the lack of chance for free tests.

Another problem is that of parking around the center, and Von Schaumburg reported tentative approval from Queen of the Rosary Church and School, a teen center neighbor, that after-school hour parking there would be permissible.

So the park board directed that assistance from the church be firm up prior to April 8.

WHILE COMMISSIONERS didn't include it in the timetable, it is evident that they will be prepared to make a final decision on the teen center at their regular April 24 meeting.

Members of the adult advisory group, which had complained about the delays two weeks ago, were absent Wednesday except for Mrs. Paul Gloss, 144 Essex, Elk Grove Village. She gave the board a list of soil testing firms in the area.

JACK CLAES, Elk Grove park director, pondered time and agreed on a community forum regarding a teen center, set for April 17.

Bisner Action Delayed

by GEOFFREY MEHL

A skeleton hanging in Elk Grove Village's municipal closet, the unwelcome problem of Bisner Road, paid a visit to Village Board meeting Tuesday night, playing havoc with the idea of a nursing home for the community.

Before the closet door was closed, trustees agreed to mull over the idea of who is going to pay for the solution of the Bisner Road problem, and to take a look at the skeleton next week.

Hopefully, the board thinks steps can be initiated to solve the problem.

Bisner Road is an 8,000-foot-long creature, bisected by Biesterfeld Road. The northern 4,000 feet, running between Comman Road and Biesterfeld pose no problem, but the southern half is a conglomerate of half-roads, dedications, and plans without right-of-way.

BEGINNING AT Biesterfeld, a "half road" trickles south to Bristol Lane. It is in this stretch that Centex Corp. is dabbling with the idea of a nursing home. The next few hundred feet are along the western edge of the village, between what is referred to on maps as Section 15 and Itasca Gardens.

There is a total of 100 feet of right-of-way is dedicated for a street. Centex Corp., the developer to the east, is somewhat reluctant to build the road, and there's no way the village can force Itasca Gardens to help with the effort. That area is unincorporated, and plans to remain that way.

Then Bisner Road runs into property owned by Joseph Zizzo, the plans for which are another headache to the village. Zizzo wanted into Elk Grove Village to build a multi-family residential complex, but the village board wanted single-family residential and Bisner Road after a look at their master plan.

The owner has since taken his case to the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals, which has heard objections from Elk Grove and Itasca, and at this point, the zoning group hasn't formed a recommendation.

IF THEY recommend for it, at least Elk Grove is prepared to campaign against to the Cook County Board of Supervisors. According to Village Atty. Edward Hofert, at least three-fourths of the county board is required to overrule municipal objections. And if they do, the village is thinking of taking the matter to court.

In the meantime, Bisner Road hangs in the closet.

The latest plans for Bisner involve a proposed nursing home. Having discovered that the village has no zoning stipulations in that regard, they made an ordinance designed to permit nursing homes, with a variety of requirements, to be allowed under special use permits.

After hearing the village plan commission approve of the idea, the board passed the ordinance Tuesday night.

The next ordinance would allow special use for a parcel of land on the east side of Bisner, 317 feet south of Biesterfeld, for a proposed 200-bed nursing home.

This led to a look at the Bisner Road problem, and how it might be resolved. To expand Bisner to a full street from Biesterfeld to Bristol would cost about $26,000, and the plan commission recommended that this be made part of the development package.

SEVERAL WONDERED if the special use zoning should be used as a club to get the street problem resolved, and some thought it was an unrelated issue.

Defeating a motion to table the matter, 4-2, initiated by Trustees Ronald Chernick and Charles Zettek, the board debated nursing homes and Bisner Road for a while, and then unanimously decided to table the matter anyway.

The delay is to permit Centex Corp. time to decide if it is willing to widen the street.

Arguments to have the developer do it include adequate fire protection, traffic generated by visitors to the nursing home, and finding a way to have the Bisner Road problem settled at no cost to the village. Arguments against included traffic to the home being light, and that it would be unfair to condition a zoning variation on upgrading a street, and that it's not fair to hold up zoning because of an existing problem.

Further down the line, the village is hoping Centex will build Bisner along the western edge of Section 15, but Centex argues that its development doesn't need the street and that Itasca Gardens would benefit, too.

FINALLY, OPPONENTS to having Centex do the work note that when Bisner reaches Zizzo's property line, it might wind up to be a dead-end street.

Planning for Bisner carries further than Devon Avenue. Comprehensive plans show it extending all the way to Thorndale, where it will tie into an interchange with I-90, as yet unbuilt.

Keith Lists Achievements

Shifting gears as the Elk Grove Village municipal campaign moved into its final three weeks, mayoral candidate Eugene Keith started listing what he believes to be his accomplishments during past service on the village board.

Keith cited village involvement in the Northwest Municipal Conference, the current youth center, and School Dist. 59 cooperation with the Elk Grove park system.

"My opponents are attempting to label me as a reactionary and indicate that I oppose and fail to understand the value of intergovernmental exchange of ideas and cooperation," he said this week.

Keith, who served as a trustee from 1961-65 and from 1967 to the present, took exception to that label.

"My 1961 platform stated 'make Elk Grove Village an active partner in the Northwest Municipal Conference in order to take advantage of inter-municipality cooperation and also to benefit from the experiences of other communities,' and that this platform promise was implemented when I was elected.

"I WAS THE alternate delegate to this conference and during this time we achieved a Mutual Fire Aid Program."

Turning to more local affairs, Keith said that prior to the formation of the Elk Grove Park District, "as a trustee I negotiated a program with School Dist. 59 for the joint use and equipping of park and school district property."

"I also vigorously supported the joint venture with Dist. 59 which resulted in our only current youth center at Grant Wood School. This was built out of available village funds and without imposing additional taxes."

The comments were Keith's first response to a challenge from incumbent Pres. Jack Pahl to Keith and candidate Robert Fleming to list their achievements.

In the meantime, Keith has challenged Pahl and Fleming to a public debate, but neither seems interested in accepting or formally responding to the idea.

EUGENE KEITH, Elk Grove Village mayoral candidate, began talking specifics in his six-year record as a trustee, supporting NWMC.

KEITH CLAIMS to be a fan of intergovernmental cooperation, to a point.

"What I do oppose is Pahl's attempt to change NWMC and the basic concept of the Council of Governments by advocating full-time paid directors and staff.

"Once started," he said, "they perpetuate themselves and increase supporting personnel to justify their existence. They will merely duplicate existing county, state and federal efforts for which we are currently paying taxes."

But his concern goes further: "I am also concerned that one or both of these staffing programs might be a wedge in an attempt to combine the various suburbs in some sort of a super-political megaburba which would affect our home rule principle and diminish whatever advantage we will eventually realize from our planned residential-industrial tax base."

KEITH NOTED THAT Pres. John Woods of Arlington Heights "has already proposed combining the 10 Northwest suburbs, and I, Pres. Daniel Congreve of Mount Prospect, Mayor Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines, and their respective boards immediately rejected this idea."

He said the concept was turned down because it was "opposed to the best interest of their communities."

"To this date," Keith charged, "Pahl has never publicly rejected this plan, and according to the last report I received, was actually on a committee designated to review the feasibility of this ridiculous scheme."

Keith has until now been campaigning with a lot of unqualified generalities, but is beginning to focus on specifics. He noted earlier this week that he was probing into Pahl's record as a village trustee, and the accomplishments of the village president since he was elected in 1965.

KEITH HAS ACCESS to things past related to Pahl; they both ran on the same ticket in 1965, and Keith was the one of two on the slate who lost.

In recent debate on the Council of Governments, Keith was a staunch defender of the Northwest Municipal Conference as being the better of the two groups.

'Food for Hungry' Week Proclaimed

This week will be "Food for the Hungry Week" in Elk Grove Village, as a result of a proclamation issued by Village Pres. Jack Pahl. Pahl urged residents to support a food drive sponsored by the area Teenage Republicans beginning today.

THE YOUNG GOP group is conducting the drive to collect food for migrant workers in the Northwest suburbs, and Pahl urged citizens "to participate in the food drive and contribute canned goods and other non-perishable foods by bringing them to collection points in schools, churches and village hall."

Food donations are being directed to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Name Parks: Roosevelt, Disney, Udall

Theodore Roosevelt, Walt Disney and Stewart Udall were names applied to new park and recreation facilities in the Elk Grove Park District by the park board Wednesday night.

The park and swimming pool complex adjacent to Lively Junior High School was named Disney Park and Disney Pool to honor film producer Walt Disney, born in Chicago in 1901 and who died in 1966.

In making the suggestion, board Pres. Edward Hauser, noted that Disney was "the world's leading producer of animated cartoons, creating such characters as Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck."

Hauser also noted the variety of nature and conservation films produced by Disney, including the "Living Desert" and "Vanishing Prairie," as well as the foundation of Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif.

THE AREA near Admiral Byrd School was named Theodore Roosevelt Park, honoring the 26th president of the U. S. born in 1858, who as a naturalist, explorer and conservationist dramatized the conservation cause by increasing the area of our forest preserves from 43 million to 194 million acres.

In making the recommendation, Hauser also noted Roosevelt's "extensive hunting and scientific expedition for the Smithsonian Institute in Africa" after leaving the White House in 1912.

At the recommendation of Comr. Daniel Gilbert, the newly acquired park land near Mark Hopkins School was named Udall Park, to honor former Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall.

GILBERT SAID that while serving in the cabinet of Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, Udall "assigned top priority to matters of conservation, encroachment by private industry on public lands was discouraged. The National Park System was expanded and revitalized."

Gilbert also noted that since leaving office in January, Udall has organized a conservation group. "Overview," a pioneer international consulting firm which will work for governments and industries to create a better environment for man."

The Elk Grove Park District names parks to honor conservationists, explorers, naturalists, and leaders in the recreation field.

Will It Work?

by GEOFFREY MEHL

For some months now, I've been dubious about Community Education in the School Dist. 59 area, reserving opinion until I see in what direction it is going. In the course of the past several weeks, I have talked at length to the people connected with the local program, as well as with those in the Wheeling area, and most recently with a representative of Ball State University.

As with most new ideas — "new" because the concept is only six months old in this area — the idea has merits and drawbacks.

The merit to the program, in theory, is that the simple contact of representatives of area agencies, both governmental and non-profit, would assist in coordinating requests and needs of the people in the area.

It would promote cooperation both as a group and among individual agencies in handling needs that cross the ridiculous combination of boundaries in the Dist. 59 area.

THIS COLLECTION of districts and representative government roughly within the Elk Grove Township area is difficult to work with, especially when one is not quite sure what people are in whose jurisdiction.

I see community education as something helpful in dealing with this conglomerate. But I also see drawbacks. It's the usual story of "it's a great idea, but will it work?"

Dr. Curtis VanVorhees, the man from Ball State who is one of the experts on community education, thinks it can work in this area, and he was the first to clearly outline what steps must be taken if the concept is to be practical in Elk Grove Township.

He believes that the agencies should be more actively involved, organizing themselves into a workable crew to handle the variety of recreational, educational, and social needs of this entire "community." He also thinks that at least one person in each neighborhood should be rounded up and help in terms of person-to-person contact.

I agree with him. Community education cannot be lifted out of a textbook and applied to an area like this. It will have to be tailor-made for the township area, and the only men qualified to handle the needle are the current civic and social leaders.

COMMUNITY education is a young idea around here. Don't expect it to be functioning like a well-oiled clock until a lot of groundwork has been laid. But I was somewhat surprised to learn of the limited work done thus far: a few programs started, all of them recreational; a few presentations, all to individual boards; one joint session involving the three arms of government in Elk Grove Village plus Community Services.

But the "coordinating body" and the "study group" of community education has yet to be formed and well tuned, and no real effort in this regard seems to have been made as yet.

I would recommend that at least two sessions, at a convenient time for all and with lots of time available, be held. It should include one representative of all governments within the township, as well as the larger civic groups in the area, including, for example, area Jaycees, Kiwanis and Lions club, churches, and perhaps the district Teachers Council.

The first meeting would be one of theory — to hash out ideas on what all these leaders need, would find helpful, or want. The second meeting would be purely organizational, to get community education out of the textbook and onto the street.

I WOULD ALSO like to see community education completely divorced from any one of the "action agencies," and perhaps in line with imagery and public relations, drop the education tag. It may be education in its most definable sense, but in areas of working effort, it's educational, recreational and social in nature, and its name should reflect it.

Finally, I would like to see cooperation among all area agencies. The idea has its value, and there's nothing lost by giving the idea a try. Community education might very well come out of the mill a lot different from what the textbook prescribes, but at least it would be doing what it wants to do — serving people.

Bakers Help Make Life Richer

by MARTHA KOPER

It takes more than sugar and flour to bake that warm fresh sweet roll you eat in the morning on the way to the train or at the office.

It takes someone getting up in the middle of the night, mixing, molding, and baking in order to have a wide selection of high-calorie breakfasts awaiting the morning crowd that jams our local bakeries as early as 6 a.m.

Shops where fresh baked goods always can be found in the suburban area are not crying for business.

There's something magic about walking into a local bakery and knowing because of the sweet fragrance that the sweet rolls just came out of the oven. Local bakers know this too.

That's why they're in business and why they have become accustomed to working while their customers sleep.

AT THE PALATINE Pastry Shop, Joseph Seidl arrives at his store on Slade Street every morning about 2 a.m. He doesn't leave until three in the afternoon.

"It's nice to be going out at night when everybody else is asleep," he joked.

"After all, that's a baker's life."

And Seidl, who has made his living in a bakery for the past 32 years, certainly knows what a baker's life is like.

Bakers from other local stores closely follow Seidl's routine. Whether they begin work at midnight or 3 a.m. they end up working almost as many hours.

For an obvious reason, bakery owners make sure all their food is fresh in the morning. That's when the sweet fragrance is irresistible.

The majority of Seidl's customers from 6 to 9 a.m. are commuters rushing to the train, but with always enough time to stop at his little shop for a roll or doughnut.

"THAT'S WHY WE have to start baking at 2 a.m.," he said.

A baker's life means many long and unusual hours, but it also means enjoying the work.

"We have to like it, don't we?" asked a baker who specializes in decorating cakes.

There are all types of skills involved in a baker's job. Some of them come easier with years of experience.

Take Charles Danegger of Arlington Heights, who owns the Danegger Pastry Shop located in Arlington Market. He's been in the business for more than 35 years and can decorate a big wedding cake in less than a half hour.

His shop is a true family operation with his wife and son working many hours a day too. In fact, it's a third generation business since Danegger's father began in the bakery business before the turn of the century.

MRS. DANEGGER admits she never dreamed of becoming so closely associated with bakeries, but has no regrets.

"It's interesting work and we meet so many different people," she said.

It's a good feeling to step into a store and have the person behind the counter know what you want.

Indeed most customers know what they want too, because they frequently come just for the "specialty of the house."

At the Palatine Pastry Shop, customers are offered a choice of several German baked goods. As a matter of fact, Seidl started in the trade as a boy living in Germany.

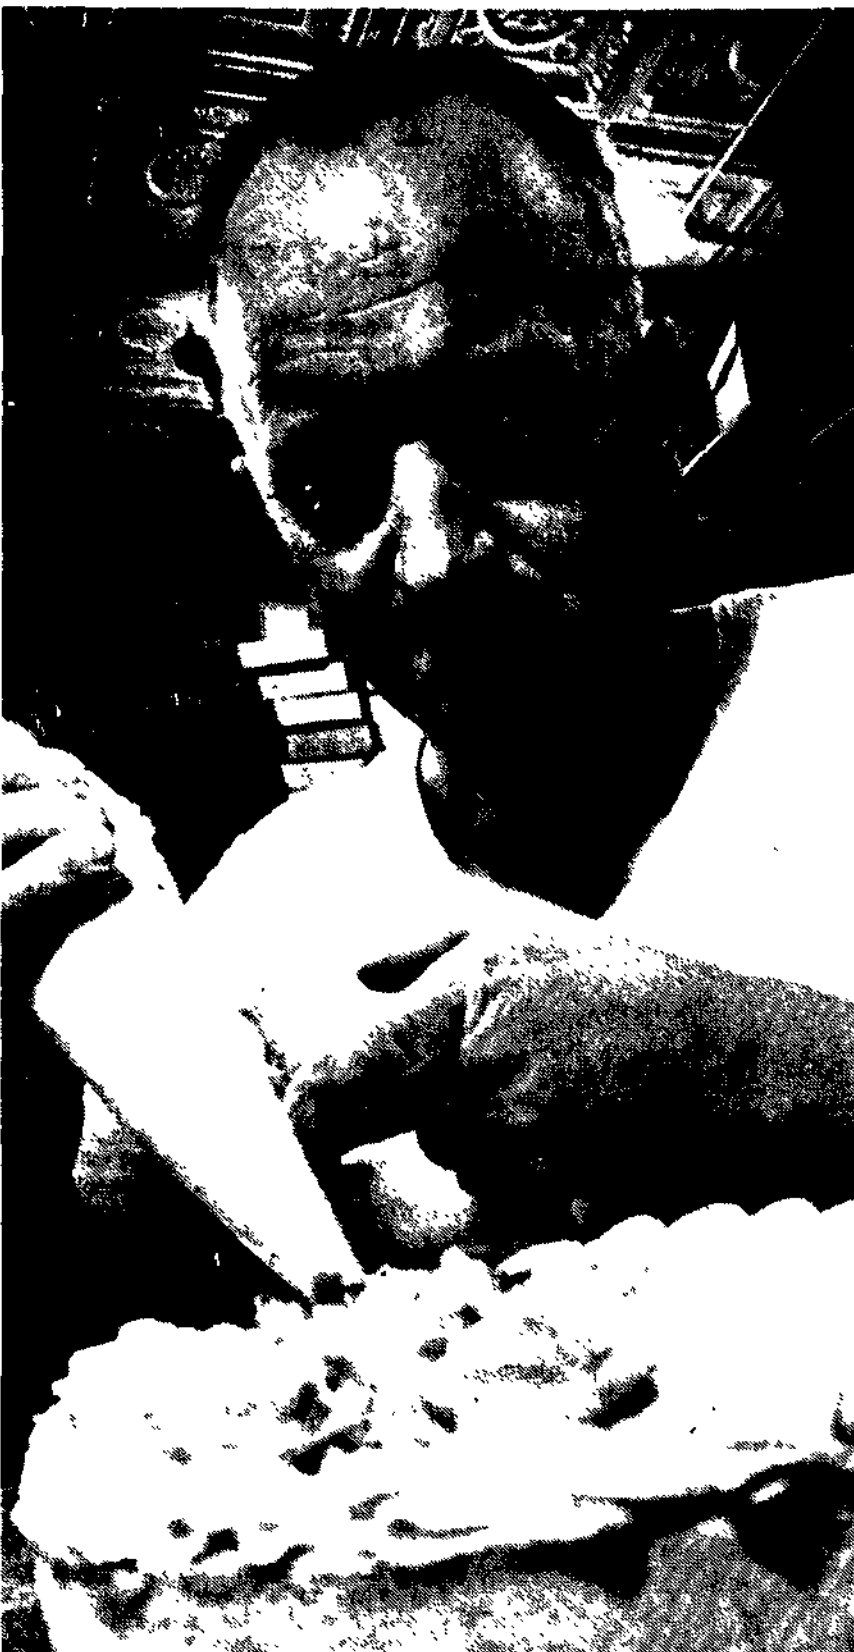

When he came to the United States in the mid-1930's he quickly learned there is a difference between European and American baking.

"AMERICANS WANT everything a little richer," he smiled, "and everything has a look nice."

In Europe, the customers don't care too much about how the food looks, as long as it tastes good," he explained.

"When we bake American, we use more butter," Seidl smiled.

But maybe it's the frequent visits to local bakeries and not the butter that makes Americans look like the best-fed population of the world.

ALMOST LIKE homemade, the fresh and warm baked goods from local bakeries in the area draw scores of customers everyday who smell the sweet fragrances early in the morning from ovens that have been going since 2 a.m.

After being submerged in executive session for nearly an hour late Wednesday night, the Elk Grove Park District floated the position of a superintendent of aquatics to the surface.

The panel returned to public meeting and authorized the creation of the position, with a salary of $11,500 per year.

Park Director Jack Claes said the new administrator will be responsible for operation of the district's two swimming pools, especially Disney Pool.

Land acquisition was also discussed behind closed doors, and later the board passed a resolution expressing interest in obtaining land west of Illinois 53 in a new Centex Corp. development.

INVOLVED IS an offer of about 11 acres of land in a 355-home area for school-park use. It is the park district's feeling that School Dist. 54 should get as much of the parcel as is needed for a school, with the remainder to go to the park district.

Until now, the park board has only had to deal with School Dist. 59 in working out land arrangements, but Illinois 53 serves as the boundary between the two school districts.

Development on the west side of Illinois 53 is expected to double the population of Elk Grove Village. The initial development is known as Section 17.

Charge Dist. 59 Warrants Probe

by JAMES VESELY

A complete audit of School Dist. 59 accounts and a postponement of the April 12 school board election has been called for by an Elk Grove Township political organization.

Members of the Active Citizens Party, a Democratic group trying to unseat incumbent Republicans in Elk Grove Township offices, charged last night that the financial situation in Dist. 59 warrants a complete investigation.

Four members of the political party called for the audit because they said they felt the school district was not being made to account for funds dispersed by Elk Grove Township.

Paul Shanyfelt, candidate for township supervisor, Joseph Cesario, candidate for auditor and Bill Robbins, campaign chairman, made the accusations. Joining them was Chester Chesney, township Democratic committeeman.

THE CANDIDATES and their backers said they would seek a court injunction against the April 12 election, if necessary, to "clarify once and for all what is happening inside the administration of the school district."

The Democratic candidates maintain they have a right to demand the audit and postponement of the election on the basis that Dist. 59 receives substantial funds from township government.

Incumbent Republicans recently announced that the township's aid to local school districts would amount to some $150,000 this year with the release of 50 per cent more funds for educational purposes.

"The Township should be more responsible for their money and demand an itemized budget from Dist. 59 showing the use to which the money is spent," Shanyfelt said.

Ask NASA Aid

A search for 10,000 square feet of space initiated by Robert Waller, science curriculum coordinator for School Dist. 59, has been expanded to include the talents of State Rep. Gene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

The space, sought for a National Aeronautics and Space Administration exhibit of space hardware, and possibly geological specimens of the moon, is needed for six weeks early next year. It must have sufficient facilities to handle an expected attendance of 100,000 persons throughout the display month.

In an exchange of letters, Dr. Donald Thomas, district superintendent, said all arrangements have been made with NASA, but as yet there is no suitable facility available.

HE ASKED Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl, "If there is anything you could do to make it possible for us to use Arlington Park or an appropriate industrial site, we shall appreciate your help."

Arlington Park race track is preferred for the exhibit, but track management is reluctant to participate. Dist. 59 spokesman said.

Pahl passed the word on to Schlickman on Monday, with the note "Would you please get Arlington Park in this COG project?"

The Cook County Council of Government (COG) is supporting the planned exhibit. Pahl also informed Thomas of the bid for Schlickman's help.

NEEDED is a minimum of 10,000 square feet, with 18-foot ceilings, as well as adequate parking and other necessary facilities. The parking situation has eliminated most high school fieldhouses, in addition to the six week block of time needed during the school year.

Waller, who is heading up the local project, can be reached at the School Dist. 59 administration center. He noted that the exhibit is designed for about 40,000 area students, as well as the general public.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $26,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.18 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead.

Save now . . . while you can.

ney also charged that the incumbent township officeholders have an "extremely close" relationship with the school district "which leaves the voters out in the cold."

Although the party spokesmen were reluctant to charge collusion between the township and the school district, they did imply that mismanagement does take place in the school district and township offices.

Shanyfelt and Cesario claimed that no Illinois statute prevents the school election from being postponed until an audit is completed.

Hansen Says ACP Charge 'Nonsense'

Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl Hansen yesterday called "nonsense" the Active Citizen's Party (ACP) charges of collusion between school officials and the local GOP organization.

He said ACP leaders are "grasping at straws in a belated attempt to revive its sinking township slate."

It was Hansen's opinion that ACP activity "has become so misdirected as to confuse these active Democrats as to whether they are running for township or school district office."

THE GOP leader disavowed any Republican activity in school affairs, especially in School Dist. 56.

"Partisan politics in school matters is something the Republican Party in Elk Grove Township has studiously avoided," he said, calling for the ACP to "think twice before they move farther down this road."

Richard M. Hall, campaign manager for the GOP slate, said in response to ACP charges that school funds cannot legally be released to the districts prior to the annual town meeting April 1.

"If the Democratic candidates had more than a passing interest in the offices they seek, they would already know this," he said.

Hall, a GOP auditor candidate, attacked the call for an audit of township contributions to school funds. He said each school district already has conducted audits, available to the public and that township school trustees "are already accountable to their own respective electorates, providing an added check."

IN CONNECTION with ACP's charges of collusion on alleged disruption of one of their meeting dates planned for John Jay School, incumbent Township Supervisor William Rohlwing said, "I had no knowledge of their (ACP) contacts with the school; they could have used the township hall for their meeting if they asked us."

"Once elected, the township officials become representatives of the people, and their political affiliation becomes secondary," he said.

Join to Upgrade Ghetto Forces

by JOAN KLUSMANN
Blackstone Rangers, churches, and womens groups are joining forces to upgrade life in their Chicago ghetto neighborhood.
John D. Purdy of the Chicago Community Renewal Society, sponsors of the five-year project, told the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee at their March meeting the primary objective of the program is to achieve organization in the community.
"These people feel that they have no voice and cannot accomplish anything anyway so in the past they have not discussed mutual problems," he said.
The $3.5 million pilot program takes in a square-mile area bounded by South 35th and 47th streets, Lake Michigan, and Cottage Grove. Legal assistance, housing, education and health are included in the major problems tackled by residents and outside resource persons.

Called "Toward Responsible Freedom," the program attempts to generate self reliance and motivation.
THE RENEWAL SOCIETY, founded 86 years ago to serve newcomers with low-income, now deals primarily with the black community. Purdy said that in the past as one wave of individuals went "up the ladder," the society would turn to meet and work with the next. "But today we are holding hands with people for three or four generations."

He termed the program unique as youth and parents could work side by side to improve the community. "In the past youth programs centered only on the young."
One successful venture to date is local operation of a Shell service station. Purdy said the company put up half the money needed for purchase and the society signed a note for the remainder.

Chuck Gilbert, also affiliated with the society, told the group that the West Suburban Council for Fair Housing has opened an office to deal with housing problems. Rent and staff salaries are financed primarily by the DuPage Industrial Manufacturers Assn.

GILBERT SUGGESTED that the north-west suburban human relations committees get together to explore a similar activity.

Chairman of the society's "Toward an Open Society" program, Gilbert said his committee will work with business, education and church officials to demonstrate how white institutions can change from supporting racism to counteracting it.

He explained that institutional racism operates in a variety of ways to perpetuate inferior conditions for the black community in education, housing and jobs.

6 Candidates Seek 2 Park Board Seats

The two incumbents, Cliff Deverell and James Monroe are seeking reelection. Deverell is president of the district.
THE FOUR OTHER candidates are Wayne Arter, John Pollack, George Ruzicka and Earl Beckner.

Host AFS Student

by JOM JACHIMIEC

Bensenville is one of 2,800 communities in the United States to be receiving "foreign aid" by having a foreign exchange student attending the local high school.

Fenton High School and its students are hosts to a foreign exchange student from Latin America. She is Graciela Oliva, an 18-year-old dark-eyed young lady from Argentina.

Graciela is one of more than 3,000 students from 60 foreign countries to participate this year in the American Field Service (AFS) program established to improve relations between nations.

During her one-year stay in the U. S., Graciela is living with the Frank Guido family of 225 S. May St. She and her "American sister," Judith Guido, 17, are completing their senior years at Fenton High.

GRACIELA is not the first foreign exchange student to live in Bensenville through the AFS program. Sue Thiraporn of Thailand spent the 1966-67 school year living with the James DiOrio family.

Three years of high school English in Argentina have helped Graciela in her adjustment from a Spanish speaking country to an English speaking one.
However, she credits attending school here and watching television shows as having a lot to do with improving her English.

"English is very hard," said Graciela. "There are so many rules and exceptions."

Her knowledge of English is actually quite good.

Graciela is from Bell Ville, a city of about 35,000 located north and west of Buenos Aires. It is in the province of Cordoba.

Her father, Mario, works in a bank. She has two brothers, one who is studying to be a lawyer, and another who is training to be a military officer. A sister remains at home with her mother.

GRACIELA would like to become a teacher of philosophy in college. Before going on to further studies, though, she must attend school in Argentina until she graduates in December.

High school in Argentina takes five years, Graciela said. Students attend classes there for nine months, from March to December, with a break from December to February for summer vacation.

Asked about some of the other differences that exist between the two countries, she said in Argentina persons 18-years-old are permitted to vote.

Young people there also like to dance, she said, just as they do here. Only in Argentina there are night clubs for teens. Young people also are allowed to drink liquor.

WINE is consumed in Argentina at lunch and dinner, Graciela said, while noting that she had to make an adjustment to drinking milk in the states.

Graciela's American sister, Judy, said she did not think persons from a foreign country could have things so similar to the U. S.

"It seems Americans are brainwashed that we are the best," she said. "I didn't think they could be so similar."

Moats Opposes Faculty Union

The Harper Junior College board's new candidate, second-year student Larry Moats of 1982 Algonquin Road, Mount Prospect, came out this week against the college faculty joining a union.

"My theme is not 'student power' but communication," said Moats in a statement to the Herald. "For communication there must be effective and responsible communication between the students, faculty, administration, board and community."

"Formation of a teachers' union at the college would be a barrier to communication," Moats said.

He said a teachers' union "lends itself a labor-management type relationship" which would be "detrimental" to Harper College.

"I BELIEVE the board should do everything reasonably possible to find out why the faculty is examining this possibility and what should be done to deter the teachers' union," said Moats.

"The faculty and administration should work together in harmony in realizing the goals of the school, not against each other as would be the tendency if teachers were to be unionized," he added.

Moats is a neighbor and defender of instructor Edward M. Kallish, Harper instructor who charged violation of his academic freedom after the college decided not to rehire him next year.

Moats denies that this is the reason he is running for the board.

He said he filed because, "as a responsible young adult, I believe I can make a positive contribution to the board and functioning of Harper College as I will be in considerable contact with students, the focal point of any college."

"I BELIEVE my services are unique and would broaden and deepen the overall perspective of the board in a complementary manner," Moats said.

A resident of Mount Prospect for five years, Moats is a graduate of Prospect High School and an honor roll student at Harper. His parents live at 406 S. Wapella.

A member of the student senate, until this January he worked full-time in addition to going to school full-time.

Though he will complete his course work at Harper this spring and transfer to the University of Illinois Circle Campus, Moats says he intends to remain a district resident.

His career goal is education or law.

Edstrom Raps Downey Plans

Eric U. Edstrom Jr., co-campaign manager for Hoffman Estates Party (HEP), criticized a street lighting plan for the village mentioned during a candidates' night recently by Fred Downey, GOP candidate for village president, in a letter received by the Herald this week.

"I'm sorry to hear that Mr. Downey and the rest of the Republican slate are planning to downgrade the village, if they're elected, by installing a mediocre lighting system in town," the letter said.

"Downey's plan of having public service dig in big wooden telephone poles at every intersection with overhead wires running between houses to the power poles in back is just the level of mediocrity we might expect."

"And then to tell us that this blight on our property values is going to cost us $4 a piece per year is adding insult to injury," Edstrom continued.

HE ALSO NOTED that "all of the other towns in the area who are worth their salt at all are trying their damndest to get rid of these very same wooden poles, and we have a candidate for president who says that this is the type he will put in town as soon as he's elected."

"Being interested in a street lighting program myself, I asked Jack Noble (village trustee and HEP candidate for president) what he had planned for the town. His answers were of a caliber which convince me that he was completely on top of the problem," the letter continued.

Edstrom said Noble's program calls for a state highways-approved comprehensive system with metal light poles and underground cables to be spaced approximately 200 feet apart on all streets.

"NOBLE ALSO points out that by building to the state's high standards makes it possible, by a recent decision of the state, to use motor fuel tax (MFT) money for the installation and yearly maintenance costs which means no out of pocket increase in real estate taxes plus a substantial gain in property values," the letter concluded.

Contacted by the Herald for a response, Downey said, "It's nice that Jack Noble is now thinking about street lights after being on the village board for six years."

"The use of motor fuel tax funds is ridiculous because most of those funds have been committed to paying off a bond issue for street repair that was approved several years ago," he continued.

"Much of the rest of these funds were also committed to a repair program planned but apparently never completed," the GOP candidate continued, pointing out that curbs on Pleasant Street where he lives were marked for repair and never fixed. "IT'S VERY good that Mr. Noble is thinking about street lighting programs after the idea was brought out by the other side," Downey added.

"Although this subject was brought up last week at a candidates' meeting, I never specified or outlined the program I have in mind and, in fact, did research on some time ago," he said.

He explained further that he had contacted public service several years ago and was then advised that a street lighting project could be accomplished at an approximate cost of $4 per family per year.

Downey said that his wife, Ruth, had also approached the village board several times with the proposal but received no satisfaction or indication that the matter would be studied.

MRS. DOWNEY, however, was asked to sit on a committee to consider street lighting by Village Pres. Roy L. Jenkins. The group failed to materialize, Downey said.

"I also think it's nice that Noble is now thinking of underground facilities when the subject arose several times in past years and he opposed it while George Seaver (a former village board member) fought tooth and nail for this and never got it through," Downey said.

ALL SERVICE CO. DES PLAINES, ILLINOIS 824-4347

Disconnection of Palatine from the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD) is not considered the solution to the village's mosquito problems.

That's the conclusion of a special village committee appointed to investigate the reason behind swarms of the pesky insects plaguing the village last summer.

In its 18-page report, the group said it would not be advisable to disconnect or dissolve the district.

"A great deal more interest and support would be necessary to accomplish this action properly," it was explained.

BUT BASED on the conclusion that taxes have been paid toward a "mosquito abatement program that has become ineffective and is operated as a temporary control program," the committee said a legal tax protest would be in order.

The committee further recommends that fogging (a temporary control measure) of the adult mosquito be done only upon request of village officials, which appointments are made to the board.

--A request from the village and township government to NMAD for minutes of monthly meetings.

--Appointment by the village of an "observer" to attend meetings of NMAD and request the League of Women Voters also to appoint an "observer."

--The village and township government should request exact information as to the agency responsible for mosquito abatement operations of creeks, streams, rivers, natural lakes and reservoirs.

--The report made by the Palatine committee be made available to all municipalities in NMAD.

A BASIC conclusion of the committee is that there is no control over actions of the mosquito district.

"Until there is some legislation to correct the method by which trustees are selected to serve on this board, we have a form of taxation without representation," the committee reported.

Palatine's village board decided to schedule a committee-of-the-whole session in order to thoroughly review the lengthy report and discuss future official action.

Trustee Wendell Jones said, "The committee is to be commended for such a thorough analysis of the problem."

Other members of the mosquito committee include Richard Dawson, Palatine director of environmental health; Mrs. Martha Loss, Dist. 15 director of health services; and Earl Dalley, a research chemist for Charles Bruning Co. Township Supervisor Howard Olsen also participated in the group's study.

VOTE Republican ELK GROVE TOWNSHIP APRIL 1

WE PLEDGE:

EFFICIENT TAX COLLECTIONS: PAY TOWNSHIP COSTS:

Through effective management, tax collections have increased under your Republican administration. In the past four years collections have risen from 7 1/2 million dollars to over 14 million dollars. Because of the professional business procedures used by your Republican officials, the 2% commission on these tax dollars has paid for all township and general assistance costs and still left excess funds for community services.

Your Republican candidates pledge to continue the efficient collection procedures that have built this exceptional record.

For sound Government vote for the entire Republican team!

Membership Drive

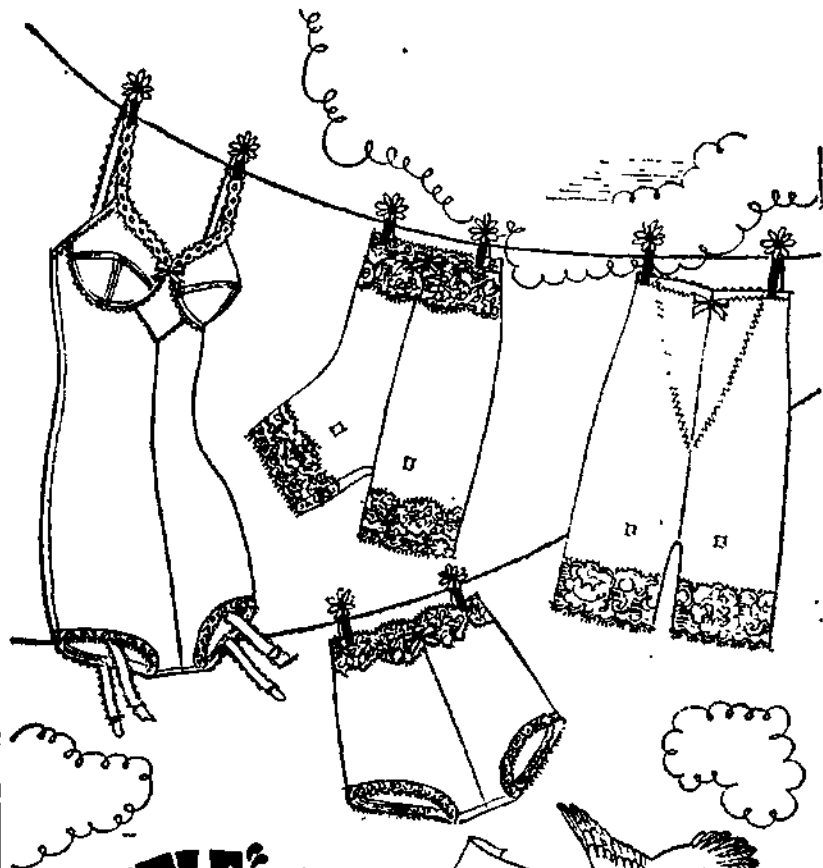

Cocktails, a card party and luncheon will wind up the Elk Grove Republican Women's membership drive at noon April 30 in Des Plaines' Elks Club.

Beginning this week, Membership Chairman Mrs. Jerome Zanca, assisted by Mrs. Philippe Chouinard, are conducting a letter campaign in portions of Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows in an effort to recruit new members. Mrs. Fred Thulin, president of the group, and Mrs. Albert Vidmar are in charge of distributing membership cards.

Ravisloe Country Club in Homewood will be the site of the qualifying round for the 1969 Western Open Golf Tournament.

The announcement was made Wednesday by Boyd J. Simmons, president of the sponsoring Western Golf Association, in accepting the invitation of Ben Raskin, president of Ravisloe.

The qualifiers will be seeking some 30 places in the starting field of the Western Open, which will be conducted June 5-6 at Midlothian Country Club, in the southwest Chicago suburb bearing the same name.

Last year 188 took part in qualifying, with 21 professionals and three amateurs winning places in the Championship field.

Speech May Be Key to 'Disadvantaged'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A Temple University research team is investigating a clue that speech patterns of disadvantaged children hobble their performance in school aptitude and achievement tests.

Dr. Lucene C. Quay, visiting associate professor of education at Temple, said a project she is directing among preschool Negro children in the Head Start program indicates words such as "different," "roar" and "coal" are foreign or confusing to some of them.

She said the children, who are examined individually, are shown illustrations of three cats and a dog and asked to point out "Which one is different?"

"The child often doesn't understand the word different," Dr. Quay said. "If the question is rephrased to 'which one is not the same?' the child understands and makes the proper choice."

She said these children were often puzzled when asked verbally, "What is the difference between a bird and a dog?" They understand, however, when the question is changed to "How is a dog different from a bird?"

Other words, common to the middle-class child yet confusing to the ghetto child, include "roar" and "coal," Dr. Quay said.

"Roar is confused with 'raw' and coal is confused with the weather or the respiratory infection," Dr. Quay said. "These children will understand the word 'puddle' if it is presented to them as 'pool,' their term for puddle."

Because of her preliminary observations, Dr. Quay said it appears that previous aptitude and achievement tests have been "geared to middle class children" and are not "appropriate" in measuring the learning ability of culturally deprived children.

"This suggests some adjustments must be made in the instruments that measure learning ability," the psychologist said.

Dr. Quay, a native of Bogalusa, La., said she undertook the project because "we need to be able to evaluate these children more effectively than in the past. We have to know where we and the children are and where to place them."

"There is a lot of potential among these children and we want to take advantage of it," Dr. Quay said.

3 Elections Set

by MARY REIFSCHEIDER

Hopefully, the rush of pre-Easter preparation and the celebration of Passover next week will not prevent voters in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and other surrounding communities from making the first of three trips to their polling places within a two-week period.

Tuesday, area residents will be asked to cast ballots in park district, township and library board races during daytime hours, and to attend Schaumburg Township's annual town meeting the same evening.

A little more than a week later, the same voters will be asked to choose five out of 15 hopefuls seeking election to the Dist. 54 board of education, fill three posts on the High School Dist. 211 board, and elect a township school trustee.

Three days later, those who live in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg will then trudge back to their neighborhood polling booths to elect village officials.

UNFORTUNATELY, it would be much easier for all concerned if these elections could be somewhat consolidated and held on one day — state statutes permitting. Probably this would also result in a larger voter turnout as well.

Although The Herald will not make editorial recommendations in any of next Tuesday's races, our staff strongly urges each citizen to make his preference for candidates running for offices in each of these governmental offices known.

Eight GOP township candidates are running unopposed and face only one obstacle — an attempted write-in candidacy for the office of assessor being staged by Sigval Thorsen, a Realtor from the unincorporated area of Schaumburg.

Five candidates, representing all areas of the township, are running for four seats on the library's board of directors.

In Hoffman Estates, where a rather uncomfortable situation between the park district and village appears to be settling down, two incumbent park directors are being challenged by six newcomers.

Both incumbents, Edwin L. Frank and Bill McGonigle, joined the board by appointment and are now running for six-year terms on their own. Several of their opponents appear to be strongly connected with Hoffman Estates Athletic Association

Mary Reifschneider

(HEAA) and a third is a former village trustee with park and recreational experience.

ALTHOUGH THE other contenders are, for the most part, long-time residents, their interest in the park district appears to be of recent origin.

On the other hand, the HEAA members are significantly involved in the race, since the athletic group is reportedly in financial difficulty and may be asking the park district to absorb their function in the near future.

In Schaumburg Park District, four candidates (including one incumbent) are running for two six-year terms. A third candidate, also an incumbent, is running unopposed for a two-year term.

Two of the full-term candidates, John Deuss and John Brandenburg, along with Jim Asher, the incumbent, live in Westfield, while the third, Ray Hum, is from Timbercrest.

The other incumbent, Doyle Erkenbeck, from Sunset Hills, was appointed to the board more than two years ago and then elected to fill the term for two of the six years remaining.

WHILE IT WOULD seem preferable that he had run for the entire balance of the term in 1967, he is not facing any opposition this time around.

By this time, The Herald hopes each voter has become acquainted with candidates and issues involved in each of the elections next week and, armed with that information, will go to the polls to vote for those candidates he feels will offer the best representation.

Meet Township GOP Hopefuls

Eight township offices will be filled by Schaumburg Township voters in the April 1 election. The annual town meeting will be held that day also.

On April 1, township residents will cast ballots for township supervisor, clerk, collector, assessor, highway commissioner, and three auditors.

A slate of eight Republican candidates is running unopposed in the township election.

VERNON Laubenstein, 35, 125 S. Westover Lane, Schaumburg, is GOP candidate for township supervisor.

The township supervisor presides at meetings of the town board. He is also the administrator of general assistance (public aid), and treasurer of the general town fund, the general assistance fund, and the road and bridge fund.

Laubenstein, a 1954 graduate of Ripon College, is an executive with Kemper Insurance Co. A resident of Schaumburg for seven years, he and his wife, Barbara, are the parents of four children.

The supervisor candidate is active locally in the Twinbrook YMCA as sustaining membership chairman, and is past president of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

He is a member of Christ the King Lutheran Church.

MRS. KATHLEEN L. Wojcik, 32, 133 Cumberland, Hoffman Estates, is GOP candidate for township clerk.

The clerk acts as secretary to the town board. She is custodian of records of the township and the highway commissioner. In addition, the clerk registers voters living in the unincorporated areas of the township, and supplies them with auto license stickers free.

Mrs. Wojcik, was appointed town clerk in 1968 to fill a vacancy. The mother of two children, she has had seven years experience in secretarial work and office management.

"To help perform the tasks of township government more efficiently, we will be opening a central township office in the Buttery on April 1," said Mrs. Wojcik. The Buttery is an office building in a remodeled creamery on Roselle Road, south of Schaumburg Road.

John Jensen, Walter Wing, and Daniel Stowe are the GOP candidates for township auditor. Their job is to keep an eye on the township's bookkeeping.

Along with the supervisor and clerk, the three auditors make up the town board. Each month the town board approves the township bills.

JOHN A. JENSEN, 28, 149 Dennison Road, Hoffman Estates, was appointed township auditor in 1968. He is a manager in the margin department for Bacon, Whipple and Co., investment counselors.

Besides his wife Diane, Jensen's family consists of a son and daughter.

WALTER "PETE" WING, another incumbent, resides at 535 S. Brewster Lane, Schaumburg, with his wife, Linda, and son. He is a sales engineer for the northern Illinois area with Milwaukee Electric Tool Co.

An area resident four years, Wing has served as a member of the Schaumburg Village zoning board of appeals. He was also a Republican precinct captain in last November's national election.

In a statement on his candidacy, Wing said, "I wish to continue the activities of the committees that I am currently on to better Schaumburg Township, to further educate the electors about what township government is, and to upgrade my office whenever possible."

Wing attended Northwestern University's school of business administration.

DANIEL STOWE, 35, 6833 Highland, Hanover Park, is the third GOP candidate for auditor. He has been a resident of Hanover Park four years.

Stowe attended Valparaiso University and Elgin College, and served as a pilot with U. S. Naval Forces in the Far East. He is an advertising production manager for Creative Displays, Inc.

Stowe and his wife, Rita Marie, are the parents of three children.

RALPH H. LYERLA, 41, is the GOP candidate for township collector. This is the 2 per cent excess commission on locally collected taxes which supplies all of the funds dispensed by the Town Board.

Lyerla was elected township clerk in 1965, and subsequently was named supervisor in 1968.

"After serving as clerk and supervisor, I know how important the job of collector is to all the citizens of this township," Lyerla stated.

"The many services that are offered to township residents depend upon the collector doing a good job of collecting taxes locally, so as to get the excess commissions to operate."

A high school science teacher, Lyerla received his B.S. from Carthage College and his M.A. from Miami of Ohio. He and his wife, Nancy, are the parents of three children: Brad, 14; Amy, 12; and Nora, 9.

Lyerla has served as a Republican precinct captain and a member of the Metropolitan Board of Trustees for the March of Dimes. His hobby is hunting.

SCOTT MACEACHRON, 45, of 425 Glen Lake Drive, Hoffman Estates, is GOP candidate for assessor. He has been active in township government since 1961.

An executive with Visual Systems, Inc., he attended Grinnell, Ia., College and did graduate work at the University of Illinois.

MacEachron is past recipient of the Community Service Award, given by the Suburban Cook County Federation of Community Committees, and is a charter member of Twinbrook YMCA.

The GOP candidate for township assessor has lived in the township since 1956.

RALPH E. WILKENING, 35, Nerge Road, is GOP candidate for Schaumburg Township highway commissioner. He is an incumbent, having been elected to that post in 1961 and again in 1965.

A lifelong resident of the township, Wilkening is a member of the Schaumburg

Loyal Order of Moose and St. Peter Lutheran Church.

As highway commissioner, Wilkening has been responsible for taking care of the township's roads, ditches and bridges.

Dist. 54 Seeks Bond Bids

Dist. 54 plans to solicit bids in the next six weeks for school bonds totaling $1 million.

Consequently, Marvin Lopicola, director of business services, has expressed some concern that high interest rates might impair the district's school building program.

Illinois law prohibits school districts from paying more than 6 per cent interest on school bonds. And many financial institutions are now charging 8 per cent interest on home loans.

A bid for bonds offered by the Evanston school system recently reportedly called for 5.75 per cent interest charges.

Money raised by the Dist. 54 bond sale will be used to complete construction of Jane Addams Junior High and to pay for 14-classroom additions at Anne Fox and Churchill schools.

JANE ADDAMS is scheduled to open in September. The two additions, next phase of a three-year building program, are scheduled for occupancy by Oct. 15, 1969.

The Dist. 54 board of education recently hired the services of Howard W. Voss Associates, Inc., consultants on public finance, in order to obtain the most economical interest rates on the $1 million worth of bonds to be sold.

Dist. 54 hopes to obtain an "A" rating on its pending bond sale. Approximately 18 months ago, Moody's Investors Service lowered the rating of Dist. 54 for bond sales from "A" to "B," next step below an "A" rating.

According to Lopicola, the securing of an "A" rating for the school district would result in saving $12,000 to $24,000 in interest charges.

Several criteria are used to determine the bond rating for a municipality or school district. These include the tax-paying behavior of the district, the percentage of taxes collected, the number of taxing bodies in the area, median family income, and median home value.

Five Running Schaumburg Park Race

Four Schaumburg residents will compete for two six-year board terms in next Tuesday's park district election, while a fifth candidate runs unopposed for a two-year term.

Incomitant James G. Asher, 1802 W. Weathersfield Way, seeks a second term in order to continue work started by the park district. Now serving as vice-president of the park board, Asher feels he would "like to try to help provide more activities and better recreation in line with plans being formulated."

An 11-year resident of the village, Asher, a chauffeur with a Chicago construction firm, was elected to the park board four years ago. He and his wife, Mildred, are parents of Lillian, 12, Myrna, 10 and Gail, 8. A member of St. Peter Lutheran Church, Asher has also been an active member of Weathersfield Homeowners Association, which recently became Weathersfield Civic League.

JOHN F. DEUSS, 41, of 29 Standish Lane, Weathersfield, is also seeking a six-year term as park commissioner. An insurance adjuster with Feller-Deuss & Co., he is well-known in the community for his service as a member and chairman of Jennings House Youth Center program.

He believes "much could be accomplished by the park board if they had additional help." Interested in park affairs for the past few years, Deuss is also active in the homeowners group and is a Cub Scout Webelos leader. He and his wife, Barbara, are parents of Sherrie, 20, Judie, 19, Cathie, 16, Pattie, 12, David, 10, and Debbie, 8.

ALSO RUNNING IS John Brandenburg, of 1736 Weathersfield Way.

"With my community interest, ideas and background, I believe I can do a good job for my community," Brandenburg, a bodyman with Ostrow Dodge, feels. "In the eight years I have lived here I have seen this community grow and the time and effort are well spent."

Brandenburg has been a member of Schaumburg Athletic Association for the past five years, working as a coach, manager, board member commissioner and treasurer. He also served as vice-president of the homeowners group. Members of St. Peter Lutheran Church, he and his wife, Pat, are parents of a son, Dean, 14, and two daughters, Terri, 13, and Rae Beth, 11.

THE LAST CONTENDER for a six-year seat is Raymond C. Hum, 27, of 308 Hackberry Court, Timbercrest. In outlining his reasons for seeking a park board term, Hum said he is interested in youth activities and has been regularly attending park meetings for the last year.

"I have become very interested in the district's plans and problems and feel the next few years are the most important in the district's short history and even more in the total development of Schaumburg. I would like to help," Hum said.

A systems supervisor with Hineywell Electronic Data Processing, Hum served as chairman of youth activities for Timbercrest Homeowners Association last year and was active prior to that in Norridge youth activities. Hum and his wife, Judith, are parents of two pre-schoolers, Suzanne, 3, and Timothy, 2.

RUNNING UNOPPOSED for a two-year term is Doyle Erkenbeck, 47, of 1439 S. Mohawk Drive, Sunset Hills. A sales representative with Brown & Bigelow, Erkenbeck is "dedicated to the cause of providing recreational areas for children and young adults" living in Schaumburg.

He was appointed to the board to fill a vacancy several years ago and is now seeking election to the remaining two years of a six-year term. He and his wife, Marjorie, are parents of JoAnne, 8, and David, 7.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $26,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.18 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead.

Save now . . . while you can.

8 Vying In Park District Race

Two incumbents are vying with six challengers in Tuesday's Hoffman Estates Park District election.

EDWIN L. FRANK, 108 Illinois Blvd., is fighting to keep the post to which he was appointed in late 1967 when Joseph L.

Fabbrini resigned.

Presently serving as chairman of the park improvement committee, Frank, 39 has also been instrumental in negotiations for purchase of a 10-acre site for eventual development of a major recreational area.

If elected, he hopes to initiate programs for mentally-handicapped children, to work for provision of a regulation-size lighted little league ball field and construction of a year-round swimming pool for residents of the park district.

CURRENTLY working as advertising and sales promotion manager for Allied Mills, Frank, married with one son, is a native of New Jersey and a graduate of Rutgers University. Also he has been instrumental in procuring the services of a park planning firm to work on the planned development of High Point Park.

6 Challenge 2 Incumbents In Park District

A second incumbent, WILLIAM M'GONIGLE, 35, of 117 Evergreen Lane, appointed to fill the unexpired term of Charles Meyers in early 1968, also seeks election.

Running on a seven-point program quite similar to Frank's planned goals, M'Gonigle hopes to finalize purchase of a 10-acre site as quickly as possible and wants to develop the land into a full and complete recreational area. He hopes also to locate a park office and maintenance facilities on existing buildings on the land.

He shares Frank's desire for a year-round swimming pool and baseball fields, with parking and picnic areas, and a well organized ice skating program.

In addition to wanting additional park sites, M'Gonigle would like to improve present parks and acquire the Community Pool as well as improve co-operation and liaison between the park, village, zoning and school boards.

Owner of Wm. M'Gonigle & Co., bonding specialists, of Wauconda, and a former insurance partner of Trustee James Sloan, M'Gonigle and his wife, Janice, are parents of seven children.

Also running is GEORGE F. SEEVER JR., a former village trustee and chairman of the park and recreation committee before formation of the park district. Seaver, 40, and his wife, Phyllis, are parents of three children and live adjacent to High Point Park.

His goal as a park commissioner is to create a recreation program tailored to the community and designed to enrich the lives of all area residents.

"Our parks should help make us proud of our homes and our community," Seaver believes. He feels that teenage recreation facilities must be expanded and more ball fields, safe skating areas, and swimming pools must be provided in addition to a community center.

He also feels that the park system should offer assistance to community groups, plan for future expansion and become involved in future zoning in order to procure usable land "rather than peat bogs."

A graduate of William Jewell College, Seaver is a copilot with United Air Lines. FRED R. WEAVER, 30, of 275 Fremont Court, is another contender for the park board.

Running on a four-point program calling for employment of a full-time professional park administrator, cooperation with the village and school boards, and comprehensive planning with other groups to avoid duplication of activities and facilities, Weaver hopes to complement existing programs with new ideas and to undertake general improvement of the appearance and function of existing park facilities.

A graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University, Weaver is a unit sales manager with Procter & Gamble. Members of Our Savior United Methodist Church, he and his wife, Judy, are parents of two children.

LOUIS P. DALITTO, 46, of 187 Jefferson Road, a sales representative with Salerno Biscuit Co., also seeks election to the park board.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Dalitto has lived in the village for nine years and has been an active member of the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association.

"I feel, as a park commissioner, I would be in a position to promote future programs for the older youth in the community, which I feel is so desperately needed," he said.

He would also seek to further encourage dialogue between the park district, village government and school districts "to close the insurmountable communication gap."

His main goal is "interest in the community and in whatever would be of benefit to it."

Dalitto and his wife, Connie, are parents of two sons and a daughter.

WILLIAM B. LEE, 47, of 126 Alpine, a timekeeper with Bell and Howell for the past 15 years, is another candidate. A graduate of South East Missouri University and the American Academy of Art, Lee wants "to represent the people" in serving on the park board.

"Their voice is my voice and in talking with local residents I find they have the same questions as I have about the park district," Lee feels.

He has been active in the community as a volunteer fireman, a member of the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association and a volunteer policeman. Members of First Baptist Church, Lee, and his wife, Alice, are parents of six children and are raising a foster child.

Other candidates for the park board are PHILIP J. MOORE, of 133 Evergreen, and ANTHONY J. INFELISE, 241 Bode Road, both of whom did not respond to a questionnaire sent them by The Herald.

First Vote Is On Tuesday

Expect Light Turn-Out

Tuesday voters in Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park will make the first of three trips to the polls within a two-week period.

Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg residents will elect two park commissioners to six-year terms for the respective districts Tuesday and voters in both Schaumburg and Hanover townships will elect boards to auditors and township officials.

And Schaumburg Township residents will also elect three library directors for six-year terms.

April 12 school board members will be elected for the local elementary and high school districts and for Harper Junior College. Township school trustees will also be elected that day.

THE FINAL SPRING voting day will be April 15, when village officials are elected. In Hanover Park, two park district commissioners also will be elected then.

It's unlikely that queues will form in any of the polling places on the election dates because a 10 per cent voter turnout for local elections is considered normal.

This year could even be lower since several of the elections are uncontested and few write-in campaigns have been launched.

Tuesday, April 1, the Republican party is running a slate of unopposed candidates for township offices, though a local real estate agent, Sigval Thorsen, is seeking the assessor's office in a write-in campaign.

Four library candidates are seeking the three six-year terms and two other candidates, running for unexpired terms, have no opposition.

THE ONLY REAL races are in the two park districts. In Hoffman Estates, eight candidates are trying for the two vacancies, including the two incumbents.

In Schaumburg, where three commissioners will be elected, Doyle Erkenbeck is running unopposed for an unexpired term, while four other candidates seek the other two terms.

James Asher is the only incumbent Schaumburg park commissioner running for a full six-year term. Erkenbeck is also an incumbent.

Moving To New Office

The Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth is moving April 1 to a new office at 2 N. Golf-Rose Plaza. The new office will provide more effective and private facilities.

Weekday office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is also open on weekends and evenings when necessary. The telephone number is 894-5242.

PRIZE POSSESSION of 9-year-old Billy Pichler, 319 Pierce Road, Hoffman Estates, is United States flag which was flown over U.S. Capitol on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12. Flag was obtained through Congressman Roman Pucinski. A fourth grade pupil at Hillcrest School, Billy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pichler.

Photos Examined

Photograph examination work in connection with the Schaumburg Township Aerial Survey has now been completed, according to Scott MacEachron, township assessor.

A total of 1,906 items are being reported to the county assessor's office to be included on the permanent property records for the township, MacEachron said.

These items include 246 garages, 393 house additions, 21 swimming pools, 134 pieces of farm property with varying amounts of improvement, 19 silos, 58 buildings with revised square footage, eight buildings that were unlisted, one office building, one neighborhood shopping center, and some miscellaneous buildings.

The addition of these items to property tax rolls is expected to add substantially to the assessed valuation of the township.

MacEachron SAID these properties will be added to the tax rolls in 1970 and will be included in the tax bills issued in 1971.

Also reported in the township property inventory are six cases where the assessed valuation appeared to be too high and 25 cases where the property record cards indicated improvements which had not been made.

These are instances where property owners are being over-taxed. Examination of the aerial survey photographs was made by two clerical employees of the township assessor, Mrs. Dolores Buenger and Mrs. Theresa Hall.

Results of the photograph examination will provide additional tax revenues for Dist. 54 and Dist. 211 by increasing the total assessed valuation of the township.

AS SOON AS valuations have been placed on the 1,906 property items, MacEachron said, he intends to notify township residents.

"Since many of the items are in areas where new construction is taking place, it can be safely assumed that the county assessor's office is aware of them," MacEachron explained.

The aerial survey of Schaumburg Township was authorized at the annual township meeting last year.

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grinace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

Amounts listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

Thorsen Launches Write-in Campaign

Sigval B. Thorsen is conducting a write-in campaign as a candidate for township assessor in next Tuesday's Schaumburg Township election. He will oppose the Republican candidate for assessor, Scott MacEachron.

There will be eight blanks provided on the ballot Tuesday in which voters may write in the names of their choices, if they so desire.

"Between now and the election," Thorsen said, "35 campaign workers will be making about 1,000 calls to urge voters to support my write-in candidacy."

THORSEN LIVES on Irving Park Road in unincorporated Schaumburg Township.

A salesman for Sloan Real Estate in Bensenville, Thorsen has lived in Schaumburg Township nine years. He ran as an individual candidate for township auditor in 1965 and lost.

Thorsen moved in 1960 from Chicago to a four-acre farm on Irving Park Road, where he lives with his wife and their four children. Mrs. Thorsen is a member of the Dist. 54 school board.

The write-in candidate holds a bachelor of science degree from Kent State University, Ohio, where he majored in business administration and journalism.

He is an active member of the Theatre Guild and has appeared in several productions.

HE RAN FOR the Dist. 54 school board in 1963 and lost. In May, 1963, he was named to fill a vacancy on the township board of auditors.

Thorsen, well known to township residents, said that county officials told him that "Sig Thorsen" would be acceptable for ballots with this written in. The full name of the candidate is not mandatory.

Auditors Like Building Bill

Schaumburg Township board of auditors plans to support legislation to be introduced by Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, that would enable a township to create a building commission.

Regner is expected to introduce such a bill late in April. It would be a bi-partisan measure.

Through such enabling legislation, the township board hopes to build an administrative building for the township. Space in the office building would be shared by Dist. 54 administrators under present plans.

ACCORDING TO Ed Hofert, township attorney, if a bill is passed by the legislature by July 1, ground-breaking for the new administrative center can possibly begin as early as next spring.

If a referendum is required to create the township building commission, a special town meeting may possibly be called.

Otherwise the commission might be created by the township board of auditors.

The shared building project calls for construction of a $275,000 building on a Schaumburg Road site owned by Dist. 54.

It would be paid for through excess commissions collected by the township over a 20-year period.

Sewer Levy Okayed

In an apparent violation of the Illinois Open Meetings Law Tuesday night, Hoffman Estates trustees agreed to consider a recommendation of the Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) and to formally adopt an accompanying resolution at last night's Village Board meeting.

Immediately following this week's announced meeting of BOLI, members of that board, who are also Village Board members, convened a previously unannounced special Village Board meeting.

During the short special meeting, trustees agreed to take BOLI's recommendation to levy a $705,554 special assessment for installation of the Golf-Higgins sanitary sewer system under consideration.

They also agreed to take action at Thursday's regular Village Board meeting formally adopting a resolution on the special assessment.

OF THE TOTAL assessment, $100,000 is considered public benefit, with the remainder of the levy to be shared on an acreage basis by a number of developers coming into the northwest corner of Hoffman Estates.

Under the Illinois Open Meetings Law, approved during the 1967 session of the state legislature, all meetings of governmental bodies must be previously announced to both press and public.

The Herald was notified of the BOLI meeting during the Feb. 13 Village Board meeting, but received no announcement of the special meeting which followed the BOLI meeting this week.

Rev. Koepka to Talk On Family Services

Rev. Donald Koepke of Advent Lutheran Church, Hanover Park, will discuss family service organizations at the Hanover Township Young Republicans meeting April 9.

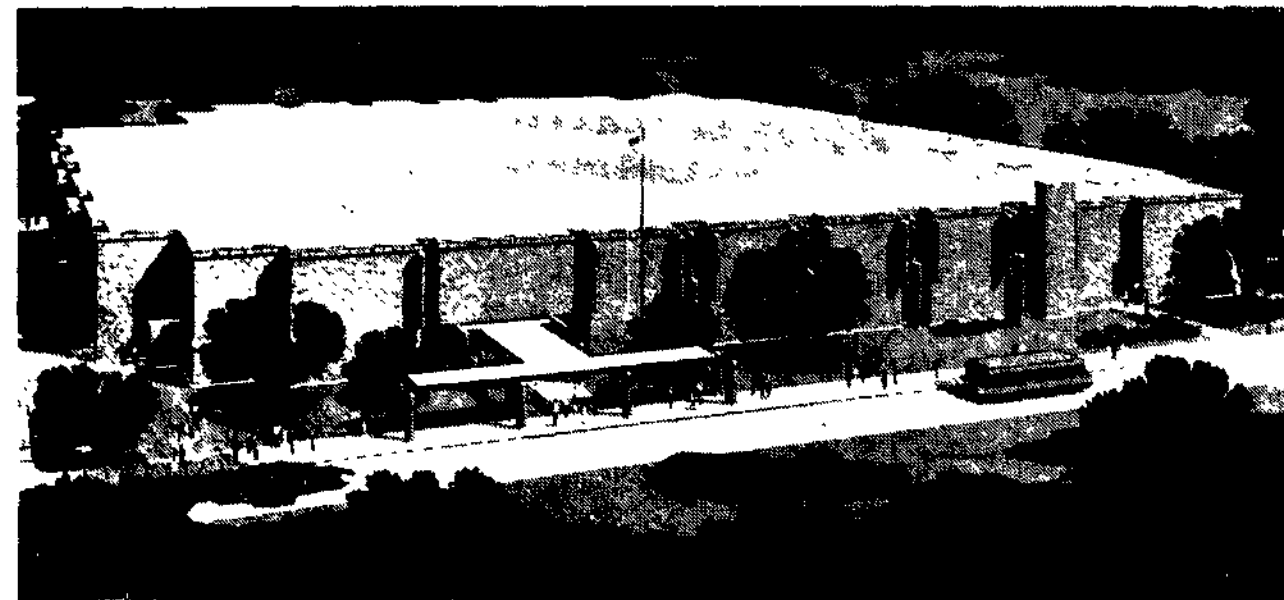

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smith, 4022 Oxford Court, Robbinswood, Streamwood.

The club will select a candidate to compete for the title of Miss Young Republican 1969 at the May 2 and 3 convention of the Cook County Young Republicans.

PRESIDING AT the meeting will be the newly elected president, Mrs. Richard Isenberger. Other new officers are Stan Faltz, vice president, Jill DeVitt, treasurer; Mrs. Harley Shelton, recording secretary; and Mrs. James S. Kinal, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Isenberger, Faltz and Miss DeVitt will be attending a special YR convention Saturday as delegates to discuss proposed changes in the Illinois Constitution.

New members are welcome at all meetings. For more information about the club, call Mrs. Richard Reib, 289-3883.

JANE ADDAMS JUNIOR HIGH in Dist. 54 is scheduled for completion in September. It will be the largest school building and the third junior high in the district. The $1.4 million school is being built on a 15-acre site on Springguth Road donated by the Campanelli Brothers. Seventh and eighth grade pupils from the Weathersfield and Hanover Park areas will be assigned to the new school.

Between The Lines

3 Elections Set

by MARY REIFSCNEIDER

Hopefully, the rush of pre-Easter preparation and the celebration of Passover next week will not prevent voters in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and other surrounding communities from making the first of three trips to their polling places within a two-week period.

Tuesday, area residents will be asked to cast ballots in park district, township and library board races during daytime hours, and to attend Schaumburg Township's annual town meeting the same evening.

A little more than a week later, the same voters will be asked to choose five out of 15 hopefuls seeking election to the Dist. 54 board of education, fill three posts on the High School Dist. 211 board, and elect a township school trustee.

Three days later, those who live in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg will then trudge back to their neighborhood polling booths to elect village officials.

UNFORTUNATELY, it would be much easier for all concerned if these elections could be somewhat consolidated and held on one day — state statutes permitting. Probably this would also result in a larger voter turnout as well.

Although The Herald will not make editorial recommendations in any of next Tuesday's races, our staff strongly urges each citizen to make his preference for candidates running for offices in each of these governmental offices known.

Eight GOP township candidates are running unopposed and face only one obstacle — an unneeded write-in candidacy for the office of assessor being staged by Sigval Thorsen, a Realtor from the unincorporated area of Schaumburg.

Five candidates, representing all areas of the township, are running for four seats on the library's board of directors.

In Hoffman Estates, where a rather uncomfortable situation between the park district and village appears to be settling down, two incumbent park directors are being challenged by six newcomers.

Both incumbents, Edwin L. Frank and Bill McGonigle, joined the board by appointment and are now running for six-year terms on their own. Several of their opponents appear to be strongly connected with Hoffman Estates Athletic Association

(HEAA) and a third is a former village trustee with park and recreational experience.

ALTHOUGH THE other contenders are, for the most part, long-time residents, their interest in the park district appears to be of recent origin.

On the other hand, the HEAA members are significantly involved in the race, since the athletic group is reportedly in financial difficulty and may be asking the park district to absorb their function in the near future.

In Schaumburg Park District, four candidates (including one incumbent) are running for two six-year terms. A third candidate, also an incumbent, is running unopposed for a full-term.

Two of the two-term candidates, John Deuss and John Brandenburg, along with Jim Asher, the incumbent, live in Weathersfield, while the third, Ray Hum, is from Timbercrest.

The other incumbent, Doyle Erkenbeck, from Sunset Hills, was appointed to the board more than two years ago and then elected to fill the term for two of the six years remaining.

WHILE IT WOULD seem preferable that he had run for the entire balance of the term in 1967, he is not facing any opposition this time around.

By this time, The Herald hopes each voter has become acquainted with candidates and issues involved in each of the elections next week and, armed with that information, will go to the polls to vote for those candidates he feels will offer the best representation.

Dist. 54 Seeks Bond Bids

Dist. 54 plans to solicit bids in the next six weeks for school bonds totaling $1 million.

Consequently, Marvin Lopicola, director of business services, has expressed some concern that high interest rates might impair the district's school building program.

Illinois law prohibits school districts from paying more than 6 per cent interest on school bonds. And many financial institutions are now charging 8 per cent interest on home loans.

A bid for bonds offered by the Evanston school system recently reportedly called for 5.75 per cent interest charges.

Money raised by the Dist. 54 bond sale will be used to complete construction of Jane Addams Junior High and to pay for 14-classroom additions at Anne Fox and Churchill schools.

JANE ADDAMS is scheduled to open in September. The two additions, next phase of a three-year building program, are scheduled for occupancy by Oct. 15, 1969.

The Dist. 54 board of education recently hired the services of Howard W. Voss Associates, Inc., consultants on public finance, in order to obtain the most economical interest rates on the $1 million worth of bonds to be sold.

Dist. 54 hopes to obtain an "A" rating on its pending bond sale. Approximately 18 months ago, Moody's Investors Service lowered the rating of Dist. 54 for bond sales from "A" to "B," next step below an "A" rating.

According to Lopicola, the securing of an "A" rating for the school district would result in saving $12,000 to $24,000 in interest charges.

Several criteria are used to determine the bond rating for a municipality or school district. These include the tax-paying behavior of the district, the percentage of taxes collected, the number of taxing bodies in the area, median family income, and median home value.

Meet Township GOP Hopefuls

Eight township offices will be filled by Schaumburg Township voters in the April 1 election. The annual town meeting will be held that day also.

On April 1, township residents will cast ballots for township supervisor, clerk, collector, assessor, highway commissioner, and three auditors.

A slate of eight Republican candidates is running unopposed in the township election.

VERNON Laubenstein, 35, 125 S. Westover Lane, Schaumburg, is GOP candidate for township supervisor.

The township supervisor presides at meetings of the town board. He is also the administrator of general assistance (public aid), and treasurer of the general town fund, the general assistance fund, and the road and bridge fund.

Laubenstein, a 1964 graduate of Ripon College, is an executive with Kemper Insurance Co. A resident of Schaumburg for seven years, he and his wife, Barbara, are the parents of four children.

The supervisor candidate is active locally in the Twinbrook YMCA as sustaining membership chairman, and is past president of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

He is a member of Christ the King Lutheran Church.

MRS. KATHLEEN L. Wojcik, 32, 133 Cumberland, Hoffman Estates, is GOP candidate for township clerk.

The clerk acts as secretary to the town board. She is custodian of records of the township and the highway commissioner. In addition, the clerk registers voters living in the unincorporated areas of the township, and supplies them with auto license stickers and fees.

Mrs. Wojcik, was appointed town clerk in 1968 to fill a vacancy. The mother of two children, she has had seven years experience in secretarial work and office management.

"To help perform the tasks of township government more efficiently, we will be opening a central township office in the Buttery on April 1," said Mrs. Wojcik. The Buttery is an office building in a remodeled creamery on Roselle Road, south of Schaumburg Road.

John Jensen, Walter Wing, and Daniel Stowe are the GOP candidates for township auditor. Their job is to keep an eye on the township's bookkeeping.

Along with the supervisor and clerk, the three auditors make up the town board. Each month the town board approves the township bills.

JOHN A. JENSEN, 28, 149 Dennison Road, Hoffman Estates, was appointed township auditor in 1968. He is a manager in the margin department for Bacon, Whipple and Co., investment counselors.

Besides his wife Diane, Jensen's family consists of a son and daughter.

WALTER "PETE" WING, another incumbent, resides at 535 S. Brewster Lane, Schaumburg, with his wife, Linda, and son. He is a sales engineer for the northern Illinois area with Milwaukee Electric Tool Co.

An area resident four years, Wing has served as a member of the Schaumburg Village zoning board of appeals. He was also a Republican precinct captain in last November's national election.

In a statement on his candidacy, Wing said, "I wish to continue the activities of the committees that I am currently on to better Schaumburg Township, to further educate the electors about what township government is, and to upgrade my office whenever possible."

Wing attended Northwestern University's school of business administration. DANIEL STOWE, 35, 6833 Highland, Hanover Park, is the third GOP candidate for auditor. He has been a resident of Hanover Park four years.

Stowe attended Valparaiso University and Elgin College, and served as a pilot with U. S. Naval Forces in the Far East. He is an advertising production manager for Creative Displays, Inc.

Stowe and his wife, Rita Marie, are the parents of three children.

RALPH H. LYERLA, 41, is the GOP candidate for township collector. This is the 2 per cent excess commission on locally collected taxes which supplies all of the funds dispensed by the Town Board.

Lyerla was elected township clerk in 1965, and subsequently was named supervisor in 1968.

"After serving as clerk and supervisor, I know how important the job of collector is to all the citizens of this township," Lyerla stated.

"The many services that are offered to township residents depend upon the collector doing a good job of collecting taxes locally, so as to get the excess commissions to operate."

A high school science teacher, Lyerla received his B.S. from Carthage College and his M.A. from Miami of Ohio. He and his wife, Nancy, are the parents of three children: Brad, 14; Amy, 12; and Nora, 9.

Lyerla has served as a Republican precinct captain and a member of the Metropolitan Board of Trustees for the March of Dimes. His hobby is hunting.

SCOTT MACEachron, 45, of 425 Glen Lake Drive, Hoffman Estates, is GOP candidate for assessor. He has been active in township government since 1961.

An executive with Visual Systems, Inc., he attended Grinnell, Ia., College and did graduate work at the University of Illinois. MacEachron is past recipient of the Community Service Award, given by the Suburban Cook County Federation of Community Committees, and is a charter member of Twinbrook YMCA.

The GOP candidate for township assessor has lived in the township since 1956.

RALPH E. WILKENING, 35, Nerge Road, is GOP candidate for Schaumburg Township highway commissioner. He is an incumbent, having been elected to that post in 1961 and again in 1965.

A lifelong resident of the township, Wilkening is a member of the Schaumburg

Loyal Order of Moose and St. Peter Lutheran Church.

As highway commissioner, Wilkening has been responsible for taking care of the township's roads, ditches and bridges.

First Vote Is On Tuesday

Expect Light Turn-Out

Tuesday voters in Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Hanover Park will make the first of three trips to the polls within a two-week period.

Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg residents will elect two park commissioners to six-year terms for the respective districts Tuesday and voters in both Schaumburg and Hanover townships will elect boards to auditors and township officials.

And Schaumburg Township residents will also elect three library directors for six-year terms.

April 12 school board members will be elected for the local elementary and high school districts and for Harper Junior College. Township school trustees will also be elected that day.

THE FINAL SPRING voting day will be April 15, when village officials are elected. In Hanover Park, two park district commissioners also will be elected then.

It's unlikely that queues will form in any of the polling places on the election dates because a 10 per cent voter turnout for local elections is considered normal.

This year could even be lower since several of the elections are uncontested and few write-in campaigns have been launched.

Tuesday, April 1, the Republican party is running a slate of unopposed candidates for township offices, though a local real estate agent, Sigval Thorsen, is seeking the assessor's office in a write-in campaign.

Four library candidates are seeking the three six-year terms and two other candidates, running for unexpired terms, have no opposition.

THE ONLY REAL races are in the two park districts. In Hoffman Estates, eight candidates are trying for the two vacancies, including the two incumbents.

In Schaumburg, where three commissioners will be elected, Doyle Erkenbeck is running unopposed for an unexpired term, while four other candidates seek the other two terms.

James Asher is the only incumbent Schaumburg park commissioner running for a full six-year term. Erkenbeck is also an incumbent.

Moving To New Office

The Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth is moving April 1 to a new office at 2 N. Golf-Rose Plaza. The new office will provide more effective and private facilities.

Weekday office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is also open on weekends and evenings when necessary. The telephone number is 894-8242.

PRIZE POSSESSION of 9-year-old Billy Pichler, 319 Pierce Road, Hoffman Estates, is United States flag which was flown over U.S. Capitol on Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12. Flag was obtained through Congressman Roman Pucinski. A fourth grade pupil at Hillcrest School, Billy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pichler.

Photos Examined

Photograph examination work in connection with the Schaumburg Township Aerial Survey has now been completed, according to Scott MacEachron, township assessor.

A total of 1,906 items are being reported to the county assessor's office to be included on the permanent property records for the township, MacEachron said.

These items include 246 garages, 395 house additions, 21 swimming pools, 134 pieces of farm property with varying amounts of improvement, 19 silos, 58 buildings with revised square footage, eight buildings that were unlisted, one office building, one neighborhood shopping center, and some miscellaneous buildings.

The addition of these items to property tax rolls is expected to add substantially to the assessed valuation of the township.

MacEachron SAID these properties will be added to the tax rolls in 1970 and will be included in the tax bills issued in 1971.

Also reported in the township property inventory are six cases where the assessed valuation appeared to be too high and 25 cases where the property record cards indicated improvements which had not been made.

These are instances where property owners are being over-taxed.

Examination of the aerial survey photographs was made by two clerical employees of the township assessor, Mrs. Dolores Buenger and Mrs. Theresa Hall.

Results of the photograph examination will provide additional tax revenues for Dist. 54 and Dist. 211 by increasing the total assessed valuation of the township.

AS SOON AS valuations have been placed on the 1,906 property items, MacEachron said, he intends to notify township residents.

"Since many of the items are in areas where new construction is taking place, it can be safely assumed that the county assessor's office is aware of them," MacEachron explained.

The aerial survey of Schaumburg Township was authorized at the annual town meeting last year.

Thorsen Launches Write-in Campaign

Sigval B. Thorsen is conducting a write-in campaign as a candidate for township assessor in next Tuesday's Schaumburg Township election. He will oppose the Republican candidate for assessor, Scott MacEachron.

There will be eight blanks provided on the ballot Tuesday in which voters may write in the names of their choices, if they so desire.

"Between now and the election," Thorsen said, "35 campaign workers will be making about 1,000 calls to urge voters to support my write-in candidacy."

THORSEN LIVES on Irving Park Road in unincorporated Schaumburg Township.

A salesman for Sloan Real Estate in Bensenville, Thorsen has lived in Schaumburg Township nine years. He ran as an individual candidate for township auditor in 1965 and lost.

Thorsen moved in 1960 from Chicago to a four-acre farm on Irving Park Road, where he lives with his wife and their four children. Mrs. Thorsen is a member of the Dist. 54 school board.

The write-in candidate holds a bachelor of science degree from Kent State University, Ohio, where he majored in business administration and journalism.

He is an active member of the Theatre Guild and has appeared in several productions.

HE RAN FOR the Dist. 54 school board in 1963 and lost. In May, 1963, he was named to fill a vacancy on the township board of auditors.

Thorsen, well known to township residents, said that county officials told him that "Sig Thorsen" would be acceptable for ballots with this written in. The full name of the candidate is not mandatory.

Auditors Like Building Bill

Schaumburg Township board of auditors plans to support legislation to be introduced by Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, that would enable a township to create a building commission.

Regner is expected to introduce such a bill late in April. It would be a bi-partisan measure.

Through such enabling legislation, the township board hopes to build an administrative building for the township. Space in the office building would be shared by Dist. 54 administrators under present plans.

ACCORDING TO Ed Hofert, township attorney, if a bill is passed by the legislature by July 1, ground-breaking for the new administrative center can possibly begin as early as next spring.

If a referendum is required to create the township building commission, a special town meeting may possibly be called.

Otherwise the commission might be created by the township board of auditors.

The shared building project calls for construction of a $275,000 building on a Schaumburg Road site owned by Dist. 54.

It would be paid for through excess commissions collected by the township over a 20-year period.

Sewer Levy Okayed

In an apparent violation of the Illinois Open Meetings Law Tuesday night, Hoffman Estates trustees agreed to consider a recommendation of the Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) and to formally adopt an accompanying resolution at last night's Village Board meeting.

Immediately following this week's announced meeting of BOLI, members of that board, who are also Village Board members, convened a previously unannounced special Village Board meeting.

During the short special meeting, trustees agreed to take BOLI's recommendation to levy a $705,554 special assessment for installation of the Golf-Higgins sanitary sewer system under consideration.

They also agreed to take action at Thursday's regular Village Board meeting formally adopting a resolution on the special assessment.

OF THE TOTAL assessment, $100,000 is considered public benefit, with the remainder of the levy to be shared on an acreage basis by a number of developers coming into the northwest corner of Hoffman Estates.

Under the Illinois Open Meetings Law, approved during the 1967 session of the state legislature, all meetings of governmental bodies must be previously announced to both press and public.

The Herald was notified of the BOLI meeting during the Feb. 13 Village Board meeting, but received no announcement of the special meeting which followed the BOLI meeting this week.

Rev. Koepka to Talk On Family Services

Rev. Donald Koepke of Advent Lutheran Church, Hanover Park, will discuss family service organizations at the Hanover Township Young Republicans meeting April 9.

The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smith, 4022 Oxford Court, Robinsonwood, Streamwood.

The club will select a candidate to compete for the title of Miss Young Republican 1969 at the May 2 and 3 convention of the Cook County Young Republicans.

PRESIDING AT the meeting will be the newly elected president, Mrs. Richard Isenberger. Other new officers are Stan Faltz, vice president, Jill DeVitt, treasurer; Mrs. Harley Shelton, recording secretary; and Mrs. James S. Kinal, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Isenberger, Faltz and Miss DeVitt will be attending a special YR convention Saturday as delegates to discuss proposed changes in the Illinois Constitution.

New members are welcome at all meetings. For more information about the club, call Mrs. Richard Reib, 289-3883.

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grmace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

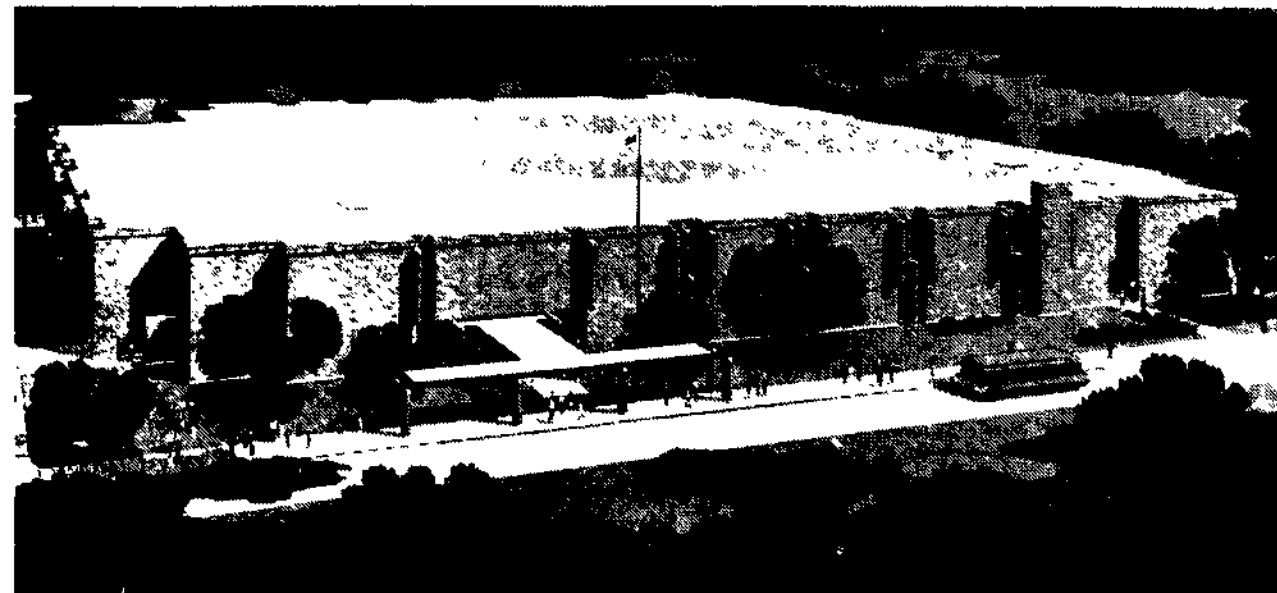

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

Amounts listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

JANE ADDAMS JUNIOR HIGH in Dist. 54 is scheduled for completion in September. It will be the largest school building and the third junior high in the district. The $1.4 million school is being built on a 15-acre site on Springguth Road donated by the Campanelli Brothers. Seventh and eighth grade pupils from the Weathersfield and Hanover Park areas will be assigned to the new school.

Between The Lines

3 Elections Set

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

Hopefully, the rush of pre-Easter preparation and the celebration of Passover next week will not prevent voters in Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and other surrounding communities from making the first of three trips to their polling places within a two week period.

Tuesday, area residents will be asked to cast ballots in park district, township and library board races during daytime hours, and to attend Schaumburg Township's annual town meeting the same evening.

A little more than a week later, the same voters will be asked to choose five out of 15 hopefuls seeking election to the Dist. 54 board of education, fill three posts on the High School Dist. 211 board, and elect a township school trustee.

Three days later, those who live in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg will then trudge back to their neighborhood polling booths to elect village officials.

UNFORTUNATELY, it would be much easier for all concerned if these elections could be somewhat consolidated and held on one day — state statutes permitting. Probably this would also result in a larger voter turnout as well.

Although The Herald will not make editorial recommendations in any of next Tuesday's races, our staff strongly urges each citizen to make his preference for candidates running for offices in each of these governmental offices known.

Eight GOP township candidates are running unopposed and face only one obstacle — an attempted write-in candidacy for the office of assessor being staged by Sigval Thorsen, a Realtor from the unincorporated area of Schaumburg.

Five candidates, representing all areas of the township, are running for four seats on the library's board of directors.

In Hoffman Estates, where a rather uncomfortable situation between the park district and village appears to be settling down, two incumbent park directors are being challenged by six newcomers.

Both incumbents, Edwin L. Frank and Bill McGonigle, joined the board by appointment and are now running for six-year terms on their own. Several of their opponents appear to be strongly connected with Hoffman Estates Athletic Association

(HEAA) and a third is a former village trustee with park and recreational experience.

ALTHOUGH THE other contenders are, for the most part, long-time residents, their interest in the park district appears to be of recent origin.

On the other hand, the HEAA members are significantly involved in the race, since the athletic group is reportedly in financial difficulty and may be asking the park district to absorb their function in the near future.

In Schaumburg Park District, four candidates (including one incumbent) are running for two six-year terms. A third candidate, also an incumbent, is running unopposed for a two-year term.

Two of the full-term candidates, John Deuss and John Brandenburg, along with Jim Asher, the incumbent, live in Weathersfield, while the third, Ray Hum, is from Timbercrest.

The other incumbent, Doyle Erkenbeck, from Sunset Hills, was appointed to the board more than two years ago and then elected to fill the term for two of the six years remaining.

WHILE IT WOULD seem preferable that he had run for the entire balance of the term in 1967, he is not facing any opposition this time around.

By this time, The Herald hopes each voter has become acquainted with candidates and issues involved in each of the elections next week and, armed with that information, will go to the polls to vote for those candidates he feels will offer the best representation.

Dist. 54 Seeks Bond Bids

Dist. 54 plans to solicit bids in the next six weeks for school bonds totaling $1 million.

Consequently, Marvin Lapicola, director of business services, has expressed some concern that high interest rates might impair the district's school building program.

Illinois law prohibits school districts from paying more than 6 per cent interest on school bonds. And many financial institutions are now charging 8 per cent interest on home loans.

A bid for bonds offered by the Evanston school system recently reportedly called for 5.75 per cent interest charges.

Money raised by the Dist. 54 bond sale will be used to complete construction of Jane Addams Junior High and to pay for 14-classroom additions at Anne Fox and Churchill schools.

JANE ADDAMS is scheduled to open in September. The two additions, next phase of a three-year building program, are scheduled for occupancy by Oct. 15, 1969.

The Dist. 54 board of education recently hired the services of Howard W. Voss Associates, Inc., consultants on public finance, in order to obtain the most economical interest rates on the $1 million worth of bonds to be sold.

Dist. 54 hopes to obtain an "A" rating on its pending bond sale. Approximately 18 months ago, Moody's Investors Service lowered the rating of Dist. 54 for bond sales from "A" to "B," next step below an "A" rating.

According to Lapicola, the securing of an "A" rating for the school district would result in saving $12,000 to $24,000 in interest charges.

Several criteria are used to determine the bond rating for a municipality or school district. These include the tax-paying behavior of the district, the percentage of taxes collected, the number of taxing bodies in the area, median family income, and median home value.

Meet Township GOP Hopefuls

Eight township offices will be filled by Schaumburg Township voters in the April 1 election. The annual town meeting will be held that day also.

On April 1, township residents will cast ballots for township supervisor, clerk, collector, assessor, highway commissioner, and three auditors.

A slate of eight Republican candidates is running unopposed in the township election.

VERNON Laubenstein, 35, 125 S. Westover Lane, Schaumburg, is GOP candidate for township supervisor.

The township supervisor presides at meetings of the town board. He is also the administrator of general assistance (public aid), and treasurer of the general town fund, the general assistance fund, and the road and bridge fund.

Laubenstein, a 1954 graduate of Ripon College, is an executive with Kemper Insurance Co. A resident of Schaumburg for seven years, he and his wife, Barbara, are the parents of four children.

The supervisor candidate is active locally in the Twinbrook YMCA as sustaining membership chairman, and is past president of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

He is a member of Christ the King Lutheran Church.

MRS. KATHLEEN L. Wojcik, 32, 133 Cumberland, Hoffman Estates, is GOP candidate for township clerk.

The clerk acts as secretary to the town board. She is custodian of records of the township and the highway commissioner. In addition, the clerk registers voters living in the unincorporated areas of the township, and supplies them with auto license stickers free.

Mrs. Wojcik was appointed town clerk in 1968 to fill a vacancy. The mother of two children, she has had seven years experience in secretarial work and office management.

"To help perform the tasks of township government more efficiently, we will be opening a central township office in the Buttery on April 1," said Mrs. Wojcik. The Buttery is an office building in a remodeled creamery on Roselle Road, south of Schaumburg Road.

John Jensen, Walter Wing, and Daniel Stowe are the GOP candidates for township auditor. Their job is to keep an eye on the township's bookkeeping.

Along with the supervisor and clerk, the three auditors make up the town board. Each month the town board approves the township bills.

JOHN A. JENSEN, 28, 149 Dennison Road, Hoffman Estates, was appointed township auditor in 1968. He is a manager in the margin department for Bacon, Whipple and Co., investment counselors.

Besides his wife Diane, Jensen's family consists of a son and daughter.

WALTER "PETE" WING, another incumbent, resides at 535 S. Brewster Lane, Schaumburg, with his wife, Linda, and son. He is a sales engineer for the northern Illinois area with Milwaukee Electric Tool Co.

An area resident four years, Wing has served as a member of the Schaumburg Village zoning board of appeals. He was also a Republican precinct captain in last November's national election.

In a statement on his candidacy, Wing said, "I wish to continue the activities of the committees that I am currently on to better educate the electors about what township government is, and to upgrade my office whenever possible."

Wing attended Northwestern University's school of business administration.

DANIEL STOWE, 35, 6833 Highland, Hanover Park, is the third GOP candidate for auditor. He has been a resident of Hanover Park four years.

Stowe attended Valparaiso University and Elgin College, and served as a pilot with U. S. Naval Forces in the Far East. He is an advertising production manager for Creative Displays, Inc.

Stowe and his wife, Rita Marie, are the parents of three children.

RALPH H. LYERLA, 41, is the GOP candidate for township collector. This is the 2 per cent excess commission on locally collected taxes which supplies all of the funds dispensed by the Town Board.

Lyerla was elected township clerk in 1965, and subsequently was named supervisor in 1968.

"After serving as clerk and supervisor, I know how important the job of collector is to all the citizens of this township," Lyerla stated.

"The many services that are offered to township residents depend upon the collector doing a good job of collecting taxes locally, so as to get the excess commissions to operate."

A high school science teacher, Lyerla received his B.S. from Carthage College and his M.A. from Miami of Ohio. He and his wife, Nancy, are the parents of three children: Brad, 14; Amy, 12; and Nora, 9.

Lyerla has served as a Republican precinct captain and a member of the Metropolitan Board of Trustees for the March of Dimes. His hobby is hunting.

SCOTT MacEachron, 45, of 425 Glen Lake Drive, Hoffman Estates, is GOP candidate for assessor. He has been active in township government since 1961.

An executive with Visual Systems, Inc., he attended Grinnell, Ia., College and did graduate work at the University of Illinois. MacEachron is past recipient of the Community Service Award, given by the Suburban Cook County Federation of Community Committees, and is a charter member of Twinbrook YMCA.

The GOP candidate for township assessor has lived in the township since 1956.

RALPH E. WILKENING, 35, Nerge Road, is GOP candidate for Schaumburg Township highway commissioner. He is an incumbent, having been elected to that post in 1961 and again in 1965.

Reactivate Pueblo Group

To Help Other Prisoners

by MARY DRESSER

Rev. Paul Lindstrom of Prospect Heights is reactivating the "Remember the Pueblo Committee" to fight for the repatriation of American prisoners in foreign countries.

Lindstrom charged Wednesday that the United States Government paid ransom to North Korea to obtain the release of the crew of the U.S. Pueblo.

"They also gave them the right to the ship," said Lindstrom. "The ship has been moved from Wan San to an area south of the Russian border and is being used for propaganda purposes in Iraq and the Congo. It has become the 'USSR Pueblo'."

LINDSTROM CONTINUES to protest the Pueblo affair and contends the Pueblo is merely an incident in a pattern of soft response from the State Department.

"Thousands of American citizens have been denied their rights and are now suffering punishment and torture," he said.

Lindstrom said 389 American servicemen who were captured during the Korean War have never been accounted for.

He also wants to focus attention on approximately 500 Americans held by the Viet Cong, the six Americans recently taken from their fishing boat by the Chinese Communists, "probably 100 or more flyers held by the Laotians," and American missionaries held by various Communist countries.

"Even if there is a truce in Paris, we're going to have to stand up and fight for these men," said Lindstrom. "How can we be sure we'll get all our boys back?"

Lindstrom said the "Remember the Pueblo" group will continue to remain intact as an organization until all American citizens being detained are released.

The committee is forming new groups and enlarging the scope of its activities, he said.

"WE ARE THE only organized group that is representing American citizens and property abroad," he said.

Lindstrom says he has been in touch with parents of the Pueblo crewmen and hopes to talk to the men themselves following the current trial of Comdr. Lloyd Bucher.

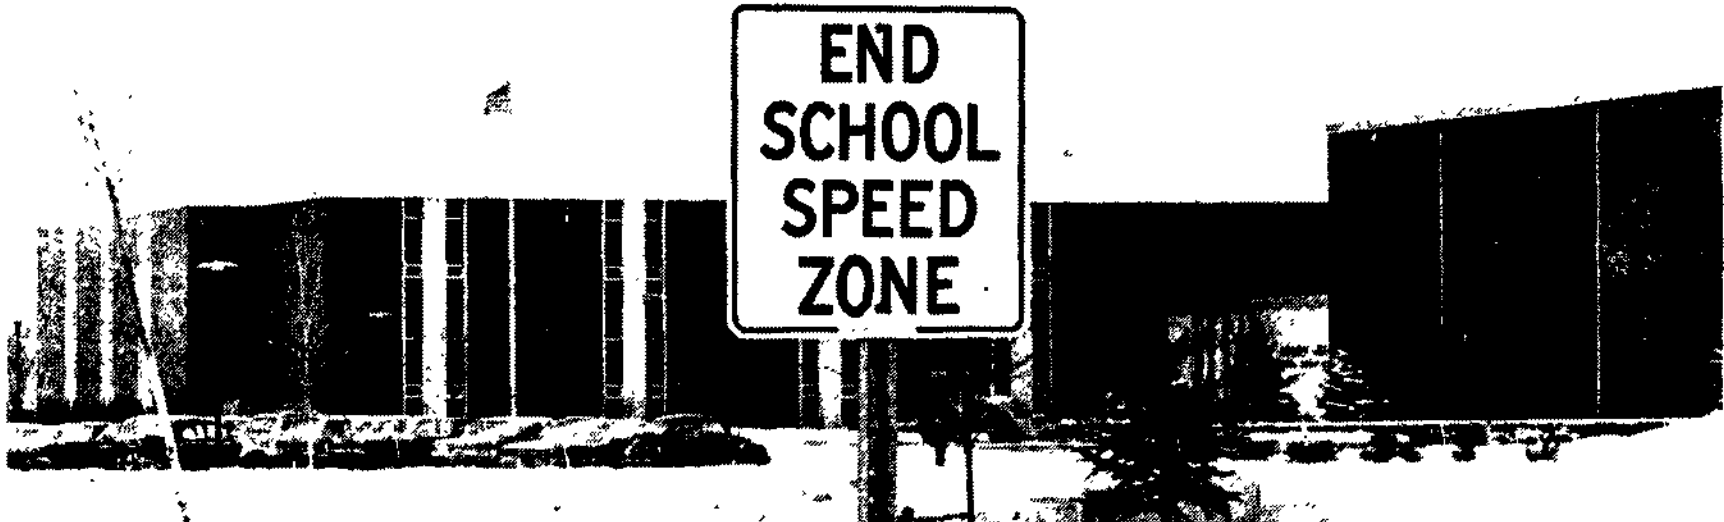

"I talked with a man from Korea this Sunday and he says the ransom deal is generally accepted in South Korea. Some parents of the crew members also know this is true."

Lindstrom accused the State Department of doing nothing for prisoners but "making a lot of noise and issuing a protest note each year."

This attitude is the reason other countries consider themselves safe to attack American ships such as the Pueblo, he said.

There will continue to be instances similar to the Pueblo, he added.

"We make demands and they laugh at us," he said. "We never get apologies from anyone."

Four Injured in 'Freak'

by ANNE HEDBACK

A four-car accident in a parking lot in Wheeling Wednesday evening resulted in minor injuries to four children and damages totaling approximately $7,000.

Phyllis J. Dempsey, 37, of 3504 Brookmeade, Rolling Meadows, was charged with driving off the roadway in connection with the accident.

Mrs. Dempsey's car missed the curve on Milwaukee Avenue just south of Dundee Road. Her 1967 Cadillac went into the showroom lot of North Shore Rambler Sales at 52 S. Milwaukee.

The car first hit a new AMX sports car in display in the lot, pushed that car into a 1968 Rogue Rambler and then hit a Volkswagen occupied by four children.

The children were the sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lance E. Warnke, 1200 S. Lake St. Mundelein.

THE THREE YOUNGEST children, Tony, 6; Richard, 3; and Darcy, 2, received cuts on their faces and heads. Donna, 7, received an injury to her left leg. All four were treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and released.

Mrs. Warnke said yesterday that she and her husband had been inside the Rambler showroom looking at cars when they heard a crash. "My husband yelled 'My car,'" she said, "and then we ran outside and heard the kids screaming and yelling."

She told the Herald the children seemed all right yesterday, but said she was keeping them home from school and planned to have them examined again by a doctor.

Rex Ayers, of 528 W. Hawley, Mundelein, also described the events of the accident. Ayers, manager of the Rambler dealership, told the Herald that Mrs. Dempsey's car struck the Volkswagen first when it entered the lot and then spun around to hit it a second time. Ayers said Darcy Warnke had about eight or 10 cuts on her face and that he and the children's parents had tried to stop the bleeding while waiting for police to arrive.

AYERS IS THE owner of the 1968 Rogue which was damaged in the accident. Damages on that car were estimated at $275.

Ayers said the AMX, a car which belongs to North Shore Motors, is equivalent to a Corvette. Police reports indicated the AMX was possibly a total loss because of damages to the frame of the car.

Other damages were estimated by police as $900 to Mrs. Dempsey's car and $1,200 to the Warnkes' Volkswagen.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday he thought the accident was "quite unusual."

Horcher said he could not remember any similar accidents in the same area of Milwaukee Avenue. He noted that drivers in the village have at other times managed to hit houses, business places and even an airplane by driving off the road.

A May 6 court date has been set in Arlington Heights Municipal Court No. 2 for the hearing on the charge against Mrs. Dempsey.

'Soft' Judges a Common Problem: Taylor

The problem of judges who "go soft" on municipal ordinance violations is not unique to Buffalo Grove, says Joseph Taylor, public prosecutor for the village.

Taylor told the Buffalo Grove village board Monday that tightening village ordinances would not result in more convictions.

The courts are not going to get excited about first violations of a garbage can ordinance, Taylor explained.

If prior violations are called to a judge's attention, it is sometimes easier to get convictions, he noted.

"IF WE CAN'T ENFORCE ordinances people will laugh at us," complained Village Pres. Donald Thompson.

At this point, Taylor invited trustee Charles Wilhelm to attend a court session with him and explain the situation to the presiding judge.

Violations of the 20-mile speed limit in Buffalo Grove are difficult to prosecute unless the ticket is issued for speeding 10 miles or more above the limit, Taylor told the board.

"If a ticket is issued for three or four miles over the limit, the judge will throw it out. Now with 10 miles we get a better reaction because it doesn't look like nit-picking," he said.

Taylor said members of the Buffalo Grove Police Department made a favorable impression on judges because they come into court and present a case dispassionately.

"Judges see some policemen from other areas come in with guns slung low," he observed. "This antagonizes the judge. After all, we're not out to hang people for a traffic offense."

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grinace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

Amounts listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

Case Against Field Is Alive

The Wheeling case against Field Enterprises is still alive and kicking in the state appellate court, according to Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

Hamer denied rumors that Wheeling has lost the case trusting the village solicitation ordinance.

Last November the case was transferred from the first to the third district court because of a heavy case load.

There has been no decision against the village, Hamer said. In the event of an unfavorable decision, Hamer assumes the village will direct him to take the case to the Illinois Supreme Court.

He is confident he can win the case against Field in the state supreme court because of a 1952 decision in the United States Supreme Court.

THE DECISION, Breard vs. the City of Alexandria, La., backs the right to prohibit unwarranted solicitation.

According to Hamer, Breard vs. the City of Alexandria applied the First Amendment guaranteeing freedom of speech to "oral advocates of ideas and the press" and distinguished between newspapers and magazines.

Magazine subscriptions and encyclopedias, Hamer said.

"We have the right to prevent and abate a nuisance," said Hamer. "Now we have to determine whether door-to-door solicitation is a nuisance."

Youth Group Accepts Office Offer, Maybe

The Arlington Heights Youth Council has voted to accept High School Dist. 214's offer of office space to permit the council to operate a clearing house for summer employment of youth.

The acceptance was made contingent on the village's providing someone to man the office.

School Stand Told

by MARY DRESSER

Mrs. Jo Ellen Clawes, independent candidate for the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board, says her stand on the recent request for a state-built school is being misinterpreted by her opponents.

According to Mrs. Clawes, "Never was I opposed to receiving assistance from the state in the form of a state-built school. I was opposed to the site as I feel the growth in our school district is in the Northwest section (north of Palatine Road)."

"My appearance before the Illinois School Building Commission took place when I learned of some discrepancies in the application they had received."

"According to the formula used by and for the ISBC, our district received more than its share. There were rooms taken out of use to enable us to receive more. As money for state-built schools comes from all over the state, I felt, and still do, and heard testimony at commission meetings, to the effect, that other districts in the state were in far greater need than we were. I object strongly to anyone receiving anything under false pretenses."

MRS. CLAWES explains her appearance before the School Problems Commission by saying she was seeking assistance in enforcing the School Code. "I also questioned the ISBC as to their failure to follow Section 35-12," she says.

According to the school code, "application for such aid filed with the commission shall have priority in the order of filing." However, it further states that if the commission has insufficient funds to meet the needs of all districts "preference shall be given to those districts which in Wednesday's "Spotlight" column by Patricia-Rolling Meadows City Editor Ed Murnane is a prime example of the unconscious parochialism that devils suburbanites.

Murnane suggested the new Dist. 214 high school, located in Rolling Meadows, be named "Rolling Meadows High School." This, he said, would bring the district's seventh high school in line with the four high schools already named for local villages.

I respect Murnane as a fine journalist, but reject this line of thinking, because he is making the community identity more important than the school identity.

Schools are built to serve and educate children, not to boost community pride and parochialism.

Elementary schools in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights are named for human beings who have served the world and their fellow men.

Schools named for Robert Frost, Louisa May Alcott and Ann Sullivan have more meaning to students than schools named for streets or towns.

FOLLOWING Murnane's reasoning, the eighth Dist. 214 high school should be named Buffalo Grove High School.

I emphatically oppose the idea.

Buffalo Grove residents have a legitimate pride in their community as do the people of Wheeling or Rolling Meadows.

However, because people are proud of their village, it doesn't follow that they should run around labeling schools "Buffalo Grove High School" or "Rolling Meadows High School." The schools are for the students.

The name of a school is important to students because they identify with it. Students at Wheeling can't write letters to Mr. Wheeling as Hersey students do to John Hersey Students at "Rolling Meadows High School" have little hope that they will get the day off if and when "Mr. Rolling Meadows" gets the Nobel Prize.

All students at Arlington High School get from their school name is a certain identification with the seventh race at the track.

People are eager to stand up at a PTA meeting and say "our children should have heroes to look up to." Then they turn around and insist their local high school be named after a geographic area.

THE CHILDREN will grow up and move from these villages. In later years, Rolling Meadows High or Wheeling High will mean little to them, but Carl Sandburg, Walt Whitman or Eugene Field will be part of their education because these were honored and respected human beings.

Besides, not all the children going to "Rolling Meadows High School" will be from Rolling Meadows any more than all the children going to Wheeling High School are from Wheeling.

Months ago, I suggested in a column that the new school in Rolling Meadows be named for living black author, James Baldwin. John Hersey kidded me about it in a letter. He said he didn't think the area was yet up to that idea.

Jack Martin, assistant to the Dist. 214 superintendent, would like Leonard Bernstein High School because Martin thinks the musical arts should be honored.

I like Martin's idea. For that matter I would approve a Harry Truman High School, or a James Forrestal High School, or even a John Lennon High School.

But not a Buffalo Grove High School.

Kaage Wants More Area Parks

by ELAINE JULISON

"I would like to see all the activities the park has to offer extended to various locations throughout the area," said George Kaage, candidate for the Wheeling Park Board.

He said he has always been interested in sports and has been active in participating in the activities of the park district for the last six years.

He and his wife Eleanor live at 511 Bernice Court. Their children George Jr., 13; Deborah, 12; William, 10, and John, 7, are also very active in park programs.

"It is quite difficult," Kaage said, "driving back and forth so the children are able to attend. I have heard so many children miss out because they lack the transportation to Heritage Park."

"At present I am vice president of the Wheeling Athletic Association, and I have been sitting in on some of the park meetings, but I must admit," Kaage said, "it is all very new to me. If I am elected, I will give it 100 per cent."

SOME OF THE park people have been anxious to have someone on the board who knows problems from the players' standpoint, someone who would come up with some new ideas to help the park program, he said.

Kaage said he would like to see a better set-up at Mark Twain and Jack London schools.

Programs for adults? "Well, Kaage answered, "You can't beat that volleyball team. Yes, I am in favor of programs for the adults."

He also is for using park land for retention basin. "It can serve a dual purpose, relieving the flood situation, and for the park sail boating, canoeing and other activities. "I think the superintendent we have now is doing a great job," he said.

"Another project for the park is to get going on a teen center," said Kaage. "I think there is a great need for one in this area, and I believe it is in the planning stages at this time."

He advocated a program for football in the district.

Children entering high school interested in playing really have no background and have to start from scratch, he said.

"Let's face it," Kaage said, "kids are going to play football anyway, why not under the guidance of good teachers and coaches?"

KAAGE WOULD like to see more tennis and ice hockey and a skating rink at all the schools in the district, funds permitting.

He would like to see another park building on the west side of Wheeling, and, if that is not possible, an arrangement with the school bus service to transport the children living some distance from Heritage Park.

Kaage anticipated no problem when questioned about the advantage his opponent Eugene Sackett has working right in the area.

"I can make arrangements to be where I am needed," Kaage said.

"As to the Title III Community school services, Kaage concluded, "I am in favor of the parks and schools working together whenever it is possible."

Sackett's Plans

Eugene Sackett, candidate for the Wheeling Park Board, told The Herald Tuesday that he will resign from the Community Pool Committee if he is elected to the park board.

Sackett, who had said earlier that he merely would abstain from voting when the pool issue came up, explained that negotiations between the pool committee and the park district could take one or two months.

He said many people wouldn't care if he were a member of both organizations but explained that with him "it's a moral issue."

TO AVOID A conflict of interest, Sackett says he would also sacrifice between $500 and $800 in yearly business the park district usually gives his stationery store.

He compared the profit on park business to the conflict between pool committee interests and park interests in his decision to withdraw from the pool committee if elected.

The candidate said he would not resign his post as president of the Chamber of Commerce over the negotiations for Chamber of Commerce Park. Stressing that he could speak only as an individual and not for the chamber as a whole Sackett said he thinks the negotiations between the park and the chamber will be over by the time a new park board commissioner takes office.

Sackett reported earlier that the chamber members generally felt that the land adjacent to the community pool should be sold to a municipal body which would aid all the town people rather than a commercial interest.

Teachers Work 10 Months

Adlai E. Stevenson High School teachers will work 10 months next year instead of the usual nine.

Both teachers and board of education members tentatively approved the plan more than a year ago but official action did not come until Monday night's regular board meeting. Teachers officially accepted it a week ago.

Students will remain on the present nine-month school year, Supt. Harold Banser said, but additional teaching time will give students an opportunity to work directly with instructors on individual projects, makeup lessons, independent study and similar programs not possible under the present nine-month schedule. TEACHERS WILL have time to develop cooperative teaching, evaluate more instructional objectives, evaluate methods and research material, he added.

"It is important to point out that this is the result of cooperative effort by both teachers and the board of education," Banser said.

"Teachers are willing and want to give more time to education. This is very important to the economical operation of the school district. Both teaching talent and facilities must be used longer than nine months a year if we are to get the most out of our tax dollars."

Seller Bills Roll

Legislation that would permit municipalities to control door-to-door solicitors was reported out of the Illinois House of Representatives yesterday with the recommendation that it be passed.

Two bills, HB 107 and 108, were introduced in the current session of the legislature by Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, granting local government the power to license and regulate direct sellers, a power heretofore denied municipalities by the state government.

THE SCHLICKMAN bills would permit direct sellers to either "register with the Department of Registration and Education or be subject to any municipal licensing or regulation."

The department is authorized to revoke or suspend solicitor permits based on certain guidelines, the same guidelines set down for municipalities.

Supporting the legislation in testimony before the municipalities committee were Steve Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, Robert Van Deusen and Wayne Anderson, managers of Glenview and Evanston, Harold Ross of Field Enterprises and Ernest Wittle, plant manager for the Avon Co.

In other action yesterday, Gov. Richard Ogilvie delivered a nine-point special message on local government, each point of which will be provided with enabling legislation.

The fifth point of the message, of particular interest to the suburban Northwest, would enable municipalities to annex immediately contiguous territory without having to go through special elections.

CURRENT LAW requires that towns abide by the decision of property owners in the territory, with a 51 per cent favorable vote being required for annexation of areas larger than 60 acres.

A bill introduced yesterday by Schlickman would permit the courts to decide if a piece of property should be included within the corporate boundaries of a municipality.

Petitions for involuntary annexation would have to ensure that regional plans are satisfied and that full municipal services, including water, sewer, fire and police protection, are available for the area to be annexed.

The bill was referred for hearing to the house municipalities committee.

Gifts of Land Are Supported

A story in Wednesday's Herald implied incorrectly that Wheeling Park District Pres. Bernie Erlin is against donations of land to the park district and school district by housing developers.

Erlin has taken a stand against the park district reviewing internal recreational facilities in developments for the village. However, he strongly backs donations land acquired by the village for the park and school districts.

Wheeling Mailman Cited

Gerald Schaefer, 53 S. Wille, Wheeling was recently awarded a superior accomplishment award along with a check for $250 by the U.S. Post Office.

Schaefer, a transit mail expiditer at the post offices north suburban facility in Franklin Park, received the award from Stanley S. Rakowski, operations manager.

Rakowski says Schaefer exemplifies the many dedicated postal workers in the U.S. Schaefer, his wife, Diana, and daughter, Virginia, are members of St. Joseph's Church in Wheeling. A graduate of Prospect High School, Schaefer started his postal career six years ago in Des Plaines.

the judgment of the commission show the highest ratio of pupils for whom additional classrooms are required."

Mrs. Clawes insists she based her February, 1968, complaint on her belief that other districts were more needy.

Mrs. Clawes, a nine-year resident of Prospect Heights, has been attending board meetings for four years. She claims that in her experience "there is a very definite lack of communications between the board and the community. They are rude to other board members and those who come and question."

THE BOARD could at least supply extra copies of meeting agendas to visitors, she contends. "It's pretty awful to sit there night after night and not know what they are talking about. That's why I bought my own copy of the Illinois School Code."

"They should make people feel welcome. You are now told you can't say thus and such until you feel, 'Boy you don't dare breathe.' They are human beings and I know they make mistakes. They are not above reproach."

Mrs. Clawes is a member of the "Citizens for Better Schools" group which has a history of watch-dogging the school system.

"We have listed objections and sent it to every board member in detail," she says. "We were never really recognized. Any communications we have go to the president of the school board and the superintendent."

Mrs. Clawes objected strenuously to former Superintendent Louis Pansino. "Truthfully," she says, "I didn't think the man was most truthful."

SHE CHARGES Pansino misled the board by telling them "financially they were fine."

"When the last 21 cent referendum failed the board should have come back right away to the people," she says. "Then we wouldn't be in this circumstance. I sat at many board meetings and heard that man (Pansino) say everything's fine. I didn't like the way he always had an answer."

Mrs. Clawes says she is "all for" new Superintendent Edward Grodzky. "He is not a glib person. He doesn't have a master's degree in every problem brought up. He is forthright and will tell you if he doesn't know an answer."

She does not agree with Caucus candidate John Stull's position approving police counselors in the schools. "Why not go for a social worker or a full-time psychologist if they really have a problem? I have seen police counselors in school work and don't like the way they approach children. I think it's crude. I have some friends in the teaching profession in District 21 and they are not the least bit pleased with the police counselors. Others in other districts feel there is a need for police counselors."

ON THE SUBJECT of incorporating the major Palatine Road school campus site into the village of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Clawes says: "I would hate to see just part of our schools and not all get it."

Mrs. Clawes would prefer to incorporate the entire Prospect Heights area into another village. "I think we're going to have to take a long look and go as a package. I have no preference as to which village. I certainly have mixed feelings, but times are changing and we just can't stand still."

If elected to the school board Mrs. Clawes says she would immediately begin to investigate consolidation with District

25 in Arlington Heights. "District 23 would lose its identity. That's going to hurt but the children would have more to gain. I realize people in town would fight it."

Mrs. Clawes would like to work with parochial schools to "help" them. "It's cheaper than bringing the children into the public schools," she comments.

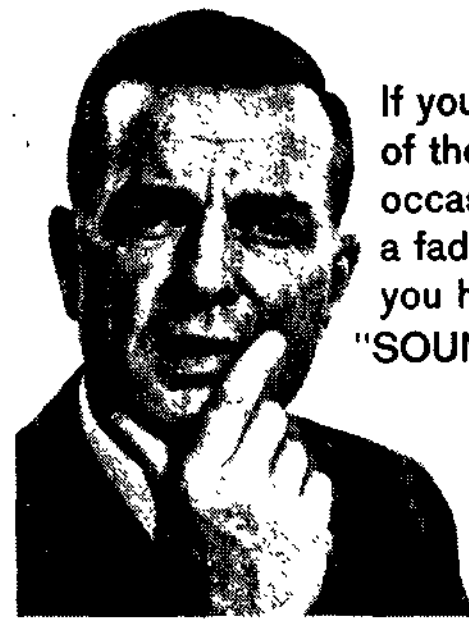

SHE WOULD support aid to parochial schools if "there's any way within the Constitution to do it."

Among Mrs. Clawes' friends and acquaintances are members of the Caucus Party and she says, "Personally I hope every person will let their conscience be their guide. If I am elected they know one thing, I'll find answers and won't give up."

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that:

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $26,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.18 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead.

Danger Corner May Be Eliminated

Wheeling may be able to avoid a dangerous intersection in its layout of streets, the village board learned Monday.

The layout of Denoyer Trail in the Hollywood Park Apartment development may not be fixed by law as village officials had thought.

Denoyer Trail, which was approved on the village's official map as an extension of Elmhurst Road, would intersect McHenry Road approximately 300 feet southeast of Elmhurst Road.

The road, which had been designated as a collector street, had been called hazardous by Wheeling Police Chief M.O. Horcher and Leon Bouvier, a planning commission member who opposed the jogged intersection in a minority report to the village board.

A PLAN ON the layout of the road as it is on the new official map had been included in a contract between Mrs. Kenia B. Denoyer and Hollywood Builders, who bought the land.

The village board and plan commission had been told during public hearings that the layout of Denoyer Trail was fixed by an easement by prescription included in that contract. It was said that Mrs. Denoyer would not change the layout of the road.

Horcher discovered this is not true last week, however. He talked to Mrs. Denoyer, her attorney, Horace Young, and her brother, Oliver Bilhorn.

Horcher told Village Mgr. C. E. Olsen that both Mrs. Denoyer, who is vacationing in Florida, and her brother thought the proposed Denoyer Trail went through the south and east edges of the proposed development in line with Elmhurst Road.

HORCHER'S report noted that Bilhorn "is sure Mrs. Denoyer would not lend any support to anything so dangerous, particularly when she has such an interest in public welfare, safety and so many years as a Girl Scout leader."

Her concern, Horcher reported, was that there be access to her property, which lies north of the development.

Manny S. Kramer of Hollywood Builders and Michael Valenza, planning commission chairman, said they were both ignorant of the fact that Mrs. Denoyer was willing to change the layout.

Kramer agreed to call Mrs. Denoyer and cooperate with the village board on getting the layout straightened out.

Before the board passed the new official map, which includes the jog in the intersection, Kramer agreed orally to hold up his preliminary plan submission to the plan commission until new hearings on the layout of the road could determine if the official map should be amended.

"WE WILL BE more than happy to do whatever you want to do as far as safety," Kramer told the trustees.

Further discussion of the matter is slated for the April 14 board agenda.

Horcher said the village board could credit itself with saving two to four lives a year, potentially, by reconsidering the layout of the corner.

He said the layout as on the new official map would have involved two left turns, the most dangerous legal driving maneuver, affecting traffic coming from Mundelein to the shopping area in Wheeling and children walking to Field and London schools.

He also added that traffic from the Mundelein area to Wheeling has doubled in the last six months.

Kids Get Praise for Cut in Smoking

Adlai E. Stevenson High School's Student Council got a vote of thanks from Dist. 125's board of education Monday night, when Supt. Harold Banzer reported that the student smoking problem is diminishing.

"A concentrated effort by students and faculty has resulted in keeping smoking at a minimum, particularly in the boys' washrooms," Banzer explained. "We have not been quite as successful with the girls, however, perhaps because we have fewer ladies on the faculty."

Pres. William Salzman reminded the board that this was the direct result of last month's parents' meeting which was organized by the student council to explore ways of getting smokers out of the washrooms.

washrooms.

"THEY FACED UP to a lot of criticism and their idea for a smoking room did not get parental approval, but they deserve a big vote of thanks from this board for trying to find a solution," Salzman said.

"We should always keep an open mind and an ear to the student council and encourage them to bring ideas to our board meetings."

Banzer told the board that he hopes the trend to reduce smoking will continue but suggested that additional supervision may be required if the problem should increase. The board agreed.

Slightly related to the smoking problem was a report by Edwin Griffith, administrative assistant, who recommended that Stevenson participate in a communitywide program designed to halt the use of drugs among young people.

He suggested that a citizen's committee of 12 to 18 members be organized, including parents, law enforcement officers, clergy, an attorney, businessmen and school people.

He said it should not be directed by the high school but should be organized and directed by citizens in the community. Griffith also told the board of plans to expand an educational program on drug abuse within the schools.

WHILE THE BOARD took no official action on the proposal, it told Griffith to continue his contacts with people in the community who are interested in forming a group. Board member Lorenz Schmidt suggested that the board schedule a special meeting to discuss the whole area of drug abuse and determine ways to combat it.

A brief report presented by Banzer showed that students and teachers are enthusiastic about many of the programs offered during mid-term week in January.

"Over 39 per cent of the students were highly favorable to the program," Banzer told the board. "46 per cent were favorable, 11 per cent were so-so and only 4 per cent thought the whole idea was poor."

Sixty-six per cent of the teachers who rated the students' reports on the program were favorable or highly favorable. Ten per cent said student analysis was poor and 24 per cent rated them so-so.

Scouts Sell Brooms For Camping Money

Boy Scout Troop 140 from Buffalo Grove is holding a broom sale to help send 25 Scouts to summer camp.

The boys will attend Camp Napowan, west of Milwaukee, for two weeks to cook their own meals, swim, hike and practice first aid.

The camp will cost $48 per boy, and the troop hopes to raise half of the cost through the broom sale.

Brooms, which sell for $2 each, are available by calling 537-0016.

Emblem Is Chosen

An emblem was chosen by the Park District from Wheeling High School entries at a board meeting held at Heritage Park.

First place for designing the new emblem of the Wheeling Park District was taken by Mary Lang of 753 S. Dennis Road, Wheeling. She will receive a $25 Arlington Heights. The colors the board agreed on were to be green and yellow.

On the average, each student completed at least 25 hours of work during the week, Banzer said, and some participated in 40 to 44 hours. Only 20 per cent completed less than 25.

The board has suggestions for improving the program for next year from both students and teachers. Banzer said, adding every one of them will be examined.

IN OTHER ACTION the board added Thursday, April 3, to the Easter vacation which also includes April 4 and 7. This coincides with action taken by grade schools in the area, Banzer explained.

The board also made a slight change in election precincts to coincide with elementary schools in the area. Voters living in elementary Dist. 103 on the east side of the Des Plaines River will cast ballots at the Laura Sprague School. This includes residents of Lincolnshire Bluffs, recently annexed to Dist. 103. Residents of the west side of the Des Plaines River will vote at the high school. Others voting at the high school include residents of elementary school districts 73, 76 and 79.

High school voters living in elementary Dist. 96 will cast ballots at the Kildeer Countryside School and residents of elementary Dist. 102 will vote at the Aptakisic-Tripp School.

The superintendent reported that a teacher, who wished to remain anonymous, had donated a baby grand piano to the school.

Contract details were discussed with architect Conrad Kristmann, representing Erickson, Kristmann and Stillwaugh, recently selected to construct Stevenson's building addition. Final acceptance was delayed until the regular April meeting, but the administrative staff was instructed to work with the architect on addition plans.

The next regular board meeting will be held on Monday, April 21.

Schoolmen Beam Over Aid

News that the Illinois School Problems Commission has recommended a state increase from $400 to $550 had schoolmen beaming Monday.

They said, "Great!" and "Wonderful!" on hearing that the commission's recommendations call for only a slight increase in the effort-level tax and ask that state aid be computed next year on the basis of average daily enrollment, not average daily attendance.

Asst. Supt. John Barger said the increase could bring Wheeling Dist. 21 at least $783,400 more in state aid next year.

"It could go up close to $1 million if we get the increased enrollment we're afraid we'll get," Barger added.

PETER BAKAS, business manager of Arlington Heights Dist. 25, pegged his district's gain from the proposed state aid increase at $600,000 or better.

He called the increase "substantial."

The increase apparently will be sufficient to benefit even High School Dist. 214, whose assessed valuation is large enough that until now all it has been able to gain from the state aid is a minimum flat grant of $54 per pupil.

A report's estimates peg the state aid increase for Dist. 214 at $750,000, should the School Problems Commission's figures be accepted by the legislature.

Not every schoolman queried locally is sure that the money will come through.

"I am confident that our legislature will do everything they can do to implement these recommendations," asserted James Lawrence, Palatine-Schaumburg Dist. 211 business manager.

"WE ARE NOT GOING TO count the money till it is in the bank, however," he added.

Lawrence noted that this summer the school problems commission had recommended a state aid increase to $600.

The schoolmen said the state aid money is badly needed.

Barger said the state aid will be a "very big help" in helping the Wheeling district make ends meet.

"We can't even begin to negotiate with our teachers until we get more money," Barger noted.

Supt. Wayne Schaible of Schaumburg Dist. 54, one of the poorest in the county, struck much the same note.

"The more we can get the better. We need every cent we can get our hands on," Schaible asserted.

THE COMMISSION recommended that the effort-level tax, officially known as the "qualifying rate," be raised from 84 to 90 cents.

Converting from average daily attendance to average daily enrollment will mean an aid increase of 8 per cent for most districts. The average daily attendance figure, which takes into account pupils' absences, is usually that much lower than enrollment in suburban schools. City schools have an even higher absence record.

No district will get the full $550 recommended by the commission.

The state pays a per-pupil state aid based on the difference between the $550 (or the $400 used this year) and the amount the local district can raise per pupil by levying the effort-level tax.

Students See Museum

The four first grade classes of Alcott School in Buffalo Grove visited the Hinsdale Health Museum this week.

The museum was established and is being maintained by the Kettering Foundation as a public service to inspire healthful living through increased knowledge of the human body.

Field trips are arranged to include a presentation by the talking transparent woman and two of the following units: brain and nervous system; the special senses; heart and circulatory systems; reproductive systems; and skeletal system.

Lectures are frequently supplemented by films from the museum's library.

Candidates to Meet Dist. 23 Teachers

Candidates for the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board will meet Dist. 23 teachers Monday at 3:15 at the MacArthur Junior High School cafeteria.

The meeting is an attempt to acquaint the teachers with the personalities and issues in the current campaign.

Ask NASA Aid

A search for 10,000 square feet of space initiated by Robert Waller, science curriculum coordinator for School Dist. 59, has been expanded to include the talents of State Rep. Gene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

The space, sought for a National Aeronautics and Space Administration exhibit of space hardware, and possibly geological specimens of the moon, is needed for six weeks early next year. It must have sufficient facilities to handle an expected attendance of 100,000 persons throughout the display month.

In an exchange of letters, Dr. Donald Thomas, district superintendent, said all arrangements have been made with NASA, but as yet there is no suitable facility available.

HE ASKED Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl, "If there is anything you could do to make it possible for us to use Arlington Park or an appropriate industrial site, we shall appreciate your help."

Arlington Park race track is preferred for the exhibit, but track management is reluctant to participate, Dist. 59 spokesman said.

Pahl passed the word on to Schlickman on Monday, with the note "Would you please get Arlington Park in this COG project?"

The Cook County Council of Government (COG) is supporting the planned exhibit. Pahl also informed Thomas of the bid for Schlickman's help.

NEEDED is a minimum of 10,000 square feet, with 18-foot ceilings, as well as adequate parking and other necessary facilities. The parking situation has eliminated most high school fieldhouses, in addition to the six week block of time needed during the school year.

Waller, who is heading up the local project, can be reached at the School Dist. 59 administration center. He noted that the exhibit is designed for about 40,000 area students, as well as the general public.

North Wheeling

Michele, daughter of Vern and Betty Bertrand, 294 Edgewood Drive, received her First Holy Communion at St. Joseph the Worker on Sunday. Accompanying her to the altar were her parents, nine of her brothers and sisters and grandmother, Mrs.

Rhea Bertrand. Also present at the breakfast celebration that followed were her uncle, aunt and cousins, the Roy Snodgrass family of Wheeling.

Another First Communicant receiving at St. Joseph the Worker on Sunday was Danny, son of Chris and Dan Sweeney, 156 7th. He was then feted at a brunch at Mr. Ed's with siblings Diane, Bobby, and Laura, grandmother, Mrs. Mae Sweeney, aunt and uncle, Marty and Chuck Bosshardt, and mother, Chris. The guests returned to the Sweeneys' for a barbecue later in the day.

THE VARIETY SHOW held at the high school last weekend prompted a surprise cast party for one of the acts, when Bonnie and Vernon Rieb, 197 N. 6th, played host to the Junior Saddle Tramps after the dress rehearsal. The young square dancers, Jackie Bouvier, Theresa and Annette Colucci, Julie Lewis, Dan Mackie, James Miller, Dave and Steve Rieb, Karen Siegen and James Wallace, chose that occasion to present their caller, Dick Colucci, with a new baseball bat, with their names burned into the wood. In return the youngsters were each given a Junior Saddle Tramp badge, small copies of their parents' senior badges.

In the midst of decorating chores for the Las Vegas night at St. Joseph the Worker, chairman Dolores Messinger rushed her son, Scott, to the emergency room of Holy Family Hospital, after his hand was injured by a slipping rock. The nine-year-old had broken two bones in his hand, but excessive swelling delayed the setting until Tuesday.

THE LARRY MESSINGERS' busy weekend continued as they welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Schuman of Glenview to their 195 7th home on Sunday. The occasion was a dinner celebration of young Larry's March 17 birthday.

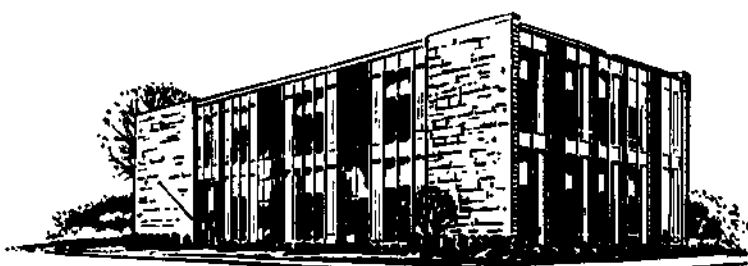

Another happy year for Mrs. Mary Utapdel, 132 S. Wille, whose birthday was March 14. The active septuagenarian greeted 14 friends and family members to a traditional open house on Friday, where son and daughter-in-law, Harold and Margaret Utapdel, 137 S. Wheeling, served refreshments.

There was a full house at 281 S. Wheeling last weekend, when the Jack Mudrys enlarged the family circle to include Agnes' father, Joseph Danko, and her brother and family, the Frank Dankos. A resident of Detroit, Mr. Danko was visiting his son in Holland, Mich., when they decided on an impromptu drive to Wheeling.

The younger set gathered at Judy and Tony Tumbarello's, 146 7th, on Saturday afternoon to celebrate Tim's sixth birthday, March 16. Under Karen Schneider's able direction were Billy Klaproth, Tina Huberty, Christine Lemetter, Elroy and Marlene Reiter, Susie Narowetz, Michael Messinger, Frank Racnelli, Peter Schneider and Tim.

ALSO ADDING another year March 16 was Jim, son of Jean and Jim Norris, 167 7th. He shared his cake with Laura Sweeney and Tim and Tom Tumbarello, after party games on Monday. Four-year-old Jim was fêted by his parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Norris and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ormaniec, at a gathering on Sunday.

Reactivate Pueblo Group

To Help Other Prisoners

by MARY DRESSER

Rev. Paul Lindstrom of Prospect Heights is reactivating the "Remember the Pueblo Committee" to fight for the repatriation of American prisoners in foreign countries.

Lindstrom charged Wednesday that the United States Government paid ransom to North Korea to obtain the release of the crew of the U.S. Pueblo.

They also gave them the right to the ship," said Lindstrom. "The ship has been moved from Wan San to an area south of the Russian border and is being used for propaganda purposes in Iraq and the Congo. It has become the 'USSR Pueblo'."

LINDSTROM CONTINUES to protest the Pueblo affair and contends the Pueblo is merely an incident in a pattern of soft response from the State Department.

"Thousands of American citizens have been denied their rights and are now suffering punishment and torture," he said. Lindstrom said 389 American servicemen who were captured during the Korean War have never been accounted for. He also wants to focus attention on approximately 500 Americans held by the Viet Cong, the six Americans recently taken from their fishing boat by the Chinese Communists, "probably 100 or more flyers held by the Laotians," and American missionaries held by various Communist countries.

"Even if there is a truce in Paris, we're going to have to stand up and fight for these men," said Lindstrom. "How can we be sure we'll get all our boys back?"

Lindstrom said the "Remember the Pueblo" group will continue to remain intact as an organization until all American citizens being detained are released.

The committee is forming new groups and enlarging the scope of its activities, he said.

"WE ARE THE only organized group that is representing American citizens and property abroad," he said.

Lindstrom says he has been in touch with parents of the Pueblo crewmen and hopes to talk to the men themselves following the current trial of Comdr. Lloyd Bucher.

"I talked with a man from Korea this Sunday and he says the ransom deal is generally accepted in South Korea. Some parents of the crew members also know this is true."

Lindstrom accused the State Department of doing nothing for prisoners but "making a lot of noise and issuing a protest note each year."

This attitude is the reason other countries consider themselves safe to attack American ships such as the Pueblo, he said.

There will continue to be instances similar to the Pueblo," he added.

"We make demands and they laugh at us," he said. "We never get apologies from anyone."

Four Injured in 'Freak'

by ANNE HEDBACK

A four-car accident in a parking lot in Wheeling Wednesday evening resulted in minor injuries to four children and damages totaling approximately $7,000.

Phyllis J. Dempsey, 37, of 3504 Brookmeade, Rolling Meadows, was charged with driving off the roadway in connection with the accident.

Mrs. Dempsey's car missed the curve on Milwaukee Avenue just south of Dundee Road. Her 1967 Cadillac went into the showroom lot of North Shore Rambler Sales at 52 S. Milwaukee.

The car first hit a new AMX sports car in display in the lot, pushed that car into a 1968 Rogue Rambler and then hit a Volkswagen occupied by four children.

The children were the sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lance E. Warnke, 1200 S. Lake St. Mundelein.

THE THREE YOUNGEST children, Tony, 6; Richard, 3; and Darcy, 2, received cuts on their faces and heads. Donna, 7, received an injury to her left leg. All four were treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and released.

Mrs. Warnke said yesterday that she and her husband had been inside the Rambler showroom looking at cars when they heard a crash. "My husband yelled 'My car,'" she said, "and then we ran outside and heard the kids screaming and yelling."

She told the Herald the children seemed all right yesterday, but said she was keeping them home from school and planned to have them examined again by a doctor.

Rex Ayers, of 528 W. Hawley, Mundelein, also described the events of the accident. Ayers, manager of the Rambler dealership, told the Herald that Mrs. Dempsey's car struck the Volkswagen first when it entered the lot and then spun around to hit it a second time. Ayers said Darcy Warnke had about eight or 10 cuts on her face and that he and the children's parents had tried to stop the bleeding while waiting for police to arrive.

AYERS IS THE owner of the 1968 Rogue which was damaged in the accident. Damages on that car were estimated at $275.

Ayers said the AMX, a car which belongs to North Shore Motors, is equivalent to a Corvette. Police reports indicated the AMX was possibly a total loss because of damages to the frame of the car.

Other damages were estimated by police as $900 to Mrs. Dempsey's car and $1,200 to the Warnkes' Volkswagen.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday he thought the accident was "quite unusual."

Horcher said he could not remember any similar accidents in the same area of Milwaukee Avenue. He noted that drivers in the village have at other times managed to hit houses, business places and even an airplane by driving off the road.

A May 6 court date has been set in Arlington Heights Municipal Court No. 2 for the hearing on the charge against Mrs. Dempsey.

'Soft' Judges a Common Problem: Taylor

The problem of judges who "go soft" on municipal ordinance violations is not unique to Buffalo Grove, says Joseph Taylor, public prosecutor for the village.

Taylor told the Buffalo Grove village board Monday that tightening village ordinances would not result in more convictions.

The courts are not going to get excited about first violations of a garbage can ordinance, Taylor explained.

If prior violations are called to a judge's attention, it is sometimes easier to get convictions, he noted.

"IF WE CAN'T ENFORCE ordinances people will laugh at us," complained Village Pres. Donald Thompson.

At this point, Taylor invited trustee Charles Wilhelm to attend a court session with him and explain the situation to the presiding judge.

Violations of the 20-mile speed limit in Buffalo Grove are difficult to prosecute unless the ticket is issued for speeding 10 miles or more above the limit, Taylor told the board.

"If a ticket is issued for three or four miles over the limit, the judge will throw it out. Now with 10 miles we get a better reaction because it doesn't look like nit-picking," he said.

Taylor said members of the Buffalo Grove Police Department made a favorable impression on judges because they come into court and present a case dispassionately.

"Judges see some policemen from other areas come in with guns slung low," he observed. "This antagonizes the judge. After all, we're not out to hang people for a traffic offense."

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grunance) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

Amounts listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

Case Against Field Is Alive

The Wheeling case against Field Enterprises is still alive and kicking in the state appellate court, according to Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

Hamer denied rumors that Wheeling has lost the case trusting the village solicitation ordinance.

Last November the case was transferred from the first to the third district court because of a heavy case load.

There has been no decision against the village, Hamer said. In the event of an unfavorable decision, Hamer assumes the village will direct him to take the case to the Illinois Supreme Court.

He is confident he can win the case against Field in the state supreme court because of a 1952 decision in the United States Supreme Court.

THE DECISION, Breard vs. the City of Alexandria, La., backs the right to prohibit unsolicited solicitation.

According to Hamer, Breard vs. the City of Alexandria applied the First Amendment guaranteeing freedom of speech to "oral advocates of ideas and the press" and distinguished between newspapers and magazines.

Magazine subscriptions and encyclopedias, Hamer said.

"We have the right to prevent and abate a nuisance," said Hamer. "Now we have to determine whether door-to-door solicitation is a nuisance."

Youth Group Accepts Office Offer, Maybe

The Arlington Heights Youth Council has voted to accept High School Dist. 214's offer of office space to permit the council to operate a clearing house for summer employment of youth.

The acceptance was made contingent on the village's providing someone to man the office.

School Stand Told

by MARY DRESSER

Mrs. Jo Ellen Claws, independent candidate for the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board, says her stand on the recent request for a state-built school is being misinterpreted by her opponents.

According to Mrs. Claws, "Never was I opposed to receiving assistance from the state in the form of a state-built school. I was opposed to the site as I feel the growth in our school district is in the Northwest section (north of Palatine Road)."

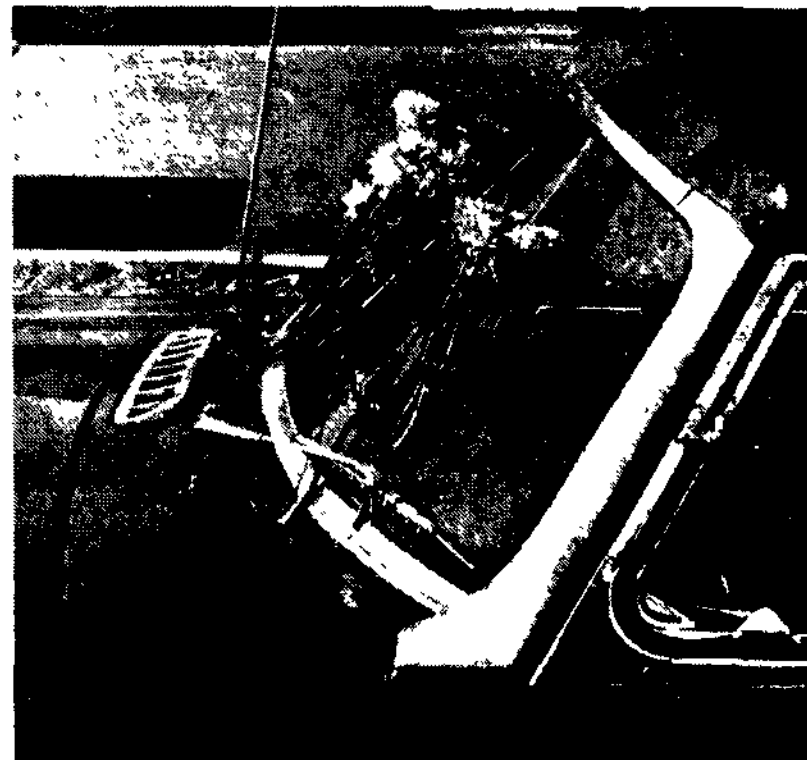

"My appearance before the Illinois School Building Commission took place when I learned of some discrepancies in the application they had received."

"According to the formula used by and for the ISBC, our district received more than its share. There were rooms taken out of use to enable us to receive more. As money for state-built schools comes from all over the state, I felt, and still do, and heard testimony at commission meetings, to the effect, that other districts in the state were in far greater need than we were. I object strongly to anyone receiving anything under false pretenses."

Wednesday's "Spotlight" column by Patricia Rolling Meadows City Editor Ed Murnane is a prime example of the unconscious parochialism that devils suburbanites.

Murnane suggested the new Dist. 214 high school located in Rolling Meadows, he named "Rolling Meadows High School." This, he said, would bring the districts' seventh high school in line with the four high schools already named for local villages.

I respect Murnane as a fine journalist, but reject this line of thinking, because he is making the community identity more important than the school identity.

Schools are built to serve and educate children, not to boost community pride and parochialism.

Elementary schools in Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights are named for human beings who have served the world and their fellow men.

Schools named for Robert Frost, Louisa May Alcott and Ann Sullivan have more meaning to students than schools named for streets or towns.

FOLLOWING Murnane's reasoning, the eighth Dist. 214 high school should be named Buffalo Grove High School.

I emphatically oppose the idea.

Buffalo Grove residents have a legitimate pride in their community as do the people of Wheeling or Rolling Meadows.

However, because people are proud of their village, it doesn't follow that they should run around labeling schools "Buffalo Grove High School" or "Rolling Meadows High School." The schools are for the students.

The name of a school is important to students because they identify with it. Students at Wheeling can't write letters to Mr. Wheeling as Hersey students do to John Hersey. Students at "Rolling Meadows High School" have little hope that they will get the day off if and when "Mr. Rolling Meadows" gets the Nobel Prize.

All students at Arlington High School get from their school name is a certain identification with the seventh race at the track.

People are eager to stand up at a PTA meeting and say "our children should have heroes to look up to." Then they turn around and insist their local high school be named after a geographic area.

THE CHILDREN will grow up and move from these villages. In later years, Rolling Meadows High or Wheeling High will mean little to them, but Carl Sandburg, Walt Whitman or Eugene Field will be part of their education because these were honored and respected human beings.

Besides, not all the children going to "Rolling Meadows High School" will be from Rolling Meadows any more than all the children going to Wheeling High School are from Wheeling.

Months ago, I suggested in a column that the new school in Rolling Meadows be named for living black author, James Baldwin. John Hersey kidded me about it in a letter. He said he didn't think the area was yet up to that idea.

Jack Martin, assistant to the Dist. 214 superintendent, would like Leonard Bernstein High School because Martin thinks the musical arts should be honored.

I like Martin's idea. For that matter I would approve a Harry Truman High School, or a James Forrestal High School, or even a John Lennon High School.

But not a Buffalo Grove High School.

Kaage Wants More Area Parks

by ELAINE JULISON

"I would like to see all the activities the park has to offer extended to various locations throughout the area," said George Kaage, candidate for the Wheeling Park Board.

He said he has always been interested in sports and has been active in participating in the activities of the park district for the last six years.

He and his wife Eleanor live at 511 Bernice Court. Their children George Jr., 13; Deborah, 12; William, 10, and John, 7, are also very active in park programs.

"It is quite difficult," Kaage said, "driving back and forth so the children are able to attend. I have heard so many children miss out because they lack the transportation to Heritage Park."

"At present I am vice president of the Wheeling Athletic Association, and I have been sitting in on some of the park meetings, but I must admit," Kaage said, "it is all very new to me. If I am elected, I will give it 100 per cent."

SOME OF THE park people have been anxious to have someone on the board who knows problems from the players' standpoint, someone who would come up with some new ideas to help the park program, he said.

Kaage said he would like to see a better set-up at Mark Twain and Jack London schools.

Programs for adults? "Well, Kaage answered, "You can't beat that volleyball team. Yes, I am in favor of programs for the adults."

He also is for using park land for retention basin. "It can serve a dual purpose, relieving the flood situation, and for the park, sail boating, canoeing and other activities. "I think the superintendent we have now is doing a great job," he said.

George Kaage

"Another project for the park is to get going on a teen center," said Kaage. "I think there is a great need for one in this area, and I believe it is in the planning stages at this time."

He advocated a program for football in the district.

Children entering high school interested in playing really have no background and have to start from scratch, he said.

"Let's face it," Kaage said, "kids are going to play football anyway, why not under the guidance of good teachers and coaches?"

KAAGE WOULD like to see more tennis and ice hockey and a skating rink at all the schools in the district, funds permitting.

He would like to see another park building on the west side of Wheeling, and, if that is not possible, an arrangement with the school bus service to transport the children living some distance from Heritage Park.

Kaage anticipated no problem when questioned about the advantage his opponent Eugene Sackett has working right in the area.

"I can make arrangements to be where I am needed," Kaage said.

"As to the Title III Community school services, Kaage concluded, "I am in favor of the parks and schools working together whenever it is possible."

Sackett's Plans

Eugene Sackett, candidate for the Wheeling Park Board, told The Herald Tuesday that he will resign from the Community Pool Committee if he is elected to the park board.

Sackett, who had said earlier that he merely would abstain from voting when the pool issue came up, explained that negotiations between the pool committee and the park district could take one or two months.

He said many people wouldn't care if he were a member of both organizations but explained that with him "it's a moral issue."

TO AVOID A conflict of interest, Sackett says he would also sacrifice between $500 and $800 in yearly business the park district usually gives his stationery store.

He compared the profit on park business to the conflict between pool committee interests and park interests in his decision to withdraw from the pool committee if elected.

The candidate said he would not resign his post as president of the Chamber of Commerce over the negotiations for Chamber of Commerce Park. Stressing that he could speak only as an individual and not for the chamber as a whole Sackett said he thinks the negotiations between the park and the chamber will be over by the time a new park board commissioner takes office.

Sackett reported earlier that the chamber members generally felt that the land adjacent to the community pool should be sold to a municipal body which would aid all the town people rather than a commercial interest.

Teachers Work 10 Months

Adlai E. Stevenson High School teachers will work 10 months next year instead of the usual nine.

Both teachers and board of education members tentatively approved the plan more than a year ago but official action did not come until Monday night's regular board meeting. Teachers officially accepted it a week ago.

Students will remain on the present nine-month school year, Supt. Harold Banner said, but additional teaching time will give students an opportunity to work directly with instructors on individual projects, make-up lessons, independent study and similar programs not possible under the present nine-month schedule. TEACHERS WILL have time to develop cooperative teaching projects, explore instructional objectives, evaluate methods and research material, he added.

"It is important to point out that this is the result of cooperative effort by both teachers and the board of education," Banner said.

"Teachers are willing and want to give more time to education. This is very important to the economical operation of the school district. Both teaching talent and facilities must be used longer than nine months a year if we are to get the most out of our tax dollars."

Seller Bills Roll

Legislation that would permit municipalities to control door-to-door solicitors was reported out of the municipalities committee of the Illinois House of Representatives yesterday with the recommendation that it be passed.

Two bills, HB 107 and 108, were introduced in the current session of the legislature by Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, granting local government the power to license and regulate direct sellers, a power heretofore denied municipalities by the state government.

THE SCHLICKMAN bills would permit direct sellers to either "register with the Department of Registration and Education or be subject to any municipal licensing or regulation."

The department is authorized to revoke or suspend solicitor permits based on certain guidelines, the same guidelines set down for municipalities.

Supporting the legislation in testimony before the municipalities committee were Steve Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, Robert Van Deusen and Wayne Anderson, managers of Glenview and Evanston, Harold Ross of Field Enterprises and Ernest Wittle, plant manager for the Avon Co.

In other action yesterday, Gov. Richard Ogilvie delivered a nine-point special message on local government, each point of which will be provided with enabling legislation.

The fifth point of the message, of particular interest to the suburban Northwest, would enable municipalities to annex immediately contiguous territory without having to go through special elections.

CURRENT LAW requires that towns abide by the decision of property owners in the territory, with a 51 per cent favorable vote being required for annexation of areas larger than 60 acres.

A bill introduced yesterday by Schlickman would permit the courts to decide if a piece of property should be included within the corporate boundaries of a municipality.

Petitions for involuntary annexation would have to ensure that regional plans are satisfied and that full municipal services, including water, sewer, fire and police protection, are available for the area to be annexed.

The bill was referred for hearing to the house municipalities committee.

Gifts of Land Are Supported

A story in Wednesday's Herald implied incorrectly that Wheeling Park District Pres. Bernie Erlin is against donations of land to the park district and school district by housing developers.

Erlin has taken a stand against the park district reviewing internal recreational facilities in developments for the village. However, he strongly backs donations land acquired by the village for the park and school districts.

15 Youths To Be Confirmed

Reactivate Pueblo Group

To Help Other Prisoners

by MARY DRESSER

Rev. Paul Lindstrom of Prospect Heights is reactivating the "Remember the Pueblo Committee" to fight for the repatriation of American prisoners in foreign countries.

Lindstrom charged Wednesday that the United States Government paid ransom to North Korea to obtain the release of the crew of the U.S. Pueblo.

"They also gave them the right to the ship," said Lindstrom. "The ship has been moved from Wan San to an area south of the Russian border and is being used for propaganda purposes in Iraq and the Congo. It has become the 'USSR Pueblo'."

LINDSTROM CONTINUES to protest the Pueblo affair and contends the Pueblo is merely an incident in a pattern of soft response from the State Department.

Thousands of American citizens have been denied their rights and are now suffering punishment and torture," he said.

Lindstrom said 389 American servicemen who were captured during the Korean War have never been accounted for.

He also wants to focus attention on approximately 500 Americans held by the Viet Cong, the six Americans recently taken from their fishing boat by the Chinese Communists, "probably 100 or more flyers held by the Laotians," and American missionaries held by various Communist countries.

"Even if there is a truce in Paris, we're going to have to stand up and fight for these men," said Lindstrom. "How can we be sure we'll get all our boys back?"

Lindstrom said the "Remember the Pueblo" group will continue to remain intact as an organization until all American citizens being detained are released.

The committee is forming new groups and enlarging the scope of its activities, he said.

"WE ARE THE only organized group that is representing American citizens and property abroad," he said.

Lindstrom says he has been in touch with parents of the Pueblo crewmen and hopes to talk to the men themselves following the current trial of Comdr. Lloyd Bucher.

"I talked with a man from Korea this Sunday and he says the ransom deal is generally accepted in South Korea. Some parents of the crew members also know this is true."

Lindstrom accused the State Department of doing nothing for prisoners but "making a lot of noise and issuing a protest note each year."

This attitude is the reason other countries consider themselves safe to attack American ships such as the Pueblo, he said.

There will continue to be instances similar to the Pueblo," he added.

"We make demands and they laugh at us," he said. "We never get apologies from anyone."

Four Injured in 'Freak'

by ANNE HEDBACK

A four-car accident in a parking lot in Wheeling Wednesday evening resulted in minor injuries to four children and damages totaling approximately $7,000.

Phyllis J. Dempsey, 37, of 3504 Brookmeade, Rolling Meadows, was charged with driving off the roadway in connection with the accident.

Mrs. Dempsey's car missed the curve on Milwaukee Avenue just south of Dundee Road. Her 1967 Cadillac went into the showroom lot of North Shore Rambler Sales at 52 S. Milwaukee.

The car first hit a new AMX sports car in display in the lot, pushed that car into a 1968 Rogue Rambler and then hit a Volkswagen occupied by four children.

The children were the sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lance E. Warnke, 1200 S. Lake St. Mundelein.

THE THREE YOUNGEST children, Tony, 6; Richard, 3; and Darcy, 2, received cuts on their faces and heads. Donna, 7, received an injury to her left leg. All four were treated at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and released.

Mrs. Warnke said yesterday that she and her husband had been inside the Rambler showroom looking at cars when they heard a crash. "My husband yelled 'My car,'" she said, "and then we ran outside and heard the kids screaming and yelling."

She told the Herald the children seemed all right yesterday, but said she was keeping them home from school and planned to have them examined again by a doctor.

Rex Ayers, of 528 W. Hawley, Mundelein, also described the events of the accident. Ayers, manager of the Rambler dealership, told the Herald that Mrs. Dempsey's car struck the Volkswagen first when it entered the lot and then spun around to hit it a second time. Ayers said Darcy Warnke had about eight or 10 cuts on her face and that he and the children's parents had tried to stop the bleeding while waiting for police to arrive.

AYERS IS THE owner of the 1968 Rogue which was damaged in the accident. Damages on that car were estimated at $275.

Other damages were estimated by police as $900 to Mrs. Dempsey's car and $1,200 to the Warnkes' Volkswagen.

identification with the seventh race at the track.

People are eager to stand up at a PTA meeting and say "our children should have heroes to look up to." Then they turn around and insist their local high school be named after a geographic area.

THE CHILDREN will grow up and move from these villages. In later years, Rolling Meadows High or Wheeling High will mean little to them, but Carl Sandburg, Walt Whitman or Eugene Field will be part of their education because these were honored and respected human beings.

Besides, not all the children going to "Rolling Meadows High School" will be from Rolling Meadows any more than all the children going to Wheeling High School are from Wheeling.

Months ago, I suggested in a column that the new school in Rolling Meadows be named for living black author, James Baldwin. John Hersey kidded me about it in a letter. He said he didn't think the area was yet up to that idea.

Jack Martin, assistant to the Dist. 214 superintendent, would like Leonard Bernstein High School because Martin thinks the musical arts should be honored.

I like Martin's idea. For that matter I would approve a Harry Truman High School, or a James Forrestal High School, or even a John Lennon High School.

But not a Buffalo Grove High School.

Kaage Wants More Area Parks

by ELAINE JULISON

"I would like to see all the activities the park has to offer extended to various locations throughout the area," said George Kaage, candidate for the Wheeling Park Board.

He said he has always been interested in sports and has been active in participating in the activities of the park district for the last six years.

He and his wife Eleanor live at 511 Bernice Court. Their children George Jr., 13; Deborah, 12; William, 10, and John, 7, are also very active in park programs.

"It is quite difficult," Kaage said, "driving back and forth so the children are able to attend. I have heard so many children miss out because they lack the transportation to Heritage Park."

"At present I am vice president of the Wheeling Athletic Association, and I have been sitting in on some of the park meetings, but I must admit," Kaage said, "it is all very new to me. If I am elected, I will give it 100 per cent."

SOME OF THE park people have been anxious to have someone on the board who knows problems from the players' standpoint, someone who would come up with some new ideas to help the park program, he said.

Kaage said he would like to see a better set-up at Mark Twain and Jack London schools.

Programs for adults? "Well, Kaage answered, "You can't beat that volleyball team. Yes, I am in favor of programs for the adults."

He also is for using park land for retention basin. "It can serve a dual purpose, relieving the flood situation, and for the park, sail boating, canoeing and other activities. "I think the superintendent we have now is doing a great job," he said.

"Another project for the park is to get going on a teen center," said Kaage. "I think there is a great need for one in this area, and I believe it is in the planning stages at this time."

He advocated a program for football in the district.

Children entering high school interested in playing really have no background and have to start from scratch, he said.

"Let's face it," Kaage said, "kids are going to play football anyway, why not under the guidance of good teachers and coaches?"

KAAGE WOULD like to see more tennis and ice hockey and a skating rink at all the schools in the district, funds permitting.

He would like to see another park building on the west side of Wheeling, and, if that is not possible, an arrangement with the school bus service to transport the children living some distance from Heritage Park.

Kaage anticipated no problem when questioned about the advantage his opponent Eugene Sackett has working right in the area.

"I can make arrangements to be where I am needed," Kaage said.

"As to the Title III Community school services, Kaage concluded, "I am in favor of the parks and schools working together whenever it is possible."

Sackett's Plans

Eugene Sackett, candidate for the Wheeling Park Board, told The Herald Tuesday that he will resign from the Community Pool Committee if he is elected to the park board.

Sackett, who had said earlier that he merely would abstain from voting when the pool issue came up, explained that negotiations between the pool committee and the park district could take one or two months.

He said many people wouldn't care if he were a member of both organizations but explained that with him "it's a moral issue."

TO AVOID A conflict of interest, Sackett says he would also sacrifice between $500 and $800 in yearly business the park district usually gives his stationery store.

He compared the profit on park business to the conflict between pool committee interests and park interests in his decision to withdraw from the pool committee if elected.

The candidate said he would not resign his post as president of the Chamber of Commerce over the negotiations for Chamber of Commerce Park. Stressing that he could speak only as an individual and not for the chamber as a whole Sackett said he thinks the negotiations between the park and the chamber will be over by the time a new park board commissioner takes office.

Sackett reported earlier that the chamber members generally felt that the land adjacent to the community pool should be sold to a municipal body which would aid all the town people rather than a commercial interest.

Teachers Work 10 Months

Adlai E. Stevenson High School teachers will work 10 months next year instead of the usual nine.

Both teachers and board of education members tentatively approved the plan more than a year ago but official action did not come until Monday night's regular board meeting. Teachers officially accepted it a week ago.

Students will remain on the present nine-month school year, Supt. Harold Banser said, but additional teaching time will give students an opportunity to work directly with instructors on individual projects, makeup lessons, independent study and similar programs not possible under the present nine-month schedule.

TEACHERS WILL have time to develop cooperative teaching projects, explore instructional objectives, evaluate methods and research material, he added.

"It is important to point out that this is the result of cooperative effort by both teachers and the board of education," Banser said.

"Teachers are willing and want to give more time to education. This is very important to the economical operation of the school district. Both teaching talent and facilities must be used longer than nine months a year if we are to get the most out of our tax dollars."

Seller Bills Roll

Legislation that would permit municipalities to control door-to-door solicitors was reported out of the municipalities committee of the Illinois House of Representatives yesterday with the recommendation that it be passed.

Two bills, HB 107 and 108, were introduced in the current session of the legislature by Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, granting local government the power to license and regulate direct sellers, a power heretofore denied municipalities by the state government.

THE SCHLICKMAN bills would permit direct sellers to either "register with the Department of Registration and Education or be subject to any municipal licensing or regulation."

The department is authorized to revoke or suspend solicitor permits based on certain guidelines, the same guidelines set down for municipalities.

Supporting the legislation in testimony before the municipalities committee were Steve Sargent, executive director of the Illinois Municipal League, Robert Van Deusen and Wayne Anderson, managers of Glenview and Evanston, Harold Ross of Field Enterprises and Ernest Wittle, plant manager for the Avon Co.

In other action yesterday, Gov. Richard Ogilvie delivered a nine-point special message on local government, each point of which will be provided with enabling legislation.

The fifth point of the message, of particular interest to the suburban Northwest, would enable municipalities to annex immediately contiguous territory without having to go through special elections.

CURRENT LAW requires that towns abide by the decision of property owners in the territory, with a 51 per cent favorable vote being required for annexation of areas larger than 60 acres.

A bill introduced yesterday by Schlickman would permit the courts to decide if a piece of property should be included within the corporate boundaries of a municipality.

Provisions for involuntary annexation would have to ensure that regional plans are satisfied and that full municipal services, including water, sewer, fire and police protection, are available for the area to be annexed.

The bill was referred for hearing to the house municipalities committee.

Gifts of Land Are Supported

A story in Wednesday's Herald implied incorrectly that Wheeling Park District Pres. Bernie Erlin is against donations of land to the park district and school district by housing developers.

Erlin has taken a stand against the park district reviewing internal recreational facilities in developments for the village. However, he strongly backs donations land acquired by the village for the park and school districts.

15 Youths To Be Confirmed

Fifteen youths from the Wheeling area will be confirmed Palm Sunday, at the 11:15 service of St. Marks United Church of Christ.

Miss Ainlay will first be baptized.

A general open Communion service will follow for all adults. After the service the confirmands will be guests at a coffee and cake social in their honor.

On Maundy Thursday at 6:30 p.m. there will be a re-creation last visit of the Lord to the upper room to visit with the disciples. Bread, wine (or grape juice for children) and salad will be served. Members of the congregation will act out the last visit as though they had been there.

Easter sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. will be served by the youth of St. Marks with breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Regular services will be at 11:15.

Lawmakers Back March

May Dump Draft

WASHINGTON—Elimination of the draft may be the result of an advisory commission set up yesterday by President Nixon. The Commission is to draft a plan for an all-volunteer armed force. Early last month, he ordered the Defense Department to make a similar study.

Nixon said the transition to a volunteer force must be handled "cautiously and responsibly so that our national security is fully maintained."

Mariner 7 Launched

CAPE KENNEDY—The second Mariner 7 television scout started its four-month trip to Mars yesterday. Its mission is to help determine if the red planet can support life.

Mariner 7's 193-million-mile course should bring it to within 2,000 miles of the planet by Aug. 5, when it will photograph the surface of the planet. Its findings will lay the groundwork for life-detection robots scheduled to land on the planet in 1973.

Ike Grows Weaker

WASHINGTON—It is "not likely, but possible" that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower can be expected to survive if he continues to weaken at his present rate without responding to medical treatment, doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said yesterday.

The general was reported still weak and sleeping about three-fourths of the time. He continues to visit with members of the immediate family.

Defense Rests

LOS ANGELES—The defense wound up its case yesterday for Sirhan B. Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The trial is expected to go to the jury next week after closing arguments.

The final witness was Dr. George DeVoss, a psychologist from the University of California and Berkeley.

Probe TV's Effects

WASHINGTON—A proposed year-long study of how youth are affected by violence and sex on television was endorsed yesterday by President Nixon. The study is to determine the "possible relationship between scenes of sex and violence on television and anti-social behavior among young people."

The study was proposed by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-Rhode Island.

Wants Law Struck

WASHINGTON—A Chicago lawyer asked the U. S. Supreme Court to apply the state's "One-man, one-vote" concept to elections by striking down a state election law which he said "heavily outweighs" the power of voters in sparsely populated areas.

Attorney Richard F. Watt wants to strike the law requiring independents' petitions to contain signatures of 200 people from each of 50 counties.

Promises 'Vigil'

WASHINGTON—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy promised yesterday to keep "a constant vigil" of the Nixon administration's civil rights performance. He made the statement at a subcommittee hearing concerned with civil rights and job discrimination.

There is some speculation he may carry the civil rights issue and Nixon's performance into the 1972 Presidential campaign.

Hike for the Hungry

Every area state legislator but one has given strong endorsement to the Hike for the Hungry which young people will participate in on Good Friday as a benefit for the Northwest Opportunity Center, an Ecuador farm project, and Biafran relief.

State Sen. John A. Graham of Barrington and State Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, both Republicans have saluted the project as has Democratic State Rep. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights.

So have Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, a Democrat, and U. S. Sen. Charles A. Percy, a Republican.

Senior U. S. Sen. Everett Dirksen has sent hike coordinator David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect a letter saying, "I trust that your program is proceeding."

THE LONE nay-sayer among the north-west suburban legislators is Rep. David Regner, Mount Prospect Republican.

Charge Boy in Crash

A Rolling Meadows youth was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after his car collided with a parked car last night at 3502 Owl Drive, Rolling Meadows.

James N. McBee, 16, 4605 Magnolia Drive, suffered face lacerations when he struck a car owned by Richard L. Wilt, 705 S. Highland, Arlington Heights.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE was done to both cars, according to Rolling Meadows police. The parked car was pushed 20 feet forward and the two cars were locked together when they came to a stop, police said.

McBee's court date was set for April 15 in Arlington Heights.

County To Pay Only Part

Rolling Meadows officials claim to have found inequities in the county highway department's plans for improving the realigned Wilke Road from Kirchoff Road to Golf Road.

The county plans no contribution to the improvement between Algonquin and Golf Roads, through the Isenstein-Parker property, but will install the pavement between Central Road and Algonquin Road, through an Arlington Heights subdivision.

"Look closely at what is happening," Mayor Roland J. Meyer advised the city council Tuesday night after Donald Rose, city attorney, reported a conversation he and the city engineer Quigley Fletcher, had with Cook County highway officials and representatives of Arlington Heights.

THE COUNTY'S PLANS are not new. They appear to be the same as those the city opposed in the past, primarily because they leave the present Wilke Road between Kirchoff and Central a cul de sac, closed at the Kirchoff Road end.

The new Wilke Road, east of the present alignment, is not scheduled for improvement until the summer of 1970, according to Rose.

The county expects the city to adopt a resolution agreeing to maintain old Wilke from Kirchoff Road to Algonquin Road and the new sector between Algonquin and Golf.

Arlington Heights will be expected to maintain the new Wilke from Kirchoff to Algonquin.

THE COUNTY, in cooperation with the state, will acquire right of way for the new alignment in unincorporated territory between Kirchoff and Central and improve that complete stretch. Between Central and Algonquin, the subdividers will put in curbs and gutters and the county will pave the street. Rose reported the county now regrets having made this arrangement with Arlington Heights and will make no contribution through the Isenstein-Parker property, where a 100-foot right of way and 52-foot pavement is being asked.

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grinace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

A m o u n t s listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

Regner wrote, "I congratulate you and the young people on their attempt to help several worthwhile causes. However, I don't condone marches of any kind."

Regner suggested that the youth instead raise money for the three projects by soliciting local businessmen.

"I am certainly in agreement with both the goals and means of the Hike for the Hungry project and am happy to give it my enthusiastic endorsement," asserted Percy.

"At a time when we are constantly being told that our young people are committed only in the sense that they appear determined to violently overthrow our institutions and their established processes, it is most gratifying to learn of this constructive commitment being assumed by youth," Percy added.

GRAHAM'S LETTER said, "Being of compassionate nature and Christian heritage, of course I support your endeavor to help those who are needy."

Schlickman wrote, "I think this is a most admirable venture on your part and I certainly wholeheartedly endorse the goals and means you have established."

Mrs. Chapman said she was "delighted to be involved" in a project that gives youth a chance to "show concern for other people in a very physical sense."

Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie did not endorse the march because, his press secretary Joseph Mathewson wrote, he felt it would be "inappropriate officially."

Big Crowd Hears Officials

A look at problems and some accomplishments of Palatine officials was given to a record turnout at the Chamber of CANDIDATES' NIGHT for all candidates in Palatine Township elections is scheduled Monday night at Fremd High School. Girl Scouts Kim Jones, left, and Betty Munson are helping the League of Women Voters attract attention by passing out brochures for the forum.

Commerce's March dinner meeting Wednesday night.

More than 80 members were present at the session to hear presentations by Mrs. Martha Webster, Palatine postmaster, Village Mgr. Berton Braun, Fire Chief Orville Helms, Police Chief Robert Centner, and Township Supervisor Howard I. Olsen.

The March meeting is usually attended by only 15 or 20 people, according to Al Pukstza, chairman of the special events committee.

Pukstza, chairman of the special events committee.

"TO SEE SO MANY people here means the chamber really is moving now," he smiled.

Wednesday night's program, designed to inform residents of local officials' activities, had been requested by several chamber members and brought on many questions from the listeners.

Olsen, who is seeking re-election in Tuesday's election, forewarned his audience the discussion would not be political since his opponent, John Beacham, also invited by the chamber, was not present.

Before he left the podium, he urged everyone to vote on April 1 whether Democrat or Republican.

Mrs. Webster described the rapidly increasing volumes of mail at Palatine's post office. "We're willing to admit the post office has a few problems, too, just as you do in your business," she said.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST concerns is scheduling of mail since 75 per cent "is dumped on us in a glob of unsent letters," she explained.

She told the audience, "It's of great advantage to notify us when you have a lot of mail to be sent in one day."

Revenue from the Palatine Post Office in 1968 topped $1.4 million. With 18 vehicles, village mailmen make 12,000 stops a day, according to Mrs. Webster.

Braun told the chamber, "I applaud your efforts and new vitality over the past year."

"I NEVER SAW a finer bunch of men work under pressing conditions," Balek said.

Ald. Tom Scanlan, also a member of the police committee, extended his praise to other city departments in addition to the police.

Ald. William Ahrens said any attempts to bring the police department into a political campaign "is the beginning of corruption."

County police have found the local staff "highly qualified," said Ald. James Huddleston. "They have always been there when called."

He made special mention of the appointment of Ken Eriksen as executive director. "It's a lot easier to deal with one individual who's officially representing the business community," Braun explained.

RECRUITING NEW officers for the Palatine Police Department was Police Chief Robert Centner's major problem, he told the group.

There were 24 applicants for three openings on the force recently, he went on. After all the testing was completed, only two applicants qualified.

Centner said value of merchandise taken in shoplifting last year in Palatine came to more than $25,000. Of that amount, more than $22,000 was recovered. Fire Chief Helms said chamber members probably know almost as much about the fire department as he does since the volunteer force largely is composed of businessmen.

Because of the village's booming growth, he hoped the fire department would be able to hire two full-time firemen within the next three months.

"We must increase our fire inspections," he said. "We'll be able to do that if we can hire men on a full-time basis."

Chamber members responded with several questions of each official.

A public meeting to discuss the upcoming Palatine Library referendum will be held April 9, at 8:30 p.m., in the library.

Mrs. Paul Jensen, acting director of the library, said the meeting would be open "to any concerned citizen." Plans were arranged at the library board's regular meeting Wednesday. Mrs. Jensen said the meeting would be "informal."

The public will be invited to participate in a question and answer session with board members, Mrs. Mabel Eilering, board members. Mrs. Mabel Eilering, given for the "awful" defeat of the last referendum was that people complained "we didn't give them enough information."

The previous referendum was described by Mrs. Eilering as "too large a package," calling for more than $2 million dollars, for the purchase of land on Slade Street in the downtown area and the construction of the new building.

THIS YEAR, THE referendum will call for a tax increase to be used for bonds to pay off the land at the Northwest corner Wood and Brockway, where the library would be located.

Although there is no projected cost for the building's construction, the purchase of land would cost $235,000. The lot would be 300 feet by 300 feet.

The tax increase would be "a maximum" of 5 cents per $100 on assessed valuation.

Last year, people were "violently opposed to the referendum" and opposition was "very bitter," but Mrs. Jensen reported "no indications of organized opposition" this year.

—ADOPTION of a mental health committee to analyze township needs.

—Support of local school districts through transfer of excess township funds.

—Expansion of voter registration for the convenience of the voters.

—Improving of snow removal on township roads and improved maintenance of the roads.

—Employment of professional caseworker for welfare and needy cases.

—Expansion of the town hall and garage facilities.

—Improving of liaison with other local government bodies.

—Continued efforts to increase local payment of taxes, providing the township with additional funds through the 2 per amount, more than $22,000 was recovered.

Almost Magic, You Have To See It To Believe It

by GERRY DEZONNA

Hypnotism is fascinating, its almost magical powers must be seen to be believed.

Wednesday evening Dr. Irwin Ross, a Chicago psychologist, held a student and adult audience spell-bound at Arlington High School while he performed the wonders of hypnotism before the eyes of his audience.

Dr. Ross selected a group of volunteers from the audience, all of them high school students. Twenty volunteers were narrowed down to a group of 10 by the degree to which each were able to attain the hypnotic trance.

Dr. Ross worked only with those students who were able to be hypnotized within a short span of five minutes. For more than an hour, he proved to the audience that man can control the mind through hypnotism.

HE WORKED WITH a group of boys and girls and made them respond almost letter and to his commands. The experience for both the audience and the volunteers was fun, interesting and almost unbelievable.

Seated on folding chairs on the basketball court, the student volunteers exhibited to the audience the many responses that can be produced under the hypnotic trance.

The hypnotist could produce responses that ranged from positive to negative attitudes, personality changes, loss of memory and physical strength.

The commands are given to the subjects while they're in the "sleep" stage of the trance. The hypnotist will put them to sleep, which re-enforces the trance and sustains it, and then he will make a suggestion. The subject will come out of the sleep stage at his command and then react to the suggestion also at his command.

"HYPNOTISM IS REALLY an extension of one's powers of concentration," explained Dr. Ross. "Under the hypnotic trance, reasoning power is dulled, and the subject's reactions are from a lack of reasoning. Hypnotism can alter any and all of the senses."

At one point in the evening, Dr. Ross told the girls that all the boys on the panel were the most handsome looking boys that they had ever seen and that the girls would have a strong desire to date any of the boys.

The boys at the same time were told that the girls were the ugliest girls that they had ever seen in their lives. When the subjects woke from the sleep stage, the girls started asking the boys for dates and stared at them with "cow eyes."

Dr. Ross asked the fellows if they'd like dates with any of the girls, and all of them emphatically refused, replying "You've got to be kidding!" One fellow remarked that he wouldn't be seen in public with any of those girls.

He then reversed the experiment, and the boys fought with each other trying to ask all the girls for dates. The girls refused without any hesitation.

IN ANOTHER EXPERIMENT, Dr. Ross told all the students that someone had stolen their "belly buttons" and that they would be very angry. They were.

The boys responded by lifting their shirts and looking for their lost "belly buttons," while the girls automatically reached for their stomachs with obvious displeasure.

The students began to argue, accusing each other of stealing their "belly buttons." One girl over-reacted and began to cry because someone had stolen her "belly button." Dr. Ross quickly restored her personal order and she smiled immediately.

During other experiments, the students witnessed extreme temperature changes, laughing and crying seizures, strong odors and innocent uninhibitedness.

Four of the students entertained the audience by pretending they were the singing group the Mamas and the Papas. With complete ease they sang one of the group's most popular songs.

AT THE END of his performance, Dr. Ross told the students they would come out of the hypnotic trance with no side effects and that they would be the same people that they were when they volunteered.

But he gave them one last assignment: they would return to the audience and when he mentioned the word "Wheeling," a group of them would shout "the Redcoats are coming!"

The students returned to the audience, believing that they were fully aware of everything. Dr. Ross made his concluding remarks for the evening, slipped in the word "Wheeling," and the students who had been hypnotized jumped to their feet and shouted to a quiet auditorium that "the Redcoats are coming."

If you hear most of the time but occasionally have a fade-out shouldn't you have a "SOUND STABILIZER"?

Beltone makes hearing controls for people who are not deaf

No more conversation gaps. No sudden feeling that you have stepped into a silent world. Just even, steady hearing when you use a Sound Stabilizer like the Beltone Andante.

How does the Andante work? Much like the controls on your radio or television set. It picks up all of the sounds you want to hear. All of the time.

That's only one of the advantages of Beltone Hearing Controls For People Who Are Not Deaf. There are others. For you, they may "unscramble" those conversations you can't quite understand.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $26,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.18 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead.

Save now . . . while you can.

Six New Members Join Plan Group

Six additional members were named to the Rolling Meadows Plan Commission this week. The city council increased the commission from seven to 13 members last winter when absenteeism was hampering action. Appointed to serve three year terms were Robert Sales, Kenneth White, Walter Jacobsen and Robert Rees, all members of the special zoning commission.

Mayor Roland J. Meyer announced he plans to name future zoning commissions with five members from the plan group and two from the remainder of the zoners.

NAMED TO two-year terms on the plan commission were John Rock and Joseph LaMonica.

Rock is an insurance agent with an office in Mount Prospect. He is serving on the board of directors of the Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association and has been active in the Guardsmen drum and bugle corps.

LaMonica is a special projects industrial engineer for Sola Electric in Elk Grove Village.

Standing members of the plan commission are Richard Blane, whose term expires April 30; William Kenney, Russell Fredericksen, Mrs. Patricia Jacobsen and Anthony Magee, whose terms expire in 1970; and Daniel P. Steiber and Joseph A. Meyer, who will serve until 1971.

Meyer said that there are openings available for residents to serve on the zoning board of appeals as member and secretary and two seats on the library board, for which he has one application.

Candidates Speak

Candidates seeking office in all the coming elections have been invited to meet the public Monday evening at the Palatine League of Women Voters candidates' night.

Invitations were sent to the Republican and Democratic slates in the township election and candidates for the boards of Palatine, Salt Creek and Palatine Rural park districts.

Those contests will be decided the following day, April 1, when voters go to the polls.

Candidates for positions on High School Dist. 211, Elementary Dist. 15 and Harper Junior College boards also have been invited. These elections will be held April 12.

In addition, candidates for positions on Palatine's Village Board and the library board in uncontested elections slated for April 15 are also expected to attend the

Monday night forum.

The league has asked that candidates do not prepare campaign speeches, but be ready to answer questions.

The session is scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m. in the Fremd High School cafeteria.

'Seven Words' Concert Set

The Fremd High School Concert Choir will present "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Dubois, at the First Methodist Church, Sunday, at 7:30 p.m. and at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Wednesday at 8:15 p.m.

Both churches are in Palatine, on North Plum Grove Avenue near Wood Street.

A third performance by the 74-voice choir will be held in the school cafeteria Monday at 8 p.m.

Soloists will be Ken Edison, a senior at Northwestern University, Cathy French, Chris Russell, Linda Russum, Linda Telandier, Gary Motta, Kurt Johnson, Dave Brooke, Steve Dupre and Carl Tuerk, all Fremd students.

Carlyle Chiddister will direct the choir, accompanied by Linda Carter.

The public is invited to all the performances. No admission will be charged, but free-will offerings will be accepted.

Clearbrook Gives Fred Fresh Start

Fred's doing a real nice job. He's making $2.21 an hour full time and works some overtime. Fred is among those who have received a fresh start in life through the efforts of the Clearbrook Center's Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Training Center in Rolling Meadows.

Gordon Reynolds, his supervisor, said Fred was referred to Clearbrook by the State of Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. They have a contract permitting individuals the state is working with to use facilities at Clearbrook.

The sheltered workshop opened its doors three years ago to train mentally and physically handicapped young adults who need help to function independently in "outside" employment. Fred is working for Reynolds Products in Rolling Meadows.

ROSEMARY HAS BEEN a kitchen aid for the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged in Arlington Heights. She pre-washes dishes before they are placed in automatic dish washing machines and assists with setting and clearing tables.

Clearbrook does not train for a specific job. Instead, students learn such skills as counting, reading, writing, measuring, using the telephone, packaging, typing, cleaning, sorting, filling out job applications, use of public transportation and washrooms and using tools, etc.

Although a qualified professional staff evaluates the young adult, he or she decides for himself which job he will apply for. A placement counselor arranges job interviews for the client.

THE PLACEMENT counselor will help the young adult with any required paper work and take him to his new job in an effort to make the transition as smooth as possible. He will keep in contact to help with any problems that arise.

The ultimate goal of Clearbrook is to make clients participating members of society. All those employed are eligible for full company benefits and enter the competitive pay scale.

A private, non-profit agency, Clearbrook is licensed by the state department of mental health and services for the entire Northwest suburban area. Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Maine and Wheeling townships are included in Clearbrook's territory.

The center provides a daytime program for children from 3 through 15 years of age. For handicapped children over 15, the workshop and center provides the proper instruction.

CLEARBROOK TRAINS mentally retarded and multiple handicapped children and adults not eligible for public school classes. These include children too young for placement in public school special education classes, those too severely handicapped for such placement, and those beyond public school age.

Charge Two Youths With Window Breaking

Rolling Meadows police charged two juveniles with vandalism at Carl Sandburg Junior High School.

Officer Dennis Harper discovered two windows broken in the school March 16. Upon further investigation he found four broken windows in school buses. Total damage was estimated to be $240.

The juveniles were brought to the station Monday and made statements. Parents have agreed to pay for the damages.

Teachers Work 10 Months

Adlai E. Stevenson High School teachers will work 10 months next year instead of the usual nine.

Both teachers and board of education members tentatively approved the plan more than a year ago but official action did not come until Monday night's regular board meeting. Teachers officially accepted it a week ago.

Students will remain on the present nine-month school year, Supt. Harold Baner said, but additional teaching time will give students an opportunity to work directly with instructors on individual projects, makeup lessons, independent study and similar programs not possible under the present nine-month schedule.

TEACHERS WILL have time to develop cooperative teaching projects, explore instructional objectives, evaluate methods and research material, he added.

"It is important to point out that this is the result of cooperative effort by both teachers and the board of education."

Baner said.

"Teachers are willing and want to give more time to education. This is very important to the economical operation of the school district. Both teaching talent and facilities must be used longer than nine months a year if we are to get the most out of our tax dollars."

4-H Clubs Blossom in Suburbs

by TOM WELLMAN
Think about 4-H Clubs, and the image is a peach-fuzzed farm boy in a blue jacket milking a Jersey cow in his father's barn. Forget that image. There are blossoming 4-H clubs all over the suburban north-west and the orientation of them is towards everyday activities that a suburban child from 9 to 19 experiences.

erative Extension Service, which supports the 4-H and has its northern Cook County office in Arlington Heights.

The main emphasis in the "new" 4-H, as Mrs. Austin will tell you, is to educate and train young people in practical skills. They learn poise, public speaking ability, and leadership. It's all part of the new program.

A child starts in the program at any point between 9 and 19. He starts with a beginning project, and the 4-H manual reveals a wide range of choices.

He or she could begin with cooking, gardening, photography, room improvement, or woodworking. The point in the program is that he gets some type of project underway.

If the boy or girl lives in a rural area, the traditional choices — forestry, dairy, poultry or conservation — are still available. It would be difficult to get involved in such a program in the northwestern suburbs, however. But it is not impossible.

IF JOHN DOE, living in Mount Prospect, decides that his first project will be photography, he would proceed in this manner.

He would start the project before September, in order to qualify for the county fair 4-H exhibition sometime after August of the next year.

John would work with a project leader to develop his project. Activity leaders would help John's group plan picnics, parties and other recreation, as part of the 4-H program.

After the project is completed, it would be entered in the Cook County Fair (all projects are eligible). If it is a prize winner, it could advance to the state fair.

As John grows and works on more advanced projects, he is required to give public demonstrations of them. Mrs. Austin stresses that this gives children self-confidence and poise in facing an audience.

WHEN JOHN REACHES 15, he might become a junior adviser. He would work with an adult, but both would be responsible for supervising younger children. When he becomes 19, he could stay on as an adult leader, if he chose to do so.

All this activity may be healthy for a child, but one might ask if 4-H isn't just a watered-down version of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, or similar youth-oriented groups. Mrs. Austin disagrees.

"Other groups tend to cover many things on the surface, but we only work on one project a year."

She explains that both boys and girls are integrated into the 4-H, unlike most other youth activities. However, she has no quarrel with other groups, as they benefit children in different kinds of ways.

IN A SENSE, Mrs. Austin is a "true believer" in the 4-H program. She's dedicated to enlarging the program. For example, she recently handed out information to children at all of the public and some of the parochial schools in Arlington Heights. It's helped involve parents — a necessary ingredient — in 4-H programs.

Glen DeViney, treasurer. Registered nurses in the area interested in attending meetings, are invited to call Mrs. Jack Knotek, 358-6912, or contact a club member.

Meetings are held on the fourth Monday of the month at 8 p.m., at the Slade Street firehouse.

EVEN THOUGH HIS project is now completed, Tim Smith, an eighth-grader at St. Thomas of Villanova School, Palatine, is still thinking about it. Tim wanted to explain the function of a simple motor, so he built one.

Warmth of Fires

by HARRY SIGALE
Police Reporter

Covering a fire on a windy, wintry-like night has discouraged many a reporter, not to mention the brave fire fighters who are on the front lines battling the flames.

Monday night was just such a discouraging night as a major fire struck the King's Walk Apartments in Rolling Meadows.

The cooperation and hospitality offered by the residents who live nearby and the Salvation Army coffee truck was of great help. It made the task a little easier.

The wind gusts at more than 20 miles per hour but there I was, shivering in a summer raincoat with no hat or gloves. And what's more the area had been drenched from an all day rain the result of which was a mass of mud, complicated by the fact that the fire was at a construction site and the ground was already torn up.

It was so thick in fact, it was a struggle to keep my shoes from falling off my feet. Needless to say, I had no boots.

WHEN I ARRIVED at the scene there were about 100 spectators on hand and I asked some for their comments.

You could see the red glow over the tops of the buildings, said one.

Two of the buildings were totaled in a short time, offered a second.

I was thinking of moving in when the apartments opened in May, projected a third.

Just then a man named Howard Warner, 175 Taft, handed me a roll of film shot by his son, a photographer at Fremd High School.

He was here when it was in the early stages, he said. He might have gotten some good pictures.

The film safely tucked into my pocket, I wandered through the mud until I met Stephen Patterson, sales manager for Albert Riley Builders, owners of the buildings.

PATTERSON lives three blocks from scene and by the time he got there, the first two buildings were burned to the ground.

He talked for a while until I broke in. My pen doesn't seem to be able to write on my wet pad of writing paper," I said sheepishly.

"Let's go back to my house," he volunteered. "We'll get some coffee and warm up and you can call your office."

We trod back through the mud to his house and were greeted at the door by welcome voices and warm hospitality.

"How about a cup of coffee," said Patterson's wife as she helped me peel out of my raincoat.

"TAKE OFF YOUR shoes and dry off," said a woman visitor as she grabbed a towel and began drying my hair while I balanced on one foot, then the other, trying to get my shoes off.

I walked in my stocking feet to the kitchen to call the office as the women knelt by the fireplace drying my coat and shoes.

I talked to the man at the office and gave him some sketchy details because the building officials had not arrived.

Then Patterson got on the phone and called his close friend, Carl Grayson, a staff announcer for WGN TV, who just moved into the area.

Carl, he said, "this is Steve. There's nothing to worry about. Your home isn't near where the fire is."

A moment later I heard Patterson say, "No Carl, you didn't move into a bad area."

WHEN HE GOT OFF the phone Patterson said, "He's worried about the fires we've been having around here lately. Aren't we all?"

Nurses Club Grows to 47

(One of a series of articles about organizations which belong to the Palatine Community Council.)

A small announcement placed in the old Palatine Enterprise in the spring of 1952, was the beginning of the Palatine Nurses Club, now numbering 47 members.

Although the goals are the same, the club has grown in scope, taking on a wide variety of community services. The medical lending closet for use by members of the community, one of the club's first projects, is still a vital contribution.

Now, however, the Registered Nurses Club provides a full range of service in educational, philanthropic and social fields. In the former, the club awards a scholarship each year to a high school senior who has been accepted by a nursing school.

A PORTION OF the budget is used to pay for dental care for children whose parents cannot provide it. Medical Careers Clubs are sponsored in Fremd and Palatine High Schools. Any high school student interested in nursing or related fields may join.

Money is raised through such projects as the sale of the nurses club cookbook, "Kitchen Bewitchin'."

Current officers are Mrs. James McWaters, president, Mrs. George Diersen, vice president, Mrs. James Thompson, recording secretary, Mrs. H. Lane Soderquist, corresponding secretary, Mrs.

Hendersen Resigns Rolling Meadows CD

James Henderson has resigned as commander of the Rolling Meadows Civil Defense unit due to business pressure.

A founder of the Rolling Meadows Disaster and Rescue Team (DART), Henderson helped publicize the need for such an organization. DART was founded in October, 1968, with two members. It now has over 30.

Police Chief Cy Campbell, DART's director, accepted Henderson's resignation.

Dismissed Teachers Ask Why

Attorneys for two Harper Junior College teachers last night formally asked the college board to "show cause" for a decision not to reappoint them next year.

The attorney, Richard L. Wexler of Chicago, made the request for social science instructor Edward M. Kalish of Mount Prospect and Dr. Betty Enbysk of Schaumburg, associate professor of geology.

The attorney told college trustees that college officials have made allegations of "unsatisfactory service" about Kalish and and Dr. Enbysk that violate their "basic" "defamatory in nature."

"The information which we have received to date suggests that although (the right to free speech) as well as being two teachers have performed creditably and fulfilled all of (their) classroom responsibilities," they have been marked for "professional extermination," the attorney said.

They ask that reasons for their nonreappointment be revealed at a public hearing. The request is a probable step toward taking legal action against the college.

THE TWO HAVE made the request for an explanation before, but not to the college board.

The board gave no reason for its December decision not to reappoint the two, who are both active members of the faculty senate — governing body of the community college faculty.

Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti said the college is acting in accordance with its policy manual in making that decision.

The policy book says the college has "no obligation" to specify cause "for not rehiring a teacher who does not hold tenure and the right to continuing contract. No Harper teacher holds tenure yet."

Kalish and Dr. Enbysk have charged they are not being retained because they exercised their right of academic freedom — their right to free comment on matters involving the college and their professional work.

A FACULTY SENATE committee formed to investigate that charge was received courteously but given no official reasons for the action against the two.

Administrative spokesmen assured the faculty senate committee, however, that academic freedom was not involved.

The Herald was given the same assurance by college board members who concurred in the action after quizzing Lahti and other administrators behind closed doors for several hours.

Kalish has a letter from his division head, John Birkholz, saying the college did not make its decision on the grounds of "incompetency" or "moral turpitude."

One Driver Charged In Two-Car Crash

Kenneth W. Retzke, 49, 3600 Holly Lane, Rolling Meadows, was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid collision in an accident Tuesday in Mount Prospect.

Retzke's car collided with a car driven by Julie A. Bartlett, 19, of 408 N. Forest, Mount Prospect, at the intersection of Main and Central.

Miss Bartlett was making a left turn and had stopped in the middle of the intersection waiting for traffic to clear. The traffic light turned red and she was proceeding to turn when her car was hit by Retzke's vehicle.

Arlene H. Abbs of Palatine, a graduate student in art at Illinois State University, was recently awarded the Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rutz Merit Award for her entry in the 1969 Mid-States Craft Exhibition held at Evansville, Ind.

Miss Abbs' winning entry was a still life weaving.

Notice: Stumping Not Easy

by MARTY MOSER

"Wood is so much harder than it used to be. Today's utility poles must be 'super wood'."

"It's hard to find posts these days, because all the utilities are going underground."

If this sounds like a lumberman's convention, local township clerks will be all too glad to set the record straight.

Actually, the comments gleaned from interviews are a hint on how to ask a stumper question of candidates for office of township clerk.

"HOW GOOD are you at stumping?"

To a good township clerk, stumping naturally has two meanings. It can mean driving nails, pushing thumbtacks or stapling staples into stumps.

Or it can mean walking around looking for stumps in which to drive nails, push thumbtacks or staple staples.

For those who think a clerk's job is pretty in-door stuff, two lady clerks can tell of hammers and hiking boots in the desk drawers and ditches and dirt in the field.

As part of a township clerk's regular duties, it falls their way to hang election notices, according to statute, "in a public place."

The law is specific: At least three notices per precinct, one at the poll. It was obviously written before people got esthetically inclined about their utilities.

BESIDES POLES being made of concrete and treated nail-resistant wood these days, one township clerk noted these handy-dandy sign holders are outmoded and are being replaced by underground utility tubes.

"There were 14 precincts when I first took office," said Wheeling Township Clerk Mrs. George Hauff, who has 20 years' experience hanging signs. "That was duck soup compared to the 78 precincts I have now."

The clerks usually have someone to do the posting, although Mrs. Hauff and Palatine Township Clerk Mrs. Margaret Chapman admit to hanging some signs themselves.

"I put some out and had some volunteers," Mrs. Chapman said. She posted five election notices in each of 38 precincts this election.

Schaumburg Township Clerk Mrs. Kathleen Wojcik said she gave her signs to precinct captains this year.

"I DID SEE one on a pole," she recalled when they were hung. "My choice of public places is in the post office, the library and bank."

The local clerks publish legal election notices in newspapers but supplement these with posters in places where they are unavoidably noticeable.

Criticism is sometimes leveled at the posted election notices by persons who feel the signs look unattractive or are illegal.

The signs are legitimate and there is evidence people really do notice and read them, clerks assert.

"SOME VILLAGES are not too excited about having them posted but this is a legal non-partisan election notice," said George Busse, Elk Grove Township clerk. "Let's say we hang them up."

It is illegal to hang campaign posters. Law does not permit displaying any advertising on utility poles except for elections. So towns with local ordinances, like Mount Prospect, bear with election notices and prosecute any other trespassing.

Some clerks say they make a point to remove the signs after election. Others leave them to the natural elements, such as wind and children. Mrs. Hauff's husband can be relied upon to take down an outdated but durable notice. If Hauff is out driving, he will stop and remove the sign, his wife said.

Mrs. Wojcik said a person commented to her about seeing an election notice at a school and would have forgotten the election without the reminder.

"IT MADE ME feel better," Mrs. Wojcik said.

Mrs. Chapman mentioned she was out hanging signs one day and a number of people stopped and asked questions.

"Of course, I'm never in one place more than a few minutes," Mrs. Chapman said.

Notices are hung in poster form at the direction of the Cook County Clerk. Events that can be heralded by public signs are national elections, town meetings, budget hearings, or the current township elections.

"We are required by law to post these," Busse says to any critics. "We've got to notify the citizenry."

I-90 Pact Awarded

An estimated $42 million contract for construction of Interstate 90, from Golf to Higgins Roads, is to be awarded April 11.

Another contract for the interstate, from Higgins Road to Devon Avenue, is to be let May 23.

The contracts will begin a two-year construction project of I-90 through the Northwest suburbs.

The contracts of the Illinois Division of Highways will complete Dist. 10's portion of I-90 included in the 1969 state highway budget.

A TOTAL $11,133,000 is allotted Dist. 10 for I-90 construction, including bridges, interchange reconstruction, grading and paving, lighting and signs.

Dist. 1, covering the DuPage County portion of I-90, had expected but will not have a contract awarded April 11. Noel F. Thomas, assistant to Dist. 1 Engineer Sigmund Ziejewski, said Dist. 1 may have a segment of the interstate awarded in May.

According to the 1969 budget of the state Division of Highways, a total $27,758,000 has been allotted for DuPage County's share of I-90, from Devon Avenue to York Road.

Work to be done between Golf and Higgins roads will consist of three lanes of highway each direction, plus a series of contributor roadways and frontage roads.

Diamond interchanges will be at Golf and Higgins Roads, according to Henry Yamanaka, Dist. 10 design engineer. Three bridges are to be constructed in this contract portion, over Higgins and Golf Roads and one over Woodfield Drive, a Schaumburg road not yet constructed.

Devon Avenue will go over the interstate and have no access, Yamanaka said. A Biesterfeld Road bridge, in Elk Grove Village, also going over the interstate, is already under construction in a contract awarded in September. The $11 million contract for the bridge and related work is to be completed in October.

A FRONTAGE road from Golf to Higgins will parallel I-90 on the west to serve Schaumburg.

I-90 is being built along Route 53, straddling Route 53 until south of Higgins Road when it swings easterly at Biesterfeld Road.

After crossing Devon Avenue east of the WBBM radio tower, the interstate roughly parallels Route 53 to Irving Park Road, then angles southeast to connect to the Eisenhower Expressway.

Name Schlickman To Subcommittee

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, last week was appointed chairman of the subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations.

The subcommittee will consider forthcoming appropriation requests of the governor, lieutenant governor, state treasurer, auditor of public accounts, judiciary, general assembly and various permanent and interim legislative commissions.

Members of Schlickman's subcommittee include State Rep. Charles Campbell, R-Danville, and State Rep. Sam Vadalebene, D-Edwardsville.

Schlickman's subcommittee is one of seven established by State Rep. Richard A. Walsh, R-Oak Park, chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations.

IN 1967, SCHLICKMAN served as chairman of a subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee which considered the appropriation requests of the departments of mental health, children and family services and public health.

"While I am disappointed in not continuing to associate with the appropriation requirements of mental health and children and family services, I enthusiastically welcome the opportunity to work with the governor, leaders of the legislative and judiciary branches, and state constitutional officers in considering their appropriation requests for the next fiscal year," said Schlickman of his appointment.

Volunteers Needed Along Hunger Hike

Organizers of the Hike for the Hungry to help with arrangements for the Good Friday march in which several thousand area young people will be taking part. Volunteers will be helping with a church youth-sponsored project that workers for the Hike for the Hungry hope will raise $120,000.

The funds will come from sponsors, either organizations or individuals, who agree to pay a young marcher a set amount per mile. Sponsors can pledge any amount from $10,000 to 10 cents a mile.

The Hike for the Hungry will take the funds raised equally among Biafran relief work, an Ecuador agricultural project and the Northwest Opportunity Center, an anti-poverty center in Rolling Meadows.

The march will end at the Opportunity Center, located in the Coachlight Shops. DAVID WURM, youth minister at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect, said adult volunteers are needed to: —Man check points where the young hikers will be given proof of their progress along the 16-mile march route.

—Serve as traffic monitors, augmenting local police forces.

—Serve as hike marshals, charged with keeping the march orderly and assisting any hikers who need first aid.

Volunteers can be used, Wurm said, in every community on the line of march — Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

Hike organizers estimate that 200 adults will be needed to help with the project. About half of those have already been recruited.

Wurm urged that interested adults call Nate Castens, a Lutheran seminarian on the St. Paul's staff, at 255-0332 or 255-2447

Lawmakers Back March

May Dump Draft

WASHINGTON—Elimination of the draft may be the result of an advisory commission set up yesterday by President Nixon. The Commission is to draft a plan for an all-volunteer armed force. Early last month, he ordered the Defense Department to make a similar study.

Nixon said the transition to a volunteer force must be handled "cautiously and responsibly so that our national security is fully maintained."

Mariner 7 Launched

CAPE KENNEDY—The second Mariner 7 television scout started its four-month trip to Mars yesterday. Its mission is to help determine if the red planet can support life.

Mariner 7's 193-million-mile course should bring it to within 2,000 miles of the planet by Aug. 5, when it will photograph the surface of the planet. Its findings will lay the groundwork for life-detection robots scheduled to land on the planet in 1973.

Ike Grows Weaker

WASHINGTON—It is "not likely, but possible" that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower can be expected to survive if he continues to weaken at his present rate without responding to medical treatment, doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said yesterday.

The general was reported still weak and sleeping about three-fourths of the time. He continues to visit with members of the immediate family.

Defense Rests

LOS ANGELES—The defense wound up its case yesterday for Sirhan B. Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The trial is expected to go to the jury next week after closing arguments.

The final witness was Dr. George Devos, a psychologist from the University of California and Berkeley.

Probe TV's Effects

WASHINGTON—A proposed year-long study of how youth are affected by violence and sex on television was endorsed yesterday by President Nixon. The study is to determine the "possible relationship between scenes of sex and violence on television and anti-social behavior among young people."

The study was proposed by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-Rhode Island.

Wants Law Struck

WASHINGTON—A Chicago lawyer asked the U.S. Supreme Court to apply the state's "one-man, one-vote" concept to elections by striking down a state election law which he said "heavily outweighs" the power of voters in sparsely populated areas.

Attorney Richard F. Watt wants to strike the law requiring independent petitions to contain signatures of 200 people from each of 30 counties.

Promises 'Vigil'

WASHINGTON—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy promised yesterday to keep "a constant vigil" of the Nixon administration's civil rights performance. He made the statement at a subcommittee hearing concerned with civil rights and job discrimination.

There is some speculation he may carry the civil rights issue and Nixon's performance into the 1972 Presidential campaign.

Hike for the Hungry

Every area state legislator but one has given strong endorsement to the Hike for the Hungry which young people will participate in on Good Friday as a benefit for the Northwest Opportunity Center, an Ecuador farm project, and Biafran relief.

State Sen. John A. Graham of Barrington and State Rep. Eugene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, both Republicans have saluted the project as has Democratic State Rep. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights.

So have Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, a Democrat, and U.S. Sen. Charles A. Percy, a Republican.

Senior U.S. Sen. Everett Dirksen has sent hike coordinator David Wurm, youth minister at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect a letter saying, "I trust that your program is proceeding."

THE LONE nay-sayer among the northwest suburban legislators is Rep. David Regner, Mount Prospect Republican.

Charge Boy in Crash

A Rolling Meadows youth was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after his car collided with a parked car last night at 3502 Owl Drive, Rolling Meadows.

James N. McBee, 16, 4605 Magnolia Drive, suffered face lacerations when he struck a car owned by Richard L. Wilt, 705 S. Highland, Arlington Heights.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE was done to both cars, according to Rolling Meadows police. The parked car was pushed 20 feet forward and the two cars were locked together when they came to a stop, police said.

McBee's court date was set for April 15 in Arlington Heights.

County To Pay Only Part

Rolling Meadows officials claim to have found inequities in the county highway department's plans for improving the realigned Wilke Road from Kirchoff Road to Golf Road.

The county plans no contribution to the improvement between Algonquin and Golf Roads, through the Isenstein-Parker property.

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grinace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

Amounts listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

Triple Threat Night For Prom Funds Set

Fremd High School students will hold a "triple threat" night tonight to raise funds for the annual post prom activities.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Fremd gymnasium, the three events will include a faculty-lettermen basketball game, followed by an auction and concluded by a sock hop.

Heading the list of items to be auctioned off is a German Shepherd puppy which was donated.

Regner wrote, "I congratulate you and the young people on their attempt to help several worthwhile causes. However, I don't condone marches of any kind."

Regner suggested that the youth instead raise money for the three projects by soliciting local businessmen.

"I am certainly in agreement with both the goals and means of the Hike for the Hungry project and am happy to give it my enthusiastic endorsement," asserted Percy.

"At a time when we are constantly being told that our young people are committed only in the sense that they appear determined to violently overthrow our institutions and their established processes, it is most gratifying to learn of this constructive commitment being assumed by youth," Percy added.

GRAHAM'S LETTER said, "Being of compassionate nature and Christian heritage, of course I support your endeavor to help those who are needy."

Schlickman wrote, "I think this is a most admirable venture on your part and I certainly wholeheartedly endorse the goals and means you have established."

Mrs. Chapman said she was "delighted to be involved" in a project that gives youth a chance to "show concern for other people in a very physical sense."

Illinois Gov. Richard Ogilvie did not endorse the march because, his press secretary Joseph Mathewson wrote, he felt it would be "inappropriate officially."

Back Tax Questions on Ballot

by MARY SCHLOTT
Two tax rate increases sought by High School Dist. 214 in its April 12 referendum have the backing of Rolling Meadows Community leaders.

The tax rate questions will be paired on the ballot with a request for authorization to spend $8.7 million to build a new high school in Rolling Meadows.

Cost of the Rolling Meadows school building bonds will be spread across the district's total assessed valuation. Dist. 214 spokesman Jack Martin says the taxpayer who owns a $30,000 home will pay an average of $4.50 a year for his share of the bond cost.

The tax rate questions could have a greater impact on the pocketbook.

The referendum proposals ask permission to:

—RAISE the education tax rate ceiling 21 cents, from $1.38 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.59.

—RAISE THE ceiling on the building maintenance tax rate 12½ cents from the present 25-cent tax level.

School spokesmen say they do not think it will be necessary to use the full tax increase immediately.

Martin points out that in the five years since the last tax increase okay was given, Dist. 214's enrollment has risen from 8,276 to 14,750 students, the per-student cost of education has risen from $737 to $1,198, the number of teachers has risen from 451 to 796 and the amount of taxable wealth per pupil has dropped from $55,700 to $48,136.

Rolling Meadows community leaders polled this week by the Herald showed they clearly recognized the link between the building school need and the tax raises in backing a "Yes" vote on the two tax questions.

"IF YOU HAVE a beautiful building, then you want the best teachers — and you have to pay for it," said Mrs. Gordon Black, past president of the Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club. "If you are going to build buildings, you have to be able to maintain them."

Fire Chief Tom Fogarty commented candidly, "I don't particularly like tax increases — no one does — but I realize they are necessary."

Harold Conley, park board president, cited rising costs of all business operations in urging a "Yes" vote on the tax questions. "Even from the standpoint of corporate work I see increases in costs. It is something we have to expect and have to take care of," Conley asserted.

A prediction that location of a high school in Rolling Meadows will enhance the value of local homes came from Ald. Tom Waldron, chairman of the Dist. 214 citizens committee that recommended location of the high school; B. K. McMinn, who served on the citizens committee and is currently a candidate for the Dist. 214 school board, and Mrs. Black.

"ANYTHING THAT makes our community a more attractive place to live will increase the value of homes in Rolling Meadows," McMinn said.

Waldron said resale records show that homes in areas near new schools go up in value. "It looks as though there will be a substantial decrease this year in the city tax bill, so the impact of this Dist. 214 tax raise" won't be as great."

Mrs. Black speculated that the increase in Rolling Meadows' valuation might offset the tax increase.

Fill Road Holes

Reconstruction of Algonquin Road through Rolling Meadows is scheduled to be bid late this year, with the work being done in 1970 according to George March, Dist. 10 state highway department engineer.

March promised Mayor Roland J. Meyer that he would have crews fill the chuck holes with cold patch immediately and follow with hot patch as soon as warm weather arrives as a temporary measure.

Police records show 26 accidents including two fatalities on Algonquin between Route 53 and Wilke Road within the past 12 months, 11 of the accidents since Jan. 1.

DRIVERS TRYING to avoid chuck holes is the cause rather than excessive speed, police say.

Turning and passing lanes have been promised at the Algonquin-Wilke intersection, but Police Chief Cy Campbell has been advised the improvement of the hazardous corner won't happen until funds are available.

Chief Campbell reported to the city council this week that he had abandoned plans for a comprehensive traffic survey when state highway officials three weeks ago said such a survey would be obsolete before it was completed.

Campbell had matching funds allocated for the project, and is now trying to get the money re-allocated to some other safety project.

GOP List Gains

(One of a series of articles on Palatine Township's 1969 local elections, Township Democratic candidates were featured March 18.)

Palatine Township's Republican candidates for township posts are running on their records of the past four years.

The eight GOP candidates are incumbents.

Supt. Howard I. Olsen heads the list of GOP candidates.

Others are Bernard E. Pedersen, assessor; Albert F. DePue, collector; Vernon L. Bergman, highway commissioner; Mrs. Margaret Chapman, clerk; and auditors Richard F. Bayer, M. Russell Bramwell and Carl H. Bals.

The Republicans claim four years of accomplishment in township government and have listed 10 main achievements.

—Adoption of a youth program under supervision of a township youth coordinator.

—Initiation of serial surveys of real estate which has added substantially to the assessed valuation of the township and will result in added funds to tax collecting bodies.

—ADOPTION of a mental health committee to analyze township needs.

—Support of local school districts through transfer of excess township funds.

—Expansion of voter registration for the convenience of the voters.

—Improving of snow removal on township roads and improved maintenance of the roads.

—Employment of professional caseworker for welfare and needy cases.

—Expansion of the town hall and garage facilities.

—Improving of liaison with other local government bodies.

—Continued efforts to increase local payment of taxes, providing the township with additional funds through the 2 per

VOTE STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN

This is a paid political advertisement.

Four candidates are seeking election to two seats in the Palatine Park District election Tuesday.

Herald Reporter Martha Koper interviewed the four candidates and these stories are based on the interviews.

George: 'New Blood'

Hoping to become part of the "new blood" he's advocating for the Palatine Park District Board, David George is seeking election to a six-year term.

A resident of Palatine for almost two years, he sees four major goals for the board of commissioners: expansion of boundaries to coincide with village limits, development of plans to provide facilities that will meet the needs of the community.

David H. George

allocation of budgeted funds to allow for implementation of the plans and better supervision and maintenance of all park district facilities.

George also believes an expansion of the district's existing program is necessary since Palatine is growing at such a rapid rate.

IF ELECTED, some of the programs he would like to see started are a junior golf program for 10-to 16-year-olds, a weekly golf league for Palatine housewives, planned maintenance of all baseball fields and expansion of the senior citizen program to include indoor and outdoor shuffleboard, card and chess tournaments and nature walks.

In the community, George is a member of the Palatine Jaycees, Countryside YMCA and Palatine South Little League.

"I feel my participation in these organizations demonstrates my interest in the growth of Palatine," he said.

He is a group leader in charge of systems analysts and programmers for Motorola, Inc.

"My experience in accounting, budgeting, planning and programming will enable me to carry out the responsibilities of a park district commissioner," he added.

George is not dissatisfied with the present park board, but explained, "By no means do I feel we, the residents of Palatine, should be satisfied. We need aggressive individuals who have the ability to plan and implement park facilities to meet the present and future needs of Palatine."

ABOUT DIST. 211's current proposal concerning swimming pools, he said, "I feel the proposal has some merit since it provides facilities for high school students, but if we are going to have a swimming program, we also need facilities at the junior high level."

Palatine residents have two favored activities determined by the season. As most Americans, they enjoy ice skating in the winter and swimming in the summer, in George's opinion.

But the park district needs to expand facilities for these two favored recreation activities, especially in the Winston Park area, according to George.

Degner for Age 20 Plans

A seven-year resident of Palatine, Waldon Degner, is seeking election to the Park District Board of Commissioners.

He thinks any existing problems with the park district stem from growing pains associated with the ambitious expansion program started in 1965 after the park referendum was approved.

A member of the Village Band and Jaycees, Degner is employed by the U.S. Treasury Department.

If elected, he would like to see an expansion of programs for the over-20 age group.

"Right now, everything is for the kids. It seems the recreation program is only directed toward youth," he said.

He doesn't see the need for a referendum within the next couple of years since all the objectives of the 1965 referendum have not been achieved yet.

FULL DEVELOPMENT of all the neighborhood parks gets top priority from Degner.

"Delayed installation of promised equipment and landscaping which is small in relation to the total program bothers the taxpayer the most."

"I hope to make a special effort to find out what these problems are and to see they are more swiftly solved," he said.

If the need for a referendum arises, Degner thinks it will relate to acquisition of more land. He believes more acreage on the south side of Palatine is needed.

The candidate believes Dist. 211's proposal concerning swimming pools should be investigated by the park board.

"But there are several questions that would have to be answered before I could say I'm in favor of it," he explained.

IN THE PROPOSAL, bleachers are included in the plans, but the park district should not be interested in making provisions for spectators, according to Degner.

In addition, he would like to see cooperation between Palatine's school districts and the park board expanded.

Degner thinks the rental fee for school facilities should be dropped, and park district personnel should be authorized to open and close the buildings instead of the custodial service presently hired for the job.

Degner and his wife and three children live at 316 Mozart.

Simons: Change!

Candidate Charles Simons sees the need was a good addition to the park district for several changes by the Palatine Park District Board.

He thinks objectives of the 1965 referendum, including development of neighborhood parks, has not been fulfilled.

The golf course requires closer and better management, according to Simons.

He believes some plan should be worked out in order to assure more public benefit from school facilities.

As an overall goal of a park district, Simons said, "It should serve the people and give them what they want."

He said last winter's hockey program was a good addition to the park district programs, but caused the lack of good ice skating facilities in neighborhood parks.

In the community, Simons is past president of the Palatine Jaycees and the Willow Wood Civic Association. He's also a member of Countryside YMCA and assistant vice president of the Illinois Jaycees.

Professionally, he's senior staff accountant — comptroller's office for United Air Lines.

Dist. 211's swimming pool proposal has merit in Simons' opinion and he sees more advantages to building indoor facilities rather than another outdoor pool.

About the golf course, he thinks it would probably be worth paying higher salaries to get qualified personnel to operate it. "The board cannot watch day-to-day operations of every activity," Simons said. "There are a lot of things that come before that board that seem to belong at the administrative level."

On his candidacy, he said, "Everybody should be concerned about activities of the park district and be willing to participate."

Simons said his specialized qualifications for the job include accounting and analytical experience.

He and his wife Carolyn have four children and have lived at 423 N. MacArthur Drive, Palatine, for five years.

Wiehrdt: 'Experience'

The only incumbent seeking another term on the Palatine Park District board is Ralph Wiehrdt.

Appointed to serve an unexpired term in 1961 and elected in 1963, he's an eight-year veteran of the board.

As an over-all goal of the park district, Wiehrdt sees "Providing recreation activities for all residents at the existing tax base."

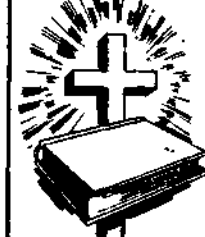

"We've come a long way in that respect since I've been on the board," he said.

"We are continuing to offer a large and varied program of arts and crafts at minimal cost to satisfy all age groupings," he continued.

But if elected, Wiehrdt envisions several changes and improvements for the future. INCLUDED IN his suggestions are updating the park district master plan, providing existing services to the new area of the village with a program of disconnections and annexation, continued development of neighborhood park sites and the recreation area at the golf course.

About a co-operative effort with Dist. 211 to build a swimming pool, he thinks the proposal must be studied further but said the need for more swimming facilities is definite.

School Vote Tomorrow

May Dump Draft

WASHINGTON—Elimination of the draft may be the result of an advisory commission set up yesterday by President Nixon. The Commission is to draft a plan for an all-volunteer armed force. Early last month, he ordered the Defense Department to make a similar study.

Nixon said the transition to a volunteer force must be handled "cautiously and responsibly so that our national security is fully maintained."

Mariner 7 Launched

CAPE KENNEDY—The second Mariner 7 television scout started its four-month trip to Mars yesterday. Its mission is to help determine if the red planet can support life.

Mariner 7's 190-million-mile course should bring it to within 2,000 miles of the planet by Aug. 5, when it will photograph the surface of the planet. Its findings will lay the groundwork for life-detection robots scheduled to land on the planet in 1973.

Ike Grows Weaker

WASHINGTON—It is "not likely, but possible" that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower can be expected to survive if he continues to weaken at his present rate without responding to medical treatment, doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said yesterday.

The general was reported still weak and sleeping about three-fourths of the time. He continues to visit with members of the immediate family.

Defense Rests

LOS ANGELES—The defense wound up its case yesterday for Sirhan B. Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The trial is expected to go to the jury next week after closing arguments.

The final witness was Dr. George Devoes, a psychologist from the University of California and Berkeley.

Probe TV's Effects

WASHINGTON—A proposed year-long study of how youth are affected by violence and sex on television was endorsed yesterday by President Nixon. The study is to determine the "possible relationship between" series of sex and violence on television and anti-social behavior among young people.

The study was proposed by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-Rhode Island.

Wants Law Struck

WASHINGTON—A Chicago lawyer asked the U. S. Supreme Court to apply the state's "One-man, one-vote" concept to elections by striking down a state election law which he said "heavily outweighs" the power of voters in sparsely populated areas.

Attorney Richard F. Watt wants to strike the law requiring independents' petitions to contain signatures of 200 people from each of 50 counties.

Promises 'Vigil'

WASHINGTON—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy promised yesterday to keep "a constant vigil" of the Nixon administration's civil rights performance. He made the statement at a subcommittee hearing concerned with civil rights and job discrimination.

There is some speculation he may carry the civil rights issue and Nixon's performance into the 1972 Presidential campaign.

Polls will open tomorrow in Mount Prospect for a Dist. 57 referendum seeking $274,000 for improvements to two schools.

Voters will be asked to approve construction on Gregory and Sunset schools in the amount of $143,100 for Sunset and $131,400 for Gregory.

The construction at both schools entails additions of multi-purpose rooms and storage facilities.

Both schools originally were built with provisions for further additions, pending the demands of the district.

THE CALL FOR the referendum tomorrow is a trimmed-down version of a much higher bond issue the district had hoped to put before voters this month. Originally scheduled for the referendum was a remodeling job on Lincoln Junior High to accommodate additional students expected to come to the school following the sale of Central Junior High.

Central's sale was stalled, however, and the Dist. 57 school board decided to drop Lincoln's remodeling plans until the matter of Central is resolved.

Tomorrow's referendum does not include Central, directly or indirectly.

Based on the board's request for additions at Gregory and Sunset was a report from the district's school board facilities committee.

Committee chairman Ralph Walberg said, "These schools are incomplete" and recommended an all-purpose room for each school as part of the district's standard policy for all kindergarten through sixth grade schools.

STUDENTS AT BOTH schools take gym classes in an oversized classroom. Sun-

Hansen Says ACP Charge 'Nonsense'

Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl Hansen yesterday called "nonsense" the Active Citizen's Party (ACP) charges of collusion between school officials and the local GOP organization.

He said ACP leaders are "grasping at straws in a belated attempt to revive its sinking township slate."

It was Hansen's opinion that ACP activity "has become so misdirected as to confuse these active Democrats as to whether they are running for township or school district office."

THE GOP leader disavowed any Republican activity in school affairs, especially in School Dist. 59.

"Partisan politics in school matters is something the Republican Party in Elk Grove Township has studiously avoided," he said, calling for the ACP to "think twice before they move farther down this road."

Richard M. Hall, campaign manager for the GOP slate, said in response to ACP charges that school funds cannot legally be released to the districts prior to the annual town meeting April 1.

"If the Democratic candidates had more than a passing interest in the offices they seek, they would already know this," he said.

Hall, a GOP auditor candidate, attacked the call for an audit of township contributions to school funds. He said each school district already has conducted audits, available to the public and that township school trustees "are already accountable to their own respective electorates, providing an added check."

IN CONNECTION with ACP's charges of collusion on alleged disruption of one of their meeting dates planned for John Jay School, incumbent Township Supervisor William Rohlfing said, "I had no knowledge of their (ACP) contacts with the school; they could have used the township hall for their meeting if they asked us."

"Once elected, the township officials become representatives of the people, and their political affiliation becomes secondary," he said.

IT WAS TEA and sympathy — the political support type — in Mount Prospect yesterday as women from the village gathered at a fund-raising luncheon for Mayoral candidate Robert Teichert, left. The women had a salad lunch followed by a dessert of village politics. Over 100 women came to the Mount Prospect Country Club to raise money for Teichert's campaign.

Women Vow Teichert Support

by GERRY DE ZONNA

"Put a Teichert in our town" was the theme for a fund raising luncheon yesterday at the Mount Prospect Country Club to help finance Trustee Robert Teichert's campaign for village president.

More than 100 women attended the luncheon and card party and pledged their support for Teichert in his bid to unseat incumbent Mayor Dan Congreve on April 15.

The Chestnut room at the country club was undoubtedly Teichert territory yesterday, as groups of Mount Prospect women chatted and unanimously agreed that the village needed a new president and that Teichert is the man to fill the bill.

"He's the most qualified man I know to be the mayor of our town," explained Lynn Bennett, coffee-hour chairman for the campaign. Mrs. Bennett has helped to organize more than 30 coffee hours for Teichert, "so that he could have a chance to meet as many residents as possible."

There was little doubt in Mrs. Bennett's mind that she was working for the next mayor of Mount Prospect.

WOMEN FROM THE north side of Mount Prospect are voting for Bob Teichert because "we've been stripped of representation in village government, and Bob's the man who can do something about it."

Women from the south side of town agreed that they are voting for Teichert because "he'll do something to control the flooding problem in our area."

But all the women agreed that they are voting for Teichert because "he's the better man."

"We need a change in government," explained Joanne Dhien, one of the ladies who worked hard to organize the luncheon. "Bob can 'straighten' things out at village hall, because he's more consistent in his policies than the present administration."

"I'm working for Bob," explained Joe Grittani, a village trustee, "and I'm voting for him, because he's a very qualified man for the job. He's not at all dictatorial in his policies, and he's a very reasonable man to work with. If the board of trustees can work with the incumbent mayor, they can work with anyone, especially Bob."

IT WAS THE opinion of many Teichert supporters yesterday that Congreve's refusal to debate with Teichert has seriously hurt the Congreve campaign and his effort for reelection.

"Dan's refusal to debate with Bob has hurt Dan's campaign very much," said Mary Ellen Walker, one of the women who sponsored the luncheon. "Bob will answer any question that's asked of him. He's not embarrassed because the people have a right to know about his policies."

"When Dan refused to debate, he obviously had some reason, and a lot of people are now thinking that Dan Congreve has something to hide," added another luncheon guest.

Jean Partridge, who has seven children is voting for Teichert because "Bob is very interested in organizing programs for the village youth. Dan Congreve is doing nothing for our children and he doesn't plan to in the future."

THE WOMEN AT the luncheon agreed that they are all voting for the candidate because he's Terrific, Experienced, Intelligent, Conscientious, Honest, Efficient, Remarkable, and Thorough.

"And here's the man without whom politics wouldn't be politics . . . here's B-O-B-Y," and Teichert, looking like Johnny Carson 10 years from now, strode to the microphone to thank his supporters and acknowledge at least 100 favorable votes.

Hypnotism Is Almost Magic

by GERRY DE ZONNA

Hypnotism is fascinating, its almost magical powers must be seen to be believed.

Wednesday evening Dr. Irwin Ross, a Chicago psychologist, held a student and adult audience spell-bound at Arlington High School while he performed the wonders of hypnotism before the eyes of his audience.

Dr. Ross selected a group of volunteers

Aid Hunger Hike With Crystal Ship Night

A special benefit night will be held at Mount Prospect's Crystal Ship, the youth-oriented coffee house sponsored by the Community Presbyterian Church.

Purpose of the benefit is to accumulate more money for the Northwest suburban Hunger Hike, scheduled for Good Friday, April 4.

The coffee house will charge $1 admission beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday night with all money earmarked for the hunger fund. A musical group will be the evening's entertainment.

from the audience, all of them high school students. Twenty volunteers were narrowed down to a group of 10 by the degree to which each were able to attain the hypnotic trance.

Dr. Ross worked only with those students who were able to be hypnotized within a short span of five minutes. For more than an hour, he proved to the audience that man can control the mind through hypnotism.

HE WORKED WITH a group of boys and girls and made them respond almost letter perfect to his commands. The experience for both the audience and the volunteers was fun, interesting and almost unbelievable.

Seated on folding chairs on the basketball court, the student volunteers exhibited to the audience the many responses that can be produced under the hypnotic trance.

The hypnotist could produce responses that ranged from positive to negative attitudes, personality changes, loss of memory and physical strength.

The commands are given to the subjects while they're in the "sleep" stage of the trance. The hypnotist will put them to sleep, which re-enforces the trance and sustains it, and then he will make a suggestion. The subject will come out of the sleep stage at his command and then react to the suggestion also at his command.

"HYPNOTISM IS REALLY an extension of one's powers of concentration," explained Dr. Ross. "Under the hypnotic trance, reasoning power is dulled, and the subject's reactions are from a lack of reasoning. Hypnotism can alter any and all of the senses."

At one point in the evening, Dr. Ross told the girls that all the boys on the panel were the most handsome looking boys that they had ever seen and that the girls would have a strong desire to date any of the boys.

The boys at the same time were told that the girls were the ugliest girls that they had ever seen in their lives. When the subjects woke from the sleep stage, the girls started asking the boys for dates and stared at them with "cow eyes."

Dr. Ross asked the fellows if they'd like dates with any of the girls, and all of them emphatically refused, replying "You've got to be kidding!" One fellow remarked that he wouldn't be seen in public with any of those girls.

He then reversed the experiment, and the boys fought with each other trying to ask all the girls for dates. The girls re-

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grinace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

A month's listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

A Herald Editorial

Bond Vote — Yes!

Mount Prospect residents in School District 57 should approve the $274,000 bond referendum tomorrow and complete construction of two local schools.

Money from the referendum's passage will be used to construct long needed additions to Sunset and Gregory schools. Both schools were built by the district with the understanding that additions would be necessary when enrollment demands increased.

That time has now arrived. The two schools presently have a total of 745 children in grades first through sixth. In some cases, the children are attending overcrowded classrooms and being deprived of adequate library and physical education space.

OST TO THE homeowner for the additions to Gregory and Sunset is small. A person with a house valued at $25,000 will pay about $1.50 more a year, based on $10,000 assessed valuation.

In seeking the building additions, school board members have wisely kept this separate from the matter of Central School.

Tomorrow's referendum has no bearing on Central School, nor the attempt to sell the structure. Voters are being asked to provide learning space for 745 children. The issue is as simple as that.

ALTHOUGH THE referendum concerns only two of the district's schools, each District 57 voter has an obligation to allow the school board to complete the job originally promised.

The school board built Gregory and Sunset Schools to meet district needs at the time. Now, the demands have increased, and students at both schools require additional space for the learning process.

The cost to the taxpayer is small, but the rewards to nearly 750 local students will be great in terms of adequate facilities for education.

Talking Turkey About Money

Congreve: The Record Good

The last in the Herald's series of questions to Mount Prospect's mayoral candidates deals with finances. Today, the candidates were asked to "Give three examples of village fiscal efficiency as it is now or how it should be."

During the past four years the corporate authorities of the village of Mount Prospect have implemented many programs to achieve fiscal efficiency. Three major areas that come to light immediately are:

— The combination of the department of water and the department of streets to a public works department, thereby allowing better efficiency to the public with respect to water and street problems. The necessary manpower to accomplish these activities results in fewer men needed to operate the public works department than would be needed to operate two separate departments, as was the procedure prior to the merger of the water department and the street department into a public works department.

— The village instituted an ambulance service operated through the Mount Prospect Fire Department, a valuable and much needed service, with no increase in manpower. Presently the village has two ambulances, one stationed at Fire Station 1 and one at Fire Station 2, with the capabilities of providing 24-hour a day emergency service. Cooperation between the police department and the fire department with respect to radio communication has resulted in a very efficient program serving the people of the village of Mount Prospect at no cost nor additional expenditure due to increase in manpower. This service is staffed by the regular personnel of the Mount Prospect Fire Department who are all trained in advanced first aid.

— THE CORPORATE authorities of the village of Mount Prospect have strived for and achieved a comprehensive working budget submitted by the administration indicating line by line all anticipated expenditures coupled with a line by line itemization of the prior year's expenditures. It has further been the policy of this administration to have all items in excess of $500 be recommended as a result of competitive bidding (sealed bids), and all items under $500 to be purchased as a result of comparative price quotations prior to selecting the low qualifying vendor.

— Through this implementation of spending coupled with a comprehensive budget, the residents of the village of Mount Prospect have been the beneficiaries through savings realized by intelligent purchasing after careful review of comparative prices and products."

Dan Congreve,

Scouts Go Outdoors

The Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts will emphasize an expanded outdoor scouting program during April with the suggested theme "With Map and Compass" for all local Scout troops.

"Some of the best objectives of scouting will be met by boys and their troops as they practice the skills of using a compass, reading and sketching a map, and studying cross-country orientation projects," said Leslie Milligan, Scout commissioner for the Northwest Suburban Council.

5 Not Fair

by JUDY TREMORE

Five Mount Prospect residents have proved to me once again why the world is in the mess it is.

The five have filed suit in Circuit Court to block the park district referendum narrowly approved in February.

What I believe it boils down to is these "north" siders opposed the $2.4 million referendum because they felt they would derive no benefits.

The bulk of the money is to go to park improvements in the south half of the village.

In each north side precinct, the "no" vote outweighed those in favor of the referendum. Members of the district on the south end swung the referendum by 56 votes.

To me this suit is indicative of the "what's in it for me" attitude that prevails everywhere. It seems to me that "love thyself" has replaced "love thy neighbor."

WHAT IS WRONG with providing the thousands of children in the newer areas with park facilities? I am certain that once the parks are in, children will come from north of Longquist to use them just as we southsiders use the north park facilities.

What is wrong in having a far-sighted park board that wants to do as much as it can for all the residents in the district which like it or not includes a portion of Des Plaines?

I have seen no other elected board in the village so plagued with self-interest seekers. When golf regulations are discussed at night by a body of golfers appears before the board to haggle over changes that would allow teenagers on the course or changes in tee-off times.

When the district tried to improve its skating facilities, other groups petitioned to spread the ice skating money thin over seven ponds, instead of three "thick" ponds and in turn attacked the money that (they thought) is put out for golfers.

When vandals get out of hand on the golf course and at parks, residents band together to protest having to look at a fence. Never mind all the money the rest of the taxpayers are paying out just to set right what has been vandalized.

IF WE WANT to get down to the nitty-gritty, why should my park tax dollars be used on the golf course, ice skating, baseball leagues, basketball or even rifle shooting? I don't use or need these programs.

Why have a park district at all? I'd wager that the majority of taxpayers use the parks infrequently enough that their major benefits can be only indirect.

And it is indirectly that we should all be concerned. We want a fine park program to use as our time permits, to keep our children occupied during the summer and to keep open spaces in an area where open space is rapidly shrinking.

I want our children, all of them in the district, to have a fine park program with a choice of activities for toddlers through teens, not to mention adult program. If we really think out the needs of our children and not just fall into "over organizing" their lives, perhaps we will find we've solved some of "suburbia's problems."

Why not have a well-planned park near everyone's home if the land is available? (I'm certain some parents of tiny ice-skaters would agree with me.)

Far better for the children to be bicycling on paths in a park than on the street where they have a chance of being hit by a car.

The Little League teams have more applicants than spots for players or diamonds to use. And what about the older boys who want an impromptu game of touch football or softball or want to shoot baskets to keep in shape for the team?

NO ONE HAS ever complained that a park program or park is understaffed. You cannot, I realize, duplicate facilities at each park. It would be impractical. Most of us realized in moving to Mount Prospect that the car is a necessary fact of life.

While the land is available, however, it should be "grabbed up."

I wonder if the original plans to purchase Central School had been realized and we had to vote on that, whether this group would have thought much about how the vote was handled at the polling referendum.

I know I would have voted yes for that bond issue even though it meant I'd have to drive my children there — almost three miles one way.

I'm in a middle-group right now. My children are too young to use much more than the tot-lot at the school, and I recognize there's always a chance that with advancing age, my ideas will change.

BUT I HOPE when I do reach middle age, I'll still remember what it was like to be a youngster, what it was like to fight for schools or parks for my children.

And I also hope that as I become more affluent in that middle-age, I won't be so concerned with money that I'll refuse to spend it for the new crop of youngsters.

What can it be that makes the $15 per year that the bond issue will cost the individual so precious to these five concerned citizens? Or can I be misjudging them so completely as to not realize they really are only concerned with propriety in balancing?

Have they stopped to wonder, if they win their suit, how much more it will cost them in the long run? Or if they lost it anyway, how these five may charge all the taxpayers an extra $400,000? It hardly seems fair.

Teichert: No Past Reductions

"Fiscal efficiency means spending less money, or getting more value for the dollars we are spending. Neither of these definitions can be said to apply to the present village administration.

"Each year the village has spent more money than the year before... There has been no reduction in spending. As to more value, that is, more materials or more service for the dollars we spend, I cannot see that it has been accomplished.

"The use of village employees to do specified work rather than using outside contractors is, of course, exactly what we have employees. The established procedure of doing as much work as possible through our own staff is the practice of all municipalities, as well as private industry, and the present administration has done no better nor worse than previous administrations in this respect. However, the present administration has made unnecessary expenditures and taken certain actions which have precipitated needless litigation with the attendant legal costs.

"THEIR ONLY claim to economy appears to be a tax rate reduction, which as everyone knows was not achieved through frugality in spending nor through efficient operation, but came as a gift from the state of Illinois.

4-H in Suburbs

by TOM WELLMAN

Think about 4-H Clubs, and the image is a peach-fuzzed farm boy in a blue jacket milking a Jersey cow in his father's barn.

Forget that image. There are blossoming 4-H clubs all over the suburban north-west and the orientation of them is towards everyday activities that a suburban child from 9 to 19 experiences.

Mrs. Doris Austin, of 1322 N. Vail, Arlington, is one of the new leaders sparking the change. The petite woman, who is making a part-time career of organizing chapters in Arlington Heights, is a far cry from a farmer.

She's been working for 4-H since January, and in almost three months she has organized two groups of almost 60 children. She plans to start three more groups within a week or two.

ROLLING MEADOWS and Mount Prospect have 4-H chapters too. As in Arlington Heights, they are formed with the guidance of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, which supports the 4-H and has its northern Cook County office in Arlington Heights.

The main emphasis in the "new" 4-H, as Mrs. Austin will tell you, is to educate and train young people in practical skills. They learn poise, public speaking ability, and leadership. It's all part of the new program.

A child starts in the program at any point between 9 and 19. He starts with a beginning project, and the 4-H manual reveals a wide range of choices.

He or she could begin with cooking, gardening, photography, room improvement, or woodworking. The point in the program is that he gets some type of project underway.

If the boy or girl lives in a rural area, the traditional choices — forestry, dairy, poultry, or conservation — are still available. It would be difficult to get involved in such a program in the northwestern suburbs, however. But it is not impossible.

IF JOHN DOE, living in Mount Prospect, decides that his first project will be photography, he would proceed in this manner.

He would start the project before September, in order to qualify for the county fair 4-H exhibition sometime after August of the next year.

John would work with a project leader to develop his project. Activity leaders would help John's group plan picnics, parties, and other recreation, as part of the 4-H program.

After the project is completed, it would be entered in the Cook County Fair (all projects are eligible). If it is a prize winner, it could advance to the state fair.

As John grows and works on more advanced projects, he is required to give public demonstrations of them. Mrs. Austin stresses that this gives children self-confidence and poise in facing an audience.

WHEN JOHN REACHES 15, he might become a junior adviser. He would work with an adult, but both would be responsible for supervising younger children. When he becomes 19, he could stay on as an adult leader, if he chose to do so.

All this activity may be healthy for a child, but one might ask if 4-H isn't just a watered-down version of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, or similar youth-oriented groups. Mrs. Austin disagrees.

"Other groups tend to cover many things on the surface, but we only work on one project a year."

She explains that both boys and girls are integrated into the 4-H, unlike most other youth activities. However, she has no quarrel with other groups, as they benefit children in different kinds of ways.

IN A SENSE, Mrs. Austin is a "true believer" in the 4-H program. She's dedicated to enlarging the program. For example, she recently handed out information to children at all of the public and some of the parochial schools in Arlington Heights. It's helped involve parents — a necessary ingredient — in 4-H programs. Glen DeViney, treasurer.

set's problems are further complicated by a lack of space for a school library. The collection is now housed in a small space in the room used for physical education.

Cost to local property owners for the referendum is estimated at $1.50 per $10,000 valuation.

Based on current standards in Cook County which place the amount of assessment at 40 to 50 per cent of the price of a house, a homeowner of property selling for $25,000 would pay $1.50 per year for the school additions.

Guam Taps Hardt

Victor H. Hardt of Mount Prospect, professor and chairman of the music education department at Roosevelt University in Chicago, has been chosen by the government of Guam to conduct a six-day band clinic on the island from April 6-12.

Hardt will conduct the Guam Honor Band at a Festival Concert on April 12. The program will include two of his own compositions, "Choral and Fugue for Band and Tone Patterns for Band."

HARDT WILL ALSO conduct seminars with junior and senior high school bands, orchestras, and ensembles during his visit to Guam.

Hardt has his doctorate in education from Columbia University in New York and a master's degree from the University of Minnesota. He also has a bachelor of science degree from Concordia College in Minnesota, as well as a bachelor of music degree from the Vandercook College of Music.

will you do?

A long, solid blast on the sirens means a tornado warning, according to Larry Pairitz of the Mount Prospect Fire Department and Civil Defense Unit. Pairitz and other members of the CD force are involved in an education program on tornadoes which will culminate tomorrow with a display about tornadoes in the Randhurst mall.

According to Pairitz, information about the tornado season has been distributed to about 75 per cent of the Mount Prospect homes by volunteers from the North Star Boy Scout District.

In addition, two films have been shown about the dangers of tornadoes. The film has been shown at area elementary and high schools.

MEMBERS OF THE local CD unit have established a series of tornado watch points utilizing the services of local residents. Pairitz said local service station operators, for example, are tied into a watch net which will give the community some warning of oncoming tornadoes.

In addition, taxi cab companies, construction firms and 22 amateur radio operators are cooperating in a communication system which can be used in a time of emergency.

Pairitz explained that although the Mount Prospect area is now coming into the tornado season, when the likelihood of tornadoes increases, each tornado watch established by the weather bureau does not mean a tornado is on the way.

A tornado watch means that weather conditions could lead to a tornado. A tornado warning indicates that actual tornadoes have been sighted.

Passover Festival Is Set by Congregation

fused without any hesitation. IN ANOTHER EXPERIMENT, Dr. Ross told all the students that someone had stolen their "belly buttons" and that they would be very angry. They were.

The boys responded by lifting their shirts and looking for their lost "belly buttons," while the girls automatically reached for their stomachs with obvious displeasure.

The students began to argue, accusing each other of stealing their "belly buttons." One girl over-reacted and began to cry because someone had stolen her "belly button." Dr. Ross quickly restored her personal loss and she smiled immediately.

During other experiments, the students witnessed extreme temperature changes, laughing and crying seizures, strong odors and innocent uninhibitedness.

Four of the students entertained the audience by pretending they were the singing group the Manias and the Papas. With complete ease they sang one of the group's most popular songs.

AT THE END of his performance, Dr. Ross told the students they would come out of the hypnotic trance with no side effects and that they would be the same people that they were when they volunteered.

But he gave them one last assignment: they would return to the audience and when he mentioned the word "Wheeling," a group of them would shout "the Redcoats are coming!"

The students returned to the audience, believing that they were fully aware of the office.

everything. Dr. Ross made his concluding remarks for the evening, slipped in the word "Wheeling," and the students who had been hypnotized jumped to their feet and shouted to a quiet auditorium that "the Redcoats are coming."

Youth Group Accepts Office Offer, Maybe

The Arlington Heights Youth Council has voted to accept High School Dist. 214's offer of office space to permit the council to operate a clearing house for summer employment of youth.

The acceptance was made contingent on the village's providing someone to man the office. Plans for the employment office will be presented to the board of trustees for final action. The aim of the council is to establish one office that would coordinate the hiring of high school and college students for summer jobs.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE MONEY-THEN SPEND IT and still have MORE left than you saved!

"Sheer, stark poverty prevents many oldsters from doing the things that the 'golden years' are supposed to make possible."

For the past ten years, through our newsletter, It's Your Money, which this Association originated, we have frequently emphasized that a shocking number of Americans are living impoverished lives. We have pointed out that:

- The largest single group of poor is that characterized as "aged."
- Four-fifths of single persons over 65 are living on poverty incomes.
- Two-thirds of family heads over 65 have incomes of less than $4,000 annually.
- There are more than 1,000,000 Americans 85 years or older—the fastest growing age group in the nation.
- In the next 40 years, the number of Americans past 65 years will more than double. Those over 75 will triple by the year 2000 (which you will be if you are now in your 40s).

"Poor people are the bulk of the old," writes one authority. "If you weren't poor before you reached your 65th year, you are likely to be so afterward."

Why this condition? If the majority of Americans enjoy the highest living standards in the world, why are three out of four likely to be impoverished after they reach 65? The answer is in one word: improvidence. They are neglecting to take care of future needs.

These charts reveal strikingly how a pattern of saving helps to provide for later years. You save a fixed amount for 15 years. Then you spend the same amount for the next 15 years. For this pattern of deferred spending, you are handsomely rewarded. You still have more money left than you put in!

Thus, by saving $100 per month at, let's say, the age of 50, you will have a total of $26,241.29 in your account at age 65. If you take out $100 every month for the next 15 years (your life expectancy at age 65 will be another 15 years) you will still have a balance of $26,940.18 at age 80 (when you can expect to live an additional 7 years).

Here is the heart of the matter—the provision for later years now, while you are actively employed. The earlier you start, and the more you put away, the richer your rewards.

With our liberal dividends, compounded quarterly, on FSLIC-insured accounts, you have the safest and surest way of guaranteeing the kind of income you seek for the years ahead.

Save now... while you can.

Outline Nursing Work

Harper Junior College nurses today and tomorrow will man a nursing careers information booth at Randhurst Shopping Center as part of their observance of National Nurses Week.

The booth is sponsored by the Nursing Students' Club of the community college.

Dismissed Teachers Ask Why

Attorneys for two Harper Junior College teachers last night formally asked the college board to "show cause" for a decision not to reappoint them next year.

The attorney, Richard L. Wexler of Chicago, made the request for social science instructor Edward M. Kalish of Mount Prospect and Dr. Betty Enbysk of Schaumburg, associate professor of geology.

The attorney told college trustees that college officials have made allegations of "unsatisfactory service" about Kalish and Dr. Enbysk that violate their "basic" "defamatory in nature."

"The information which we have received to date suggests that although (the right to free speech" as well as being two teachers have) . . . performed creditably and . . . fulfilled all of (their) classroom responsibilities," they have been marked for "professional extermination," the attorney said.

They ask that reasons for their nonreappointment be revealed at a public hearing. The request is a probable step toward taking legal action against the college.

THE TWO HAVE made the request for an explanation before, but not to the college board.

The board gave no reason for its December decision not to reappoint the two, who are both active members of the faculty senate — governing body of the community college faculty.

Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti said the college is acting in accordance with its policy manual in making that decision.

The policy book says the college has "no obligation . . . to specify cause" for not rehiring a teacher who does not hold tenure and the right to continuing contract. No Harper teacher holds tenure yet.

Kalish and Dr. Enbysk have charged they are not being retained because they exercised their right of academic freedom — their right to free comment on matters involving the college and their professional work.

A FACULTY SENATE committee formed to investigate that charge was received courteously but given no official reasons for the action against the two.

Administrative spokesmen assured the faculty senate committee, however, that academic freedom was not involved.

The Herald was given the same assurance by college board members who concurred in the action after quizzing Lahti and other administrators behind closed doors for several hours.

Kalish has a letter from his division head, John Birkholz, saying the college did not make its decision on the grounds of "incompetency" or "moral turpitude."

Building Permits Top January '69

Arlington Heights finished a distant second to Hoffman Estates in the total value of homebuilding permits issued in February, according to the Bell Savings survey of new building.

The village totaled $2,673,200 in permits, while Hoffman Estates amassed $4,382,040. The Arlington Heights total was about $2 million above the total for January, 1969.

The village landed sixth in the value of home building permits issued in February. The total was $996,000 for 30 homes, compared to $1,518,000 for 54 homes in February, 1968.

HOWEVER, FOR THE first two months of 1969, Arlington Heights held on to fourth position in homebuilding behind Northbrook, Palatine, and Downers Grove.

The village finished third in February apartment permits. Its valuation figure of $1.25 million was behind higher totals for Buffalo Grove and Hoffman Estates.

In the Chicago metropolitan area, permits for homes and apartments rose sharply in February. Apartments set a new February high, while homes increased 8 per cent above last year.

Clearbrook Gives Fred Fresh Start

"Fred's doing a real nice job. He's making $2.20 an hour full time and works some overtime." Fred is among those who have received a fresh start in life through the efforts of the Clearbrook Center's Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Training Center in Rolling Meadows.

Gordon Reynolds, his supervisor, said Fred was referred to Clearbrook by the State of Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. They have a contract permitting individuals the state is working with to use facilities at Clearbrook.

The sheltered workshop opened its doors three years ago to train mentally and physically handicapped young adults who need help to function independently in "outside" employment. Fred is working for Reynolds Products in Rolling Meadows.

ROSEMARY HAS BEEN a kitchen aid for the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged in Arlington Heights. She washes dishes before they are placed in automatic dish washing machines and assists with setting and clearing tables.

Clearbrook does not train for a specific job. Instead, students learn such skills as counting, reading, writing, measuring, using the telephone, packaging, typing, cleaning, sorting, filling out job applications, use of public transportation and washrooms and using tools, etc.

Although a qualified professional staff evaluates the young adult, he or she decides for himself which job he will apply for. A placement counselor arranges job interviews for the client.

THE PLACEMENT counselor will help the young adult with any required paper work and take him to his new job in an effort to make the transition as smooth as possible. He will keep in contact to help with any problems that arise.

The ultimate goal of Clearbrook is to make clients participating members of society. All those employed are eligible for full company benefits and enter the competitive pay scale.

A private, non-profit agency, Clearbrook is licensed by the state department of mental health and services for the entire Northwest suburban area. Palatine, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Maine and Wheeling townships are included in Clearbrook's territory.

The center provides a daytime program for children from 3 through 15 years of age. For handicapped children over 15, the workshop and center provides the proper instruction.

CLEARBROOK TRAINS mentally retarded and multiple handicapped children and adults not eligible for public school classes. These include children too young for placement in public school special education classes, those too severely handicapped for such placement, and those beyond public school age.

Charge Two Youths With Window Breaking

Rolling Meadows police charged two juveniles with vandalism at Carl Sandburg Junior High School.

Officer Dennis Harper discovered two windows broken in the school March 16. Upon further investigation he found four broken windows in school buses. Total damage was estimated to be $249.

The juveniles were brought to the station Monday and made statements. Parents have agreed to pay for the damages.

Teachers Work 10 Months

Adlai E. Stevenson High School teachers will work 10 months next year instead of the usual nine.

Both teachers and board of education members tentatively approved the plan more than a year ago but official action did not come until Monday night's regular board meeting. Teachers officially accepted it a week ago.

Students will remain on the present nine-month school year, Supt. Harold Baner said, but additional teaching time will give students an opportunity to work directly with instructors on individual projects, makeup lessons, independent study and similar programs not possible under the present nine-month schedule.

TEACHERS WILL have time to develop cooperative teaching projects, explore instructional objectives, evaluate methods and research material, he added.

"It is important to point out that this is the result of cooperative effort by both teachers and the board of education,"

Baner said.

"Teachers are willing and want to give more time to education. This is very important to the economical operation of the school district. Both teaching talent and facilities must be used longer than nine months a year if we are to get the most out of our tax dollars."

Schoolmen Beam Over Aid

News that the Illinois School Problems Commission has recommended a state increase from $100 to $550 had schoolmen beaming Monday.

They said "great" and "Wonderful" on hearing that the commission's recommendations call for only a slight increase in the effort-level tax and ask that state aid be computed next year on the basis of average daily enrollment, not average daily attendance.

Asst. Supt. John Barger said the increase could bring Wheeling Dist. 21 at least $784,400 more in state aid next year.

It could go up close to $1 million if we get the increased enrollment we're afraid we'll get," Barger added.

PETER BAKAS, business manager of Arlington Heights Dist. 25, pegged his district's gain from the proposed state aid increase at $800,000 or better.

He called the increase "substantial."

The increase apparently will be sufficient to benefit even High School Dist. 14, whose assessed valuation is large enough that until now all it has been able to gain from the state aid is a minimum flat grant of $34 per pupil.

A reporter's estimates peg the state aid increase for Dist. 214 at $750,000, should the School Problems Commission's figures be accepted by the legislature.

Not every schoolman queried locally is sure that the money will come through.

"I am confident that our legislature will do everything they can to implement these recommendations," asserted James Lawrence, Palatine-Schaumburg Dist. 211 business manager.

"WE ARE NOT GOING to count the money till it is in the bank, however," he added.

Lawrence noted that this summer the school problems commission had recommended a state aid increase to $600.

The schoolmen said the state aid money is badly needed.

Barger said the state aid will be a "very big help" in helping the Wheeling district make ends meet.

"We can't even begin to negotiate with our teachers until we get more money," Barger noted.

Supt. Wayne Schaible of Schaumburg Dist. 54, one of the poorest in the county, struck much the same note.

"The more we can get the better. We need every cent we can get our hands on," Schaible asserted.

THE COMMISSION recommended that the effort-level tax, officially known as the "qualifying rate," be raised from 84 to 90 cents.

Converting from average daily attendance to average daily enrollment will mean an aid increase of 8 per cent for most districts. The average daily attendance figure, which takes into account pupils' absences, is usually that much lower than enrollment in suburban schools. City schools have an even higher absence record.

No district will get the full $550 recommended by the commission.

The state pays a per-pupil state aid based on the difference between the $550 (or the $400 used this year) and the amount the local district can raise per pupil by levying the effort-level tax.

Students See Museum

The four first grade classes of Alcott School in Buffalo Grove visited the Hinsdale Health Museum this week.

The museum was established and is being maintained by the Kettering Foundation as a public service to inspire healthful living through increased knowledge of the human body.

Field trips are arranged to include a presentation by the talking transparent woman and two of the following units: brain and nervous system; the special senses; heart and circulatory systems; reproductive systems; and skeletal system.

Lectures are frequently supplemented by films from the museum's library.

Candidates to Meet Dist. 23 Teachers

Candidates for the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board will meet Dist. 23 teachers Monday at 3:15 at the MacArthur Junior High School cafeteria.

The meeting is an attempt to acquaint the teachers with the personalities and issues in the current campaign.

doned building, which was scheduled for demolition to clear the area for a residential subdivision. Fire officials suspect arson. (Photo by Bob Strawn)

Case Against Field Is Alive

The Wheeling case against Field Enterprises is still alive and kicking in the state appellate court, according to Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

Hamer denied rumors that Wheeling has lost the case trusting the village solicitation ordinance.

Last November the case was transferred from the first to the third district court because of a heavy case load.

There has been no decision against the village, Hamer said. In the event of an unfavorable decision Hamer assumes the village will direct him to take the case to the Illinois Supreme Court.

He is confident he can win the case against Field in the state supreme court because of a 1952 decision in the United States Supreme Court.

THE DECISION, Breard vs. the City of Alexandria, La., backs the right to prohibit unsolicited solicitation.

According to Hamer, Breard vs. the City of Alexandria applied the First Amendment guaranteeing freedom of speech to "oral advocates of ideas and the press" and distinguished between newspapers and magazines.

Magazine subscriptions and encyclopedias, Hamer said.

"We have the right to prevent and abate a nuisance," said Hamer. "Now we have to determine whether door-to-door solicitation is a nuisance."

Library News

Government Info?

by LAURIE ROSSI

The departments of the U.S. government publish such a variety of information that almost every area of the library has something put out by them. Many of the most useful materials in the pamphlet file of the Mount Prospect Public Library are published by one of our government offices, and they cover every imaginable topic.

Did you ever wonder how they name the hurricanes? They're all named after women (for some unknown reason) and the particular name is taken from one of four alphabetical lists, with women's names for every letter except Q, U, X, Y, and Z.

Every year they start naming from another list, so that no name can occur any more often than every four years. I even found my name on these lists in the "Weather Science Study Kit" — put out by the Department of Commerce — and found that I will be the twelfth hurricane this year. I found out a lot of other interesting weather information from there too.

May, for example, is a big month for tornadoes, which may travel at a speed of 500 m.p.h.

A CHART of average annual tornadoes indicates that Illinois has about 9, and Texas leads the list with 28.

By the way, did you know you can detect a tornado in your area by turning on your TV? Just black out a picture on any one of the channels except 2. Then turn to Channel 2. If the picture is also black there, a tornado is not close. Watch the black screen, and as soon as a picture appears, take cover. A tornado is probably within five miles away and has caused the brightness on that frequency to light up a picture you have darkened.

Need someone's zip code? The government published a zip code directory. Or are you planning a vacation? You might want to consult "Room to Room," the Department of the Interior's recreation guide to our public lands. It's forte is the maps of many areas showing the location of best hunting and fishing areas, petroglyphs, pictographs, wall paintings, unique botanical and zoological features, geological formations, petrified wood areas, and old mining locations.

Air pollution is becoming an increasing concern to all of us. You can read the first report of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, on this subject, where you'll find out almost one of the greatest gaseous dangers facing Chicago — sulfur dioxide.

THERE IS A series of pamphlets on all countries, very useful for concise travel information or school reports. Interested in the war on poverty or our increasing amount of trade with communist countries? Want a patent for your invention? Want to know the statistical odds of employment if you drop out of school? Do you wonder about the plight of the black man in the white man's world? Are you affected by family budgets, rising medical costs, smoking hazards, or highway safety? All these are topics of special publications the government puts out.

To help you locate these government pamphlets, magazines, and books they also put out a monthly catalog of their publications and a book called "Government Publications and Their Use." The library, of course, has them and the book lists all government catalogues, indexes, bibliographies, executive and congressional publications, federal and state constitutions, court decisions, foreign affairs, reports on operations, technical reports, and microfascimiles of government publications. You'll want to investigate further, for yourself, into these resources, and can any Monday through Friday 9-5, Saturday 9-5, or Sunday 2-5.

May Dump Draft

WASHINGTON—Elimination of the draft may be the result of an advisory commission set up yesterday by President Nixon. The Commission is to draft a plan for an all-volunteer armed force. Early last month, he ordered the Defense Department to make a similar study.

Nixon said the transition to a volunteer force must be handled "cautiously and responsibly so that our national security is fully maintained."

Mariner 7 Launched

CAPE KENNEDY—The second Mariner 7 television scout started its four-month trip to Mars yesterday. Its mission is to help determine if the red planet can support life.

Mariner 7's 193-million-mile course should bring it to within 2,000 miles of the planet by Aug. 5, when it will photograph the surface of the planet. Its findings will lay the groundwork for life-detection robots scheduled to land on the planet in 1973.

Ike Grows Weaker

WASHINGTON—It is "not likely, but possible" that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower can be expected to survive if he continues to weaken at his present rate without responding to medical treatment, doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said yesterday.

The general was reported still weak and sleeping about three-fourths of the time. He continues to visit with members of the immediate family.

Defense Rests

LOS ANGELES—The defense wound up its case yesterday for Sirhan B. Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The trial is expected to go to the jury next week after closing arguments.

The final witness was Dr. George Devoe, a psychologist from the University of California and Berkeley.

Probe TV's Effects

WASHINGTON—A proposed year-long study of how youth are affected by violence and sex on television was endorsed yesterday by President Nixon. The study is to determine the "possible relationship between scenes of sex and violence on television and anti-social behavior among young people."

The study was proposed by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-Rhode Island.

Wants Law Struck

WASHINGTON—A Chicago lawyer asked the U. S. Supreme Court to apply the state's "one-man, one-vote" concept to elections by striking down a state election law which he said "heavily outweighs" the power of voters in sparsely populated areas.

Attorney Richard F. Watt wants to strike the law requiring independents' petitions to contain signatures of 200 people from each of 30 counties.

Promises 'Vigil'

WASHINGTON—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy promised yesterday to keep "a constant vigil" of the Nixon administration's civil rights performance. He made the statement at a subcommittee hearing concerned with civil rights and job discrimination.

There is some speculation he may carry the civil rights issue and Nixon's performance into the 1972 Presidential campaign.

Polls will open tomorrow in Mount Prospect for a Dist. 57 referendum seeking $274,000 for improvements to two schools.

Voters will be asked to approve construction on Gregory and Sunset schools in the amount of $143,100 for Sunset and $131,400 for Gregory.

The construction at both schools entails additions of multi-purpose rooms and storage facilities.

Both schools originally were built with provisions for further additions, pending the demands of the district.

THE CALL FOR the referendum tomorrow is a trimmed-down version of a much higher bond issue the district had hoped to put before voters this month. Originally scheduled for the referendum was a remodeling job on Lincoln Junior High to accommodate additional students expected to come to the school following the sale of Central Junior High.

Central's sale was stalled, however, and the Dist. 57 school board decided to drop Lincoln's remodeling plans until the matter of Central is resolved.

Tomorrow's referendum does not include Central, directly or indirectly.

Basis for the board's request for additions at Gregory and Sunset was a report from the district's school board facilities committee.

Committee chairman Ralph Walberg said, "These schools are incomplete" and recommended an all-purpose room for each school as part of the district's standard policy for all kindergarten through sixth grade schools.

STUDENTS AT BOTH schools take gym classes in an oversized classroom. Sun-

Hansen Says ACP Charge 'Nonsense'

Elk Grove Township Republican Committeeman Carl Hansen yesterday called "nonsense" the Active Citizen's Party (ACP) charges of collusion between school officials and the local GOP organization.

He said ACP leaders are "grasping at straws in a belated attempt to revive its sinking township slate."

It was Hansen's opinion that ACP activity "has become so misdirected as to confuse these active Democrats as to whether they are running for township or school district office."

THE GOP leader disavowed any Republican activity in school affairs, especially in School Dist. 59.

"Partisan politics in school matters is something the Republican Party in Elk Grove Township has studiously avoided," he said, calling for the ACP to "think twice before they move farther down this road."

Richard M. Hall, campaign manager for the GOP slate, said in response to ACP charges that school funds cannot legally be released to the districts prior to the annual town meeting April 1.

"If the Democratic candidates had more than a passing interest in the offices they seek, they would already know this," he said.

Hall, a GOP auditor candidate, attacked the call for an audit of township contributions to school funds. He said each school district already has conducted audits, available to the public and that township school trustees "are already accountable to their own respective electorates, providing an added check."

IN CONNECTION with ACP's charges of collusion on alleged disruption of one of their meeting dates planned for John Jay School, incumbent Township Supervisor William Rohlfing said, "I had no knowledge of their (ACP) contacts with the school; they could have used the township hall for their meeting if they asked us."

"Once elected, the township officials become representatives of the people, and their political affiliation becomes secondary," he said.

IT WAS TEA and sympathy — the political support type — in Mount Prospect yesterday as women from the village gathered at a fund-raising luncheon for Mayoral candidate Robert Teichert, left. The women had a salad lunch followed by a dessert of village politics. Over 100 women came to the Mount Prospect Country Club to raise money for Teichert's campaign.

Women Vow Teichert Support

by GERRY DE ZONNA
"Put a Teichert in our town" was the theme for a fund raising luncheon yesterday at the Mount Prospect Country Club to help finance Trustee Robert Teichert's campaign for village president.

More than 100 women attended the luncheon and card party and pledged their support for Teichert in his bid to unseat incumbent Mayor Dan Congreve on April 15.

The Chestnut room at the country club was undoubtedly Teichert territory yesterday, as groups of Mount Prospect women chatted and unanimously agreed that the village needed a new president and that Teichert is the man to fill the bill.

"He's the most qualified man I know to be the mayor of our town," explained Lynn Bennett, coffee-hour chairman for the campaign. Mrs. Bennett has helped to organize more than 30 coffee hours for Teichert, "so that he could have a chance to meet as many residents as possible."

There was little doubt in Mrs. Bennett's mind that she was working for the next mayor of Mount Prospect.

WOMEN FROM THE north side of Mount Prospect are voting for Bob Teichert because "we've been stripped of representation in village government, and Bob's the man who can do something about it."

Women from the south side of town agreed that they are voting for Teichert because "he'll do something to control the flooding problem in our area."

But all the women agreed that they are voting for Teichert because "he's the better man."

"We need a change in government," explained Joanne Dhien, one of the ladies who worked hard to organize the luncheon. "Bob can 'straighten' things out at village hall, because he's more consistent in his policies than the present administration."

"I'm working for Bob," explained Joe Grittani, a village trustee, "and I'm voting for him, because he's a very qualified man for the job. He's not at all dictatorial in his policies, and he's a very reasonable man to work with. If the board of trustees can work with the incumbent mayor, they can work with anyone, especially Bob."

IT WAS THE opinion of many Teichert supporters yesterday that Congreve's refusal to debate with Teichert has seriously hurt the Congreve campaign and his effort for reelection.

"Dan's refusal to debate with Bob has hurt Dan's campaign very much," said Mary Ellen Walker, one of the women who sponsored the luncheon. "Bob will answer any question that's asked of him; he's not embarrassed because the people have a right to know about his policies."

"When Dan refused to debate, he obviously had some reason, and a lot of people are now thinking that Dan Congreve has something to hide," added another luncheon guest.

Jean Partridge, who has seven children, is voting for Teichert because "Bob is very interested in organizing programs for the village youth. Dan Congreve is doing nothing for our children and he doesn't plan to in the future."

THE WOMEN AT the luncheon agreed that they are all voting for the candidate because he's Terrific, Experienced, Intelligent, Conscientious, Honest, Efficient, Remarkable, and Thorough.

"And here's the man without whom politics wouldn't be politics here," B-O-B-B-Y, and Teichert, looking like Johnny Carson 10 years from now, strode to the microphone to thank his supporters and acknowledge at least 100 favorable votes.

Hypnotism Is Almost Magic

by GERRY DE ZONNA
Hypnotism is fascinating, its almost magical powers must be seen to be believed.

Wednesday evening Dr. Irwin Ross, a Chicago psychologist, held a student and adult audience spell-bound at Arlington High School while he performed the wonders of hypnotism before the eyes of his audience.

Dr. Ross selected a group of volunteers

Aid Hunger Hike With Crystal Ship Night

A special benefit night will be held at Mount Prospect's Crystal Ship, the youth-oriented coffee house sponsored by the Community Presbyterian Church.

Purpose of the benefit is to accumulate more money for the Northwest suburban Hunger Hike, scheduled for Good Friday, April 4.

The coffee house will charge $1 admission beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday night with all money earmarked for the hunger fund. A musical group will be the evening's entertainment.

from the audience, all of them high school students. Twenty volunteers were narrowed down to a group of 10 by the degree to which each were able to attain the hypnotic trance.

Dr. Ross worked only with those students who were able to be hypnotized within a short span of five minutes. For more than an hour, he proved to the audience that man can control the mind through hypnotism.

HE WORKED WITH a group of boys and girls and made them respond almost letter perfect to his commands. The experience for both the audience and the volunteers was fun, interesting and almost unbelievable.

Seated on folding chairs on the basketball court, the student volunteers exhibited to the audience the many responses that can be produced under the hypnotic trance.

The hypnotist could produce responses that ranged from positive to negative attitudes, personality changes, loss of memory and physical strength.

The commands are given to the subjects while they're in the "sleep" stage of the trance. The hypnotist will put them to sleep, which re-enforces the trance and sustains it, and then he will make a suggestion. The subject will come out of the sleep stage at his command and then react to the suggestion also at his command.

"HYPNOTISM IS REALLY an extension of one's powers of concentration," explained Dr. Ross. "Under the hypnotic trance, reasoning power is dulled, and the subject's reactions are from a lack of reasoning. Hypnotism can alter any and all of the senses."

At one point in the evening, Dr. Ross told the girls that all the boys on the panel were the most handsome looking boys that they had ever seen and that the girls would have a strong desire to date any of the boys.

The boys at the same time were told that the girls were the ugliest girls that they had ever seen in their lives. When the subjects woke from the sleep stage, the girls started asking the boys for dates and stared at them with "cow eyes."

Dr. Ross asked the fellows if they'd like dates with any of the girls, and all of them emphatically refused, replying "You've got to be kidding!" One fellow remarked that he wouldn't be seen in public with any of those girls.

He then reversed the experiment, and the boys fought with each other trying to ask all the girls for dates. The girls re-

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grinace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

Amounts listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

Bond Vote—Yes!

Mount Prospect residents in School Dist. 57 should approve the $274,000 bond referendum tomorrow and complete construction of two local schools.

Money from the referendum's passage will be used to construct long needed additions to Sunset and Gregory schools. Both schools were built by the district with the understanding that additions would be necessary when enrollment demands increased.

That time has now arrived. The two schools presently have a total of 745 children in grades first through sixth. In some cases, the children are attending overcrowded classrooms and being deprived of adequate library and physical education space.

Cost to the homeowner for the additions to Gregory and Sunset is small. A person with a house valued at $25,000 will pay about $1.50 more a year, based on $10,000 assessed valuation.

In seeking the building additions, school board members have wisely kept this separate from the matter of Central School.

Tomorrow's referendum has no bearing on Central School, nor the attempt to sell the structure. Voters are being asked to provide learning space for 745 children. The issue is as simple as that.

ALTHOUGH THE referendum concerns only two of the district's schools, each Dist. 57 voter has an obligation to allow the school board to complete the job originally promised.

The school board built Gregory and Sunset Schools to meet district needs at the time. Now, the demands have increased, and students at both schools require additional space for the learning process.

The cost to the taxpayer is small, but the rewards to nearly 750 local students will be great in terms of adequate facilities for education.

Congreve: The Record Good

The last in the Herald's series of questions to Mount Prospect's mayoral candidates deals with finances. Today, the candidates were asked to "Give three examples of village fiscal efficiency as it is now or how it should be."

Scouts Go Outdoors

The Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts will emphasize an expanded outdoor scouting program during April with the suggested theme "With Map and Compass" for all local Scout troops.

"Some of the best objectives of scouting will be met by boys and their troops as they practice the skills of using a compass, reading and sketching a map, and studying cross-country orientation projects," said Leslie Milligan, Scout commissioner for the Northwest Suburban Council.

Teichert: No Past Reductions

"Fiscal efficiency means spending less money, or getting more value for the dollars we are spending. Neither of these definitions can be said to apply to the present village administration.

"Each year the village has spent more money than the year before. . . There has been no reduction in spending. As to more value, that is, more materials or more service for the dollars we spend, I cannot see that it has been accomplished.

"The use of village employees to do specified work rather than using outside contractors is, of course, exactly why we have employees. The established procedure of doing as much work as possible through our own staff is the practice of all municipalities, as well as private industry, and the present administration has done no better nor worse than previous administrations in this respect. However, the present administration has made unnecessary expenditures and taken certain actions which have precipitated needless litigation with the attendant legal costs.

"THEIR ONLY claim to economy appears to be a tax rate reduction, which as everyone knows was not achieved through frugality in spending nor through efficient operation, but came as a gift from the state of Illinois.

"When the state legislature increased the sales tax by one quarter per cent, the village enjoyed a windfall of $250,000 because of Randhurst. . . it was through state action that a tax reduction occurred.

"Fiscal efficiency is attainable, and three areas which could bring immediate and tangible benefits are:

"Mechanization of fiscal reporting and record keeping. This is common and acceptable practice in all business and can be accomplished on an individual basis or in a pooling effort with other municipalities and agencies.

"Bidding on consolidated contracts with other municipalities or governmental bodies for volume discounts. Such cooperative action will reduce unit costs for all participating bodies and give us greater buying power.

"A COMPREHENSIVE survey of all federal and state funds available for public improvements. The use of such funds is essential in the multi-million dollar projects which will be necessary to solve area problems such as flooding, sewerage, and pollution. Future area problems such as transportation and garbage disposal are beyond our village's means to coordinate and finance, and we will require outside assistance."

5 Not Fair

by JUDY TREMORE

Five Mount Prospect residents have proved to me once again why the world is in the mess it is.

The five have filed suit in Circuit Court to block the park district referendum narrowly approved in February.

What I believe it boils down to is these "north" siders opposed the $2.4 million referendum because they felt they would derive no benefits.

The bulk of the money is to go to park improvements in the south half of the village.

In each north side precinct, the "no" vote outweighed those in favor of the referendum. Members of the district on the south end swung the referendum by 56 votes.

To me, this suit is indicative of the "what's in it for me" attitude that prevails everywhere. It seems to me that "love thyself" has replaced "love thy neighbor."

WHAT IS WRONG with providing the thousands of children in the newer areas with park facilities? I am certain that once the parks are in, children will come from north of Lemmon to use them just as we southsiders use the north park facilities.

What is wrong in having a far-sighted park board that wants to do as much as it can for all the residents in the district which like it or not, includes a portion of Des Plaines.

I have seen no other elected board in the village so plagued with self-interest seekers. When golf regulations are discussed, at length, body of golfers appears before the board to haggle over changes that would allow teenagers on the course or changes in tee-off times.

"When the district tried to improve its skating facilities, other groups petitioned to spread the ice skating money thin over seven ponds, instead of three "thick" ponds, and in turn attacked the money that they thought is put out for golfers.

When vandals get out of hand on the golf course and at parks, residents band together to protest having to look at a fence. Never mind all the money the rest of the taxpayers are putting out just to set right what has been vandalized.

IF WE WANT to get down to the nitty-gritty, why should my park tax dollars be used on the golf course, ice skating, baseball leagues, basketball or even rifle shooting? I don't use or need these programs.

Why have a park district at all? I'd wager that the majority of taxpayers use the parks infrequently enough that their major benefits can be only indirect.

And it is indirectly that we should all be concerned. We want a fine park program to use as our time permits, to keep our children occupied during the summer and to keep open spaces in an area where open space is rapidly shrinking.

I want our children, all of them in the district, to have a fine park program with a choice of activities for toddlers through teens, not to mention adult programs. If we really think out the needs of our children and not just fall into "over organizing" their lives, perhaps we will find we've solved some of "suburbia's problems."

Why not have a well-planned park near everyone's home if the land is available? (I'm certain some parents of tiny ice-skaters would agree with me.)

Far better for the children to be bicycling on paths in a park than on the street where they have a chance of being hit by a car.

The Little League teams have more applicants than spots for players or diamonds to use. And what about the older boys who want an impromptu game of touch football or softball or want to shoot baskets to keep in shape for the team?

NO ONE HAS ever complained that a park program or park is underfunded.

You cannot, I realize, duplicate facilities at each park. It would be impractical. Most of us realized in moving to Mount Prospect that the car is a necessary fact of life.

While the land is available, however, it should be "grabbed up."

I wonder if the original plans to purchase Central School had been realized and we had to vote on that, whether this group would have thought much about how the vote was handled at the polling referendum.

I know I would have voted yes for that bond issue even though it meant I'd have to drive my children there — almost three miles one way.

I'm in a middle-group right now. My children are too young to use much more than the tot-lot at the school, and I recognize there's always a chance that with advancing age, my ideas will change.

BUT I HOPE when I do reach middle age, I'll still remember what it was like to be a youngster; what it was like to fight for schools or parks for my children.

And I also hope that as I become more affluent in that middle-age, I won't be so concerned with money that I'll refuse to spend it for the new crop of youngsters.

What can it be that makes the $15 per year that the bond issue will cost the individual so precious to these five concerned citizens? Or can I be misjudging them so completely as to not realize they really are only concerned with propriety in balancing?

Have they stopped to wonder, if they win their suit, how much more it will cost them in the long run? Or if they lost it anyway, how these five may charge all the taxpayers an extra $500,000? It hardly seems fair.

4-H in Suburbs

by TOM WELLMAN

Think about 4-H Clubs, and the image is a peach-fuzzed farm boy in a blue jacket milking a Jersey cow in his father's barn.

Forget that image. There are blossoming 4-H clubs all over the suburban northwest and the orientation of them is towards everyday activities that a suburban child from 9 to 19 experiences.

Mrs. Doris Austin, of 1322 N. Vail, Arlington, is one of the new leaders sparking the change. The petite woman, who is making a part-time career of organizing chapters in Arlington Heights, is a far cry from a farmer.

She's been working for 4-H since January, and in almost three months she has organized two groups of almost 60 children. She plans to start three more groups within a week or two.

ROLLING MEADOWS and Mount Prospect have 4-H chapters too. As in Arlington Heights, they are formed with the guidance of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, which supports the 4-H and has its northern Cook County office in Arlington Heights.

The main emphasis in the "new" 4-H, as Mrs. Austin will tell you, is to educate and train young people in practical skills.

They learn poise, public speaking ability, and leadership. It's all part of the new program.

A child starts in the program at any point between 9 and 19. He starts with a beginning project, and the 4-H manual reveals a wide range of choices.

He or she could begin with cooking, gardening, photography, room improvement, or woodworking. The point in the program is that he gets some type of project underway.

If the boy or girl lives in a rural area, the traditional choices — forestry, dairy, poultry, or conservation — are still available. It would be difficult to get involved in such a program in the northwestern suburbs, however. But it is not impossible.

IF JOHN DOE, living in Mount Prospect, decides that his first project will be photography, he would proceed in this manner:

He would start the project before September, in order to qualify for the county fair 4-H exhibition sometime after August of the next year.

John would work with a project leader to develop his project. Activity leaders would help John's group plan picnics, parties, and other recreation, as part of the 4-H program.

After the project is completed, it would be entered in the Cook County Fair (all projects are eligible). If it is a prize winner, it could advance to the state fair.

As John grows and works on more advanced projects, he is required to give public demonstrations of them. Mrs. Austin stresses that this gives children self-confidence and poise in facing an audience.

WHEN JOHN REACHES 15, he might become a junior adviser. He would work with an adult, but both would be responsible for supervising younger children. When he becomes 19, he could stay on as an adult leader, if he chose to do so.

All this activity may be healthy for a child, but one might ask if 4-H isn't just a watered-down version of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, or similar youth-oriented groups. Mrs. Austin disagrees:

"Other groups tend to cover many things on the surface, but we only work on one project a year."

She explains that both boys and girls are integrated into the 4-H, unlike most other youth activities. However, she has no quarrel with other groups, as they benefit children in different kinds of ways.

IN A SENSE, Mrs. Austin is a "true believer" in the 4-H program. She's dedicated to enlarging the program. For example, she recently handed out information to children at all of the public and some of the parochial schools in Arlington Heights. It's helped involve parents — a necessary ingredient — in 4-H programs. Glen DeViney, treasurer.

Public Told Of Tornadoes

When the Mount Prospect sirens begin to wail their long howl of warning, what

Guam Taps Hardt

Victor H. Hardt of Mount Prospect, professor and chairman of the music education department at Roosevelt University in Chicago, has been chosen by the government of Guam to conduct a six-day band clinic on the island from April 6-12.

Hardt will conduct the Guam Honor Band at a Festival Concert on April 12. The program will include two of his own compositions, "Choral and Fugue for Band" and "Tone Patterns for Band."

HARDT WILL ALSO conduct seminars with junior and senior high school bands, orchestras, and ensembles during his visit to Guam.

Hardt has his doctorate in education from Columbia University in New York and a master's degree from the University of Minnesota. He also has a bachelor of science degree from Concordia College in Minnesota, as well as a bachelor of music degree from the Vandercook College of Music.

will you do?

A long, solid blast on the sirens means a tornado warning, according to Larry Pairitz of the Mount Prospect Fire Department and Civil Defense Unit. Pairitz and other members of the CD force are involved in an education program on tornadoes which will culminate tomorrow with a display about tornadoes in the Randhurst mall.

According to Pairitz, information about the tornado season has been distributed to about 75 per cent of the Mount Prospect homes by volunteers from the North Star Boy Scout District.

In addition, two films have been shown about the dangers of tornadoes. The film has been shown at area elementary and high schools.

MEMBERS OF THE local CD unit have established a series of tornado watch points utilizing the services of local residents. Pairitz said local service station operators, for example, are tied into a watch net which will give the community some warning of oncoming tornadoes.

In addition, taxi cab companies, construction firms and 22 amateur radio operators are cooperating in a communication system which can be used in a time of emergency.

Pairitz explained that although the Mount Prospect area is now coming into the tornado season, when the likelihood of tornadoes increases, each tornado watch established by the weather bureau does not mean a tornado is on the way.

A tornado watch means that weather conditions could lead to a tornado. A tornado warning indicates that actual tornadoes have been sighted.

Passover Festival Is Set by Congregation

Rabbi Jay Karzen will officiate at two daily services during the celebration of the Passover Festival at the Maine Township Jewish Congregation in Des Plaines.

He will conduct a sunset service on April 3 at 6 p.m. to observe the first day of the major Jewish holiday. A family Sabbath Passover service will be held April 4 at 8:30 p.m., and the congregation's symphonic choir will chant the liturgy.

Yizkor memorial services will be read on the final day of the Passover Festival, April 10, at 7:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m.

set's problems are further complicated by a lack of space for a school library. The collection is now housed in a small space in the room used for physical education.

Cost to local property owners for the referendum is estimated at $1.50 per $10,000 valuation.

Based on current standards in Cook County which place the amount of assessment at 40 to 50 per cent of the price of a house, a homeowner of property selling for $25,000 would pay $1.50 per year for the school additions.

Congreve: The Record Good

The last in the Herald's series of questions to Mount Prospect's mayoral candidates deals with finances. Today, the candidates were asked to "Give three examples of village fiscal efficiency as it is now or how it should be."

"During the past four years the corporate authorities of the village of Mount Prospect have implemented many programs to achieve fiscal efficiency. Three major areas that come to light immediately are:

— The combination of the department of water and the department of streets to a public works department, thereby allowing better efficiency to the public with respect to water and street problems. The necessary manpower to accomplish these activities results in fewer men needed to operate the public works department than would be needed to operate two separate departments, as was the procedure prior to the merger of the water department and the street department into a public works department.

— The village instituted an ambulance service operated through the Mount Prospect Fire Department, a valuable and much needed service, with no increase in manpower. Presently the village has two ambulances, one stationed at Fire Station 1 and one at Fire Station 2, with the capabilities of providing 24-hour a day emergency service. Cooperation between the police department and the fire department with respect to radio communication has resulted in a very efficient program serving the people of the village of Mount Prospect at no cost nor additional expenditure due to increase in manpower. This service is staffed by the regular personnel of the Mount Prospect Fire Department who are all trained in advanced first aid.

— THE CORPORATE authorities of the village of Mount Prospect have strived for and achieved a comprehensive working budget submitted by the administration indicating line by line all anticipated expenditures coupled with a line by line itemization of the prior year's expenditures. It has further been the policy of this administration to have all items in excess of $500 be recommended as a result of competitive bidding (sealed bids), and all items under $500 to be purchased as a result of comparative price quotations prior to selecting the low qualifying vendor.

"Through this implementation of spending coupled with a comprehensive budget, the residents of the village of Mount Prospect have been the beneficiaries through savings realized by intelligent purchasing after careful review of comparative prices and products."

Scouts Go Outdoors

The Northwest Suburban Council of Boy Scouts will emphasize an expanded outdoor scouting program during April with the suggested theme "With Map and Compass" for all local Scout troops.

"Some of the best objectives of scouting will be met by boys and their troops as they practice the skills of using a compass, reading and sketching a map, and studying cross-country orientation projects," said Leslie Milligan, Scout commissioner for the Northwest Suburban Council.

Teichert: No Past Reductions

"Fiscal efficiency means spending less money, or getting more value for the dollars we are spending. Neither of these definitions can be said to apply to the present village administration.

"Each year the village has spent more money than the year before. There has been no reduction in spending. As to more value, that is, more materials or more service for the dollars we spend, I cannot see that it has been accomplished.

"The use of village employees to do specified work rather than using outside contractors is, of course, exactly why we have employees. The established procedure of doing as much work as possible through our own staff is the practice of all municipalities, as well as private industry, and the present administration has done no better nor worse than previous administrations in this respect. However, the present administration has made unnecessary expenditures and taken certain actions which have precipitated needless litigation with the attendant legal costs.

"THEIR ONLY claim to economy appears to be a tax rate reduction, which as everyone knows was not achieved through frugality in spending nor through efficient operation, but came as a gift from the state of Illinois.

"When the state legislature increased the sales tax by one quarter per cent, the village enjoyed a windfall of $250,000 because of Randhurst. . . it was through state action that a tax reduction occurred.

"Fiscal efficiency is attainable, and three areas which could bring immediate and tangible benefits are:

— Mechanization of fiscal reporting and record keeping. This is common and acceptable practice in all business and can be accomplished on an individual basis or in a pooling effort with other municipalities and agencies.

— Bidding on consolidated contracts with other municipalities or governmental bodies for volume discounts. Such cooperative action will reduce unit costs for all participating bodies and give us greater buying power.

— A COMPREHENSIVE survey of all federal and state funds available for public improvements. The use of such funds is essential in the multi-million dollar projects which will be necessary to solve area problems such as flooding, sewerage, and pollution. Future area problems such as transportation and garbage disposal are beyond our village's means to coordinate and finance, and we will require outside assistance."

4-H in Suburbs

by TOM WELLMAN

Think about 4-H Clubs, and the image is a peach-fuzzed farm boy in a blue jacket milking a Jersey cow in his father's barn. Forget that image. There are blossoming 4-H clubs all over the suburban north-west and the orientation of them is towards everyday activities that a suburban child from 9 to 19 experiences.

Mrs. Doris Austin, of 1322 N. Vail, Arlington, is one of the new leaders sparking the change. The petite woman, who is making a part-time career of organizing chapters in Arlington Heights, is a far cry from a farmer.

She's been working for 4-H since January, and in almost three months she has organized two groups of almost 60 children. She plans to start three more groups within a week or two.

ROLLING MEADOWS and Mount Prospect have 4-H chapters too. As in Arlington Heights, they are formed with the guidance of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service, which supports the 4-H and has its northern Cook County office in Arlington Heights.

The main emphasis in the "new" 4-H, as Mrs. Austin will tell you, is to educate and train young people in practical skills.

They learn poise, public speaking ability, and leadership. It's all part of the new program.

A child starts in the program at any point between 9 and 19. He starts with a beginning project, and the 4-H manual reveals a wide range of choices.

He or she could begin with cooking, gardening, photography, room improvement, or woodworking. The point in the program is that he gets some type of project underway.

If the boy or girl lives in a rural area, the traditional choices — forestry, dairy, poultry, or conservation — are still available. It would be difficult to get involved in such a program in the northwestern suburbs, however. But it is not impossible.

IF JOHN DOE, living in Mount Prospect, decides that his first project will be photography, he would proceed in this manner.

He would start the project before September, in order to qualify for the county fair 4-H exhibition sometime after August of the next year.

John would work with a project leader to develop his project. Activity leaders would help John's group plan picnics, parties, and other recreation, as part of the 4-H program.

After the project is completed, it would be entered in the Cook County Fair (all projects are eligible). If it is a prize winner, it could advance to the state fair.

As John grows and works on more advanced projects, he is required to give public demonstrations of them. Mrs. Austin stresses that this gives children self-confidence and poise in facing an audience.

WHEN JOHN REACHES 15, he might become a junior adviser. He would work with an adult, but both would be responsible for supervising younger children. When he becomes 19, he could stay on as an adult leader, if he chose to do so.

All this activity may be healthy for a child, but one might ask if 4-H isn't just a watered-down version of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, or similar youth-oriented groups Mrs. Austin disagrees:

"Other groups tend to cover many things on the surface, but we only work on one project a year."

She explains that both boys and girls are integrated into the 4-H, unlike most of their youth activities. However, she has no quarrel with other groups, as they benefit children in different kinds of ways.

IN A SENSE, Mrs. Austin is a "true believer" in the 4-H program. She's dedicated to enlarging the program. For example, she recently handed out information to children at all of the public and some of the parochial schools in Arlington Heights. It's helped involve parents — a necessary ingredient — in 4-H programs. Glen DeViney, treasurer.

Guam Taps Hardt

Victor H. Hardt of Mount Prospect, professor and chairman of the music education department at Roosevelt University in Chicago, has been chosen by the government of Guam to conduct a six-day band clinic on the island from April 6-12.

Hardt will conduct the Guam Honor Band at a Festival Concert on April 12. The program will include two of his own compositions, "Choral and Fugue for Band" and "Tone Patterns for Band."

HARDT WILL ALSO conduct seminars with junior and senior high school bands, orchestras, and ensembles during his visit to Guam.

Hardt has his doctorate in education from Columbia University in New York and a master's degree from the University of Minnesota. He also has a bachelor of science degree from Concordia College in Minnesota, as well as a bachelor of music degree from the Vandercook College of Music.

will you do?

A long, solid blast on the sirens means a tornado warning, according to Larry Pairitz of the Mount Prospect Fire Department and Civil Defense Unit. Pairitz and other members of the CD force are involved in an education program on tornadoes which will culminate tomorrow with a display about tornadoes in the Randhurst mall.

"According to Pairitz, information about the tornado season has been distributed to about 75 per cent of the Mount Prospect homes by volunteers from the North Star Boy Scout District.

In addition, two films have been shown about the dangers of tornadoes. The film has been shown at area elementary and high schools.

MEMBERS OF THE local CD unit have established a series of tornado watch points utilizing the services of local residents. Pairitz said local service station operators, for example, are tied into a watch net which will give the community some warning of oncoming tornadoes.

In addition, taxi cab companies, construction firms and 22 amateur radio operators are cooperating in a communication system which can be used in a time of emergency.

Pairitz explained that although the Mount Prospect area is now coming into the tornado season, when the likelihood of tornadoes increases, each tornado watch established by the weather bureau does not mean a tornado is on the way.

A tornado watch means that weather conditions could lead to a tornado. A tornado warning indicates that actual tornadoes have been sighted.

Passover Festival Is Set by Congregation

Rabbi Jay Karzen will officiate at two daily services during the celebration of the Passover Festival at the Maine Township Jewish Congregation in Des Plaines.

He will conduct a sunset service on April 3 at 6 p.m. to observe the first day of the major Jewish holiday. A family Sabbath Passover service will be held April 4 at 8:30 p.m., and the congregation's symphonic choir will chant the liturgy.

Yizkor memorial services will be read on the final day of the Passover Festival, April 10, at 7:30 a.m. and 10:45 a.m.

set's problems are further complicated by a lack of space for a school library. The collection is now housed in a small space in the room used for physical education.

Cost to local property owners for the referendum is estimated at $1.50 per $10,000 valuation.

Based on current standards in Cook County which place the amount of assessment at 40 to 50 per cent of the price of a house, a homeowner of property selling for $25,000 would pay $1.50 per year for the school additions.

Two Push for Pool Law

May Dump Draft

WASHINGTON—Elimination of the draft may be the result of an advisory commission set up yesterday by President Nixon. The Commission is to draft a plan for an all-volunteer armed force. Early last month, he ordered the Defense Department to make a similar study.

Nixon said the transition to a volunteer force must be handled "cautiously and responsibly so that our national security is fully maintained."

Mariner 7 Launched

CAPE KENNEDY—The second Mariner 7 television scout started its four-month trip to Mars yesterday. Its mission is to help determine if the red planet can support life.

Mariner 7's 193-million-mile course should bring it to within 2,000 miles of the planet by Aug. 5, when it will photograph the surface of the planet. Its findings will lay the groundwork for life-detection robots scheduled to land on the planet in 1973.

Ike Grows Weaker

WASHINGTON—It is "not likely, but possible" that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower can be expected to survive if he continues to weaken at his present rate without responding to medical treatment, doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center said yesterday.

The general was reported still weak and sleeping about three-fourths of the time. He continues to visit with members of the immediate family.

Defense Rests

LOS ANGELES—The defense wound up its case yesterday for Sirhan B. Sirhan, accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The trial is expected to go to the jury next week after closing arguments.

The final witness was Dr. George Devoos, a psychologist from the University of California and Berkeley.

Probe TV's Effects

WASHINGTON—A proposed year-long study of how youth are affected by violence and sex on television was endorsed yesterday by President Nixon. The study is to determine the "possible relationship between scenes of sex and violence on television and anti-social behavior among young people."

The study was proposed by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-Rhode Island.

Wants Law Struck

WASHINGTON—A Chicago lawyer asked the U. S. Supreme Court to apply the state's "One-man, one-vote" concept to elections by striking down a state election law which he said "heavily outweighs" the power of voters in sparsely populated areas.

Attorney Richard F. Watt wants to strike the law requiring independent petitions to contain signatures of 200 people from each of 50 counties.

Promises 'Vigil'

WASHINGTON—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy promised yesterday to keep "a constant vigil" of the Nixon administration's civil rights performance. He made the statement at a subcommittee hearing concerned with civil rights and job discrimination.

There is some speculation he may carry the civil rights issue and Nixon's performance into the 1972 Presidential campaign.

Want Okay by April 21

With Trustees Roy Bressler and Jack Walsh leading the charge, the Arlington Heights public safety committee, a three-man branch of the village board, last night pushed hard for April 21 approval of an above-ground pool ordinance.

Bressler, running for the park board, set April 21 as the target date for the rewritten ordinance's presentation to the village board. He wants his committee to consider the new ordinance on April 15.

Bressler and Walsh were the only two members of the committee present, but as they prodded and poked at Building Comm. Harold Best to get him to drop objections to above-ground ordinance, they were aided by Trustees Charles Bennett and Frank Palmatier.

Best's major objection to an ordinance regulating above-ground pools (anything deeper than two feet is illegal) was that poolside electrical equipment provides shock hazards. However, a ground fault detector may resolve that.

A GROUND FAULT detector, costing about $40, reduces the danger of electrical shock. After the suggestion came up, Best agreed it could eliminate the danger of electrocution.

Other changes in a proposed ordinance presented several weeks ago were approved, one by one, as Bressler and Walsh reasoned and argued with Best.

The controversy over above-ground pools, although fueled by the public safety commission's refusal to approve an 11-page ordinance March 10, began last summer.

Mrs. Robert Reiter, of 1519 N. Kennicott, accused the village of making a law which outlawed above-ground pools and then failing to enforce it.

She appeared before a session of the village board Aug. 5, and safety committee chairman Bressler agreed that the ordinance would be restudied.

Airplane flights over the village during the summer have indicated that many pools deeper than the two-foot maximum are present in the village, but the village has not acted to penalize the pool owners.

Why? Best argues that an illegal pool must be spotted from adjoining property or from the street. Since most of the illegal pools are behind homes, a complaint must come from a neighbor. Neighbors aren't anxious to rate on pool owners.

Since August, trustees, village residents and members of the public safety commission have attempted to get together on an ordinance on above-ground pools. Their efforts, to date, have been fruitless.

On March 10, the commission was handed an ordinance from Village Atty. Jack Siegel. However, the commission disliked it enough to send it back to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

Best contended at the time that any above-ground pool ordinance "difficult to enforce, and he said that most above-ground pools lack proper filtration and place electrical hazards too close to the water."

The 11-page ordinance covered locations, structural design, fences, cleanliness regulations and safety standards. It was criticized by acting commission chairman Edward Klammer as "a mishmash" and "unworkable."

Church Holds Concert By Alma College Choir

The First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights will sponsor a concert by the Alma College A Cappella Choir Friday.

The 8 p.m. performance will take place at the church, 302 N. Dunton Ave.

The choir's selections include the Bach motet "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" and the Hairston arrangement of the spiritual "Dis Train."

The 55-member choir is currently touring Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois. Featured in each of their programs will be a group of 12 singers who provide a variety of Madrigals, folk songs and show tunes.

In addition to annual tours, the group has been featured on national radio programs.

Park Awards Bids

Arlington Heights Park Board awarded contracts for development of nine parks in the village at a special meeting last night.

Contracts will include site development and construction of buildings and pools approved by Arlington Heights' voters in the referendum last July.

Board members Edward Condon and John Edwards and board president Charles Cronin discussed elimination of certain facets of the projects to bring the costs down to the budgeted level. Board members E.E. Ormsby and Douglas Thompson were not present.

The three board members present decided to eliminate the maintenance building at Frontier Park and eliminate the shelter buildings at Carefree and Evergreen Parks.

Approved changes in Olympic Pool Park included elimination of an overhang on the outside of the building and omitting the painting and installation of floor tile in the basement.

Park Board members will still have to eliminate additional facets of the projects, but could award the bids pending changes. They have 30 more days to decide on the changes.

General contractor for Frontier, Heritage, Camelot, Patriot and Hickory Meadows Retention Basin Parks will be W.R. Shields Co., Waukegan.

General contractor for the Olympic Park Pool Park will be Pritscher and Erbach of Arlington Heights.

Electrical contracting work for Frontier, Heritage, Camelot and Olympic Pool Parks will be done by Klorek and Sullivan, Chicago. Electrical work on the other sites will be handled by Gordon Electric, Chicago.

Frank Saville Plumbing Co., Park Ridge, was awarded the contract for plumbing work at all the sites.

Reliable Heating of Elk Grove was awarded the contract for heating and ventilating work at all the park sites.

Park Board candidates Nathaniel Leighton and Thomas McShane attended the meeting.

'Good Life' Shows Up In Taxes

Are you keeping up with the Joneses this year?

One measure of affluence is the amount of taxes (grimace) a person pays on personal property each year. And Monday, residents in Wheeling, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will learn 1968 personal property assessments.

The Herald will publish as a legal notice the personal property assessments for each township resident as of April 1, 1968. Assessments are determined by Cook County Assessor, P. J. Cullerton.

ELK GROVE Township's personal property assessments were printed in the Herald Feb. 10.

Amounts listed behind individual's names will not be the tax to be paid. Actual tax is determined by multiplying the figure by a 1968 tax rate, as yet to be determined by the Cook County Clerk's office.

SAILBOAT SCULPTURE in Westgate School serves as a memorial to Donna Pomponio, former teacher. The three-dimensional copper boats reflect Miss Pomponio's interest in sailing. After she was killed last October in the Philippines, teachers and students, including Mrs. Ellen Grady, left, and Miss Dixie Sack, prepared the memorial.

A 15-YEAR old 4-H member from the Elk Grove-Roselle area, Vicky Justinick demonstrates her cooking project.
